Afternoon session at 2 o'clock, Devotions and scripture meditation, "The Need of Intercessors", Rev. E. Heeren, 2:35, address, "The Message She Proclaims Among Men", Rev. R. Vanden Berg; 3:00, address, "The Testimony of Her Life in the Community", Rev. J. Klaaren; 3:25 address, "The Extent of Her Influence in the World" Dr. A. Pieters.

The address for the final session of the conference scheduled for Wednesday evening at 7:30 will be delivered by Dr. Clarence Bouma, the subject to be, "The Church's Triple Foe".

HARRIET BULTEMA MARRIED OCT. 2

Mrs. Myrtle Bultema has announced the marriage of her daughter, Harriet, to Mr. Herman E. Gritters, son of Mrs. Egbert Gritters of Hull, Iowa. The ceremony was read at 2:30 Saturday afternoon, October 2, by Rev. Monsma at his home in Munster.

Mr. John Berghorst of Cicero and Miss Alice Smilde of Oak Lawn, Ill., attended the bridal couple. A reception for the immediate family was held after the ceremony at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Bultema of Oak Glen.

The bride wore an attractive dress of blue satin and her bridesmaid wore red moire.

Mr. and Mrs. Gritters plan to establish their home in Chicago where Mr. Gritters is employed by the Fullerton Truck Co.

The first canal for navigation in Illinois was opened in April 1848, between Joliet and LaSalle, a distance of sixty-three miles.

A type of seaweed found in the southern part of England is being used to make synthetic leather.

T. F. CHRONOSCOPE WINS FIRST AWARD

Students of Thornton Fractional high school are feeling justly proud of their publication efforts this week since it was learned that their year book, "The Chronoscope", published annually had been awarded first honors for schools in its class, 900 to 1,500 students, by the Columbia Scholastic Press association.

Sponsored by Columbia University, the association each year selects publications for award. Thornton Fractional was one of six schools in Illinois to win first honors in their respective classes. The association honored 60 schools throughout the nation.

OPPENHUIS - BENDEL WEDDING FRIDAY

A beautiful home wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Oppenhuis at the corner of 167th street and Torrence avenue on Friday evening, October 1, when their daughter, Winnie, became the bride of Jacob Bendel of Harvey, Ill., with Rev. G. J. Rozeboom officiating in a double ring ceremony.

There were about 50 relatives and friends present.

Mrs. Rozeboom played the wedding march and Miss Margaret Carlson, a cousin of the bride, sang "Oh Promise Me" and "I Love You Truly." Miss Agnes Oppenhuis, sister of the bride, acted as maid of honor and John Bengel, brother of the groom, as best man.

The bride was attired in lovely wine colored chiffon velvet dress with accessories to match and carried a bouquet of white asters and red roses.

The maid of honor wore a green crepe dress with accessories to match and a corsage of red roses.

Mr. Bengel is employed at the Perfection Refrigerator Parts Co., Inc., at Harvey, Ill.

The young couple will reside at 39 West 103rd place, Chicago, Ill.

Young Lutherans Rally At St. John's Church Sunday

The South Suburban Zone of the Walther League will hold its fifth semi-annual rally at St. John's Ev. Lutheran church here in Lansing on Sunday, October 10. The South Suburban Zone was organized on Nov. 10, 1935, and now includes the following societies: Blue Island, Chicago Heights, Coopers Grove, Crete (Trinity), Crete (Zion), Homewood, Lansing, Mateson, Oak Glen, Orland Park, and Tinley Park. The present officers of the zone are: R. O. Hecht, president; Martin Kraegle, vice-president; Miss Helen Tatge, secretary; Miss Stella Mahler, treasurer, and Rev. H. H. A. Harthun, pastoral advisor.

There will be a business session in the afternoon beginning at 2:30 p. m. The main event on the afternoon's program will be an address by Rev. Harthun on the subject "Let Your Light Shine". The address of welcome on behalf of the local society will be spoken by Miss Rabel Streufert and the response in behalf of the zone will be given by Miss Helen Stelter. Reports will be heard from the various departments by their respective chairmen. The Rev. M. Frick of Tinley Park will give his report on Christian Knowledge. In this report he will show the progress that has been made and what steps are being followed in keeping our young people well informed about the principles and the ideals of our Lutheran church and the Walther League. Miss Marie Piepenbrink of Crete will report on

MRS. IDA BOCK TAKEN MONDAY

Mrs. Ida Bock, widow of the late Henry Bock of Oak Glen, passed away Monday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Paul Klitzke of Hammond. Mrs. Bock was 85 years of age at the time of her passing. Stricken a year ago by paralysis, Mrs. Bock had partially recovered and been fairly well until a few days before her passing. The end came very peacefully, as a gentle sleep.

Mrs. Bock was born in Lowitz, Pommern, Germany, September 1, 1852 as Ida Salow. She came to America in 1868 first settling in Milwaukee, later coming to Chicago. In 1877 she married Henry Bock of Oak Glen. To them were born seven children, all of whom survive their mother. They are: Mrs. Paul Klitzke of Hammond, Mrs. William Gutowski of Oak Glen, Gustav, Henry and Paul of Oak Glen, Fred of Hammond and Edmund of North Chicago. There are twelve grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

For the past six years Mrs. Bock has made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Klitzke of Hammond, but prior to that she had resided for fifty-four years in Oak Glen, where her husband conducted a hardware and farm implement business. She was a member of the Ladies Aid of Trinity Lutheran church in Oak Glen.

The funeral services are being held this afternoon at 1:30 from the Klitzke home and at 2 o'clock from the Trinity Lutheran church in Oak Glen with Rev. Alex Guebert officiating. Burial is to be in the Oak Glen cemetery. Gus Hansler, Fred Lorenz, Han Salow, Emil Salow, William Bissert and Honey Cornwall are to serve as pall bearers.

KOMOROWSKI-ZMUDA VOWS TAKEN SAT.

Anne Komorowski, daughter of Mrs. Caroline Komorowski of Bernice, and Frank Zmuda of Crown Point, Ind., whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. John Zmuda, were married Saturday, October 2, by Rev. Burke in St. Anne's Catholic church at 9:30 a. m. High mass was sung by Miss Anzelma Kurhowski of Calumet City.

The bride looked lovely in the traditional white satin and Point d'Angleterre a bride's lace, with tulle veil and coronet headdress, embroidered in seed pearls. She also wore a blushing veil and carried white roses.

She was attended by her sisters, Josephine and Jeanette, whose gowns were pink and aqua taffeta respectively and carried bouquets of corresponding shades. Accessories were in harmony with their gowns.

The best man was Freddie Kreter of Gary, and Eugene Janeczko of Hegewisch, assisted.

A 12 o'clock breakfast was served at the Komorowski home. Reception and dinner followed in the evening.

A three-piece orchestra from Chicago played for the Polish folk dancing. The guests included Rev. Father Burke, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Janeczko of Hegewisch, Mr. and Mrs. Felix Biernd, Mr. and Mrs. F. Kreter of Gary, Mr. and Mrs. George Bukowski, Carol Nozka, George Dec of Hammond, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Federowski of Thornton, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Duple of Lowell, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. Purlaski, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Bajer, Mrs. Sophia Stec and family of Calumet City, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bryk, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Sowa and Henry Mysliwy of East Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. John Zmuda and son Ted, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kreda of Crown Point.

BOYS OF REGION SEE NORTHWESTERN GAME

About 159 boys of this region were able to enjoy the Northwestern-Iowa football game Saturday as the result of courtesy extended through the Federal Recreation Center in Calumet City, the only cost to the boys being a small transportation charge.

Gerald Wright, who manages several departments at the Recreation Center, sponsored one group of the boys. Mr. Wright informs us that plans are being made to take a group of students to see the Chicago-Beloit game on November 13. Boys and girls are eligible for this trip and those wishing to go should see Mr. Wright.

COUNCIL HOLDS SHORT SESSION

With all members present and Dorothy Wernicke acting as clerk pro-tem, the village council met in regular session Tuesday night with very little business needing attention.

An ordinance designating the 3 voting precincts in the village was passed as well as a resolution to purchase no trespassing signs to be posted at the sewage disposal plant and the water pumping station.

The police magistrate's report of $135 received in fines during the month of August was accepted.

The clerk was asked to write the Chicago Motor Club requesting stop signs for several village streets, among them those crossing Wentworth avenue.

The session was over before 10:30 o'clock which is a most unusual happening.

ADVANCE PLANS FOR CONSTITUTION CELEBRATION

Lansing is to celebrate the Sesquicentennial Anniversary of the Constitution of the United States on October 14 according to an announcement made today by Dr. Pierce Lee who is acting as secretary for the local committee on arrangements. Personnel of the committee is: John Schurling, Otto Fulker, Dr. Lee, Riemer Van Til, and Orman I. Lewis.

