MR. GUNN OF WASH. JR. HIGH SPEAKS TO P.T.A.

"Education is learning of any and whatever kind, wherever it takes place," according to Mr. Gunn, principal of the Washington Junior high school of Chicago Heights, who addressed members and friends of the Parent-Teachers association at the regular meeting of that organization Tuesday evening at the Indiana avenue school.

Mr. Gunn's subject was "The Place of the School Library in Modern Education." He further said that education was the hand-on to younger generations the previous knowledge recorded in books, and that modern education could not be carried on without the assistance of a library in the schools.

He said there were three sources of learning open to the individual, namely, thru study of nature and her laws, thru contact with other individuals and by reading the stored up knowledge of others in books.

A brief outline of the evolution of the schools, or process of teaching, beginning one hundred or more years ago with the introduction of graded education when students were first given books with the subject matter arranged for age groups, led to Mr. Gunn's stressing the value of familiarity with authors. Here he recalled the old "McGuffey" readers that have come in for much interest in recent years as the formative force in the lives of many of the nation's prominent citizens. The speaker regretted he had not been taught from this famous book, citing the value of perfect familiarity with one or a few exceptional writers. Abraham Lincoln was given as an outstanding example of the value

FIRST FEDERAL PAYS DIVIDEND

On January 2, 1937, the First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Lansing again paid its semi-annual dividend. This dividend being on an annual basis of 4% and the payment amounted to $2,325.54, which amount is greater than any previous dividend payment.

In addition to the payment of this dividend, the reserves were substantially increased in accordance with the past policy under which the Association has operated. These reserves are additional guarantees for the safety of its investors funds.

The financial statement of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Lansing on December 31, 1936, showed Resources and Liabilities in the amount of $151,090.91 compared to $100,053.16 as shown in the statement of the previous year, this being a growth of over 50% for the past year. In explanation of this wonderful growth, the officers believe the same to be due to; first, the insurance of its shares in the amount of $5,000.00 to each investor by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation of Washington D. C., and secondly to its past record for continued dividends and safety for its investors, the Association never having failed to pay dividends since its organization, the present dividend being the twenty-first semi-annual dividend payment.

Wm. E. Maurer, the secretary, reports ample funds on hand for loaning purposes and anyone desiring money for the purpose of constructing, modernizing or refinancing their home, will be given every consideration consistent with good loaning practices.

Bob Carr Weds Kokomo Girl

Wedding services were read for Miss Mary York of Kokomo, Ind., and Robert Carr, son of Mrs. Sarah Carr of Madison street, at the Methodist parsonage in Hammond New Year's Eve. The couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Ray Abney.

Mr. Carr is manager of a Hammond A & P store. They will make their home in Hammond.

Farm Company Declares Dividend

In keeping with these times of bonuses and dividends, the board of directors of the Lake-Cook Farm Supply Company, at a recent board meeting, declared the biggest dividend ever declared by that company. With a volume near the half million dollar mark and earnings of over $41,000, the board declared dividends that will put $32,000 in the pockets of farmer stockholders of Lake and Cook counties.

The Lake-Cook Farm Supply Company was organized in Grayslake in 1928, and has enjoyed nine years of almost phenomenal growth with warehouses and bulk plants at Grayslake, Lake Zurich, Roselle, Arlington Heights, Tinley Park and Blue Island. At present they are contemplating the erection of a new warehouse and bulk plant at Des Plaines. Thirty-two employees carry on this large business or servicing the farmer members.

The dividends declared by the board will be paid to the stockholders at a huge annual meeting to be held at the Masonic Temple at Des Plaines on Thursday, January 21.

Rabbi Hirshberg At Homemakers

Rabbi Hirshberg of Hammond, well known Jewish lecturer will be the speaker at the Homemakers Club at the regular January meeting Wednesday afternoon, January 13 in the M. E. church. Mrs. Hirshberg will accompany her husband, and give a brief talk of the Jewish interpretation of home making.

An invitation has been extended to all the women of the community to attend this meeting of the Homemakers club and hear this lecture and talk. Rabbi Hirshberg has been heard by members of other organizations of the village and needs no introduction to Lansing people, his talks being always popular.

Rut Makes Bad Spot On Highway

A rut along side the pavement on Ridge Road just west of State Line where the pavement narrows has been the cause of a number of minor accidents according to statements made by neighbors of the vicinity.

No less than four cars have overturned at the spot. While no one was seriously injured, the matter should receive the attention of the proper authorities before the accidents take a more serious turn. The rut is quite deep at the edge of the concrete, the narrowing of the pavement misleads many folks unfamiliar with the road and in trying to get back on the pavement meet difficulty in the rut. The danger spot is just east of Lango street.

It's not the hours you put in that counts, it's what you put into the hours.

MARY BELL WED NEW YEAR'S EVE

Gowned in a trailing white satin frock with long lace veil and carrying a beautiful shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley Miss Mary Bell one of Lansing's best known and popular young ladies became the bride of Herbert Trepton of Ashkin, Ill., at an impressive double ring ceremony read by Rev. H. H. Harthun in St. John's church at 5 p. m. December 31.

The bride was attended by Mrs. Arnold Redenius, sister of the groom as matron of honor, Miss Marjory Krumm and Miss Pauline Yost as brides maids. Mrs. Redenius wore a rust colored dress and the brides maids wore blue and yellow frocks, respectively.

Ushers were: Arnold Redenius, Peter Yost and Christian Krass. Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served to almost one hundred friends and relatives at the home of the bride, and later in the evening a reception and dance for the newly married couple was held at the village hall.

A second reception and dance was given the young couple by friends and relatives of the groom at Clifton, Ill. near Ashkum, on Saturday night. At both parties the couple were recipients of a gorgeous array of gifts. The bride had been honored with several showers prior to the date of the wedding.

Mrs. Trepton plans to retain her position as cashier at Hoekstra's for the present, she and her husband making their home with her parents. Miss Mary's was the seventh wedding to be recorded from the Walther League group of St. John's church during 1936.

Four Year Old Lost For Hour

Little Kenneth Felst of Ridge Road avenue gave the entire village a scare Wednesday evening when he started out to see the world, was gone from his home an hour, traveled a distance of over a mile, and lost courage. Kenneth is four years old.

Police Officer Van Lanningham and a posse of neighbors spent the hour searching the neighborhood while the child wandered eastward on Ridge Road. He attracted the attention of Mrs. Rena Johnson as she was eating supper at the Sons lunch shop near Wentworth avenue. Mrs. Johnson helped him locate his home and turned him over to the frantic mother.

WEIDENAAR vs WEIDENAAR

According to Chicago papers, Mrs. Lillian Weidenaar, wife of John Weidenaar, local young man, was granted a divorce in Judge Finnegan's court Monday. The decree included $5 per week alimony and attorney's fees and the action made big news for the big papers because of the grounds stated by the plaintiff, Mrs. Weidenaar, claiming that her husband kicked her feet and kicking wasn't funny.

The husband was not in court when the decree was granted, and according to a statement issued by him, the evidence was incorrect and he has in fact a counter action, which action was continued Wednesday.

NEW CITIZENS

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Beck announce the arrival of a son, January 6.

Predmore - Lorenz Nuptials Sunday

Miss Genevieve Predmore and Wilbert Lorenz were united in marriage Sunday evening at 5 o'clock at the parsonage of Trinity Lutheran church, Rev. Alex Guebert reading the ceremony. Witnesses to the service were Helen Lorenz sister of the groom and Richard Schultz.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorenz will make their home in South Chicago. It has been announced.

