DADS APPROVE BUS LINE MOVE

MEET IN REGULAR SESSION TUESDAY NIGHT

Meeting in regular session Tuesday night the village trustees went on record as fully approving of the village extending every possible effort to obtain the permit for the Safeway Bus line to operate a line through the village directly into the Chicago Loop. A resolution to that effect was passed.

Attorney Lewis informed the council of his argument in the Supreme Court as to the mandamus suit against the village that day, and advised them that there would be no decision by the court on the argument until some time in December.

He also told the trustees that other suits against the village might be taking new lease on life inasmuch as a decision passed down by the Supreme Court on similar counts held the village or town responsible for the pro-rating of special assessment bond payments. This decision reverses that of the appellate court which held the treasurer of town or cities responsible on this count.

There are several suits against the village that have been more or less dormant, that may now be pushed.

At the suggestion of councilman Weidig a sketch of the specifications for material to be used in making water taps and servicing the lines was given to the ordin-

TENINGA-KOOY NUPTIALS WED.

One of the season's most beautiful weddings was solemnized Wednesday evening at the First Reformed church when Miss Anabelle Teninga daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Teninga became the bride of Alvin Kooy.

The vows were repeated before Rev. G. J. Rozeboom at 8 o'clock. The church was attractively decorated with green and white, a white carpet being used for the center aisle. Mrs. Alice Kikert played the wedding march. William Smith sang, "I Love You Truly" and "The Lord is My Shepard."

The bride was lovely in a white cut velvet gown with a Queen Elizabeth collar and veil. Her bouquet was of white roses and lilies of the valley. She entered the church on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage.

Miss Lucille Teninga, sister of the bride acted as her maid of honor and Miss Ruth Kooy as bridesmaid, both wore frocks of azure blue moire with silver accessories and carried bouquets of pink roses.

Vernon Kooy, brother of the groom acted as his best man with Howard Postma as usher.

A reception for about 200 guests was held at the Munster Town hall directly after the service. The hall was charmingly decorated in blue and white as was the large wedding cake.

Rev. Rose acted as toast master for the occasion with Miss Ester Van Ramshorst presenting the program. The Misses Peterella Hook, May Horetz, Hilda Jongsma and Maratha Kykhuizen served the company.

Both Mrs. Teninga and Mrs. Kooy, mothers of the bride and groom had lovely corsages of red roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Kooy are establishing their home in the upstairs apartment of the Kate Hook home on 182nd Place. Mr. Kooy is employed at the Hoekstra grocery. Both he and Mrs. Kooy are graduates of Thornton Fractional high school.

Lutheran Ladies Attend Rally

About 35 ladies from St. John's Lutheran church attended the annual rally held by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Concordia Teachers College at River Forest last Thursday.

Luncheon was served to 1750 ladies in the gymnasium of the college. The gym was beautifully decorated with autumn leaves and potted yellow chrysanthemums. Napkins and favors were also in yellow. A free will offering was taken, proceeds from which are used for equipment for the college.

Dr. Gelseman, pastor of the campus church at River Forest was the main speaker for the occasion. Dr. Rinker of Milwaukee was one of the speakers. Other features of the program were a playlet given by the ladies of Forest Park, a mirror sketch given by some of the students and music by the college orchestra. Community singing was also enjoyed.

SUCCESSFUL PATRIOTIC MEET HERE THURS.

Comparing the rights and liberties of the people of the United States with those of the ancient Israelites before they besought the Lord to give them a king, Bartel Zandstra, Highland village clerk, and local oratorical star, pointed out that those rights and liberties assured by the Constitution of the United States also entailed a sacred duty upon the citizens of the country, in an address delivered before several hundred persons at Ward's field last Thursday evening.

The Zandstra speech was the culminating event in Lansing's celebration of the Sesquicentennial Anniversary of the Constitution of the United States, which was held Thursday under the leadership of John Schuringa, village president, and an able committee.

A parade that formed at the village hall at six o'clock and marched to the field opened the celebration. Mr. Schuringa, as chairman of the committee, introduced Attorney Lewis, who acted as master of ceremonies, presenting first Rev. W. B. Grimes who gave the invocation, then Miss Laingor, of the public schools, who lead the school children in the singing of patriotic songs, and finally the speaker of the evening, Bartel Zandstra.

Mr. Zandstra declared that the Constitution was a contract between the U. S. citizens and the government, and that every citizen was duty bound to study and know the questions at hand before exercising the right to vote, and that constitutional disputes should not be allowed to blind the people to the real issues at hand.

He further declared that before 1929 the Constitution had been used as a shield by certain factions behind which they amassed wealth and power.

