G. J. ELLENS TO GIVE MISSION PROGRAM AUG. 25

A program of travel and religious stereopticon pictures with musical features that will include the accordion artist, Richard Reitveld, and singing by a colored children's quartette is to be given at the Lansing Christian Reformed church Wednesday evening, August 25, at 8 p. m.

The program is under the auspices of the Hammond City Mission of which Mr. G. J. Ellens is the superintendent. An offering will be taken after the program for the benefit of the Hammond City Mission summer bible school.

The school has just finished seven weeks of daily vacation bible school which was attended by young people between the ages of 5 to 16 years, representing 10 nationalities. One hundred and ten students in all, forty in school number 1 and seventy in school number 2.

TWO CHILDREN BITTEN BY DOGS

William Koirdan and Robert Maurer were dog bite victims last week. William was bitten by the dog belonging to Arthur Lorenz Tuesday and on Friday, which happened to be the 13th, Robert was delivering papers when the dog belonging to Henry Meester bit him in the leg.

Both boys were taken to the office of Dr. Stokl and given treatment. The dogs are both under observation for indications of rabies.

News Of St. John's Walther League

Friday evening, August 13, 1937, the leaguers played in Crete, Ill. They played Crete team number one. It was the last game for the season. With Reynold Schultz as the pitcher, the leaguers gained another victory of 4 to 0.

The leaguers played in the Northern Illinois District tournament at Lincoln Park Sunday, August 15, 1937. They chartered a bus which left the Lansing post office at 11:25 a. m. About thirty-five members rode the bus. The leaguers arrived at 1:00 p. m. As the first game, the Lansing leaguers played Joliet leaguers. Conrad Gleim, the manager, planned the following lineup: Loren Willmes, third base; Ray Blank, right short stop; Conrad Gleim, catcher; Lawrence Koartge, first base; William Gleim, left field; Harold Schultz, left short stop; William Becker, center field; Reinhardt Hecht, second base; Donald Diekelman, right field, and Robert Lange, pitcher.

Herman Koselke, Arthur Diekelman and Leonard Schwartz were other members of the team there. Roy Blank was the scorekeeper and Mr. Griese was the Lansing umpire.

In the first inning, the Lansing leaguers got two runs. Later in the game Joliet got two runs to tie the score. In the last of the sixth inning the Joliet leaguers got two more runs to be in the lead 4 to 2. But in the first of the seventh inning Harold Schultz hit a home run with a man aboard and made the score 4 and 4. Then with the bases full and two men out, Ray Blank hit a home run which put the Lansing leaguers ahead with a score of 8 to 4. After that Conrad Gleim hit another home run. In the last of the seventh, Joliet didn't get anything. This brought the Lansing leaguers a victory of 9 to 4.

BREAKS ARM HELPING FATHER IN FIELD

Norman Siderius, the 10 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Siderius of Burnham avenue, fractured a bone in his left arm Thursday while helping his father in the corn field. Norman was frightened by the horse and fell backward over some bags of corn. He was taken to Dr. Stokl's office where the arm was taken care of.

Interesting Bird Found Near Here

A young Least Bittern was found along the banks of the creek just south of Lansing by a group of boys last Friday morning. The bird appeared to be crippled, making only feeble attempts to fly away when the boys came upon it. The boys were Carl and Bob Wulffing, Marvin Rispen and Oscar Padjen.

They brought the bird home and not being able to discover what was wrong with it, took it to Jackson Keister, the biology teacher of Thornton Fractional high school.

Mr. Keister observed the bird for several hours, and carefully examined its legs and wings and concluded it was alright, so returned it to the wilds.

The Least Bittern is a member of the heron family, according to Mr. Keister and when full grown is from 20 to 34 inches. It is found mostly in our southern states, but sometimes migrates farther north, going in the winter as far south as the West Indies. The southern migration among the birds has already begun for this year.

RALPH VAN DYKE WED IN ZEELAND

Mr. Ralph VanDyke, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Van Dyke of Stony Island avenue and Miss Freda DeBoer, of Zeeland, Mich., were united in marriage Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The impressive double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. P. Myskeno, at the home of Mr. Frank DeBoer of Zeeland.

As the bridal party took their places under an arch of pink and white decorations banked with palms, Miss Marian Ohlman played Lohengrin's wedding march. This was followed by Shewin Hungerink singing "I Love You Truly" and "O, Promise Me."

The bride was attractive in a white satin gown. She carried a shower bouquet and was attended by her sister, Miss Jeanette DeBoer, who wore a pink lace dress. Al Van Dyke acted as best man for his brother.

A wedding supper followed the service with forty-five relatives and friends present. Mr. and Mrs. Ray Fase and daughter, Geraldine were guests from Lansing.

Mr. and Mrs. Van Dyke will make their home in Lansing on Stony Island avenue.

NEW CITIZENS

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hillemonds of Wentworth avenue have announced the birth of a daughter at the home on July 26. The child has been named Ilene Thelma.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Schroeder are the parents of a daughter born August 16 at Chicago Heights hospital. The baby has been named Marlene Joy.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Donald Pearson of Thornton on August 13.

Mr. and Mrs. Velmer Mack of Ridge Road are the parents of a 6½ pound daughter born at the home August 11.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Holmes announce the birth of a boy August 3 at St. Margaret's hospital.

$3.25 MORE TO LIBRARY FUND

BOARD DIRECTS LETTER APPEALING FOR FUNDS

Three dollars and twenty-five cents have been added to the library fund through the Journal this week, bringing the total to $10.25. This week's contributors were:

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Riepen $2.00
T. Ooms .25
Mrs. C. Wulffing 1.00

Donations in any amount may still be left at the Journal office or given to a member of the library board of which Arthur Meester is treasurer. The fund is to be used for the purpose of maintaining a library room, the budget to include rent, fuel, lights and the purchase of books should there be sufficient money.

This week a letter of appeal has been mailed out by the library board continuing the request for funds. The letter asks donations of $1 or more and includes an invitation to attend a meeting of the board tonight at the library.

The money donated in response to this letter from the board is for the same purpose as that donated through the Journal and the two funds will be combined and handled by the same board. Mr. John Schurzaga, village president, is chairman of the library board which acts as the sponsoring agent for the WPA library project in Lansing.

It is the duty of boards sponsoring any sort of WPA project to supply the requisites for carrying on the project. In the case of the library only the library room, light and fuel are required. Salary of the librarian, her assistants, if any, and janitor all paid by the WPA, thus the amount to be supplied locally is not large.

Remaining at its present location the library may be maintained at a cost little more than $150 per year. It is this amount that the board is now trying to raise and the appeal in the Journal was made in cooperation with the board.

As this library serves all the citizens of the village who desire to borrow books, a more generous response was to be expected. In fact it is a reflection upon the citizens of the village that a town of 3800 population cannot raise such a small sum without continued begging and embarrassment to the members of the board who are giving their time without remuneration.

Federal Help For Crippled Children Of Ill.

To carry on and amplify the work of helping poor, crippled children in Illinois, which began when a state clinic attended by seventy children was held in June at Shelbyville, Governor Horner has asked fifteen of the state's leading physicians and nurses to serve on the state advisory committee for the new state division for handicapped children. One hundred twenty-thousand dollars has been allotted to Illinois by the federal government, to be expended in this work during the year beginning July 1, 1937. The state will use an equal sum of its own money in assisting these children.

Sent to jail for shooting a "Ghost." Read this true story that's stranger than fiction in the American Weekly, the magazine distributed with next Sunday's Chicago Herald and Examiner.

$4,595,000 is spent annually in Illinois on road maintenance.

SHERROW HOLDS ATTRACTIVE CIVIL WEDDING

The civil wedding ceremony as read for Robert Kruga and Miss Anna J. Kralj of South Chicago was one of the most impressive he has performed, according to Judge Sherrow, at whose home the service was held last Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Fifteen guests were included in the bridal party. The bride wore a blue chiffon velvet dress with a corsage of white gardenias. Her bridesmaid wore a frock of plumb colored chiffon velvet.