Public Service To Pay Dividend

Quarterly dividends on the capital stock of Public Service Company of Northern Illinois were declared today as follows:

- 6 per cent preferred stock $1.50 per share.
- 7 per cent preferred stock $1.75 per share.
- Common Stock (par value no par) $0.75 per share.

Dividends are payable February 1, 1937, to stockholders of record at the close of business, January 15, 1937.

During 1936, three regular quarterly dividends of 50 cents per share were paid on the common stock beginning May 1, plus a special dividend of $1.00 per share paid December 17 on the common stock. While the dividend on the common stock just declared is an increase of 25 cents a share over the quarterly rate of dividend paid in 1936, it is at the same annual rate when giving effect to the special dividend.

Request Taxes Be Paid Locally

With the publication of notice for the second installment of township taxes, Walter Haines, collector issued the request that all persons owning property in the district pay their taxes locally and not at the county building, down town in Chicago.

The reasons for paying the taxes locally are obvious, yet many persons pay at the county building. Money paid to the township collector are turned over to the local taxing bodies, such as town boards, school boards, etc., at once. Paid to the county treasurer they are held over for long periods and various fees are taken from them until the local governments receive only a pittance.

As an example of this Mr. Haines stated that his office receives only 2% for collection expenses and the balance of funds collected is turned over immediately to the correct authorities. All large business companies, including Public Service, Railroads, etc. pay to the township collector. Collection of taxes this year are very much above those of recent years according to Mr. Haines, those for the first installment of 1935 were very good. This is welcome news to all local boards, towns, villages, schools, etc., will soon be able to return to a cash basis entirely and improvements will be possible if the good payments continue.

A remedy for delinquency will be added to all bills allowed to run past the first day of February. The collector is to be in Lansing for the convenience of local taxpayers on January 29 from the hours of 9 a. m. until 3 p. m.

WATER, BRIDGE TROUBLE LOOMS BEFORE DADS

At the recommendation of Engineer Consoer, John Selvinger, village president, is going to write the division of waterways for the state of Illinois asking a belated permit for the crossing of the old bridge over the Little Calumet river with the village water pipes. This move seemed advisable in view of the grumbling among those working on the dredging of the river, at having to go under the old bridge, which is out of use as a road crossing for the river.

It seems the workers have 18 other bridges to go under, and Lansing apparently only obtained a permit from the Cook county bridge department and from Joe Nitz, township highway commissioner, before using the old bridge for the pipes, hence there are those that might make enough noise to cause a little trouble.

The decision to write the letter was reached by the dads at the regular meeting of the village trustees Tuesday night at the village hall.

Resolution Tabled

A resolution to accept the PWA audit of the breakdown of the expense account for the water extension was tabled until the next meeting. The matter was tabled because of a misunderstanding concerning the engineer's fee as shown on the report. The report shows the final cost to the construction company, Geo. A. Haebl, Inc., as being $39,513.10, exclusive of the Indiana part of the line.

The trustees also held up the acceptance of the completion of the sewage disposal plant, pending the finishing of a few minor details, such as hardware, etc.

Change Order

A resolution for a change order to the PWA for the following items on the disposal plant was (Continued on page 10)

FIRE DESTROYS VAN WIENEN HOME

Fire of an undetermined origin completely destroyed the interior of the Van Wiener home at the corner of Lake and Williams street Sunday morning.

The fire was discovered about 7:30 Sunday morning by Jacob Porter, who with his wife and three children occupied the second floor of the residence, and at that time a small storage room at the end of the hallway was full of flame that had become visible to neighbors through the roof.

A call for the local fire department brought quick response, but it was an hour and a half before the blaze had been entirely extinguished. Howard Clark was the first fireman to reach the scene, beginning the fight with a small hand extinguisher.

Fortunately most of the household furnishings and personal effects of both the Van Wiener family and the Porter family were saved from the flames, but furniture and bedding was damaged by smoke and heat.

Both families have been cared for by friends and relatives this week and are now moving into the flat building at Ridge Road and Wentworth avenue, until the burned house can be remodeled and put in condition again. Plans for this work will be made in co-operation with the insurance company. An exact estimate of the loss has not been made public.

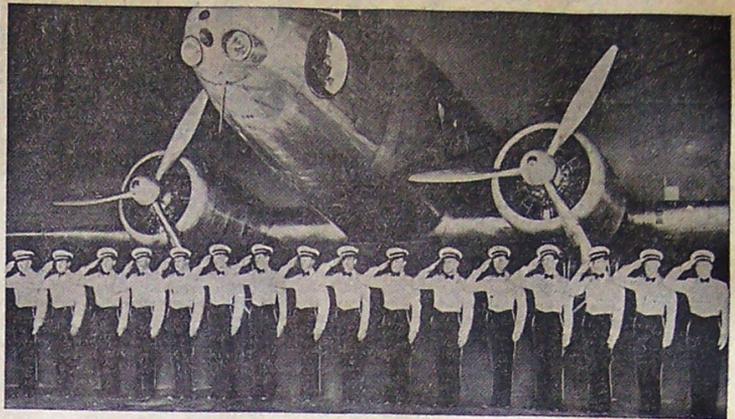

Apparently the most logical conclusion as to the cause of the fire is defective wiring, this belief being substantiated by the spread of the flames through the walls of the building.

CONGRESSIONAL PROBLEM NO. 1

Neutrality will be the question of supreme importance to come before the 75th session of congress which convened in Washington, Jan. 5. It is recognized that the temporary act passed at the last session will have to be amended to cover civil war as well as conflict between two nations. Then comes the question as to the kind of neutrality legislation needed and as to whether the President should be allowed some discretion in enforcing such legislation. It has always been maintained by the President and State Department that some discretionary power remain with that part of the government on duty at all times.

In the United State News of Jan. 4, this question has been answered by a number of the country's most prominent peace leaders, members of congress and international experts. We quote excerpts from these opinions:

Carrie Chapman Catt, Honorary Chairman, National Committee on Cause and Cure of War. "The enforcement of all neutrality laws should be mandatory upon the President who is the executive officer of the nation."

Senator Vandenberg; R. Mich. Member of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations: "The important thing is to understand fundamentally that neutrality must have a new and different meaning if we are to insulate America against other people's wars.— In my view we want an American neutrality which guarantees us against the wars of others to the last possible practicable and realistic extent. It cannot be done under the old rules which subordinated peace to commerce. It can largely be done by subordinating commerce to peace and by subordinating the external rights of individuals to the domestic rights of our whole people."

Dr. Quincy Wright, Professor of International Law, the University of Chicago, referring to the Pact of Paris and the Argentine Anti-War Treaty to both of which we are parties. "The President must have sufficient discretion to adjust details of policy in accordance with the action of other states and the circumstances of a particular war always within the general principle of the treaties here referred to.

"This policy would contribute to preventing war, keeping out of war, and to supporting the peace treaties to which we are committed. Furthermore, it would avoid the depressing effects illustrated by Jefferson's embargo of 1807 which would follow a mandatory general embargo in a war involving the important commercial nations."

Frederick J. Libby, Executive Secretary, National Council for Prevention of War: "The law must be mandatory upon the President to apply embargoes against both sides in any conflict, if the power to lead this country into war is to remain in the hands of Congress, where the Constitution put it.

"During the World War the administration in power, to all intents and purposes, chose sides by allowing the extension of loans and credits and the sale of war materials to the Allies. As result, the war became, our war.