A parade and program are to be the features of the celebration. The parade is to form at the village hall promptly at 6 o'clock in the evening and march to Ward's Field on Ridge Road where appropriate exercises are to be held.

All local organizations as well as individual citizens have been asked to prepare representation for the parade, decorated cars, marching groups, etc. Playlets or sketches relative to the constitution are also welcomed.

Otto Fulker is in charge of the parade formation and all those planning to take part are asked to get in touch with him. John Schurling is to be chairman of the program at the field and those who will present plays, or special numbers, should contact him.

Music for the affair is to be furnished by the Municipal band according to Dr. Lee's announcement, and there is to be community singing and a speaker at the field. The name of the speaker has not been made known to date.

NEW CITIZENS

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Demik are the proud parents of a baby boy born at St. Margaret's hospital Friday, October 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Van Oyen of the Glenwood-Dyer road have announced the birth of a daughter on September 28.

OVER HUNDRED ATTEND FIRST PTA MEETING

BOARD PRESIDENT GIVES FIGURES AND FACTS

Speaking before more than one hundred persons who attended the first meeting of the Parent Teachers Association for the year, held at the Coolidge school Tuesday night, Arthur Larson, president of the public school board, gave some startling facts concerning our public school situation in Lansing and Illinois, backed his facts with figures and suggested a remedy.

Among the facts named by Mr. Larson were the student enrollment, an increase of 50 children over last year, total enrollment 620, fifteen teachers and one principal to handle these children, averaging 41 children per teacher. A lack of books, chairs, playground equipment, building repairs, song books and many other things. A drop in school income from $40,000 to $18,000 in ten years, and a divergence of state sales tax funds from the schools to other uses.

This last he decried in no uncertain terms, telling of Illinois standing as third state in ability to conduct good schools and her rating as thirty-fifth in the list of states in actual performance.

Detailing the financial situation of the Lansing public schools, Mr. Larson asked the direct question to the tax payers, "Have your taxes decreased 55 per cent in the last ten years?" The school income derived from taxes has decreased 55 per cent. The Lansing public schools enjoyed an income of $40,000, from taxes, this year, if 66 per cent of the assessment is collected, which has been the average for a few years, the income will be $18,000. If your taxes haven't decreased that much, then Mr. Larson suggests that you do some thinking and discover where the money has gone.

To make the income situation more deplorable, the board president informed his listeners, the school enrollment in 1928 was about one half what it is today with a relatively less number of pupils per teacher.

He continued with the bold statement that the schools of Illinois were being robbed. The $7,000,000 sales tax fund that should have gone to the schools, had been diverted to relief and other uses. He called upon the people of Lansing to raise up and tell the state that we intended to maintain an educational standard in the village, then

TO OPEN BRIDGE ON TORRENCE AVE.

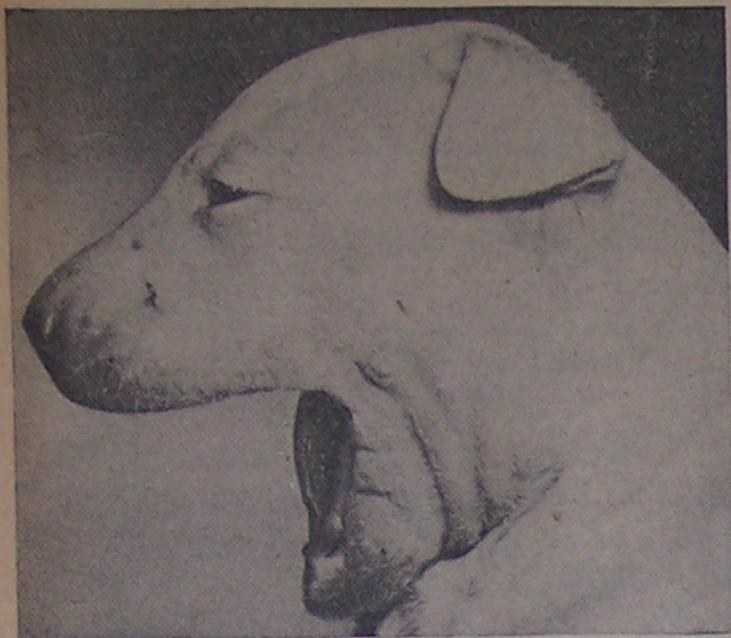

According to a published announcement made by Loren D. Gayton, city engineer of Chicago, the new $1,500,000 Torrence avenue bridge over the Calumet River at Hegewisch will be opened some time next week.

The bridge which has been under construction for two years is now virtually complete and should be ready for traffic next week. The new bridge of the vertical lift type, is one of the largest such bridges in this entire region, and differs from most lift bridges built in the Chicago area in recent years.

War department regulations and the prohibitive cost of such a long bridge built in the divided lift type were contributive factors in the styling of this bridge.

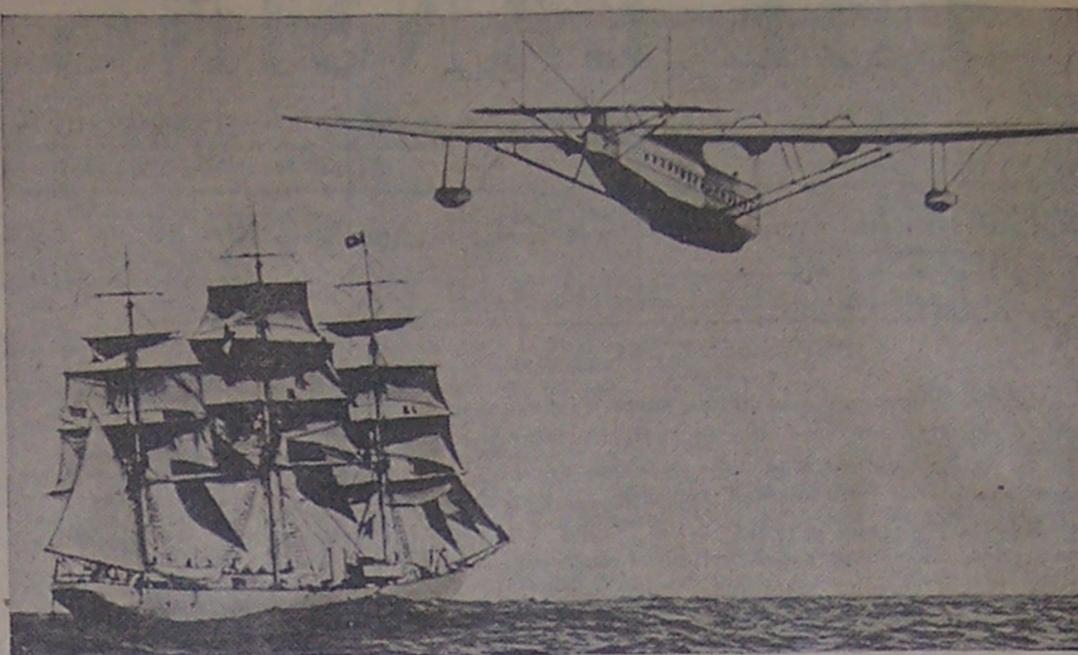

When the new bridge has been opened for traffic another arterial gateway into the city of Chicago will have been made available to the motoring public. Torrence avenue from Lansing north is an excellent paved 40 foot highway to South Chicago.

Ha-Ha! That's a (Bow) Wow!

North Cambridge, Mass.—It must have been a screamingly funny story, if one is to believe the look on this pup's face, as he opens his mouth in a wide guffaw. Nothing he likes better than a good, hearty laugh, says his owner, Mrs. Mabel C. O'Keefe, of this city.

Clipper Ships of Today and Yesterday

"Dickie" Brings Help in Nick of Time

Mrs. Christine Toth, seventy, of Lucaston, N. J., fondling her pet poodle, Dickie, after the dog had been instrumental in saving its mistress' life recently. Ill from toadstool poisoning, Mrs. Toth wrote a note, "Help, I'm dying. Mrs. Toth," tied it to the dog's collar and sent him out of her house. The dog's shrill barking awakened Rev. Harry E. Stockton, pastor of the local Methodist Episcopal church, early in the morning. Noticing the note, he telephoned for a doctor who sped to Mrs. Toth's side, reaching her just in time to save her life.

AS WE SEE IT, NOW

Human nature is human nature whether in high or low circles of society, and one of the most difficult things for human nature to accomplish, regardless of strata, is to hold the experiences of the past in mind and think rightly toward conclusions for the future. To grasp the whole of a world problem, releasing ones personal prejudices and ideals, and accept facts without personal animosity. This characteristic of the human is most flagrantly noticeable in political circles, because they are most before the public eye.

With that thought as a guide post we might review the opinions that followed the speech of President Roosevelt in Chicago this week, knowing that our personal views will show through our words, but hoping nevertheless that the right idea will predominate.

Mr. Roosevelt's speech had its effect in all parts of the world, that effect is gauged according to the needs and ideas of the people and powers considering it. Those who would be allied with the United States in case of war looked upon the address with favor, those who would be adversely affected accepted the speech in characteristic manner.