Judge Sherrow, notified earlier in the week that his services would be asked for the ceremony, had arranged his home most attractively for the party.

Sjoerd Veenstra Dies Of Stroke

Death came to Sjoerd Veenstra, 77, of 182nd street at his home Sunday morning about 8 o'clock following a paralytic stroke. The funeral services were held from the home Wednesday afternoon, August 18, and burial took place in the Oak Lawn cemetery. Rev. T. Schneider officiated.

Mr. Veenstra who was born in Holland March 27, 1860, died August 15, only seven weeks after the death of his wife. The couple had been married sixty years April 8.

LIONS PLAN BIG CHARTER NIGHT

Definite plans for the Lansing Lions club charter meeting got under way Tuesday night of this week when the committee on arrangement met at the Ford Sales room. Otto Fulker is acting as chairman of the committee. Other members of the committee present were William Winterhoff, Carl Wulffing, Art Lorenz and William Maurer.

Invitations are to be sent to the various Lion clubs of neighboring town and the wives of the members are to be included in the party.

Faced with the handicap of there being no restaurant in town large enough to accommodate such a party the Lions have decided to ask the various Ladies' Aid groups to bid for the meetings for one year.

The asking for bids, it was explained was not a matter of price so much as to establish a definite place for the meetings each time for a period of one year.

This newly organized local club shows all the earmarks of being a very worth while association and possesses enough inspiration to assure its being a permanent thing in the village. The outside ideas introduced through contact with the International office are a safeguard against monotony or loss of interest. Lions service clubs are established in eight countries as well as all the states of the United States, and the accomplishments of the clubs are legion.

Illinois Peaches Good This Year

Illinois peach growers are busy this week marketing a crop of excellent size and quality. The commercial peach orchards, located for the most part around Coben, Anna and Centralia, will have a yield estimated at from 2500 to 3000 carloads.

The season has been favorable for proper spraying of fruit crops, and disease and insects have been kept under fairly close control, according to A. J. Surratt, federal agricultural statistician.

COUNCIL ASKS ENGINEER TO SET GRADES

After waiting quite a while for a quorum, the village council convened Tuesday night with only four members present and passed several resolutions effecting on one motion the savings of approximately $200.

Perhaps the most important resolution passed was that relative to the establishment of a grade level in the village for the benefit of the new home owners in putting in sidewalks, determining the proper level for the construction of the house, etc. This motion was, in effect, instructions to the engineer, George Consoer, to establish the grade level in various sections of the village.

Fire Truck
A settlement was reached with the General Fire Truck company from which the new fire truck was purchased a few years ago, whereby the village could save approximately $200 in interest and carrying charges by paying the balance due in a lump sum. The amount being $1850.

Reports
Henry Boender reporting for Judge Sherrow informed the council that $103 had been received in fines, and Attorney Lewis said that certain concerns were still causing trouble at the county office relative to the special assessment bonds as used to pay the delinquent assessments against local property. He suggested that the ordinance committee investigate the matter and make recommendations as to what should be done about it. He referred to the present custom of depositing an assessment bond at the village hall and then listing assessments against it at various times which practice involves the village clerk's office in almost a banking bookkeeping system.

Truck
Two motions were passed dealing with the purchase of a garbage truck for the village. The first provided for the purchase of a chassis and the second for the body, both to cost approximately $675.

Councilman Weldig reported trouble where new taps were being made on the village sewer when the Y connection could not be found easily, the custom was to break the sewer tile and make a connection. This practice he said would eventually result in clogging the sewer, and he suggested that the village require the use of saddle tiles. His suggestion was adopted and the clerk instructed to purchase a supply of the saddles to be sold to the plumber making such connections.

Zoning
Councilman Roe reporting for the zoning committee stated that no progress had been made toward the planning of a zoning ordinance in as much as during the vacation period it was impossible to have a full attendance at meetings to discuss the matter but that the committee would soon get together.

Mr. Roe further suggested that the village might require a license on dry cleaning establishments since such was the practice in other towns. This suggestion did not meet with the approval of the council.

Street Improvements
After a discussion it was decided to do necessary repair work on the following streets: Madison between Wentworth and Henry; Adams from Roy to Burnham; Glen Oak to 179th; 181st from Burnham to Roy; and Ridgewood from 182nd to 183rd.

This concluded the business of the meeting.

UNSKILLED LABOR

In former years the country depended upon importing a vast army of unskilled workers to dig the ditches, build the roads, and perform the routine operations of industry. Today the people have concluded that they need the jobs for their own people.

Yet native Americans do not usually like to dig ditches or build roads. They want to sit on office chairs or run stores or be bosses of industry. Many are unwilling even to put on overalls and build houses. Where is the unskilled labor coming from?

Probably we have too much unskilled labor now. It is in the ranks of the unskilled that the most unemployment is found. Machines are used or will be invented that will do most of the hard muscular work. Boys and girls will all have to learn to do some kind of skilled work, and do it well. If they acquire that power they will not probably have long periods of idleness. —Dolton Pointer

NEW DEVELOPMENTS ON THE HIGHWAYS

A recent survey indicates that there are more than 40,000 tourist camps scattered throughout the United States showing an annual revenue of approximately $6,000,000. Owing to the rates charged for accommodations it appears that a successful tourist camp in order to make a profit must provide for the accommodations of about 100 persons. The old-style shanties are gradually passing as clean and comfortable housing succeeds them. Running water, electric lights and radios are part of the new equipment. Tourist camps are products of the automotive industry and so are the tourist houses which line the roads everywhere; likewise road stands and extensive mercantile establishments that formerly were exclusive to cities and towns. Thus millions of dollars a year in income derived from new methods of trade and of employment owes its origin to the automotive industry.

TWO ACCIDENT CAUSES

With traffic deaths in the nation showing an increase of 17 per cent in the first five months of this year, as compared to last year, the warning issued last week by F. Lyndon Smith, Director of the Department of Public Works and Buildings, assumes vital interest.

Appealing for careful driving and for cooperation in Governor Horner's Highway Safety Campaign, Director Smith pointed out two factors that cause many smash-ups, yet are not always listed on the accident report.

The first is the slow driver, who causes a long line of cars to form, thus causing chance-taking by impatient motorists behind him. The second hazard, Director Smith said, exists on multiple lane highways, where some careless drivers get astride the traffic marker lines or otherwise veer from their own proper traffic lane.

EDITORIAL NOTES

"Since the beginning of the century output per worker in the iron and steel industry has increased more than 60 per cent, but instead of employment declining it has increased more than 100 per cent. There are machines enough in the American textile industry to spin more yarn and weave more cloth than could be made by all the women in the United States using the methods of Colonial housewives. Yet there have been more workers employed in the textile industry in recent years than ever before in history. These examples are typical of dozens which could be cited to show the tremendous increases in employment which have taken place while output per worker has increased."

Rockwell Kent is a great artist and is noted for having painted the largest canvas—decorating a Cape Cod cinema—that has been designed since Tintoretta did his stuff in the Doges Palace in Venice. Kent says that "the United States Bureau of Engraving and Printing has degraded postage stamp designs to such a level that the public should at last take some action in its own defense." He specifies the recent three-cent stamp commemorating the Ordinance of 1787 "probably the ugliest and most thoroughly offensive postage stamp that has ever been issued by any government."

Prominence given to "heat" in Washington is awfully overstated, unless the reference is to political conditions and not the weather.

EXTRA! EXTRA!

Story of the Week

This happened to a lady of a neighboring village, at least that is what we were told. The said lady determined to have chicken for dinner, caught the fowl, screwed up her courage to get the neck on the chopping block and raise the hatchet. But there being many a slip as the adage has it, a transition took place, Tabby, the family house cat purring about the mistress' feet in anticipation of a juicy morsel, rubbed her self slowly against the block, the chicken pulled a turtle act. Result the hatchet came down and tabby was shy a good sized piece of tail and the chicken registered surprise at being still alive. We were told that the cat got its tail stub duly doctored, and after spending a few days away from home in a huff, returned, but we didn't learn if the family had chicken for supper.