"A clearly defined mandatory neutrality policy, by serving notice on the world that the resources of the United States cannot be drawn upon for war purposes, would exert a strong pressure on all governments to find a means of adjusting conflicts without recourse to war. It would announce that we stand ready to make the material sacrifices involved rather than to sacrifice the lives of our young men in war, which has proved futile as a method of permanently settling conflicts of interest."

Rep. Hamilton Fish, Ranking Minority Member of House Committee on Foreign Affairs: "I am most emphatically in favor of making it mandatory on the President to embargo arms, munitions and implements of war to all belligerents in time of war, and am bitterly opposed to giving the President the power to determine the aggressor nation and applying embargoes only against the nation."

The Journal would welcome the expression of opinions of local citizens on this question that is vital to the homes and happiness to all of us.

EXTRA EXTRA

Nominated for Special Mention in Aiding the Worthy Cause of Promoting Safe and Sober Driving is this bit of verse by J. A. Owens, editor and manager of the Provo (Utah) Herald:

Speed On
 Speed on, O reckless youngster, never mind the cost,
 Drive madly careless, older, only once can life be lost,
 Get the thrill of killing people,
 crippling men and smashing cars
 Why leave all the mad destruction to the never-ending wars?
 Get the joy of making people go on crutches all through life;
 Maim a child, destroy his eyesight,
 kill a husband, or a wife.
 Glorify that awful craving when you are drunk with speed;
 Get your selfish satisfaction never mind the evil deed.
 There's no reason to be careful,
 you are young and wild and free
 And the road is there before you, use it for your drunken spree.
 There's a chance you may be injured, but who's afraid to take a chance.
 Another driver's on the highway,
 give him not a single glance,
 Smash his fenders, wreck his engine, he can buy another one—
 There's no good to stop and worry over the fiendish deed is done.
 To hell with caution! We should worry! All we want's another thrill.
 On to Glory! Hallelujah! Pass at Sixty on the hill.

Many a youngster who would not think of stealing a ride on the tailboard of a truck will hitch his sled to a car in order to enjoy a thrilling free ride. That's one of the winter's hazards drivers must think about during the next month or two.

It is a great temptation to be big-hearted and let the kids have their fun, but think what it means when you suddenly decide to turn a corner and the sled on which the youngsters are riding side-swipes another car going in the opposite direction. Serious injury or death may be the result.
 If you really love children you will discourage this practice. Make it a habit to look back now and then to see that you haven't picked up a couple of joy riders.

SYNOPSIS

Sleepy Cat, desert town of the Southwest, is celebrating the Fourth of July. Jane Van Tambel, beautiful daughter of Gunlock Ranch, hotel owner of Gunlock Ranch, has arrived from the East for the first time. She watches the Frontier Day celebration in company with Dr. Carpy, crusty, tender-hearted friend of the community. Henry Sawdy of the Circle Dot ranch, tricked in a fake horse race the day before by Dave McCrossen, foreman at Gunlock, plans revenge. He enters Bill Denison, a handsome young Texas wrangler, in the rodeo which McCrossen is favored to win, and lays heavy bets on him. Unknown to the crowd, Denison is a champion horseman, McCrossen and the young stranger tie in the various events. Denison drops a cigarette carelessly. Racing down the track full tilt, he picks up the cigarette. The verdict goes to Denison when McCrossen refuses to attempt the stunt. Entranced by the crowd, Denison agrees to perform another trick. Jane is asked for her bracelet, and throws it on the track. Denison loses the ride to pick it up a yell from Barney Rebstock, a McCrossen henchman, scares the pony, nearly costing the rider his life. Gunlock Ranch, invented by the intervention of Dr. Carpy, back on Gunlock ranch after two years in Chicago, because of her father's illness, Jane asks to ride in the hills and meets Denison, now a neighbor, who guides her home. Not knowing her identity, she speaks bitterly of Van Tambel. She tells McCrossen who brought her home and she denounces Denison as a cattle thief. Later she asks Dr. Carpy why her father is unpopular and he tells her it is because of Van Tambel's ruthless and unscrupulous character. Later McCrossen tries to woo Jane, but is sharply rebuffed. Once again she loses her way in the hills and meets Denison. On impulse she gives him her bracelet for guiding her home.

CHAPTER IV—Continued

Denison looked around, checked his horse, touched his hat, and returned the greeting. But he was plainly confused, and Jane was correspondingly pleased. "We meet again," she said with a superior air. "And this time I'm not lost."

"I'm afraid I am, this time," he said slowly.

"How so?"

"Well, it happened I was just thinking about the other times we met, and wondering whether I'd ever see you again, when you dropped down out of the sky on me just now. It took my breath. On your way to town? So am I. Do you mind if I ride along with you?"

"I might mind if you didn't. In fact, if you don't mind a confession, I hurried a little to catch up. You were so kind before."

"Nothing at all—"

"—and you gave me such good advice that I haven't been riding since. But I do feel safer, riding with company. So thank you again—if you're not terribly tired of being thanked."

"Just as much as you like, if you'll remember your thanking me for nothing. I was afraid you'd gone back to Chicago."

"Where have you been all this time? I certainly couldn't have missed you, if you ride this trail as often as I do."

"I've been away—down at Medicine Bend. How long is it since that day?"

"Oh, I haven't an idea. It was an awful hot day, as I remember. Wasn't it?"

"I can't remember a thing about the weather. If I measured the time by my feelings, it would be about three years."

"How perfectly ridiculous!" pouted Jane.

"What I was afraid of was, you'd gone back to Chicago and I'd never see you again. Then I figured that if you went back to Chicago, I'd look there next winter for a circus job and try to get into the same show with you."

She looked at him, frankly amused. "Now wasn't that nice of you? Really, Mr. Denison, you make me perfectly ashamed of myself. Will you get mad now if I confess again? No, you mustn't. I just won't have it. But—I was kidding about being a circus rider."

He repressed a smile. She saw it.

"What amused you?" she asked.

"Nothing at all."

"Oh, yes it was. What?"

"You won't get mad?"

"Oh," she responded airily, "I never get mad."

"Well, I knew you were kidding because that time you rode up to Spring Ranch, it happened to see you come down the valley. It was after I'd heard these stories about circus riding. I said to myself, 'If that young lady ever rode in a circus, they'd have to tie her on.'"

Jane didn't like it—no girl could. But it gave her precisely the opening she wanted. "Now," she said with an attempted laugh, "it's my turn, and I hope you won't get mad."

"Try me—nothing'll make me mad."

"Then, 'You mustn't hate me because I am not some one you might have thought I was. I am Jane Van Tambel. My name is Jane—not Marie. I know you and Father haven't got along . . ."

CHAPTER V

TWO days passed. Jane ordered up her pony. "What's takin' you into town today?" asked McCrossen suspiciously.

Bull came up with the pony. Jane tossed the question: "I forgot some errands the other day. I shan't be gone long."

"Who's goin' with you?"

"No one. The boys are busy. I shall not need the wagon today." She had ridden some two miles toward town, when a turn in the trail brought in sight a man riding out of the woods. He checked his horse and waited for Jane. His face was expectant.

Jane's cheeks flushed in spite of herself. "I hope I haven't kept you waiting long," she stammered. He smiled and shook his head as if perfectly satisfied. "I came early," he confessed.

"But I'd have hung around all night for this and not thought it long. Are we going up in the hills?"

"Not today. We—at least I—am going into town." Jane had private feelings of reserve about riding into the hills with Bill Denison. "In the hills we might get lost," she suggested, naively.

"I might; but not in the way you mean. I'm lost right now. I've been lost for two days. Something came into my life two days ago that I hope will keep me dreaming the rest of my life."