From Japan came the statement that, "ideals of right" as conceived by western nations is incompatible with that of the orient.

The daily press of the city where the speech was delivered frowned upon it and cried, "Peace, Peace". They recalled the Wilson era and promises of peace, also Mr. Roosevelt's stand at that time in relation to his Tuesday speech. The Tribune concedes it as probably the most important speech of Mr. Roosevelt's career. Mr. Hearst reminds us of the gentlemen of Virginia who trembled in their boots when Patrick Henry cried, "Give me Liberty or Give me Death".

While Mr. Roosevelt is far removed from Patrick Henry and the matters that troubled him, the Tuesday speech did include the following statement which honestly cannot be ignored: "There is a solidarity and interdependence about the modern world, both technically and morally, which makes it impossible for any nation completely to isolate itself from economic and political upheavals in the rest of the world, especially when such upheavals appear to be spreading and not declining."—"International anarchy destroys every foundation for peace".

After the close of the world war, Col. Theodore Roosevelt is quoted as saying, that, had he been president he would have informed Germany of the man power and strength of our nation before offenses had been committed against us and there would have been no aggressive offenses.

Some years later when the matter could be viewed with a more general perspective, an officer of high rank in the old German army said while visiting in America, "Had we known that the United States could throw such vast forces in the front line trenches in so few months we would not have been so hasty in offending".

So perfectly do these two remarks, though spoken so widely apart, agree, and such a strong impression have they made upon the writer, that we cannot help but feel that Mr. Roosevelt speaks from a most earnest desire of peace, and that from experience he is choosing the road most likely to avert active and actual warfare.

The real question is, can the United States remain isolated and self sufficient when the world is being wrecked by a complete disregard of any international or moral law? Can it do so with Europe only a few hours away? What would be America's position when the aggressive nations are drunk with power and conquest?

We see no alternative but to agree with Mr. Roosevelt, "America hates war. America hopes for peace. Therefore, America actively engages in the search for peace."

From now on the apple—one of America's principal fruit crops—will be much in the public eye. The biggest and best crop in years is flooding into the American market to be sold to you at bargain prices.

EXTRA! EXTRA!

Random Comments

Somebody told us to wonder in this column if Dorothy Wernicke still believed in Santa Claus.

And then somebody else told us that the chief puzzle of a certain ladies club in town was what Mrs. William Thaldorf's maiden name was.

Then comes Tony Koselke with Bill Erfert's old slogan, "Don't Quote Me".

Another popular wonder is whether Mr. Roosevelt wasn't just sort of dragging brush over his trail when he had lunch with the Cardinal in Chi. Tuesday, camouflaging one of the alphabetical protege, KKK.

Which Reminds Us

That in speaking of postoffices we just learned why the postal regulations are so emphatic about keeping the bars down over the windows at the post office. It is a safety measure. Received at the local post office this week was a post card, addressed to , Lansing, Ill., Lansing Post Office. "I love you, I will kiss you, yes we will be married, I know we will, I love you, kisses and more kisses".

While Tony and Reine aren't sure just which one the card was meant for they are keeping the bars down and locked. Tony feels that since he is the best looking, he is in most danger, that is why he sort of stands off and sizes you up this week before you get your stamps.

Of All Things

After being in the French courts for more than 300 years the law suit between the villages of Beaufort and Les Chapelles, near Lyons has finally been settled. It started in 1603 when Henry of Navarre ruled. Between the two village lay the hill of Mont Treceel, and each claimed it. They went to law. The suit lasted through the war of the Huguenots and Roman Catholic French revolution, but Napoleon did nothing to decide it. It now is settled by arbitration, with matters much as they were at the beginning. Mont Treceel belongs to both disputants. Beaufort may have it, but Les Chapelles may enjoy whatever rights it has required or it. —Reprinted.

Pride and Joy

That seems to be what Bill Erfert has over the progress being made at the "Lansing play ground". Peers like the papas after all the talking finally got the grass mowed on the water tower lot and are doing a little straightening around by way of getting the ideas in line to begin a playground maybe next year. Well, anyway here's hopin'.

Don't Mention It

The world is technically in a state of Perfect Peace. (You're not supposed to notice how the armaments increase) And if a land's invaded by a foreign army corps. It may look rather warlike, but you mustn't call it War. It's Racial Readjustment, it is Liberty of Trade. (For a cannon's not a cannon, and a spade is not a spade) And the incidental slaughter—while a matter to deplore—Is a Regional Disturbance, but you mustn't call it War. —Berton Braley in the October Commentator.

COMING SATURDAY TO PARTHENON SCREEN IN THE MOST DISTINGUISHED FILM EVENT OF THE YEAR

Translating the psychology of one race into terms that would be immediately understandable to all nationalities of picture-goers was the chief task that confronted the film adaptors of "The Good Earth", M-G-M's gigantic filmization of the Pearl S. CHAPTER VIII

-11-

The dusk about Mark in the garage went black. A bloody footprint! Had the crime horror spread to this small point of land? Brooke! Had anything happened to her? The possibility stopped his heart. He had been so intent upon finding Jed, upon identifying the prowler that he had not thought of danger to the occupants of Lookout House. Sam was there. Nothing could happen to his sister with that boy near. Why was he letting his imagination loose? Would a man who stopped for a shave and a bath in the midst of house-entering be guilty of a bloody crime? But—the footprint?

He dropped to his knees and touched it. Sticky! He flashed his light on it. Sniffed. Turpentine? He sank down on his heels and choked back a shout of laughter. He had been fooled by red paint.

How had it come here? What was that dark heap beyond it? Overalls! Blue denim overalls still warm from the wearer's body. The driver of the car he had heard a few moments ago must have shed them before he left the garage. Why had he worn them?

Mark projected and rejected explanations with lightning speed. The man who had shinned from the balcony had come from the room where the scenery was being painted. Wasn't the roof of the cottage on the backdrop red? Why the shower? Why the shave? Was it he who had removed the key from the door of the storeroom tonight? But that man had disappeared via the connecting door, presumably into Lookout House.

He flashed a dim light over the white cover. More red! A clumsy X. "Make X on cover when—"

The words on the scrap of paper in the storeroom were explained. "X marks the spot where the body was found."

The sentence flashed into Mark's mind as if set in electric lights. Body! Jed was missing! Perhaps his body had been dumped inside the limousine!

He set his heel on the thought. He would imagine a horror like that. That infernal cross probably meant nothing, but he'd take a look-see so that he wouldn't ask himself later, "Why didn't I?"

Soundlessly he reached the other side of the limousine. The disarranged cover which left the door exposed revealed also a license plate. All set to go! He flashed his light inside. Something long, something rounded on the rear seat was covered with an automobile robe.

Dread paralyzed Mark's hand for what seemed to him hours; then with a muttered imprecation he thrust it under the robe. The silver! Nothing but the silver! That X on the white cover was a sign that it had been moved from his house. Who had moved it? That was easy. It had been removed while he and Jed had been at the Reyburns by the man who had driven away. Sure of plenty of time he had stopped for a shower and shave. Moving the loot to the garage had been his share of the job. Would a pal appear to drive the stuff off?

"He will, and here he is!" Mark muttered, as the frosty gravel outside the garage crunched faintly.

A key in the lock! Not a minute to waste. Where should he go? Inside Brooke's town car! The breaks were with him. It wasn't locked.

The garage door was sliding back. Mark saw a patch of sky. He banged his forehead as he plunged headfirst into the sedan, and saw a million stars. His head spun as he crouched in the space left by the turned back seat and drew the door shut without latching it. He held it in place as barely breathing he listened.

Footsteps on the cement floor! Cautious footsteps. A light on the ceiling! Suppose it should flash into the town car? It had stopped. Whoever it was, was taking his time.

An engine turning over! Was some darn fool starting a car with the garage door closed? Mark raised his head turtle-fashion. No, the door was open. He might have known it. Was it likely that the bandit would allow himself to be bumped off by carbon monoxide? Not that bad boy. He had too much at stake.

He must follow. How? He couldn't trail in another car. He would be heard. Could he hang on to the empty trunk-rack? That was an idea. He would follow the limousine out of the garage, slip into the shadow of a shrub when the man went back to close the door, then grab the trunk-rack when the car started again. A stunt, but he'd make a stab at it. If he were to hold the man now he would learn nothing of his destination.

He cautiously tiptoed after the limousine. He was safe behind the shrubs when the driver returned and noiselessly closed the garage door. A soft hat was drawn low over his eyes, but Mark knew him. Henri.

He was behind the wheel again! The limousine was coasting down the incline! Mark crouched as he ran after it. As the engine started, he drew himself carefully to the trunk-rack. He barely breathed. Had the driver felt a jar? Evidently not. He was increasing speed. He was not headed for the causeway. He was going in the opposite direction. What did that mean?