And Then

Maybe they had us on the gullible list but we heard this one this one this week also, it pertains to the manner of the reception of a joke. An Englishman will laugh three times at a joke, when he hears it, when it is explained to him, and when he gets it; a German will laugh twice, when he hears it and when it is explained; a Swede once, when he hears it, and the American just won't laugh at all he's heard the derved thing before.

A New Suggestion

We have all known for a long time that Shakespeare was right when he said sleep knits up the raveled sleeve of care' but comes now a new suggestion, that sleep is a renewer of faith and hope.

Ladies

If you happen to be counting your blessings in the near future just remember to count in baking powder. It's one of the blessings of the century, a hundred years ago they didn't have any such thing.

Henry Boender

Has expressed himself as being in sympathy with a 'gal' reporter who has to attend board meetings for the purpose of reporting proceedings, and not having a right to voice an opinion has to keep still. Woman or no woman, Hank, it has been done.

Water Bills

Efficiency sometimes takes a turn for the worse, to wit: the local councilman to whom a Lansing citizen brought his water bill to register a complaint as to the amount. The councilman, and obliging soul took the bill and promised to bring the mater to the attention of the water department, took it home and laid it in the window and forgot it. The Mrs. came along the next day found the bill, saw it wasn't theirs and sent one of the children to the postoffice presuming Tony had made a mistake and put it in their box, and it had been brought home through error. Supposition is that the citizen did some wondering when he received the same bill back again via the U. S. mail.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATIONS ANNOUNCED

The United States Civil Service commission has announced open competitive examinations for the following positions:

SYNOPSIS

Brooke Reyburn visits the office of Jed Stewart, a lawyer, to discuss the terms of an estate she has inherited from Mrs. Mary Amanda Dane. Unwittingly she overhears Jed talking to Mark Trent, a nephew of Mrs. Dane who has been disinherited. Mrs. Dane had lived at Lookout House, a huge structure on the sea, built by her father and divided into two, for her and Mark's father. Brooke had been a fashion expert, and Mrs. Dane, a "shut-in," hearing her on the radio had invited her to call and developed a deep affection for her. Mark discloses that Mrs. Dane had threatened to disinherit him if he married Lola, from whom he is now divorced. He says he does not trust Henri and Clotilde Jacques, Mrs. Dane's servants. He says he is not interested in an offer of Brooke's to share the estate with him. Leaving her department store job, Brooke refuses an offer to "go stepping" with Jerry Field, a carefree young man who wants to marry her. At a family conference she learns she must live at Lookout House alone, since Lucette, her younger sister who is taking her job, her brother, Sam, a young playwright, and her mother plan to stay in the city. Jed and Mark are astounded when they hear from Mrs. Gregory, a family friend, that she had witnessed a hitherto unknown will with Henri and Clotilde two weeks before Mrs. Dane died. Brooke had arrived just as she was leaving.

CHAPTER III—Continued

Jed Stewart was walking the floor when he entered his office. He stopped abruptly.

"Well," he demanded, "did she talk any more?"

"Not about the will. Why the dickens didn't you ask questions?"

"Didn't dare. Don't you see, Mark? Boy, don't you understand? Someone has snatched that second will she witnessed."

"Did you draw it?"

"Never heard of it. Perhaps your aunt had an acute attack of remorse. I argued with her, as much as a lawyer can argue, against cutting you out; she wouldn't come to me about a new will. Didn't Mrs. Gregory say that she had been distracted the last few times they had been together? She thinks it was because Mrs. Dane was making up her mind to disinherit you; you and I know that the will to that effect already had been drawn."

"You passed up a grand chance to cross-examine her, Jed."

"Didn't dare. She thinks the will she witnessed is the one probated; doesn't know that if it had been she would have been summoned to prove her signature. We mustn't let a suspicion of this second will get out. Where is it?"

"She said the Reyburn girl drove in as she left the place. Do you suppose Aunt Mary Amanda told her what was in it and that she—"

Jed Stewart stopped his restless pacing. His eyes and voice were troubled.

"Destroyed it? But how could Brooke Reyburn have known what was in the first will? Perhaps your aunt had told her that she was to be residuary legatee—it doesn't seem probable, but women do fool things." He grinned. "Of course men never do. We've got to get busy. If it isn't destroyed, that will may be at Lookout House; you've never liked the Jacques and you say that they hate you. I have an idea. Open your house. Live there. Get friendly with the girl."

"I would feel like a sneak to go there to spy on her."

"You suspect that she may have influenced your aunt to make a will in her favor, don't you?"

"I do."

"Then give her a chance to prove that she didn't. Take a couple of Japs and go down and live next door."

"I won't commit myself to that proposition in a hurry. If I decide to do it, will you come with me?"

"Sure, I've been hoping you'd ask me. Philo Vance is my middle name." Stewart picked up the note lying on the desk. "You'd better open the investigation by accepting this."

"The Reyburn girl's invitation to dine on Thanksgiving day? I would feel like a spy, a traitor. The turkey would choke me."

"Do you want the truth about this will?"

"You bet I do."

"Then go. Don't write. We never send a letter when we can send a man. Phone the night before that you are coming. She'll have less time in which to think why you are accepting."

Brooke Reyburn stood in the doorway of the living-room at Lookout House. Behind her in the hall a graceful circular stairway wound up and up. She nodded approval. The room was the perfect setting she had visualized for the duchess of Argyle since the day she had known that her father had willed her the portrait. The green of the walls and trim repeated the color of the satin gown of the woman in the dull gold frame which hung above the mantel of carved black Italian marble, repeated also the shade of the feathers of the dozing parrot in a gilded cage, threw into relief dark polished surfaces of mahogany.

She had had everything that she thought belonged to his family stored in the apartment over the garage. Curious that she had found so little silver.

She looked at the door which Mary Amanda Dane had told her opened into the twin house. Something uncanny about it. Whenever she was in the room it drew her eyes like a magnet. Mark Trent's house was on the other side. It had not been lived in for years. What a waste. Had his wife refused to live there? His wife? She couldn't think of him as having had a wife. Why think of him at all?

She resolutely switched her thoughts to her surroundings. This was the same room in which she had first seen Mrs. Dane in her wheel chair, but how different. Then it had been drab and heavy; now it glowed with soft color. She would never forget the pathos in the woman's eyes as they had met hers, nor the eagerness of her greeting. She had registered a passionate vow to make her lovely and attractive in appropriate clothes. That had been her job—then—and a thrilling job, too, to help women make the most of their good points.

How Mary Amanda Dane had fooled her about money. The crippled woman had kept her feet firmly on the ground when it came to spending. Planning inexpensive, attractive clothes for her had been an exciting challenge. She had succeeded. The frocks had been charming, and with her drab wardrobe the invalid had shed much of her crabbedness. Lovely clothes did that for a woman. Pity that more husbands didn't realize the fact. Now she was gone and had left a small fortune behind her. Why had she denied herself so many of the luxuries of life. Brooke blinked long wet lashes and said aloud, as she had said many times since she had come to live at Lookout House:

"Thank you for everything, Mrs. Mary Amanda. Thanks billions."

She swallowed the lump which rose in her throat whenever she thought of the woman's incredible kindness. Hardly the time to go sentimental when at any moment the family might burst in on her. They were on their way to spend Thanksgiving. For the first time they would see the changes in the house; she had postponed their coming until it should be in perfect order.

The honk-honk of an automobile horn outside was followed by voices singing lustily:

"Over the river and through the wood,

Trot fast, my dapple-gray!
Spring over the ground
Like a hunting hound
For this is Thanksgiving day."