"Don't talk nonsense."

"You don't dare ask what I was dreaming about?"

"Was it about another dreamer?"

"It was."

"I know who, then." He looked at her with pathetic hope. "It was about McCrossen," she added heartlessly.

"Never! It was—"

"Let's gallop," she exclaimed, cutting him squarely off. "I feel just like riding fast. I can beat you to that big pine!"

When she pulled up after a brisk run, her face was flushed, her eyes dancing, her lips parted in laughter. Denison was just behind her.

"Why, you didn't race at all," she complained, looking around at him.

"Why didn't you try to pass me instead of sticking at my heels all the time?"

"If I passed you, how in the world could I see you? I wish it was fifty miles more to Sleepy Cat—don't you?"

"No."

"Well, don't you wish it was just a few miles farther?"

"No."

"Not even two miles?"

"What a pretentious tassel! Well—two, then. And no more."

"We could make it two by riding a little farther into the hills."

"You might ride up that way by yourself."

"I'm just a roomie. I have to follow my mistress."

"Oh, no! We mustn't ride into town together. You gallop ahead."

Jane lunched that day at Dr. Carpy's hotel, hoping she might see Carpy himself. Fortune favored her. The doctor was in the office when she came.

"By the way, Doctor," she said, "I rode a town part of the way, this morning with a neighbor of ours who doesn't bear a very favorable reputation at Gunlock, but—"

"What's his name?"

"Bill Denison."

Carpy laughed his dry little laugh. "Well!" he exclaimed benevolently. "You did pick a real outsider, didn't you? What did you think of the brute?"

In her confusion, Jane hesitated. "Why—I thought him not bad at all," she declared with spirit. "What do you think of him?"

"Why, to speak just offhand, Jane, I'd say Bill Denison had his enemies; but I think he's about as square and open-and-above-board a young fellow as lives in the hills. I don't suppose any of your father's following would agree with me."

"He struck me, too, Doctor, as just such a man," interposed Jane impulsively.

"What do you know about things like that?" asked Carpy jocularly. "You're just a kid! He might be a horse thief for all you could tell, girl."

Jane drew herself up. "Don't be so sure about every girl's being a fool—some of them might fool you! He told me he used to quarrel at Gunlock. Why was it quarrel between him and Father?"

Dr. Carpy laid his cigar on the edge of the table and braced himself. "It's a kind of long story," he began, not knowing exactly how to tackle a delicate subject.

"I've lots of time," remarked Jane disconcertingly.

"To begin with, your father was always a grabber, Jane. Probably couldn't help it—just built that way. I suppose that hurts your feelings?"

The girl winced a little. "Whether it does or does not, Doctor, I want to hear both sides."

Her appeal was not unheeded.

"You're a kind of surprise, Jane," continued the doctor slowly, "for in spite of the fact that the family name is not very popular in this country, everybody is talking about you."

"Just to show you, Jane, how feeling has been: we've got an ex-sheriff out here, one of the best and biggest-hearted men in the mountains. He's a character. He happened in to the hotel the other day, and we got to talking about you—now don't blush or get confused, girl—you're entitled to a good send-off, and I gave you a good one."

"Old Bill Paradise set where you're setting, with his foot on the table, chewing tobacco, listening to every word and never, all the time, saying one word himself. When I got through, I told him about you, and that you had an aunt in Chicago who'd been out here—a regular sport and no fancy airs because she had a rich brother."

"Paradise—now I'm telling you this, Jane, only to show you how some of us felt. Paradise lifted his chin and says, 'Don't it's kind of hard for me to believe there's one decent Van Tambel in the world; I'm damned if I'll ever believe there's two.'"

"Oh, Doctor?"

"Bill Denison worked awhile for your father; he was foreman at Gunlock. Your father thought Denison was just about right. He could do everything—and do it well. He made so much money for your father that he gave him a share in the cattle, a tenth, I believe it was. When he quit, Denison asked for a settlement on his share. Your father told him he didn't have no share. They went to law about it. Denison got beat—he didn't have anything but a verbal contract. So Bill went back to live on his own ranch next to the Reservation. It's small but has plenty of good water from a big spring that makes it valuable. Then he began running off enough Gunlock cattle in small bunches—cattle he claimed belonged to him, anyway—to pay what your father owed him."

"So Bill was cursed by your father as a rustler. It made cattlemen laugh, thinking of your father's own reputation in that respect. And the old man brought a lawsuit against Bill to oust him from the little ranch, account bad title. That suit is still pending in the land office at Washington. Now, that's just about the story, Jane."

The shock of the doctor's story so humiliated Jane that she wanted only to get back home and hide what she felt to be the shame of her father from everybody. She had promised to ride back the hill trail with Denison; she felt she just couldn't do it. She took a short cut home across the desert. Her mysterious

"What Did You Think of the Brute?"

He looked at her with a disappointed admirer, after lingering patiently in the hills till dusk rode into town only to learn at McAlpin's barn that Jane had taken her pony out early in the afternoon.

It was a painful night. She realized why the name she bore was so unpopular in Sleepy Cat.

Her depression bore her down; even Quong saw that something was wrong. He cooked special dishes to tempt Jane's appetite, but her appetite could not be tempted.

"Why don't you get out and ride any more?" asked Bull Page one day. "You haven't been on a horse for two weeks—just sit moping around the house, eating nothing, talking nothing."

"Bull. Just let me alone. I'll be all right."

For another two weeks Bull was worried. Then suddenly Jane relented.

She would take a horseback ride if Bull would ride with her—no other wise.

They started together. It was afternoon. The air was thick with a soft haze that tempered the sun's rays. The trail led in and out of the thin pine woods.

She began to think her nervous apprehension of meeting Denison again had been a wasted worry. Indeed, she and her guide were homeward bound within a mile of the ranch house when both heard the clatter of hoofs behind them. Jane would not have looked around for a million dollars. Bull told her there were two men coming up.

"Who are they?"

"Looks like Carpy and Bill Denison."

Jane's heart raced. However, this seemed not so bad. Three men and one woman were better than one man and one woman. Carpy and Denison approached together.

"Where are you riding to today, doctor?" asked Jane.

"Gunlock ranch."

Jane showed surprise. "Who's sick at the ranch?"

"One of the boys," said Carpy. "That's the first I've heard of it," exclaimed Jane. "Who is it?"

"One of the boys that got cut up last night downtown. I sewed him up and want to see how he is. Nothing serious, I guess," said Carpy.

"Any news in town, doctor?" asked Jane, though not in the least interested in Sleepy Cat news.

"Nothing but the brush fires up North. This whole country's dry as a tinder. I hope the winds will keep 'em up North. What do you hear from your father?" asked the doctor in return.

"Oh, he's better," said Jane. "He talks about coming home pretty soon."

"Well, that's news," commented Dr. Carpy, noncommittally. "He's got a wonderful constitution, that man," thinking to himself that it was much too good. "How have you been yourself, girl?"

"Oh, I'm just fine, doctor."

"Rarin' to go, eh? Come on, girl, I'll race you through this pine belt."

Jane saw her chance to escape an uncomfortable situation, for Denison hadn't said a word. She dashed bravely ahead and outran Carpy. But Denison followed her, overtaking her and riding alongside.

The sport couldn't last forever, though Jane prolonged it to the best of her ability. She wondered whether she had jumped from the frying pan into the fire; she was alone now with Denison.

When she slackened her pace, out of breath, her cheeks were glow.

"I wouldn't push that pony of yours too hard," suggested Denison incidentally. "He's a nervous critter."