After spinning past old landmarks, the car slowed down and stopped. Mark saw the white cottage. The filling-station. He must not be seen here. Surely the driver would make contact with someone inside before he left the limousine.

Henri stepped out of the car. He stopped as if to make sure he was not observed.

Mark slipped off the trunk-rack. He was cramped and stiff. He hobbled rather than walked into a deep purple shadow cast by a pine. He could see the cottage. He held his breath as Henri gently turned the knob of the front door and entered. What would he do next? Come back to the limousine? What a chance to grab him!

What was he doing inside the house? He was taking his time. The door was opening again! Mark hardly breathed. A man slipped out. His hat was pulled down over his eyes. He slunk along in the shadows. Reached the shore road. Ran on the dried grass which bordered it as if pursued by furies.

Had that been Henri? Had he delivered his message? Had he been warned to beat it? Couldn't have been a fight inside. No loud voices. Had the limousine with the silver been left for someone else to drive away?

Someone else! What a break! What a break! He would drive it back and park it in his garage—no, that wouldn't do, he would leave it with Mike Cassidy. Mike was as dependable as the sun.

He stole from the shadow of the pine. With every faint scrunch of his feet on the frosty ground his blood stopped running. Could he reach the limousine before someone came? Only a few feet more. He was behind the wheel. With a hand stiff from cold he touched the self-starter. Hang it! Wouldn't you know the motor would back-fire! A light! In the front dormer! He had wakened someone! He hadn't a moment to lose.

With his ears strained to detect pursuit, with his eyes roaming from side to side, Mark shot the car ahead. He went in an opposite direction from that taken by Henri—if the man who had burned up the road making his getaway from the white cottage had been Henri—he wouldn't run the chance of overtaking him. It seemed years before he reached Mike Cassidy's garage at the entrance to the causeway, hours before he could rouse the man, before he partially opened the door.

"Let me in quick, Mike," he whispered to the blinking, cursing proprietor, who was gripping something that gleamed dark and blue and ugly in a hairy, ham-bone fist.

"It's only you, Mr. Mark! Thought it might be a hold-up."

Cassidy's lower jaw swung like a gate on loose hinges. He slipped the automatic into his pocket before he rolled back the garage door.

"Where can I hide this?" Cassidy pointed.

Not until the limousine was stowed behind a motley collection of broken-down cars did Mark Trent explain.

"I've just rescued the family silver, Mike. The yarn I have to tell you will beat any of the thrillers you get over the radio. Not afraid to keep the car here, are you?"

Cassidy's red-rimmed eyes grew moist. He wiped his nose on a shabby coat sleeve.

"I ain't afraid to do nothing for you, Mr. Mark. You an' your family give me my start; sometimes you've kept me goin' when I didn't know where the next meal was comin' from. I felt mean when I let my Maggie go to work for Mrs. Hunt who treated you so bad, but we needed the money somethin' terrible, so she took the job, though it was at that new fillin' station that's tryin' to put me out of business."

A telephone rang. The two men stared at one another. Mark's blood turned to ice. Cassidy whispered: "Holy mackerel! Who's callin' this time of night? Have they traced you and the silver this quick? Perhaps there's a gang after you!"

Mark nodded toward the telephone. "Answer!" His muscles tensed as he listened.

"Cassidy's garage—You, Maggie! What t'h'll—Stop blubberin'—What! Who?—I can't hear, you're cryin' so—Something terrible?—Never mind, never mind. I'll call police headquarters—You've got to stay there, girl, till I get Bill Harrison. If anyone comes, don't talk. Don't talk!—Sure, I'll come, just as soon as I get the police."

"Mike! What's happened?" Cassidy's face was ashen as he shook Mark's hand from his arm.

"Wait!" He spoke into the transmitter.

"Someone's hurt bad at the white cottage—that new filling station on the point—Mike Cassidy talkin'—I got to go. You don't understand—my daughter's there—All right. I'll wait here."

He hung up and wiped a grimy hand across his sweat-beaded forehead.

"That was my girl, Maggie, who called."

"Talk, man, talk! What's happened?"

"Someone hurt bad."

"Who?"

"I couldn't make out."

"Someone hurt at the white cottage! But I was there not more than ten minutes ago, Mike."

"If I was you I wouldn't say that, Mr. Mark. It wasn't just hurtin'. I was breakin' it easy. Someone's dead."

CHAPTER IX

"Don't move! I've got you covered!"

In obedience to the hoarse warning, Sam and Brooke Reyburn stood as if turned to stone in the dark hall of Lookout House.

Lights flared. Brooke stared incredulously. Was that Jed Stewart with his hand on the switch glaring at them with wide dilated eyes, with his mouth open as if he had just swallowed a salt wave? That was a flashlight he was pointing at them, not a pistol. It was Jed Stewart without his coat, with his black bow tie under one ear, with only one shoe on.

"For the love of Mike, Jed Stewart, perhaps you'll tell me why you're holding us up in our own house? Why this Public Enemy No. 1 touch?" Sam demanded.

Stewart blinked. "What are you two doing wandering round this house half dressed at this time of night?"

"Stop shouting, Jed. You'll have Lucette down here," Sam said. "Come into the living room and tell us what you're doing in this house, Jed."

"Let's go to the kitchen instead, more likely to stabilize our emotions," Brooke suggested. "I'll make cocoa and we'll scramble eggs. Jed must need food after the late ex-excitement—he's fairly twitching with it—and I feel hollow to my toes. Come on, Sam."

"Sounds okay to me. I'm a growing boy, I need lots of nutriment. You'd better eat, Brooke; you didn't touch a thing when we came back from rehearsal. I'll run up and get a couple of bathrobes. Take these, Jed." He kicked off his slippers. "I'll put on shoes upstairs."

Sam followed her into the kitchen. "Sam can be speedy when he wants to be," she admitted, as her brother entered with a lurid bathrobe over his pajamas and another all red and green stripes which he flung at Stewart.

"There you are, m'lady."

"Bring the milk, eggs, butter and bacon from the icebox, Sam. Toss me that apron, Jed, the big white one—that's right. Toast some bread, Sammy."

Soon Sam sniffed. "Doesn't the bacon smell dandy! Here you are, folks." He arranged thin, crisp strips around a mound of fluffy scrambled eggs. "You and Jed sit down, Brooke, and I'll bring the cocoa after I find the marshmallows to drop into the cups."

Brooke slipped off the apron and waited until Sam had served steaming hot cocoa with a little melting white island floating in each cup and helped himself lavishly to scrambled eggs and bacon, before, with elbows on the porcelain table, chin on her clasped hands, she suggested:

"Now that the shock of discovering us roaming round in our own house has somewhat worn off, perhaps you'll tell us how you got in and why, Jed?"

Stewart leaned back in his chair with the air of a man whose appetite has been abundantly satisfied.

"Well, it was like this. I had said good-night to Mark and gone into my room. I had pulled off my coat, had yanked off one shoe when I began to sniff." He reddened. "Perhaps it's effeminate but I like a lot of 4711 in my tub, and I asked myself, 'Who's been using my bath crystals?' I heard sounds in the bathroom. It sort of took my breath for a minute and my brain whirled like a pin-wheel. Then I grabbed up my flash from the table beside the bed and tiptoed to the door. I banged it open. Water was gurgling out of the tub, dripping from the shower, my shaving things were scattered everywhere, and—a shoe was going out of the window." Stewart pulled out a handkerchief and mopped his red, moist face.

"A shoe!" Brooke and Sam exclaimed in unison.

"I presume there was a foot in it. For an instant amazement paralyzed me. I made a strategic error. Instead of beating it after that shoe, I poked around. The razor was gone. That fact gave me a nervous chill. 'Why would a man take that? Who could it have been? Kowa?' I asked myself. 'But he has his own bath; why should he use mine?' Then I came to and realized I was wasting time."

"I'll say you were and you're fairly spilling it now. Keep going! You did go after him, didn't you?"

"I did, Sam, but first I shouted for Mark. I hadn't much hope that he would hear me but I didn't dare wait to make sure. I squeezed my boyish figure through that window and wriggled to the balcony. I listened. I could hear only the pound of the surf and the crack of frost in the trees. Cautiously I peered over. Nothing moving. A sound! After this I'll never doubt that hair can rise. Mine felt like that green stuff you see growing up straight on one of those terra cotta heads. I listened. Sounded like a curtain flapping. Then I noticed that the window next to mine was open. Had the man gone in instead of over?"

"I knew that it was a Lookout House window, Brooke, but I didn't know whose room. I couldn't be fussy about that. All the horrors I'd ever heard rushed through my mind as I thought of the missing razor and of what might be happening to you and Lucette and Sam." He ran his fingers under his collar.