The gay chorus was followed by laughter and vociferous cries:

"Whoa there! Stand still, Lightning! Whoa!"

Laughing, Brooke dashed for the front door. It was so like the Reyburn family to dramatize its arrival.

In a rush of cold air and excited greetings she piloted her mother and sister to the library. The startled parrot shrieked, "Stop! Look! Listen!"

"Boy, you don't need a burglar alarm with that announcer. You ought to loan him to a bank."

Lucette made a gamine face at the parrot as she slipped out of her ocelot coat. She dragged off her hat and patted the swirl of her dark hair.

Brooke hugged her mother. "It's wonderful to have you here, Celia Reyburn, and aren't you devastating in that eel-gray ensemble!"

"Not as devastating as you are in that shimmery white, daughter. It brings out the copper lights in your hair."

Brooke laughed. "We are like two diplomats exchanging compliments, the difference is that ours come from the heart. Where's Sam? Don't tell me Sam isn't coming!"

Lucette held a lighter to a cigarette with a faint hint of bravado.

"Don't cry, darling. Sam came. Didn't you recognize his voice singing as if his little heart would burst from joy as we approached this baronial hall? Doubtless he is kissing his peachy convertible goodnight in your garage. He's crazy about that coupe you gave him, Brooke. He has named it Lightning. And can it go! Who's the tall gent with the undertaker expression who pulled our bags from the car as if he were extracting upper and lower molars?"

"Henri. He and his wife, Clotilde, worked for years for Mrs. Dane. I kept them on to help me settle. They take a lot of handling, believe it or not."

"I believe it. This room looks like part of a House Beautiful exhibit. It's corking."

"Wait till you see the rest of the house, Lucette. Here's Sam. I would recognize his bang of a door if I heard it in Timbuctoo. Welcome to Lookout House, Sammy! It's wonderful that the theater closed just at this time."

"Yeah! It's all in the point of view. There are them who think otherwise. However, I'm not kicking."

He caught Brooke in a bearlike hug. He kept his arm about her as he looked around the room.

"Swell joint you've got here. I like the greenhousey smell from those plants. Say listen, we've missed you like the dickens, haven't we, Mother?"

"We have, Sam." Celia Reyburn steadied her voice. "We'd better stop emotionalizing and get ready for dinner. I have kept house years enough to know that promptness at meals helps to keep the homemaker's life's walk easy."

"You would think of that, Mother. It isn't dinner to night. I planned a buffet supper, not being sure at what time my relatives from the big town would arrive. Come upstairs and I'll show you your rooms."

A family might get on each other's nerves, as of course it did at times, but there was nothing like it. Brooke concluded fervently, as after supper on a floor cushion in front of the library fire she leaned against her mother's knees.

Perhaps it was because she had been too absorbed in her own concerns before to notice, but Sam and Lucette seemed to have grown older, to have changed, seemed also to have something weighty on their minds. What was it? What had happened?

As if she knew what she was thinking, Lucette burst out nervously:

"If Sam can stop that nut-munching marathon, perhaps he'll announce the latest Reyburn news flash."

Brooke sat erect. "What news?" Sam took careful aim at the parrot's perch. The nutshell struck its bullseye and roused the dozing bird. "Hell's bells!" he croaked, and ruffled his feathers.

"Looks as if he were caught in a typhoon, doesn't he?" The laughter in Sam's voice vanished. "Mother has been invited to spend the winter in England with her friend Lady Jaffrey."

"Sam!" With the exclamation Brooke was on her feet. "Do you mean it? How perfectly grand! She lives in an old castle, doesn't she?"

"Hey, pipe down, Brooke. There's a nigger in the woodpile. Wait till you hear the condition."

"A condition in Lady Jaffrey's invitation, Sam? I can't believe it."

"Be quiet, children. Let me talk." Arms crossed on the back of the wing chair in which she had been sitting, Celia Reyburn faced her family. Her cheeks were pink; her eyes, as blue as her son's, were brilliant with excitement. She clasped her hands tightly as if to steady them.

"The chair recognizes the lady from the big city," Sam encouraged with a grin.

"What's the condition, Mother? Don't you want to go?"

"Very, very much, Brooke, but I shouldn't enjoy a moment of the visit if I left your brother and sister in that apartment alone. Perhaps I'm a selfish woman, but I would like to and will go, if my mind is perfectly at ease about Lucette and Sam. If they will come here to you, and if you will have them—"

"Have them! Mother, don't be foolish! I have been rattling around in this big house like a dried coconut in a shell. Of course I want them—but will they come?"

"Who's being foolish now?" Lucette flung her cigarette into the fire. Her cheeks were almost as red as her painted lips. "Of course we'll come, Brooke Reyburn. Of course we'll play ball Mother's way. Sam and I aren't cold-blooded fish. If taking to the sticks to be chaperoned by big sister will make Mother's visit happier, we'll settle down here with bells on. She's earned all the fun she can get. She'll have one grand time and mow those stiff Britishers down in swaths and come home Countess Whoosit, or I miss my guess."

"Lucette!" Celia Reyburn protested indignantly.

"Don't mind her, Mother," Brooke reassured. "By the time you return your younger daughter will have acquired all the social graces—"

"Just a minute! Now I make a condition. I come only if I keep on with my job."

"It would mean early and late commuting, Lucette."

"I've thought that out. In Sam's convertible we can make it."

"But you and Sam won't be coming down at the same time, and—"

"Don't be so sure, Brooke." Sam aimed a nutshell at the parrot. "The theater has closed permanently and I'm up against one of those simple economic problems, where's the next job coming from? I'll go to New York to see off Mother and take my play. Now that producers have begun to sniff around for bargains, I may get my chance."

"Sam—dear—" Brooke attempted to lighten her dismayed voice. Bad enough for him to be out of work without having her turn sob-sister.

"You'll find something. I read the other day that the theater is on the up-grade. If you don't—oh, Sammy, what a chance for you to write! Why not give your play a try-out here? We'll do it for the town's welfare fund, in the Club House theater. What a chance to try 'Islands Arise' on the dog!"

"News flash! The Reyburns stage a play!" Lucette cut in.

"Why not?" Brooke persisted eagerly. "Most of the summer homes are to be kept open during the winter and—Answer the phone, will you, Sam? Take the message for me. I've been pestered to death by tradespeople and insurance agents wanting to sell me something. Tell them I'm out of town for the evening—anything."

The silence of the room was broken only by the snap and hiss of the fire as Sam Reyburn put the receiver of the handset to his ear.

"Hulloa.—Yes.—Miss Reyburn is out of town for the evening.—Sure, she'll be back tomorrow.—Oh, it is!—Yes, I'll give her your message. She'll be pleased purple. I get you. I'll tell her. 'Bye!' He laid the phone on the stand."

"Who was it, Sam? What will please me purple?" Brooke demanded unasily.

"A party by the name of Trent."

"What did he want?"

"Not much. Only to say that he accepted your invitation for Thanksgiving dinner with pleasure."

CHAPTER IV

Brooke noticed Mark Trent's quick glance about as he entered the dining-room at Lookout House. She felt an instant of self-consciousness as she took the seat against the variegated yellow background of tall mimosas and acacias which filled a broad bay-window, which her mother refused with a quick shake of her head and a smile. She immediately forgot herself in pride of her sporting family. Each one was so gay, so determined to do his or her share to make the party a real festivity. Holidays were hard days since her father's death, but always someone who was alone had been invited to keep the feast with them. Thinking of others helped immeasurably to bridge the sense of loss, Celia Reyburn argued.

The dinner was a success. Brooke breathed a little sigh of relief as she rose from the table. This Thanksgiving dinner had been the first entertaining in her own home. Of course the guests had been her family and Mark Trent only, but she had felt pride in having it a success.