"Oh, he's all right," said Jane lightly, "but it does shake one up, doesn't it?" she exclaimed, panting a little.

"It does," agreed Denison. "But I got my real shakeup when I spied you on the trail. I've been staking myself out alone on this trail every day for a month or so, hoping to get a bit of you."

"I haven't felt much like riding lately."

"I was afraid you were sick. I watched for the doctor coming out, but I didn't see him. I used to ride up Gunlock Knob every day or two to see if I could see anything of you."

"I wish you wouldn't do such things. Where is Gunlock Knob?"

"It's that peak over by the spring. It's really on your father's ranch, I guess, but I'm always careful not to run into any of your men."

"I'm sorry, but you mustn't look for me any more—please don't." She glanced at him firmly as she spoke. To Denison she had never looked so lovely.

"Why?" he demanded. "Have I—"

"You haven't, but I have—I guess that's the way to put it. I mustn't see you any more. I don't expect to remain in this country very long, anyway."

"What have I done, Jane?"

"Nothing, nothing."

"Somebody's been telling me about me," he declared with some bitterness.

"No."

"If you'd tell me what they are, I could answer them."

"I said, no! No one has talked about you." His sudden intensity frightened Jane. She burst into tears.

"Now I've made matters worse!" he exclaimed penitently. "I guess my bark's worse'n my bite. But it makes me wild to think I've been lied about to you."

"You haven't," spat out poor Jane. "Don't you believe me when I say nobody's been talking about you?"

"Please excuse me, then. I do believe you. But if you'd give me a chance to, I'd be willing to tell you every mean thing I've done in my life—and leave it all to you. Don't condemn me without a hearing—that's all I ask."

"Nobody is condemning you. I'm only, if anything, condemning myself."

"For what?" he demanded.

STAR DUST MOVIE AND RADIO By Virginia Vale

OF COURSE you've seen Sid Silvers, and laughed at him, in many a movie; now you're going to hear him on the air with Al Jolson, whom you've also seen in pictures, but not recently.

Silvers is something new under the sun. He writes the very funny lines he speaks; that is, he makes them up, but he doesn't put them down on paper. He just says them. Somebody else takes them down. And if he gets a very funny idea during the final filming of a scene, in it goes and the scene is done over again. But what have that will create if he forgets himself and does it on the air, since radio scripts have to be written and re-written, and then approved and approved endlessly.

Now it's Claudette Colbert and her husband who are going to adopt a baby from that famous orphanage in Chicago. Irene Dunne and her husband were the latest couple to do it—and Irene, worse luck, had such a bad cold during the first few days of the little girl's presence in her new home that she couldn't go near the infant. Meanwhile Claudette has been given the lead in the screen version of "Tovarich," the successful stage play; she should be grand in it.

Claudette Colbert

It looks as if James Cagney would break out again—not in a fight with a motion picture company this time, but in a new venture. He is talking of reviving the theater in small towns, so you may see him in person before long.

It is said that Robert Montgomery and Pat O'Brien may appear with him, as well as his brother Bill. Meanwhile his first picture for Grand National has been completed at last.

Have you been missing "Minnie Mouse" from the screen? If you have, don't worry—she'll return. You see, her voice—that is, the young woman who plays "Minnie's" voice—got married and went off on a honeymoon.

Being the voice for one of Walt Disney's popular characters is a pretty good job—and it means a contract for the actual owner of the voice, too, because the public is so familiar with the sounds that Mickey and his co-players make.

ODDS AND ENDS... Ever since he finished "The Gay Desperado" Nino Martini has been traveling around, giving concerts, and flying east each Wednesday for his broadcast—so imagine how thankful he is that the opera season has started in New York, keeping him home for the winter... B. P. Schulberg, the movie producer, finally admitted that he and Sylvia Sidney will probably marry when his marital affairs are straightened out... He and Mrs. Schulberg have been living apart for some time... Richard Dix is taking out a patent for a thornless rose which he has developed at his ranch... Robert Young will appear with Claudette Colbert in "She Met Him in Paris," which may console him for losing out on "Love on the Run," the Crawford-Gable-Tone picture... Now they say it's Gladys George who will play the role of the mother in "Stella Dallas." © Western Newspaper Union.

Here's Simple Way to Ease a Cold

Two Quick-Acting, Quick-Dissolving Bayer Aspirin Tablets with a Glass of Water

The modern way to ease a cold is this: Two Bayer Aspirin tablets the moment you feel a cold coming on. Then repeat, if necessary, according to instructions in the box.

Try this way. Your doctor, we know, will endorse it. For it is a quick, effective means of combating a cold. Ask for Bayer Aspirin by the full name at your druggist's— not for "aspirin" alone.

At the same time, if you have a sore throat, crush and dissolve three BAYER tablets in one-third glass of water. And gargle with this mixture twice.

The Bayer Aspirin you take internally will act to combat fever and the pains which usually accompany colds. The gargle will act as a medicinal gargle to provide almost instant relief from rawness and pain. It is really marvelous; for it acts like a local anesthetic on the irritated membrane of your throat.

"MUSIC AU GRATIN" PRESENTED OVER THE AIR ON THE PARAMOUNT THEATRE STAGE, SATURDAY — AND ON THE SCREEN JOE E. BROWN IN "POLO JOE"

HE'S A ONE-MAN TEAM WHEN HE GETS UP STEAM!
...And we're all steamed up about Joe's new show! It's his best one yet!

Have you ever seen a real honest to goodness broad cast? Well, if you haven't and really want to, see how it is done in the studio. Attend the Paramount next Saturday and see "Music Au Gratatin" for the first time ever presented over the air from the Paramount Theatre stage. See the sound technicians operate, see how a cast of people make a radio audience enjoy themselves while sitting at home taking life easy. The Paramount is taking great pleasure in being one of the first theatres in the Calumet region to put on a show such as "Music Au Gratatin" and if you are not able to attend the theatre, tune in on the program about 8 p. m. On the screen you will have your favorite comedian, Joe E. Brown in "Polo Joe", a fast moving, rib-tickling comedy guaranteed to be the top comedy hit of the year. Also, as a featured attraction, you will see the first pictures ever shown of the Spanish civil war.

T. F. METEOR

Written by students of Thornton Fractional Twp. High School

The Girls' Glee Club under the direction of Miss Helen Brazzill was very well received at the Christmas Concert Thursday, December 17. The songs the girls sang were: "Sympathy" from "The Firefly", "Ma Little Banjo", "Giannina Mia" and "O Holy Night".

The new song that the girls are practicing is entitled "Allah's Holiday."

The glee club is composed of 83 members and Miss Katherine Brazzill is accompanist.

The week beginning January 25 is the object for the rush of T. F. students, for exams, registering for the next semester and receiving of grades are to be encountered.

With but two weeks of actual class-time left this semester, students are working their hardest, one week is usually spent in review.

The first of February will mark the beginning of another semester.

Initiate Fossett Into Fraternity

Headed by Dean Herbert Mumford of the College of Agriculture and Prof. Arthur H. Coble, head of the department of mathematics, 47 persons have been initiated into the University of Illinois chapter of Phi Kappa Phi, national all-university honorary scholarship fraternity. It was learned here today.

One of the initiates was William Fossett of 17915 Ridgewood, Lansing, a senior in the University. The group of initiates included the two faculty members, five graduate students, and 41 seniors. Dean Mumford and Professor Coble were also cited at the initiation for distinguished scholarship.

"The purpose of a college education is to make students not only think, but to think correctly and to draw logical conclusions. They must not only absorb facts, but co-ordinate them," Prof. Simon Litman of the department of economics said in speaking at the initiation.