"It chokes me even to think of it. Where was I? Oh, yes, I squeezed through and dropped softly to the floor. I stopped to lock the window and draw the shade—my late visitor might have a pal, I reasoned—before I tiptoed into the adjoining room. It was a bedroom unlighted. Behind a hanging I reconnoitered. A mirror over a desk in the next room reflected a boudoir with flower panels; then I knew that the room was Brooke's. All the lights were on. No one there. I crept in. A desk drawer was on the floor, its contents scattered in all directions. A chair was overturned. I lived years crossing that room. What could I see? What would I find on the other side of that door? The hall was dark. The man—"

"Call him the Bath-Crystal Bandit and be done with it, but get him out of this house, Brooke's eyes will pop out of her head in a minute."

"Don't interrupt, Sam. Go on, Jed. Did you see anyone?"

"Couldn't see anything. Didn't dare use my flash for fear I might be spotted. I figured that the man had heard me enter my room, had beat it to the balcony, had seen the open window of this house, had crawled in planning to make his getaway from the lower floor. I gumshoed down holding my breath."

"In the hall I stopped to listen. Sounds upstairs. Faint sounds. I hunted for the light switch. Found it. It seemed years that I waited in the dark with my finger itching to press that button. The house was so still I could hear my brain working. Stairs creaked! Back stairs! A door swung! He was coming! A chair crashed! I had him! I shouted:

"Don't move! I've got you covered!" Snapped on the hall light. When I saw you two blinking and staring like owls, you could have knocked me over with a toothpick. That's the end of my installment of the serial. Now, perhaps you'll explain why you were prowling round this house?"

With her arms in the big green mandarin sleeves crossed on the white porcelain table, her eyes deep shining pools of excitement, Brooke leaned forward and told him. Stewart's lips and cheeks puffed and deflated at second intervals as he listened.

Suddenly, Sam raised his hand in warning. "Listen, folks! Footsteps! Stealthy! Outside! Who's coming?"

Jed Stewart sprang up, he caught his chair before it could crash, and swung it experimentally as Sam pressed the light switch and plunged the room into ghostly gloom.

STAR DUST Movie • Radio

AN ANNIVERSARY celebration that meant much to motion-picture and radio folk, took place a short time ago at Loew's State, one of the few remaining vaudeville houses in New York. On its sixteenth birthday, players who got their start or revived their careers there sent telegrams and encouraged the manager to keep vaudeville alive.

Among the many famous names who graduated from this theater are the radio pets Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy. Martha Raye, James Cagney, Walter Huston who played a dramatic sketch fifteen years ago, and Joe E. Brown, who was one of a team of acrobats who called themselves artists.

Screen stars too Joe E. Brown numerous to mention have played personal appearances there, and it was during an engagement of Buddy Rogers and his band that his romance with Mary Pickford first became widely known.

Gordon Miller, who threatens to become a matinee idol, reached pictures by the hitch-hike route. He is slated for the very important role opposite Deanna Durbin in her next picture, "Mad About Music." He hitch-hiked from his home in Flint, Michigan, to New Orleans, where he went to the Plantation night club and offered to sing for his supper. He sang himself into a steady job. Universal picture's talent scouts heard him and signed him up.

Eleanor Holm Jarrett, the beautiful swimming star, who has been thrilling the customers at the Great Lakes Exposition since early summer, is going to be Tarzan's mate in motion pictures this winter. She will play opposite Glen Morris, world decathlon champion. Eleanor was in pictures for a short time two years ago.

Barbara Stanwyck surprised even her closest friends when she got on a boat headed for the Panama canal and the Pacific coast instead of one going to London where Robert Taylor is. She said she has no idea when she and Bob will meet again. It has been raining so continuously in England that outdoor scenes of his picture have been delayed and his almost-daily cablegrams sound pretty blue over the prospect of a long absence from Hollywood. She won't go over to see him, though, partly because she is all signed up to make a lot of pictures in Hollywood.

ODDS AND ENDS—May Robson, who is playing Aunt Polly in "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer," celebrated her fifty-fourth anniversary as an actress recently at the David Selznick studios. Red Skelton made such a knockout test for R. K. O. that he has been given the role intended for Milton Berle in "Having a Wonderful Time." Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., was summoned back from London via telephone to play opposite Katherine Hepburn in "Bringing Up Baby." If Hollywood moguls really want to lure Irene Rich away from radio and back to the screen, she says that they will have to let her play a giddy siren. She won't play any more neglected wives.

There's Good Reason for Visiting Cards

DEAR Mrs. Post: Visiting card formalities are something I never will understand. I've moved into a strange community and neighbors and friends of friends are calling and leaving their cards. Why do they leave cards when I'm in and receive them? I can understand why they would leave cards in my absence but not otherwise.

Answer: It is really essential that they leave cards so that you will know their full names and the spelling and possibly their house addresses. After all, you would have to have better than average hearing, not to say anything of memory, to remember the names announced to you. And later when you look for Mrs. Jimson in the telephone book, you may have no way of knowing whether she is Mrs. Alexander — or Mrs. John — or Mrs. George. Excepting on this first occasion, visitors are not apt to send in their cards unless they find you out.

Wedding Announcement Need Not Name Town

DEAR Mrs. Post: On wedding announcements may I omit the name of the town in which we were married? Or if there must be some town mentioned may I use the name of my home town instead? We were married out of the state and I don't care especially to use the name of the town if it is possible to omit it.

Answer: The best way to overcome this is to leave a space between the line giving the year of the marriage and the name of the town. In other words, actually the announcement ends with the date. Adding the name of the town merely gives the people to whom the announcements are sent your parents' address.

The Wedding Breakfast

DEAR Mrs. Post: Will you suggest a good menu for a ten o'clock wedding breakfast? There will be only about two dozen guests.

Answer: At that hour I would make it really a breakfast. Something such as melon and chicken mince with hashed cream potatoes or scrambled eggs and sausage, buttered hot breads, breakfast coffee (meaning coffee in big cups with sugar and cream), and I think that is enough. Wedding cake and either champagne or fruit cup or whatever you are going to use to drink the bride's health are of course part of every wedding collation.

How to Accept.

DEAR Mrs. Post: How in the world can so much be written by hand when answering a third person invitation sent out by a committee of a certain organization, both names appearing on the form as well as the names of two guests of honor?

Answer: You need write no more than the following:

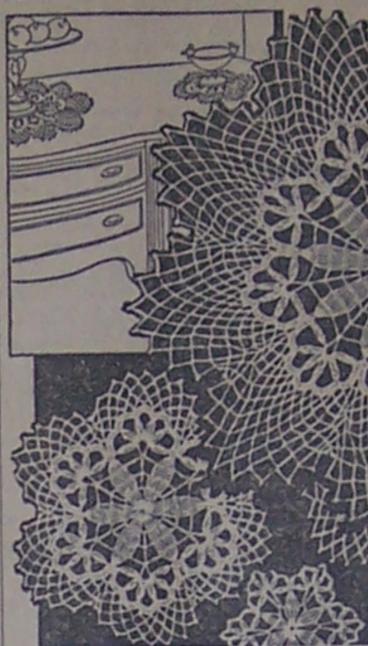

Miss Mary Smith accepts with pleasure the kind invitation of The Women's Committee of (whatever Organization) for Wednesday evening at eight o'clock at the Hotel Steven

How You Do It

WHEN someone says "How do you do" is it correct to say "I am fine, thank you" or is "How do you do" to be taken only as a greeting?

Answer: "How do you do" is a punctilious greeting to which the customary response is also "How do you do."

Set the Table With Doilies

Pattern 1462

A perfectly appointed table is the dream of every woman's heart. With the simplest of crochet you can make this dream come true. This set of doilies, in four sizes, does the trick. There are a 6, 12 and 17-inch size suitable for luncheon and buffet sets as well as doilies while the largest, a 22-inch doily, is just the thing for in-between cloth on many a table. Use string or mercerized cotton—they'll stand long usage and be decorative too. Pattern 1462 contains directions for making the doilies shown; illustrations of them and of all stitches used; material requirements.

Pie Eating—Dish Washing Husband Calling—Roller Pin

The second annual Food and Better Housekeeping Show will be held at the Coliseum in Chicago, October 9-17. Over 50,000 persons are expected to attend this year's show which surpasses last year's in the variety of special features and attractions.

The Food Show's stage revue features radio celebrities, Eddie and Fannie Cavanaugh; the Great Conlon, ventriloquist, and his dummy "Sparks"; tap dancers, Gene and Thelma; Bobo the Food Clown; Art Lyons and his Society orchestra, and other well-known entertainers. In addition, Mr. Joseph Vohling, international authority on food and its preparation, will talk on "The Romance of Food" and exhibit his world-famous collection of historical cook books; the Evans Fur company will stage a fabulously valuable fur style show, and representatives of the Charles Postl Physical Culture Salon for Women will offer daily exercises and mass drills for girls and women.

Each day of the show various contests will be held, which include a Pie-Eating Marathon for boys, a dish-washing contest for hotel and restaurant employees, a rolling-pin throwing contest for prospective wives, and a husband-calling for the wives.