As she served coffee from the massive silver tray in the living-room, she glanced at Mark Trent standing before the fire. With his elbow on the mantel, he was talking to Celia Reyburn seated in a corner of the couch. The orchids he had brought her added the perfect touch to her amethyst frock. Orchids for her mother, gardenias for Lucette, and deep fragrant purple violets for his hostess. He had said it with flowers. A lavish gentleman. Had Henri turned chalky as he had announced dinner, or had she imagined it? He had stared at Mark Trent as if seeing an unwelcome apparition.

With a groan of repletion Sam pulled himself out of a deep chair.

"Boy, let's get out and walk! I feel like a stuffed, trussed turkey. Why do we eat so much more on Thanksgiving? Because we haven't any sense. Notice that I'm acquiring the analytic method, question and answer. Anybody here got the energy to take the shore walk?"

"I'll go with you, Sammy." Celia Reyburn smiled at her tall son.

"Elaine Jaffrey is a great hiker; she will probably walk me all over the British Isles. I must get in practice. Just wait until I change my shoes."

"Boy, I'm glad we have one sport in the family. I'll bet Lucette has a heavy date, and is expecting someone. Coming, Brooke? Coming, Mr. Trent?"

"Mark to you, I hope, Sam. Do come, Miss Reyburn," Mark Trent urged. "It's a grand day. After hours of storm, there is enough wind to make the surf worth looking at."

Crochet Her a Chic Little Dress

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

ONE, two, three!—here they are, a trio of pretty little crocheted frocks worn by a trio of pretty little girls as pictured. And do little folk of feminine gender love the dresses that dotting mothers and big sisters crochet for them! Well, just show this picture to wee daughter or sister or niece or little girl neighbor and we wager that their opinion on the subject will make elders seek crochet hooks, yarns and books of instructions instanter, forthwith and without delay.

These cunning frocks are supposed to be party dresses—that's the way the designers thereof listed them on fashion's program, but for our part charming as any one of them would be to wear to a party, we believe your little girl will be wanting to wear her crochet dress every day. Why not? The idea of general wear will be found perfectly practical, workable and demonstrable for it is crocheted of fast dye mercerized cotton yarn that washes like new and is so much easier to launder than a dress that has to be ironed each time. Serviceable, too—almost no wear-out to it!

Speaking of smart styling in crochet fashions for little folks, never have professionals paid so much attention to this angle as during recent years. The result speaks for itself in the three models pictured. There is the charmingly styled princess worn by little Miss Six-Year-Old (possible she may be seven); anyway the dress shown to the left reaches a new high in swank so far as children's fashions are concerned. It is crocheted of mercerized cotton, and we leave it to you to visualize it in the color your little girl happens to like best. It has puff sleeves as stylish as can be and is buttoned all the way down the front with crocheted buttons a la smartest mode. It really does not take long to crochet this dress and it is delightful pick-up work to inspire you to "improve each shining hour."

Little Two-Year-Old, who stands centered in the foreground, has on a fluffy-ruffle type of dress with bows on the shoulders and a ribbon run through the waistline of the very full skirt. It is just the sort of be-ribboned dress that makes an adorable child look more so. Why not make two of 'em, one for Sunday-go-to-meetin' dress and one for everyday service?

Party days for a small girl mean ribbons and lace, cambric tea and ice cream and cake. What could be nicer to wear at such festive times than the lacy dress which the cunning youngster to the right is wearing? It is crocheted of delicate mercerized cotton quite to this miniature queen's taste, you may rest assured. It will also prove a boon to mother for it is dependably serviceable for all its fragile appearance, will wash, of course, and all that has to be done is to pull the lacy crochet into shape here and there caressingly with your fingers—doesn't require the least mite of ironing.

Here's a suggestion or two to mothers who are making over dresses for little daughter's play and school wear. Leading Paris couturiers are combining crochet and various materials. The idea would work out admirably in "fixing over" children's clothes. A cloth or sturdy linen dress that needed lengthening could be made attractive by adding desired inches of plain crochet done either in the identical shade of the fabric it is to trim or contrasting it. Make a matching crochet belt of the mercerized cotton and carry out the idea further with crochet buttons and perhaps decorative pockets of the crochet.

NEW FABRIC TRENDS FOR AUTUMN SEASON

Trends in the silks and rayons which Paris fabric houses have prepared for the fall costume collections:

New plain silks have a softer, more velvety touch, a duller surface than before.

Rayons of intricate weaving are dull, pebbled, "crushed," have fine matelasse patternings, Ottoman ribs, plain or fancy, and many novelty surfaces obtained by uneven yarns.

Serge or twill weaves appear in delicate silks or rich metals.

Neon lights have inspired a whole group of lames made with colored metal yarn, also new changeable, mosaic, cashmere and jewel effects using the same colored metal.

Novelty velvets are made with pile that is completely dull or has only a medium luster. Also with printed gold backs or satin backs.

Metals and lames are finely patterned or quite plain, elaborate in texture and often have small Paisley, Persian, Byzantine, Oriental and Eighteenth century designs.

Pleats for Autumn

Autumn will be a season to wear box-pleated numbers with built-up waistlines, and the newest manner of raising a waistline is to build the skirt up at the sides only.

By VIRGINIA VALE

IT IS children's day in Hollywood, with contracts being signed in carload lots to exploit youngsters in films. The five tough young lads whom Sam Goldwyn imported to play in "Dead End" made such a hit at the preview that he promptly put all them under contract to make more pictures.

Their next for him will be "Street Corners" after which Mervyn Le Roy would like to borrow them for a series. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's favorite is fourteen-year-old Judy Garland. They have lined up three stories for her. Universal intends to keep Deanna Durbin very busy for the next year.

"High, Wide, and Handsome," a story of the early oil rush in Pennsylvania, is attracting attention. It more than lives up to the promise of its title, for it is spectacular, melodious and frenzied. Irene Dunne and Dorothy Lamour provide the beauty and melody; Randolph Scott, pitted against as tough a lot of villains as you ever hissed—including that incomparable Akim Tamiroff—provides the rough and ready drama.

Irene Dunne

When Frances Farmer arrived in New York, instead of pausing politely to let all the news photographers take pictures of her, she rushed off to Mount Kisco upstate to go in rehearsal for her first stage engagement. Four nights later I saw her performance and suddenly found myself wanting to burst into cheers. Playing a role quite unlike any she has done on the screen, a role simply made to order for Lupe Velez, she displayed a cat-like grace of movement, a voice musically rich, and great variety of moods.

Rubinfoff does not like to expose his priceless Stradivarius violin to brilliant studio lights any longer than is necessary, so during rehearsals and whenever he was not playing for the sound track of "You Can't Have Everything," he used a double. The husky virtuoso carries a big insurance policy on the violin and would feel lost if anything happened to it. He had it with him when he played at an open air concert on Chicago's lake front recently when more than 200,000 people listened to him.

ODDS AND ENDS—Randolph Scott attended his first film premiere in July, 1928, standing on an orange crate watching the crowds arrive to see Colleen Moore and Gary Cooper in "Lilac Time." His most recent premiere found him in a choice aisle seat watching himself as star of "High, Wide and Handsome" . . . Jack Haley has bowed out of the "Show Boat" program but he will have one of his own very soon . . . Adolphe Menjou and Katherine Hepburn are bitter rivals on the golf course . . . Dorothy Gish, whom film fans have never forgotten, will play the lead in a Mutual broadcasting system serial called "The Couple Next Door" . . . When John Barrymore returns to radio, it won't be in Shakespeare, but in "The Animal Kingdom" and "Accent on Youth," some time in September. Meanwhile he is making a picture at RKO with Irene Dunne.

Scalloped Apples—Three apples (chopped), one-half cup sugar, one-quarter teaspoon cinnamon, two tablespoons lemon juice, grated lemon rind, two cups buttered crumbs, one-quarter cup water, one-quarter teaspoon nutmeg. Melt the butter and add the crumbs. Mix the sugar, spice and lemon rind. Put one-quarter of the crumbs in the bottom of a buttered baking dish; then one-half of the apples; sprinkle with one-half of the sugar and spice. Repeat, sprinkle the lemon juice over this and put the remaining crumbs on top. Bake 35 to 45 minutes. Cover during the first part of baking.