FEELS LIKE NEW! THANKS TO CLEVER WIFE.

HE wasn't himself. Had too many restless nights, too many tired days. Seemed to lose his ambition. But his clever wife was too smart to let this go on. She insisted that he try Nature's Remedy (N.R. Tablets) and he found out what a surprising difference it made to use a laxative of entirely vegetable origin. He didn't mind taking N.R.s at all, they were so gentle, and non-habit forming. They simply made him feel like a new man. Get a 25c box at any drugstore today.

A Trio for the Younger Set

THREE more intriguing numbers than these would be hard to imagine—even in this day of rampant fashion and scintillating style! It's a trio that the younger set in The Sewing Circle will be enthusiastic about too, for first consideration is given them in—

Pattern 1996—This excellently styled jumper dress is one the tot of six and the lass of fourteen will sing long and loud over. It is a guaranteed delight for both mother and daughter because it's the simplest thing to sew and the most intriguing frock a child ever had. The puff of the sleeves and the flare of the skirt place a pretty accent on youth. Available for sizes: 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. Size 8 requires 14 yards of 35 inch material for the jumper and 1 1/2 yards for the blouse.

Pattern 1202—There's subtle loveliness about this new dress for all occasions. It makes a grand thing of simplicity—a brilliant success of the new silhouette. Buttons, bold shiny ones, add classic chic to the back. And in the matter of sleeves there's an opportunity to choose for oneself. Sheer wool, challis, taffeta or silk crepe will be a likely material for this dress. Designed for sizes: 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. (30 to 38 bust). Size 14 requires 2 1/4 yards of 54 inch fabric. With long sleeves 2 1/2 yards.

Pattern 1936—This is the season for smocks, although not the 'hunting' season, thanks to today's new model, pictured here. This ideal smock obviates any further search, for indeed, in simple words it is the McCoy! Imagine the fun of having a smock that reflects one's own taste in its every detail—yes, even to the size and color of the scarf and buttons. Designed in sizes: 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 34 requires 4 1/2 yards of 39 inch material. The bow requires 1 1/2 yards of ribbon.

A detailed sewing chart accompanies each pattern to guide you every step of the way.

Never Say "Die"

Persons who never say "die" can find 380 other ways of getting the idea across in the American language, says an article in American Speech, a Columbia University linguistic quarterly.

Dr. Louise Pond, of the University of Nebraska, author of the article, says preachers employ the euphemisms more than others. Listed as favorites are the following: "Released from the burden of the weary world," "the lamp of life flickered out," "his clock has run down," "joined the great majority," "bit the dust" which was written by Homer; "gave up the ghost," which was written by Shakespeare, and "launched into eternity."

ARE YOU ONLY A THREE-QUARTER WIFE?

THERE are certain things a woman has to put up with and be a good sport.

Men, because they are men, can never understand a three-quarter wife—a wife who is all love and kindness three weeks in a month and a hell cat the rest of the time.

No matter how your back aches—no matter how loudly your nerves scream—don't take it out on your husband.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomfort from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife; take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and go "Smiling Through."

If You're Told to "Alkalize"

Try This Remarkable "Phillips" Way Thousands are Adopting

On every side today people are being urged to alkalize their stomachs. And thus ease symptoms of "acid indigestion," nausea and stomach upsets.

To gain quick alkalization, just do this: Take two teaspoons of PHILLIPS' MILK OF MAGNESIA 30 minutes after eating. OR—take two Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets, which have the same antacid effect.

Relief comes almost at once—usually in a few minutes. Nausea, "gas"—fullness after eating and "acid indigestion" pains leave. You feel like a new person.

Try this way. You'll be surprised at results. Get either the liquid "Phillips" or the remarkable, new Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets. Delightful to take and easy to carry with you. Only 25¢ a box at all drug stores.

Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

Remember When Sloan Got $40,000 Without Ridin' Nag

DO YOU remember 'way back when—
A jockey received $40,000 because of a race in which he did not ride, own, officially train, or bet on the winner?

That was in 1902 when the French filly, Rose di Mal, won the Prix de Diane at Chantilly. Tod Sloan, perhaps the greatest jockey of all time, had been barred for two years by the English Jockey club because he had committed the heinous offense of betting on his own mounts. So he had come to Paris and it was charged that he had worked the filly in trials for the stake.

This annoyed the French Jockey club, which then had a tight working agreement with the British lords of the turf. The stewards contended that Tod had been refused a jockey's license and consequently was not in good standing. So, as punishment for his reported appearance as an exercise boy, they expelled him from the French turf.

Tod sued and the case excited while it dragged on into the highest court of appeals. Finally when the high-stepping jockey, who had arrived in Europe several years previously with a $250,000 bankroll, was down to his last pound the verdict arrived.

It created a legal precedent for the turf but probably Tod never concerned himself about that. Starting with the $40,000 received in damages he soon was happily engaged in winning (and losing) a new fortune almost as large as the one he previously had accumulated.

A group of American Olympic athletes were forced to replace their drinking water with light wines? That was when the U. S. team was on the way to Athens for the 1906 games. A stop was made at an Italian port and customs inspectors

Double Guitar

The ordinary guitar with one neck was too simple for Gene Mack, of Quincy, Mass., so he invented this two-necked instrument which he proudly displays. Mack plays with Lee Shelley's orchestra. So far as is known he is the only man in the world who can play his novel instrument.

noted the huge fars of mineral water.
Such a new-fangled aid to the well-conditioned athletes was beyond the comprehension of the inspectors. Visitors always were trying to work some amusing trick on them and they thought they knew gin when they saw it. So they confiscated this contraband "gin."

But even though they were weak on Yankee notions, the Italians were as strong on international gallantry as they were on red tape. Even now there are members of that team who smack their lips as they recall the gallons of vino which replaced, at the inspectors' expense, each drop of "gin" water.

Bob Fitzsimmons was preparing to win the heavyweight championship of the world from Jim Corbett at Carson City? A visitor one day discovered Ruby Robert standing just outside the Fitzsimmons bedroom door listening intently. Inside the room Mrs. Fitzsimmons could be heard lifting her voice in prayer for victory.

Bill Tilden turned down a $60,000 offer to turn pro?

That wasn't so terribly long ago at that—a matter of about a dozen years. But since the lion of the tennis courts did make the switch he has harvested a crop of dollars that is not to be sneezed at. And his example has been followed by other lights of the racket game from V. N. Richards down to Fred Perry.

Bill Tilden

The odds, though, are that Tilden's earnings are a good deal ahead of any of his fellow tennis pros.

A player, dusting himself off at third base, received the greatest surprise ever to come the way of a hitter of a game-winning triple? That was years ago when Moose McCormick had been with the Giants only a few days. He had been told to punt but a ball came across the plate to his liking and he swung with full force.

He was met at third base by a red-faced, highly excited little fellow. A season or two later Moose came to bat as a pinch-hitter six times in a six-game series with winning five of the games and tying the other with his hits. But such fame was in the future.

He slapped the dust from his clothes with one hand while he extended the other for the expected congratulations. That he listened in awe, the red-faced little fellow was not in a congratulatory mood. Instead Manager John J. McGraw was fuming Moose $50 for disobeying the order to punt.