OVER HUNDRED ATTEND FIRST P. T. A. MEETING

(Continued from Page 1) to buckle up our character and back up our intentions at the polls and vote in an increased tax rate for the school funds.

Current financial figures were quoted as follows for last year, school income from taxes collected $14,000, back taxes, (this figure includes some collections as far back as 1927) approximately $6,000, and $4,470 from state funds. The school budget for the year was $26,636.32. This year's budget he quoted at $29,021, prospective income from taxes (if 66 per cent are collected) $12,000, a possible $5,000 to $7,000 in back taxes and from the state approximately $5,000.

He said that the board was trying to live within its income and was not patterning after political groups by running a debt to be carried by future generations. One measure resorted to, to decrease expenses was the cut from 10 months school to 9 months.

Local teachers, whom he praised very highly, were being paid less than they deserved, he said, and that no one could censure them if they left for better paid positions. He was free with his praise as to the effort and accomplishment of the local teachers, saying that the village had the reputation of sending high grade students into high school.

With rhetoric eloquence the school board president stated the case for the schools and placed the solution squarely upon the shoulders of the citizens (voters) of the community and state.

Varley was added to the P. T. A. program by the appearance of Mr. H. S. Van Blarcom singing a solo, "Jennie, With the Light Brown Hair" and Leader Taldorf reading "My Brother's Wife".

Considerable was accomplished in a short time at the business session of the association. It was voted to allow funds for the purchase of reading circle books for the schools, also funds for the purchase of art material for the achievement work. A free will collection will be taken at each of the regular meetings and one dollar will be allowed from the funds of the organization each month for the teacher of the home room with the largest parent attendance at the P. T. A. meeting. The teacher will be permitted to use the dollar for what she thinks best for her room at the time.

Announcement was made of the organization of a mother's chorus, with the organization meeting to be held Wednesday afternoon.

Members of the faculty of the two schools were introduced by Mrs. J. V. L. Chapman, president of the P. T. A., and lovely refreshments were served by the social committee.

BOWLING

By R. O. Hecht

Looking at the standings in the Lansing Bowling League 1, we find that Dockwellers team is a very outstanding team so far. All the boys are wondering as to whether they will keep up the pace that they are setting. Dockwellers have lost but one game out of nine and are holding a team average of 827 pins and the next best average in the same league is but 803. The Brickmakers handed Dockwellers their first defeat in nine starts last Friday night. Kraay Brothers handed the Legion a pair of drubblings, and Mikos lost two to Ridge Road Gardens, the last game of this encounter was won by only one pin. State Line Service kept on giving the First Federal Savings and Loan boys their weekly medicine by defeating them twice. Knot-holes pulled the Lions tall twice and thus held second place in League 1 with 7 wins and 2 defeats.

High team game of the week went to State Line Service with a total of 876. High team series was taken by Ridge Road Gardens with a series total of 2517. Buck Weaver had both individual high honors by having high game with 211 and high series with 557.

Turning to League 2 we note that two streaks were broken this week, one being a losing streak, the other a winning streak. Lansing Pharmacy was stopped in their winning streak by Louie after the former had won nine games straight. Panny's Homman Cleaners ended their losing streak after they had lost nine games in a row by winning one game from Slager Brothers.

Lansing Motors took three away from Gids and Meeters took two away from the Padjen boys to knock the latter out of a tie for first place. Because the Pharmacy boys won two from Louie and because of the fact that Padjen lost two, gives the Pharmacy men undisputed possession of first place in League 2 with 9 wins and 3 defeats.

Panny Pearson shot high series when he totalled 575 pins in three games. Fred H. Vierk shot high game with 243 and high team game went to the Slager Brothers at 915.

This week is fire prevention week. Every home, office, factory, and farm should take immediate steps to formulate a permanent fire prevention program.

15,000 people are burned to death in this country every year.

Sixty-five percent of these victims are women and children.

It costs this nation nearly $300,000,000 each year for the up-keep of fire departments and waterworks for fire extinguishment.

Smoking and the ceaseless use of matches is a common cause of fires.

Make arrangements to clean and repair chimneys.

Make an inspection of your establishment today—80 per cent of all the fires that occur in the United States are due to carelessness.

Good Thoughts For Good People

Music is one of the fairest and most glorious gifts of God, to which Satan is a bitter enemy; for it removes from the heart the weight of sorrow, and the fascination of evil thoughts.
 —Martin Luther

When I think upon God, my heart is so full of joy that the notes dance and leap, as it were, from my pen; and since God has given me a cheerful heart it will be pardoned me that I serve Him with a cheerful spirit.
 —Mozart

Whenever I think of God I can only conceive of Him as a Being infinitely great and infinitely good. This last quality of the divine nature inspires me with such confidence and joy that I could have written even a miserere in tempo allegro.
 —Haydn

Whatever inspires with wisdom, Truth, or Love—be it song, sermon or Science—blesses the human family with crumbs of comfort from Christ's table, feeding the hungry and giving living waters to the thirsty.
 —Mary Baker Eddy

Make a joyful noise unto the Lord, all ye lauds. Serve the Lord with gladness; Come into his presence with singing. . . For the Lord is good; his mercy is everlasting and his truth endureth to all generations.
 —Psalms 100

Yea, music is the Prophet's art. Among the gifts that God hath sent, One of the most magnificent!
 —Longfellow

Numerous Exhibits At Chicago Poultry Show

CHICAGO.—Entries from many states, as well as Canada, are being received for the first Midwest Poultry Exposition, which will be held in the International Amphitheatre, October 15 to 19.

According to M. E. Thayer, manager of the exposition, the rate at which early entries are being made for the contests featuring the standard and non-standard breeds of poultry, ducks, geese, and pigeons assures a huge showing of all breeds at the initial show; and the wide interest evidenced in this first all-inclusive exposition of the poultry industry ever held in Chicago leads him to predict a large rural attendance.

Contests for eggs shown in dozen lots, baby chicks in lots of 25, and a standard bred turkey show are special events in the exposition's competitive program.

Special Features Included
 The full story of poultry and egg production will be presented in a production line which will include incubation, hatching, feeding and care of young birds, the handling of the mature flock and displays of the dressed product.

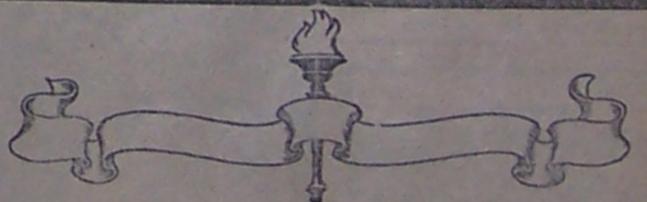

Two cake baking contests will be held, one for women, another for children. Each contest will be in two divisions, for butterless and butter cakes. Entries for the adult contests will be accepted until 11 a. m., October 15 and those for the children's event until 1 p. m., October 16. Recipes must accompany the cakes.

Preacher Got His Man
Lorenzo Dow, an itinerant preacher of more than a century ago, promised to find out who had stolen his friend's ax. In the midst of his sermon, he held out a large stone, and brandishing it, thundered, "Some one here stole my friend's ax. I am about to hurl this stone at the thief, and if he doesn't dodge it will hit him square on the forehead!" One man was observed to dodge his head violently—the thief, of course.

YOU CAN THROW CARDS IN HIS FACE ONCE TOO OFTEN

WHEN you have those awful cramps; when your nerves are all on edge—don't take it out on the man you love.

Your husband can't possibly know how you feel for the simple reason that he is a man.

A three-quarter wife may be no wife at all if she nags her husband seven days out of every month.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife; take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and Go "Smiling Through."

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging headache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

Fall Fashion Parade

1257 1380 1373

BE THE first to wear the new Fall fashions in your group—let Sew-Your-Own help you to step right out in front, in the parade of new Fall Fashions. Today's trio gives you wide choice. Your first occasion frock if you are young and slim is a good looking basque model; if you are full bosomed a jabot model that takes away inches; and for run-around a pretty yoke model that is as easy to make as it is to wear.

The Popular Basque Dress
If you are twenty or thereabouts, you'll adore this pretty basque dress with its flaring skirt. The slim wasp waist and short puffed sleeves above

BRIDLE-PATH CHIC
By CHERIE NICHOLAS

To dress up to the part she plays should be the ambition of every true sportswoman. It may be along scenic bridle paths that the enthusiastic guides her gallant steed or it may be in the glare of bright light and trumpet loud in the fashionable horse show arena that she will make her bow. In either event her riding togs must be correct down to the slightest detail. The picture shows a sartorially perfect outfit. We would especially call your attention to the horse's head carved from crown shell catalin that is nonchalantly pinned on her coat. During the summer it became quite a fad to wear novel carved catalin fish, frogs, snails and such, either elips or brooches, on one's bathing suit.

a swing skirt are as young as the morning. Have it in a pretty dark print banded in velvet ribbon for every afternoon festivity. It's a dress that you'll wear all through the winter.