Keeping Cut Flowers—To help prolong the life of cut flowers, wash the vases thoroughly with soap and water, and scald them.

Avoid Tarnish—Silver that is put away is apt to tarnish quickly. But if you put a few pieces of camphor in with it it will keep bright.

Sparkling Glasses—To get a beautiful sparkle on cut glass, wash in cold water to which a few drops of ammonia have been added. Dry and polish with clean tissue paper.

Keeping Apples—Apples will keep longer if rubbed over with a little glycerin, which can be washed off before the apples are used.

AMERICAN BOY INTRODUCES A NEW FOOTBALL GAME

In the early fall issues of The American Boy there'll be presented the story of a new game—six-man football—fast as professional football, wide open as basketball, thrilling as hockey!

The game came to life through the need of small schools for some substitute for 11-man football, which was too expensive. Stephen Epler, a Nebraska graduate student in athletics, developed the game of six-man football to meet this need.

The new game is a hit. New schools are taking it up every day. In coming issues The American Boy tells the world about The American Boy Official Handbook, which can be obtained from the magazine at 25 cents a copy, or 15 cents when bought in bulk.

NOTE: Subscription prices of The American Boy will be raised in the near future. Send your subscription order at once to take advantage of the bargain rates now in effect: one year at $1.00 or three years at $2.00. Foreign subscriptions 50c a year extra. Send your name, address and remittance to The American Boy, 7430 Second Blvd. Detroit, Mich. On newsstands the price is 15c a copy.

Improvements For Starved Rock

Starved Rock State Park, located in LaSalle County on State Highway 7A, is to have a new $100,000 hotel. Ground will be broken in September for the construction. The building will be three stories high, with rustic exterior, and contain eighty rooms with bath.
George Luker, state superintendent of parks, says that other contemplated improvements at Starved Rock include a new playground where park visitors may "check" their children, better parking facilities, a gasoline station and garage, and an expanded zoo which will contain animals native to Northern Illinois.

3. The cablegram sent from Budapest by Dr. Hermann M. Biggs in 1894 to Dr. William H. Park in New York: "Start the horses. Antitoxin great success." Those were the magic words that started the production of diphtheria antitoxin in this country.

Good Thoughts For Good People

Pray to God at the beginning of all thy works, so that thou mayest bring them all to a good ending. —Xenophon

I have been driven many times to my knees, by the overwhelming conviction that I had nowhere else to go. My own wisdom, and that of all about me, seemed insufficient for all that day. —Abraham Lincoln

For answered prayers that showed Thy boundless love;
For prayers unanswered, wiser love to prove;
For all Thy leadings through life's devious ways,
With faith illumined and high heart of grace;—
We thank Thee, Lord. —John Oxenham

We cannot call upon God merely for our own selfish purposes,—for encouragement to do what is really our own will. If we would have His help and His power, we must accept His direction for our actions and for the ordering of our lives. —Rev. L. B. Ashby

The prayer that reforms the sinner and heals the sick is an absolute faith that all things are possible to God,—a spiritual understanding of Him, an unselfed love. —Mary Baker Eddy

Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits: Who forgiveth all thine iniquities; who healeth all thy diseases; Who redeemeth thy life from destruction; who crowneth thee with loving-kindness and tender mercies. —Psalms 103

The radio audience in America in 1922, two years after the birth of commercial broadcasting totaled 75,000. Today it is estimated that there are 30,000,000 radio fans in the United States.

Plan State Park At Apple River

Apple River Canyon State Park, in JoDareless county, near State Highway 78, will become the playground of northwestern Illinois, with the carrying out of plans announced by F. Lynden Smith, director of the Department of Public Works and Buildings. The park, which attracts many nature lovers each season because of its limestone cliffs, wooded ravines, springs, and its wild bird and animal life, will be developed by the building of new trails, and the erection of more tourist facilities.

Statistics show that the national income for the first five months of this year was about 20 per cent greater than for the same period last year.

During 1936 a total of 1,780 lives were lost in grade crossing crashes.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

by EMILY POST

World's Foremost Authority on Etiquette

Photo-Covered Walls Belong to the Past

DEAR Mrs. Post: Will you say a word or two about the good, or bad, taste of having photographs hanging in one's house? In my mother's house the chief wall ornaments were pictures of the various relatives on both sides of the family, but today, one sees so few pictures of this type that I wondered if it was no longer considered proper to have any. And if not, what is one supposed to do with all the pictures given by relatives and friends?

Answer: In Victorian days it was the fashion, over here as well as abroad, to fill one's rooms with hanging or marching photograph frames on walls and across all available table spaces. Old fashioned people still like to have many framed photographs about them. But since the modern liking for emptiness has a great effect on taste, the younger generation keep most of their photographs in between the leaves of an album. This album, by the way, has also no suggestion of the Victorian one wherein mounted photographs were slipped into paper openings. The modern album is a large book bound either in leather or brocade with plain leaves like any other photograph album. But all people have a few photographs either on the walls or on the tables of their rooms.

Coed School Should Educate in Courtesy

DEAR Mrs. Post: This is a co-educational college and in the dining hall the girls and boys sit together, an equal number at each table. Do you think it would be a good idea for the boys to seat the girls? And what about when the girls turn up for meals late?

Answer: Certainly the men should seat the girls. After all, college should be a training ground for manners as well as for minds. The girls should be on time, but when being late is unavoidable, a girl should take her place as quickly as possible so that she will not throw her table into confusion by making it necessary for all the men to rise.

Better Send Flowers.

DEAR Mrs. Post: When my sister died some friends of another sister sent flowers to the funeral. The flowers were very beautiful and were addressed to Mother, but neither she nor I know them at all, and now someone in their family has died. So will you kindly tell me what, if anything, is Mother's obligation to these people?

Answer: I take it for granted that your sister who is their friend will go to see them and send flowers, and unless she is away from home there is no "obligation" that you need meet. But it would be kind certainly to send a note of sympathy, or flowers to the funeral from all of you.

Making It Official.

DEAR Mrs. Post: Soon I expect to announce my engagement to a man whom I have been expected to marry for years, so the news can not possibly surprise anyone. Under these circumstances, don't you think it would be silly to invite people without explaining at the time that we are announcing our engagement at this party? Please tell me frankly what you would suggest.

Answer: It would be best, I think, to write or telephone invitations to a party celebrating your engagement, and also notify the papers the evening before the party so that the announcement will appear on that day.

BEDTIME STORY

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

BLACKY THE CROW IS AS EXCITED AS SAMMY JAY

WHEN Sammy Jay came flying out of the Green Forest screaming at the top of his lungs and so excited that he couldn't talk straight, everybody said that he had gone crazy. You see, he was too excited to tell what the trouble was. At last his cousin, Blacky the Crow, managed to get him calmed down so that he could tell him all about it. When he heard the story which Sammy had to tell of the stranger he had seen deep in the Green Forest he looked very much as the other little people did when they heard Sammy screaming foolishly.

You see, it was very hard for Blacky to really believe that Sammy had seen what he had said he had. Not that he thought Sammy was telling a wrong story! Oh, my, no! Sammy was too much in earnest. What Blacky thought was that he had seen a lot more than he really had. You see, Blacky had lived a long time in the Green Forest and he never had seen or heard of such a stranger as Sammy told about.

He asked Sammy just where he had seen the stranger, and Sammy told him that it was way deep in the Green Forest, beyond the pond built by Paddy the Beaver. Now, Blacky believes that the only way to make sure of things is to see them, and not be content with the word of some one else. So he suddenly made up his mind that he would visit the place where Sammy Jay had seen the stranger. He invited Sammy to go along with him, but Sammy refused. It was very plain to see that Sammy was afraid of the stranger. Blacky chuckled to himself as he flew over the pond of Paddy the Beaver and so deep into the Green Forest.