NOT IN THE BOX SCORE:

BASEBALL players who for years have conducted their business with scant regard for the rights of customers probably will behave for a while now. The reason is they have been tipped off that continued mismanagement will result in a governmental bureau taking charge of the national game—in order to preserve it from the fate of the buffalo. . . . The thirteen-year-old national diving queen, Marjorie Gestring, is an accomplished pianist. . . . Contrary to reports, there is a stone on Tex Rickard's lot at Woodlawn. There is, however, no stone on the great fight promoter's grave and no provision for upkeep.

That pass interference rule will not be changed in spite of the clamor of the losers and the siller reporters. So far only one sane remedy has been proposed although dozens were discussed and laughed down during a meeting of the Eastern Association of Football Officials. This was Bill Crowley's suggestion that only one pass should be permitted during each series of downs in the last five minutes of each half. It would minimize one of the two real causes of the trouble, the number of desperate heaves that are made when scant scoring time remains. . . . Big league clubs would do well to consider Snokey Joe Martin, sent to Baltimore by the Giants last summer. Since receiving a chance to play regularly Martin has become the best third baseman in the minors. . . . Bill Powers, secretary of the New York Hockey Writers' association and one of the game's best informed reporters, was born in Florida.

Giants to Put McPhail in Charge of Farms

The Giants are planning to put Larry McPhail—who provided the Reds with night baseball and other circus features before departing suddenly from Cincinnati—now in charge of their new farm system. . . . Lee Handley, the young infielder the Dodgers tried so hard to get, has a weak arm. . . . The dividend of the operations of one of the powers about the throne prevents the Dodgers from making a deal for Joe Stripp. . . . If Eddie Mayo, recently transferred to Boston by the Giants, can hit .350 next season the Bees believe they are first division bound. . . . Mayo, by the way, should hit 20 points better than that when played regularly. . . . The slump which caused Heinie Manush to fall into possession of the Dodgers was due not so much to falling eyes as a persistently ailing charlie horse. . . . Pittsburgh in the Eastern Amateur Hockey league are Crossley Sherwood and Colin Sherwood. They are twins.

Larry McPhail

Lawrenceville coaches speak with awe concerning the end play of fifteen-year-old Puffy Bigler, son of Princeton's very good 1919 tackle. He is six feet one inch tall and weighs 175 pounds. . . . Tony Justice, Georgia's 195-pound end, is another player who will bear watching in 1937. Big Brother Eddie, of the Boston Redskins, claims the kid is due to be one of the nation's best. . . . Aside from the fact sidemen always did worry him there was another reason why Wally Berger had hitting trouble last year. Pitchers found they could keep the big Bees' outfielder under control if they threw at him. . . . Ralph Guldash, leading pro golf money winner, is not superstitious about bit but his two Pekinese dogs are named "In" and "Out."

Ted Kid Lewis has found a use for yesterday's newspaper. He uses it for wallpaper in his London cafe. Lewis's son, Morton, is one of the more eminent British movie camera men and soon will visit Hollywood to observe American film methods. . . . The Stadium club in London, where Georges Carpentier and Joe Beckett once drew $175,000, is no bigger than New York's St. Nicholas Palace. . . . Jimmy Walsh, the hard-hitting lightweight champion, is England's best fighter. . . . Benny Lynch, claimant to the world's flyweight title, is a crowd pleaser while Johnny King, bantamweight, is fast and clever.

Comment on the legalistic ledger-deman by which baseball's high commissioner insured the extinction of all independent minor league owners and enabled the rich Cleveland club to retain the sensational Bob Feller.—The Supreme court follows the elections Judge Landis follows his $50,000-a-year salary. . . . Art Chapman, probably the best playmaker in the National Hockey league, comes by his skating ability naturally, his mother having been one of the best figure skaters in the Winnipeg neighborhood. Incidentally he met his wife, who has won numerous trophies for speed skating, when the two of them were appointed instructors at a Winnipeg playground.

Walter Brown, the Bostonian who coached the United States Olympic hockey team, has discontinued his five-year-old practice of touring Europe with American amateur sextets each winter. Can't get any fun out of it any more. Feels that European "matinee" teams have so many Canadian ringers, these days that it would take a pro outfit to beat any of them.

Poultry

DAMP HOUSES ARE DISEASE BREEDERS

Poultry Contracts Colds, Other Disorders.

By H. H. Alp, Extension Poultryman, University of Illinois—WNU Service.

Just as humans have more colds and pneumonia during periods of damp weather, so damp poultry houses during winter months favor the development of roup, bronchitis and other respiratory diseases of chickens which affect the efficiency of poultry production.

One of the most common causes of dampness in poultry houses is wet litter. Wet litter is in turn caused by too many birds in the house, floor mixture and leaky roofs.

Birds are overcrowded in houses having less than four square feet of floor space to each fowl. Unless a poultry house is equipped with mechanical ventilation, and few of them are, crowded pens will soon become damp.

Cement floors which have no sub-floor of gravel, concrete or similar material will usually sweat sufficiently to make wet litter a problem. In some houses spillage from water pails and poor surface drainage are factors along with leaky roofs.

In addition to these causes the poultry flock itself adds to the moisture in the problem. If dropping boards are left uncleaned for two weeks, experiments have shown that for each 100 birds there would be approximately three to four barrels of water left in the house during this period.

While it is impossible to keep poultry houses absolutely dry, flock owners can help by cleaning off the dropping boards at least every other day. Frequent changing of the litter is another chore generally justified by the results obtained in more efficient production.

Keeping windows open to provide fresh air aids in keeping down dampness, and artificial heat is needed in many instances. Many poultrymen have found that heat from brooder stoves has helped in houses where colds and roup have been troublesome.

Good Management Brings More Eggs, Expert Says

During the winter hens cannot keep up a high egg production unless they are properly managed, according to C. F. Parrish, extension poultryman at North Carolina State college. Feeding, he points out, is perhaps the most important item. No hen can be expected to do her best unless fed the proper grains, mashes, and green feeds.

Then the poultryman must pay strict attention to the housing problem. Poorly constructed and drafty houses are not conducive to high egg production. The houses must be comfortable or the birds will suffer and a consequent decline in the number of eggs will be noted.

Inferior birds should be culled from the flock. These poor producers, if allowed to remain, will bring the average of the flock down sharply.

Poultry Notes

In Michigan eggs are sold by the pound.

Gather eggs daily; market at least twice a week.

It is a severe drain on a bird to go through the molt.

Hens that grow broody often are likely candidates for culling.

Pullets need to be graded and put into different pens according to their maturity.

Part Siamese Twins in Daring Operation

London, England.—A surgical operation which is said successfully to have separated "Siamese twins"—two infant white girls in Africa—is described in the British Medical Journal by Dr. D. W. McLaren of the Colonial Medical Service in Nigeria.

He relates how two girls were joined together by a circular funnel of tissue measuring one and one-half inches and two inches wide. The operation was performed on June 16, when the twins were six months old.

Authors, at Least, Find That Crime Is Profitable

London.—There's money in crime and murder.

And it's safe money, on the side of law and order. For, according to statistics issued in London, the public pay $30,000 a year for the literary luxury of crime detection. Not far behind their literary contemporaries, the profiteers of crime and murder on stage and screen annually reap almost $20,000,000.

The true master of entertainment profits far more from crime than the master criminal does and he never has the fear of the police in his veins. Edgar Wallace amassed a tremendous fortune from novels and plays and for a single short story he received as much as $7,000. London is undergoing a real crime wave. Nearly 800 thrillers were published in England last year; sixty-five a month, fifteen a week, two a day.