Yoke-Style House Frock
Every woman will be quick to see the advantages of this frock, in style and wearability. The round yoke buttons at front and gives a fresh, young look to this design. Best of all, it is cut in one piece from neck to hem so that you can make it in practically no time at all. The waistline is darted for snug fit. You'll look and feel years younger in this model—wear it 'round the house and for afternoon, too.

Look Slim and Sleek
The newest fashions give you a slim, sleek look even if you are not blessed with a svelte figure. The jabot model in the illustration is designed to make even the woman who is a bit on the plump side look sleek and inches slimmer. Make this dress in one of the new thin wools and see how you'll stand out in your crowd as a fashion leader.

Pattern 1257 is designed for sizes 12 to 40. Size 14 requires 4 1/2 yards of 39 inch material and 11 yards of ribbon to trim.

Pattern 1380 is designed for sizes 34 to 48. Size 36 requires 4 1/4 yards of 39 inch material.

Pattern 1373 is designed for sizes 34 to 50. Size 36 requires 3 3/4 yards of 54 inch material and 3/4 yards of 39 inch material for jabot in contrast.

I LEARNED TO 'BEAT' ACID INDIGESTION

ONCE LIFE WAS MISERABLE, NO APPETITE... LITTLE SLEEP...UNTIL THE DOCTOR SAID "ALKALIZE"

BUT NOW—AT THE FIRST SIGN OF ACID-INDIGESTION I USE PHILLIPS' AND I FEEL LIKE A NEW PERSON ALMOST IMMEDIATELY!

The fastest way to "alkalize" is to carry your alkalizer with you. That's what thousands do now that genuine Phillips' comes in tiny, peppermint flavored tablets—in a flat tin for pocket or purse. Then you are always ready.

Use it this way. Take 2 Phillips' tablets—equal in "alkalizing" effect to 2 teaspoonfuls of liquid Phillips' from the bottle. At once you feel "gas," nausea, "over-crowding" from hyper-acidity begin to ease. "Acid headaches," "acid breath," over-acid stomach are corrected at the source. This is the quick way to ease your own distress—avoid offense to others.

Let Alumni Rave—Here's an Idea of Ivy Grid Prospects

THIS properly should be written while the glee clubs from six major universities gather in the background to croon their demands for touchdowns. Letters from duly indignant alumni should be strewn all over the desk. The telephone should have been briskly ringing for hours so that irate acquaintances could demand free ducats on the 50-yard line. A bevy of the world's greatest detectives should be near at hand to unravel the rules committee's newest tangle.

Nevertheless, while lacking such colorful inducements to get into the real spirit of the thing, duty must be done. Forthwith is presented one guy's notions as to how some of our better publicized eastern institutions of higher learning shape up for the 1937 football season. First bat, naturally, is given to the alma maters which yelp loudest about their own innate purity.

YALE—The Elis look better on paper right now than they did twelve months ago, but it is doubtful if they will be as good as in 1936 when they lost only to Dartmouth. Clint Frank, possibly the greatest all-around back to wear the Blue since Coy, heads an impressive list of ball carriers but there are too many danger spots up front. Men such as Merri Scott and Bob Beckwith, both underrated by observers last fall, will be sorely missed. Also scholastic shadows hover over several other dependables.

Dick Harlow's System Clicks at Harvard

HARVARD—Dick Harlow's hard hitting system was working last November almost as well as it did during his years at Western Maryland. Most of those heroes, who scared Yale so badly, are back. Headed by Alex Kerkovian, a bruising Armenian giant who brings fond memories of Penneck, Hardy and other Crimson tackle greats, the line should be the best in years. Tom Healey, rugged sophomore son of a Worcester police captain, is almost as good a tackle as Kerkovian. Don Daughters is an impressive end. In the backfield there is the famous passing combination of Art Oakes and tiny Bob Stuart to go along with the blocking of Chief Boston and the line plunging Vernon Struck. Together with Torbet MacDonald, soph triple threat from Andover who is claimed as the best Harvard back since Crickard, they may provide the Crimson with its ardently craved Big Three title.

The cabinet-maker explained the woman had ordered the bed complete with inner-spring mattress and springs for her pet bulldog. It is valued at $150.

PENN—Backs such as Elverson, Warwick, Kurlish and Murray are replaced no more quickly than are such fine centers as Jim Hauze. Nevertheless, the red helmeted Walter Shinn heads a strong front line and it may be difficult to flag such impressive soph backs as Jim Connell and Bill Koepsell. On the whole a good team, although scarcely as good as a year ago.

PRINCETON—Jack White, tops as a ball carrier but weak defensively, and Charley Toll, a good but not great tackle, are the only survivors from Crisler's mighty 1935 team. This year, with the Tigers still sore over what happened to the well ballyhooped veterans in 1936, anything may happen. On paper, the prospects are not too impressive but if bald Tad Wieman does his usually high class job on a green soph line it might be well for Yale to get an alibi in working order early.

DARTMOUTH—Boys to watch here are Merrill Davis and Larry Hull, a great pair of ends and Bob McLeod, a superior ball carrier. They fit well into the system Earl Blaik finally has established on a firm basis at Hanover and it may be they can carry the team until raw recruits get the feel of things. Not too much optimism among Green alumni, though. You can't lose men such as Handrahan, Cammerer and Mutt Ray and not feel it.

COLUMBIA—A stride or two ahead of last year's pace. Lou Little is cheerful, as he very well might be, when he looks at his big squad so well equipped with ends and backs. Probably not another Rose Bowl year but it should be Sid Luckman's time to go places. Also watch Frank Sposato, sophomore, converted from center to quarterback to replace George Furey.

NOT IN THE BOX SCORE:

KEEP an eye on Christensen, young Minnesota fullback. They say he is the best yet . . . Burns Marvil, Syracuse soph, is a brother of the old Northwestern All-America end. The kid is a whale of a fullback and an illustrator of some talent, too. He makes his way by dishwashing in the university dining room . . . Vannie Albanese, Syracuse fullback star of last fall and now with Brooklyn's pro football Dodgers, once gained 79 yards on sixteen straight plunges through the middle of a rugged Penn State line. Stopped on the two-yard mark he came back a few seconds later to take a short pass and run 45 yards for the winning touchdown just as the game ended. He never called for a time out during his three varsity seasons, incidentally.

General John J. Phelan was technically right when he assured Bob Pastor that when Max Baer appeared for a license, Commissioner Bill Brown did not call Max a bum. What Ballyhoo Bill called the former champion was "Two-Bums," as reported by every paper in the city . . . All of which probably has nothing to do with the fact that, now that Uncle Mike Jacobs wants such a show, it is six, two and even the State Athletic commission sanctions a Braddock-Baer affair.

Burleigh Grimes believes that horseback riding is one of the best ways for a pitcher to keep in condition . . . John Arnold Heydler, former president of the National league, has abandoned golf as a summer pastime. Says swimming is more fun and keeps him in better shape . . . Four National league clubs admit they're willing to deal for Buddy Hassett when the Dodgers put him on the block this winter . . . Boys who run errands around National league clubhouses say that the Giants are the best tipplers. Cubs used to be good but a change has come over them this season . . . At least Hornsby's telephone booth was in the grand stand. In Washington, the boys who want to slap a deuce on Honey Chile in the fifth at Aqueduct simply use the phone almost behind the Senators' dugout. There's a kid named Sid Martin at West Point (the football coaches either are keeping him under cover or are too much entangled in red tape to note him) who might become another Monk Meyer if given proper opportunity . . . Those Sterns twins at Williams also are worth a football writer's tale . . . Iowa, minus Coach Ossie Solem's leadership, will be weaker this year although this Tubbs from Miami is a good man . . . Ohio State, better than usual due to the lack of pre-season press raves, will be tough to take in spite of the loss of Jumping Joe Williams, who flunked out of college . . . Michigan and Purdue will be good—maybe better than that.

Farr Should Glean Another 50 G's

TOMMY FARR should clear another 50 G's before he sails for England in December . . . Recent reports that Newark Promoter Babe Culnan would manage him are all wrong, according to Farr. He says Manager Ted Broadribb will receive his cut on all purses until March when their contract expires . . . "Broadribb and I are in the best of health," is the British empire champ's only other comment Tommy Farr on the situation . . . Quentin Reynolds predicts in Collier's that Bob Pastor will win the heavyweight championship. Says the former N. Y. U. boy has convinced him.

Gents who knew him well in his boxing commission days say that Jim Farley will resign as Postmaster General. They add that he has spent 111 nights on the train during the past year, wants to devote more time to his New York alliances and will head a major auto company . . . The favorite sport of Dedo Bundy, who eliminated Alice Marble in the women's national tennis tourney, is swimming. She's very good at it, too . . . Jockey Silvio Coucci, who hung up his tack at Aqueduct, may ride abroad . . . A star Yankee pitcher and one of the team's veteran infielders haven't spoken to one another all season.