"The idea," said Blacky, "of there being a stranger as big as Farmer Brown's Boy and wearing a black fur coat! Nobody like that ever has lived in the Green Forest. I guess I'd know if they had. Sammy must have eaten something and had a very bad dream, or else there is something the matter with his eyes."

He was talking to himself in this way as he flew along, all the time keeping a sharp watch for the stranger, when, without any warning, the stranger himself stepped out from behind a tree almost under Blacky. It startled Blacky so that he let out a frightened "Caw! Caw!" and nearly turned a somersault in the air. He caught himself just in time and flew to the top of the nearest pine tree, where he could look down and see all that was going on.

Everything was just as Sammy had said. The stranger did wear a black fur coat, he was as big as Farmer Brown's boy, and he did have great feet and the biggest claws Blacky had ever seen. Blacky felt just as if he ought to peck himself to make sure that he was awake. Of course he knew he was, but he just couldn't make it seem so.

Now, Blacky sometimes gets as excited as Sammy Jay, and this was one of the times. He started back for the Green Meadows as fast as he could fly, and all the way he was cawing at the top of his lungs. Sammy Jay heard him long before he saw him and Sammy grinned. "He found him!" thought Sammy. "Now he knows that I told the truth. My, but he sounds just as crazy as I ever did."

And then as Blacky came in sight Sammy once more grew excited, too, and began to scream questions at the top of his lungs, until it was hard to say who was screaming the loudest, Sammy or his big cousin, Blacky the Crow.

WOOD FLOORS ON CONCRETE

ONE very common complaint that I hear is the bulging and warping of wood floors that are laid on concrete floors in cellars. A cellar floor is usually laid directly on the earth, and inevitably contains moisture. The surface may appear dry, but even so, there is a continuous passage of moisture through the floor and into the air of the cellar. When anything is laid on the concrete, evaporation is prevented; moisture collects, and wood, linoleum, rugs or anything similar will suffer. A wood floor laid on concrete is particularly likely to rot. In absorbing moisture, wood swells and buckles.

Any covering for a concrete cellar floor should be waterproof and of a material that will not rot. Asphalt, either in the form of tiles or as a sheet, is satisfactory; for moisture cannot injure it. Asphalt tiles can be had in many different colors, and form a most attractive floor. They are laid in asphalt cement, which is also used in laying asphalt in sheet form.

When a wood floor is to be laid on concrete, one method is to cement it down with a layer of the same kind of asphalt cement; "mastic" is its usual name. This is becoming a very common method of laying a wood floor on concrete, and is a complete protection against rotting.

Also, there is a pleasant springiness to the floor. A less perfect method, but one that has many advantages, is to cover the concrete with sheets of heavy waterproof felt, with the edges overlapping. Two-by-fours are put down on this, and the wood flooring laid on top. This may not give complete protection against rotting, but it is far better than to lay the wood directly on the concrete.

Young Men on Show

Every year on a certain day, at Mouren, Brittany, the eligible girls hold a marriage market to which all bachelors are invited. The young men, dressed in their best clothes, await the arrival of the girls in the public square after high mass. Each girl then selects the bachelor of her choice and invites him to luncheon. The cost of this meal down to the wines and cigars is met by the girls. After lunch, says Tit-Bits Magazine, the young men take the girls for a walk in the woods, where they are expected to propose, and at night a country dance is held where engagements made that day are announced.

VENTILATED MOWS KEEP HAY BETTER

False Floors, Open Sides, Found Good Practice.

Supplied by the United States Department of Agriculture.—WNU Service. Better ventilation of hay stored in mows offers two practical advantages to farmers, tests by the bureau of chemistry and soils indicate. Well ventilated hay keeps its quality better. It does not get so hot and there is less danger of fire from spontaneous heating. Mows with false floors to allow air to circulate under the piled hay, and mows with one or two open sides formed by studding are two devices for improving ventilation of stored alfalfa hay. Both worked well in practical tests. Good ventilation is particularly desirable if hay is not well cured and has to be put in the mow with more moisture than is desirable.

The bureau of chemistry and soils found that hay within about six feet of an open face retained its quality better than hay farther in. Dividing large mows into small compartments by means of alleyways formed by studding, is suggested. Each compartment should not be over approximately 12 feet wide, with at least two exposed sides parallel to each other, thus bringing all the hay within a distance of six feet of an open face where moisture and heat may escape.

For "under ventilation" a "false floor" of two-by-eight timbers on edge with two-by-four scantlings laid across them was tested. In piles up to 15 feet high, the hay kept better and did not get so hot as similar hay piled flat on the mow floor.

These ventilation experiments are part of the investigation of the spontaneous heating of hay which the bureau of chemistry and soils has had under way for several years. The tests were all with alfalfa hay, most of them with hay moister than farmers prefer to put in the mow. When hay was stored with less than 30 per cent of moisture it kept well. Hay of a distinct brown color resulted when the moisture content of the hay as stored exceeded approximately 30 per cent. Ventilated storage had a good effect on hay quality since it reduced the quantity of brown and moldy hay produced.

Removing Groundhogs

Where groundhogs have become troublesome around ditch banks and embankments they may be gassed in their dens by using either carbon disulphide or calcium cyanide, says George D. Jones of the Missouri College of Agriculture. A small amount of either chemical may be placed in the entrance of each tunnel and the openings closed with dirt.

Farm Notes

The water glass method of preserving eggs for winter use is considered one of the best for household use.

Feeding hens a wet mash at noon during hot weather will help to keep them laying.

The United States Department of Agriculture estimates that there are approximately 4,650,000 honey bee colonies in the country.

Agricultural authorities say a single barberry bush can harbor 64,000,000,000 spores of grain-destroying, black-stem rust.

It is estimated that in the United States 12,000 dozens of eggs are laid every three minutes, day and night, throughout the year.

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them!

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.

Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance.

The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

Let Guest Columnist Johnny Farrel Tell of Golfing Thrills

(Hugh Bradley presents as his guest columnist this week Johnny Farrel, king of the fairways a decade back who continues on as one of our foremost golfers. One of the most popular of all the pro trouper, the Baltusrol hero tells of the trials and thrills that have come to him on his way down the tournament trail.)

By JOHNNY FARREL
WHEN Hugh Bradley asked me to be his guest columnist this week, that made me smile. Because, Hugh, I know as much about pounding a typewriter as you do about pounding a golf ball.

Speaking of smiling, though, a lot of people have asked me why I always seem to be smiling when I get in a tough spot out there on the fairways. That's easy. Ever since I first started playing golf up in Westchester shortly before the war, I've told myself to keep smiling. For I think that's the answer to golfing success. When you're cheerful and smiling you are relaxed and easy, your swing doesn't freeze and you're able to keep your club in a flowing groove. It's when you fail to find that groove that you find yourself in trouble—and lots of it.

I can remember standing on the eighteenth green at Olympia Fields in Chicago in 1928. It was one of those typically hot mid-summer days in the Midwest. In front of me was an eight-foot putt. Bobby Jones had just holed out for a birdie and, in order to win that thirty-six-hole playoff for the National Open championship, I had to drop that Johnny Farrel eight-footer. There was a crowd of 10,000 golf-crazed enthusiasts jammed around the green, packed so close together that even a hardened New York subway rider would have felt like a squeezed orange.

Payoff Putt Is Easy When You're Not Grim

Everything hung on that putt. I wouldn't let myself think of what it meant to me. Do you know, Hugh, what I was thinking of? I remembered a story I'd heard in the locker room the night before—the one about the duffer who had a new caddie. You've heard that—how he kept telling his caddie to pick up those divots, and when they got back to the clubhouse the caddie turned the duffer's bag upside down and, looking very seriously, as grass chunks tumbled out, said, "Here are your divots, boss, but what I want to know is what you are going to do with them?"