NEW A. A. U. CHIEF

Jeremiah T. Mahoney of New York, who was elected president of the Amateur Athletic Union at its convention, at Houston, Tex. His election climaxed a bitter fight in which his opponent was Patrick J. Walsh, also of New York. Mahoney was president a year ago when the question of non-participation in the Olympic games was fought. He refused to permit his name to be presented for re-election after he had been defeated in his opposition to the Olympics. His current victory is considered vindication of his stand at that time. He succeeds Avery Brundage.

Odor to Be Developed for the Rhododendron

Bainbridge Island, Wash. — Dr. Fred Murphy, "rhododendron king" of the state, wants to develop a fragrance for the rhododendron, Washington's state flower. He received from the high Himalaya mountains a collection of 200,000 rhododendron seeds, some of scented varieties.

"It may take a dozen generations of cross-breeding," Dr. Murphy said, "but I believe the native rhododendron can develop a scent that will match its beauty."

RELEASE REPORT ON RA WORK IN MIDWEST STATES

Indianapolis, Ind., January 7.—More than $12,000,000 has been used in rehabilitating farmers in five midwestern states since July 1, 1935, it was disclosed here today by regional Resettlement Administration offices in a year-end check-up of loans and grants.

"All but $2,261,423 of this money has been placed in the hands of unfortunate farmers in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, and Missouri as loans," said R. C. Smith, regional director, in commenting on the check-up.

"Our records show that standard and supplementary loans since July 1, 1935, amount to $9,635,778. Approximately $725,000 was loaned during the past six months in the form of emergency drouth loans. All grants including those made this summer and fall because of the drouth total $2,261,423."

Illinois standard and supplementary loans, 3,766 for $1,812,677; emergency drouth loans, 606 for $750,211; grants, 14,932 for $359,001.

Many Farm Debts Adjusted

Since the resettlement administration began cooperating with state and county farm debt adjustment committees Sept. 1, 1935, 7,977 cases have been settled in this midwestern region. Through refinancing, budgeted repayment plans, and lower interest rates, farmers represented by these cases were able to reduce debt loads by $8,652,904.

Smith added that approximately 301,694 in back taxes had been paid as a result of adjustments made.

114,000 Acres Out Of Production

While the rehabilitation division of RA was aiding individual farm families, the land use division was laying plans for taking large tracts of non-agricultural land out of crop production.

It is reported that more than 114,000 acres of such land now are under option and recommended for purchase of 10 projects in the region. Of this amount, 33,742 acres already have been purchased by the federal government.

On the Dixon Springs project near Robb, Ill., more than 9,000 acres are under option, with 5,581 already owned by the government. At the Crab Orchard Creek project near Marion, Ill., more than 14,000 acres are under option.

passed: $200 for laboratory equipment, $35.20 under on brick, $28.20 under on cost of hardware, $8.20 over on tile and .645 over on pipe.

The cost of insurance on the disposal plan is to be ascertained by the committee and the matter decided later.

Transfer Funds

Attorney Lewis recommended that inasmuch as there was no likelihood of the various cases pending against the village coming to court before the end of the fiscal year, that the amount of $522.40 appropriated for court stenographer and other expenses be turned over to the general fund which is low. This recommendation was passed as a resolution.

The attorney was instructed to draw an ordinance to cover the installation of water to those living outside the village limits. This action was taken at the suggestion of Trustee William Van Weelden.

Police

The police department reported $101 in fines collected during the month of December.

Trustee Van Weelden told the dads of a conversation with two federal men who were high in their praise of the cooperation given them by the Lansing police department, speaking very well of the efficiency of Ed Van Lanningham.

19TH FIRST AID STATION OPENED

James T. Nicholson, manager of the Chicago chapter, American Red Cross, announced today the opening of the chapter's nineteenth highway emergency first aid station at the junction of Skokie highway and Dundee road in the village of Northbrook. Charles B. Malloy is in charge.

This newest link in the chain of Red Cross first aid stations is located at the focal point of the Skokie highway sodium vapor lighting demonstration conducted by the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois.

News From Sheriff's Highway Police

THIRD DISTRICT, HOMEWOOD, ILL.
—Released by Lt. H. J. Andel—

Sheriff's Highway Police made an investigation of an auto accident at 145th and Short street, Posen, Ill., leaving from James Little of 14031 S. Palmer avenue, Posen, Illinois, that he was traveling east on 145th street in his 1924 Gnderson Truck and in trying to avoid hitting a Ford sedan that was west bound on 145th street, he struck a Chevrolet Coach belonging to Sam Flaskar of 14515 S. Short street, Posen, Illinois, knocking it into the ditch. Mr. Little agreed to pay the damage done to Mr. Flaskar's car and there were no complaints signed.

Due to the bad visibility on the night of December 29, 1936, Mr. Elliott of 15237 S. Marshfield avenue Harvey, Ill., struck and injured one John Mercer, of 17016 S. Winchester avenue, Hazelcrest, Ill., as the boy was walking along the highway. Mr. Elliott took the boy to the Ingalls Memorial Hospital in Harvey, Ill., where his injuries were treated. Sheriff's Highway Police then took Mr. Elliott and the injured boy to his home where Mr. Elliott agreed to pay for the boys medical expenses and there was no complaint signed.

Sheriff's Highway Police made an investigation of an accident at 171st and Park avenue, Hazelcrest, Ill. Upon their arrival they learned from John Haney of 840 E. 82nd street, Chicago, Ill., that he was traveling east on 171st street and at Park avenue he collided with a 1933 Chevrolet coupe driven by Edward A. Leebach of 15217 Lexington avenue, Harvey, Ill., who was traveling south on Park avenue. There were no complaints signed as both drivers agreed to settle the damage between themselves.

Sheriff's Highway Police made an investigation at the Ingalls Memorial Hospital in Harvey, Ill., where they found that Durant Caraway of 517 E. 154th street, Phoenix, Ill., had been struck on the head with a bottle in a fight in a tavern. Sheriff's Highway Police went to this tavern but everyone had left for home.

Events in the Lives of Little Men

THAT'S THAT

"Hunter tells me he's going to marry an heiress. I asked what her age was and he couldn't say."
"My boy, it isn't her age Hunter is interested in; it's her heritage."

Seen and Not Heard

A visiting minister to a Sunday school was called upon to address the children. Thinking to be facetious, he asked this question: "What would you do before so many right boys and girls, who expected a speech from you, if you had nothing to say?"
"I'd keep quiet," replied a small boy.

Modern Education

Teacher — Tommy, can you spell "fur?"
Tommy — Yes—"Fur," fur.
Teacher — Correct. Now tell me what fur is.
Tommy — Fur is an awful long ways off.

A LITTLE SPITFIRE

Mary had been very naughty. Her mother had punished her and sent her to her bedroom. Quiet had reigned for some time, and Mary's mother was curious. She went upstairs and, tapping on the bedroom door, said: "Mary! What are you doing?"
Mary replied in a triumphant voice. "I've spilt on the bed! I've spilt on the dressing table; I've spilt on the wardrobe; I've spilt on the carpets! I've spilt on the windows! And—"
"And what are you doing now?"
"I'm waiting for some more spilt!"

TESTED

"Have you good neighbors?"
"Fine. They haven't refused to lend us a single thing we've had to borrow so far."

AN ACQUAINTANCE

She—Your face seems strangely familiar.
He—It ought to; it's the face you slapped at the beach last summer.

Drawing a Distinction
"Every man is entitled to his own opinion."
"Yes," replied Senator Sorghum, "but he shouldn't be encouraged to express it in a way that constitutes it a public nuisance."

Mistaken All Around
"Who's that talkative woman over there?"
"My wife."
"Sorry. My mistake."
"No, mine."—Exchange.