Texas Christian has the biggest line in its history. To young men who hope to be pro football Giants next year, should be eyed carefully. They are Ki Aldrich, the giant center who made Horned Frog rooters forget all about Darrell Lester, and I. B.—That's what he's called—Hale, a 240-pound tackle . . . Will Walls, the grand new Giant end, never spoke a word until he was eight years old. His mother and father were both deaf mutes. Tillie Manton, perhaps the most underrated player in pro football, landed Walls for Coach Steve Owen. Manton, by the way, is scouting Fordham for T. C. U. . . Rigan McKinney, back from a world cruise, may resume his steeplechase riding at Belmont park . . . Watch Bob Mautner. Holy Cross captain and center, this fall. This human fire plug will give Fordham's Wojie a real run for all-Eastern pivot honors . . . Burleigh Grimes says that, aside from being one of the greatest catchers of all time, Jimmy Wilson was the best catcher ever to handle his spitballs.

WHAT? THIS BUS GOES TO UPSOM HEIGHTS? I'M AFRAID I MADE A MISTAKE IN THE FOG--

OH, THAT'S ALL RIGHT-- I WAS DRIVING ON THE WRONG STREET MYSELF

HULLO DEAR-- SORRY I'M LATE--

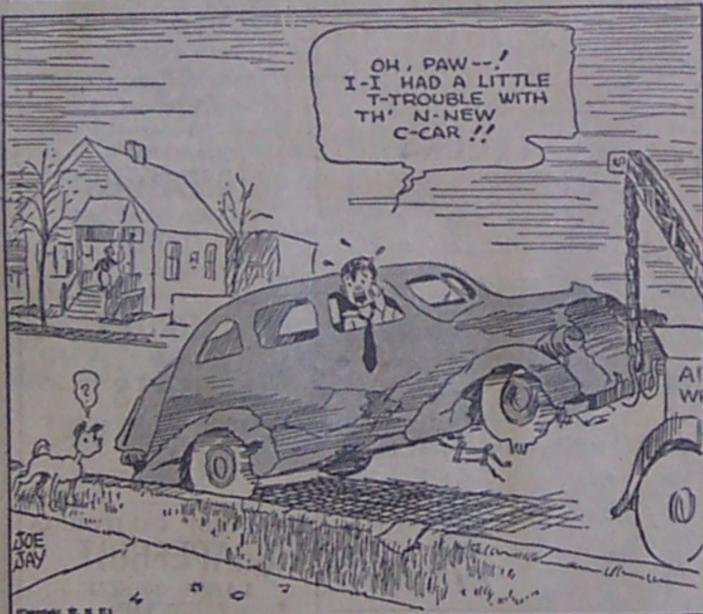

LATE? ARE YOU? OH, YES--

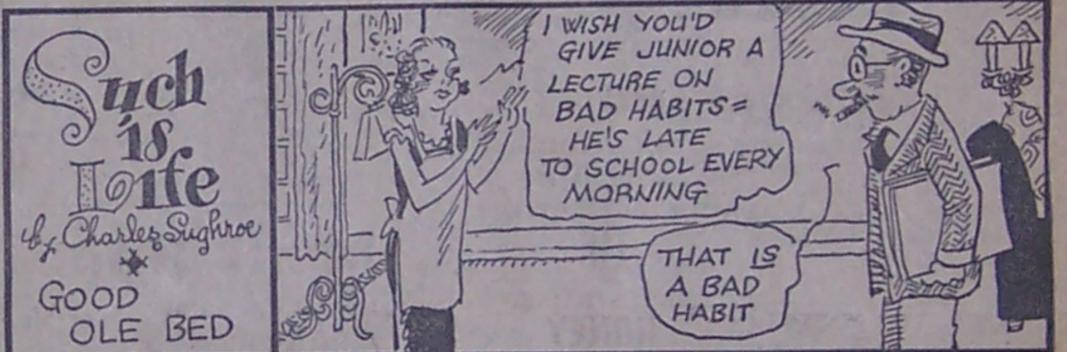

YES--YOU SEE I WAS IN A FOG--

OH WELL-- WHY MENTION YOUR MENTAL CONDITION--

GOOD OLE BED

THAT IS A BAD HABIT

JUNIOR, I WANT TO HAVE A TALK WITH YOU ABOUT SOMETHING THAT IS EASY TO GET INTO AND HARD TO GET OUT OF

DO YOU KNOW WHAT I MEAN?

YES, SIR! BED!

CHARLES SUGHREE

POP KNOWS THINGS

Billie--Daddy, do the squirrels live in the trees?
Daddy--Right in the trees, my boy.
Billie--But where do they keep their things?
Daddy--Why--why--in a trunk, of course.

No Knowing Yet

There was very little that Jack minded doing at school, but he did draw the line at being asked to sew. Surely that was beneath the dignity of a ten-year-old man.
"But George Washington used to sew," coaxed the schoolteacher. "He took it for granted that every soldier ought to do so. Do you consider yourself a better man than George Washington?"
"Well, I don't know," said Jack airily. "Time will tell."--Stray Stories Magazine.

PASSING THE BUCK

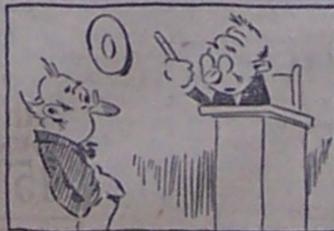

The minister was instructing his Sunday-school class, and after a while he asked the children: "Would any little boy or girl like to ask me any question on any subject which I have spoken of?" Little Gertie put up her hand. "Please, sir, why did the angels walk up and down Jacob's ladder when they had wings and could fly?" The minister scratched his head for a moment, thinking deeply, and then said, "Now, would any little boy or any little girl like to answer Gertie's question?"

PROMISING YOUTH

"I hope your little boy never tells a lie."
"I don't know. I do know that at times he tells a lot of embarrassing truths."

OBJECTION SUSTAINED

Judge--Prisoner, it is your right to challenge the jurymen you object to.
Prisoner--All right, your honor; I'll reserve the right until after they make their decision.

Proof of Position

Father was sitting in the arm-chair when his little son came in, and showed him a new penknife which he said he had found in the street.
"Are you sure it was lost?"
"I saw the man looking for it!" replied the youngster.--Stray Stories Magazine.

Fond of Company

Mrs. J. had invited guests for dinner. At a late hour the guests were obliged to send regrets. Walter, the young son, who loved to eat, was heard to remark:
"That's when I love company; when mother cooks for company and the company doesn't come."--Indianapolis News.

Hard on Him

Jake--My wife's reducing. She walks a couple miles a day, and works one of those rowing machines an hour every night.
Mike--My wife's not reducing, but she takes plenty of exercise. She's always jumping at conclusions, and running up bills.

I'll Have Mine Plain

Teacher--Can anyone tell me what happened after Napoleon mustered his army?
Pupil--Yes, sir. He peppered the enemy and took the citadel by assault.
Teacher--Sit down, my lad. I'll have no sauce from you.

YOUNG LUTHERANS RALLY AT ST. JOHN'S CHURCH SUNDAY

The Department of Christian Service. In her report she will show the things that have been done and the things that are planned for the social and physical welfare of our young people. In this connection also, Mr. Lorenz Koartge will give a report on athletics. The South Suburban Zone sponsors such athletics as basketball, ping-pong, track, swimming and kittenball. The Lansing boys won the kittenball trophy last summer and will receive their trophy Sunday.

During the course of the afternoon session, Mrs. Otto J. Schultz will favor the audience with a soprano solo. Her selection will be the well known "Spirit of God" by Neideger. Mr. Martin Kraegle will read an essay on the topic "The History of the Lutheran Church in America". This essay is to be the first of a series of four, the other three essays to be heard in the subsequent rallies. Other reports will be heard from Mr. Gilbert Paul on Field-Secretary work, Mr. Marvin Piepenbrink on Publications, Mr. Clarence Zimbrick on Junior Work, Mr. T. J. Wichman on Choral Work and Miss Betty Habenicht on Publicity.

The representative from the Northern Illinois district of the Walther League will be the president of the district, Mr. George E. Cramer. Mr. Cramer will inform the local zone about the various things that the district is undertaking and promoting. Notably among the district projects at the present, is the staging of the pageant "Luther The Liberator" which will be given at the Chicago Civic Opera building on Sunday, Oct. 31, afternoon and evening performance. This is a pageant with chorus and music depicting the life of Dr. Martin Luther. The pageant is put on entirely by Walther League talent taken from out of our churches in the Northern Illinois district.

Immediately following the afternoon session, the ladies of St. John's church will serve a luncheon for the young people at a nominal cost. There is to be a very fine program in the evening which is being put on by members of the local society. The expected attendance for the day's activities, as estimated, will be about 250 young people.

The National Park Service considers the Yosemite sugar pines as the world's finest pines.