That made me laugh as I thought of it. I wasn't tight and grim, and so it was a simple matter to sink that eight-footer and win the Open crown.

Everybody thinks that was my greatest golfing thrill. But it wasn't. There have been a lot of them—and disappointments, too. But the biggest thrill of all—but wait a moment, let me tell you of some of the higher moments.

Playing in my first open at Inverness in 1920—it was the first for Jones, Sarazen and Diegel, too. I've been in every one since then, but I've never felt the same thrill as when I walked up to that first tee at Toledo. . . . Qualifying in my first British Open—at Troon in Scotland in 1922. That was the worst storm I've ever played in, and the gales were howling around my head at about ninety miles an hour. Sarazen, who was National Open champion at the time; Long Jim Barnes and intangible Harry Vardon all failed to make the grade in the teeth of those blustering winds. . . . Riding up Fifth avenue on my return from Chicago, after winning the Open.

Those are only some of them. The greatest of all, though, was in winning the $5,000 first prize at La Gorce in Florida in the winter of 1928. I was way back going into that last round. I was the last man in and I knew what I had to get to win. And on that stiff par 72 course I turned in a 30-33-63, nine strokes under par, to take that prize—the biggest in tournament history—by a single stroke. That was the greatest round of golf I've ever played in my life.

There have been disappointments, of course—times when it all didn't seem worth the work. But looking back down the years, I have no regrets. Golf has been good to me.

NOT IN THE BOX SCORE:

THE wrestling war is on again with the Dusek brothers crossing Toots Mondt and thinking of joining Bowser and Pfeffer in New York. . . . Moe Bloom, who ranks close to the top of the East's soccer referees, was born in Scotland, educated in Wales and married a Manchester lassie. . . . Contrary to press reports, Lightweight Champion Lou Ambers' bid for fighting Pedro Montanez is a flat $50,000 instead of $65,000.

University of Southern California, with Ken Carpenter, Olympic discus champion in best form, may be the Pacific coast's top football team this fall. . . . Sol Strauss, the eminent Twentieth Century fight club attorney, has only one complaint concerning his recent trip to England. He is peeved because the country which originated the sandwich does not make them thick enough. . . . Harry Voller, the fight movie man, wires that he has just spent 60 G's fixing up his Miami Beach hotel. . . . John Gorman, Brooklyn baseball business manager, is to be congratulated for encouraging home talent and appointing the able young Babe Hamberger as his traveling assistant. . . . During his amateur soccer days, Danny Devlin, now associated with Mickey Walker, was an Irish International.

Rudolph Caracciola, who won the German Grand Prix, averaged 82.5618 miles per hour over this most famous of European road courses. While winning the Vanderbilt cup here on July 5 Bernd Rosemeyer's average was 82.564 miles per hour. That ought to prove something about the Roosevelt Raceway providing faster time for its auto racers, according to Publicist Steve Hannagan. . . . Keep an eye on little Helen Rains, the swimmer. She weighs about eighty pounds and is only twelve years old but she's doing mighty well racing Erna Kompa and the rest of the big girls. . . . The schooner America, for which the international yacht trophy is named, was used during the Civil war as a Confederate blockade runner and also as a Federal navy dispatch boat.

Orville Paul, one armed semi-pro, pitches to the Cardinals in batting practice. . . . Bill Killefer and Lefty O'Doul, Coast league managers, put on a milking contest prior to a recent game. . . . Colleges in Turkey have adopted crew racing. . . . Barney Ross is the only fighter allowed to train at the exclusive Grosinger club in the East. . . . Boston Red Sox teammates call Bing Miller Uncle Tom. . . . Knoxville of the Southern association has released Beattie Feathers, Bear half back, for failure to hit. . . . Carl Hubbell has beaten the Pirates 33 times and lost only 13 to them since entering the National league.

Jockey Johnny Gilbert, who rode the Arlington Classic winner, wears a little gold idol in his cap for good luck during the running of a race. Owner Jock Whitney gave it to him. . . . Pitcher Larry French spends his spare moments studying astrology and is one of the world's most superstitious ball players. . . . Three weeks before Tommy Farr ran out on Max Schmeling, Syd Hull the Harringay promoter who thought he was sponsoring the match, gave him a present valued at 35 pounds. It was a traveling bag which Tommy found very handy on his trip over here to meet Joe Louis. . . . So badly was the California sensation, Bob Nestell, beaten in his last fight that he is still in retirement on his chicken ranch. The guy who did the beating was Bob Pastor.

Freedom From Bull Pen Aids Gomez Pitching

Lefty Gomez's return to form this year is attributed to his abandonment of bull pen work. It has helped him conserve his strength for his regular turn on the mound. Last year he was warming up every other day for relief work and his record reflected it. . . . St. Louis Browns ran a tryout camp at Johnstown, Pa., recently. Boys, seventeen to twenty-one years old, more than five feet nine inches tall and weighing more than 150 pounds were eligible. They furnished their own equipment and transportation and paid approximately $1.50 a day for board and room.

Horton Smith says that the British P. G. A. did far more than could reasonably have been expected in extending courtesy and paying bills for the American Ryder cup team during its recent trip to England. . . . Britons met the team at Plymouth and had first class reservations for the ten players, five wives, and the manager on the ride to London. . . . The party was registered at the Savoy hotel for a day with all bills paid by the British. . . . Sixteen berths on the fast train from London to Southport were given the players and they footed the bill, including caddy fees and transportation to the Southport links. . . . "This record speaks for itself," says Smith. . . . "There's no question about the sort of reception and treatment the responsible parties in Great Britain wished to accord us. I hope we may do as well by their representatives when they come to the United States in 1939."

Events in the Lives of Little Men

THE SUBJECT MATTER

Junior—Have you planned your paper on anatomy yet?
Senior—Well, no, but I have the skeleton in mind.

A Quick One

Policeman—So you're trying to make me believe you won this silver cup in your school sports, are you? Then why did you carry it about in a sack?

Burglar—For sentimental reasons. You see, I won it in a sack race.—Hartford Times.

A Good Constitution

"Is your husband better, Mrs. Meadows?"

"Yes, Thank 'ee, sir; it don't take him long to vituperate."

His Notes Are Good

"Is the living he makes on a sound basis?"

"You bet it is. He beats the bass drum in a band."

WHY THE CROWD?

Griffiths was the father of twelve children, and he decided to take them all to the seaside. They set off, reached the station, got their tickets, and were about to enter the train, when the proud parent was touched on the shoulder by a policeman.

"What have you been doing?" the constable demanded.

"Me? Why nothing!" stammered the surprised man.

The policeman waved his hand towards the family.

"Then why," he asked, "is this crowd following you?"

LABOR SAVING

"My cow's got the hiccoughs."
"What are you doing for it?"
"Nothing. She churns her own butter now."

FROM MAMA TO PAPA!

GOOD PROSPECTS

First Monk— he fortune teller said I would take a trip to America soon.

Second Monk— Hum! Probably with an organ grinder.

Family Troubles

Mary (aged six, combing hair)— Mama, what makes my hair crack when I comb it?

Mama— Why, dear, you have electricity in your hair.

Mary— Aren't we a funny family? I've got electricity in my hair and grandpa has gas on his stomach.

Two Points of View

Williams— I've had this car for years and never had a wreck.

Johnson— You mean you've had this wreck for years and never had a car.— Stray Stories Magazine.

Needed a Rest

Landlady— I see your cup of coffee on a chair, Mr. Boarder. A peculiar place to put it!

Mr. Boarder— Not at all; it's so weak I put it there to rest.

Illustration Handy

Teacher— Do you know, Tommy, a fool can ask more questions than a wise man can answer?

Tommy— That explains why I failed in my examinations, sir!— Stray Stories Magazine.

Taking Possession

"Hey!" said Satan to the new arrival, "you act as if you owned this place."

"I do. My wife just gave it to me."— U. S. S. Pennsylvania Keystone.