ROBERT WARD AND RUTH BOHLING WED

The wedding of Miss Ruth Bohling, daughter of Mrs. Albert Bohling of Calumet City and Robert Ward, nephew of Mrs. Floyd Strubble of Lansing was solemnized at St. Victor's rectory in Calumet City on Wednesday, October 6.

The young couple are making their home with the bride's mother for the present. Mr. Ward is employed at the Minas company. Mr. and Mrs. Ward are both graduates of Thornton Fractional high school.

MRS. KOWALSKI BURIED MONDAY

T. F. PAYS LAST RESPECTS TO BOARD MEMBER

Thornton Fractional high school was closed Monday in respect for Julia Kowalski, member of the board of education of the school, who passed away Thursday, October 14, at Bellings Memorial hospital following a six week's illness.

The funeral rites were held from St. Victor's church in Calumet City, Monday at 10 a. m. with Rev. E. E. Broderick officiating. Burial took place at Holy Cross cemetery.

Mrs. Kowalski, who was 50 years of age at the time of her passing, had been for 10 years a member of the Thornton Fractional township high school board in Calumet City. She was a native of Milwaukee, Wis., where she received her early education, later graduating from the University of Chicago. She had been a resident of Calumet City for the past 19 years.

Surviving are her husband, John C., three sisters, Mrs. Lucy Sullivan of Hibing, Minn., Mrs. Anna Wojciechowski and Miss Sophie Bledrzyehka, both of Milwaukee.

ACCIDENT DELAYS WEDDING

As the result of an accident in the Inland Steel company plant last Friday, the wedding of Miss Pearl Eenigenburg and Herman Bultema which had been planned for this week, was postponed indefinitely.

Mr. Bultema had his leg severely injured in the accident and has been confined to St. Margaret's hospital all this week. Just when he will be released from the hospital is not known.

FORD TO RESUME PRODUCTION SOON

"It is only a matter of days now before we will begin to turn out new models," said officials of the Ford assembly plant at Hegewisch this week. Just as soon as missing parts are received from Detroit production will be started.

The parts come to the Hegewisch plant via boat from Detroit and several loads have been received already. About 500 men are used for the unloading of the boats, and just as soon as production gets under way the company will recall at least 1,200 men, gradually increasing the personnel as the assembly problems are ironed out, the plant heads said.

Normally this unit employs about 4,000 men turning out between 500 and 600 cars a day. The record at the plant is 612 cars in one day.

Many Ford employees reside in Lansing, and will be glad to hear that the shut down is almost over.

BULLETIN

A resolution backing the village of Lansing and its neighbor, Calumet City, in their move to obtain direct bus transportation to the down-town loop of Chicago, was passed Wednesday night by the officials of Thornton township. This places all of the official bodies as well as other organizations concerned at all with the welfare of the two municipalities on record as favoring the Commerce Commission granting the permit to the bus company to operate the proposed line.

Illinois ranks second among the states of the Union in railway mileage and first in railway transport tonnage.

Propose Bus Route Into Chicago Loop

WINTERS CAR FOUND MERCHANDISE GONE

The automobile of Charles Winters which was stolen in Chicago October 13 was recovered by police on Monday of this week. The machine was found within two miles of the spot where it was stolen and was in O. K. condition, but the merchandise amounting to about $135 was gone. Evidently the theft of this merchandise was the motive for taking the car. Mr. Winters is preparing to open a variety store in Lansing at 3336 Ridge Road very soon. The merchandise in the car at the time it was stolen had been purchased by Mr. Winters for his new store.

LIONS AND LEGION COOPERATE ON ARMISTICE PROG.

At a recent meeting of the Edward Schultz Post of the American Legion it was voted that the post would cooperate with the Lansing Lions club in presenting a civic program on Armistice day, Thursday, November 11.

A committee was appointed to consult with the Lions on arranging the program. As proposed by the Lions the evening program will be held at the Indiana avenue school and will include addresses by Colonel Trumbal and possibly Joe Cook of Harvey. Good musical talent is being sought for the occasion and the cooperation of Mr. Crawl and the school children will be asked it was intimated.

With the village's two leading masculine organizations pulling together on the affair it gives promise of being the best Armistice Day program here for some years.

HENRY VIERK'S CELEBRATE 50TH WEDDING DAY

Open house was maintained at the Henry Vierk home on Grant street Saturday, October 16, the occasion being the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Vierk. Many friends and relatives called during the day to extend greetings.

Mr. and Mrs. Vierk were married by Rev. Dietz in the Oak Glen Lutheran church, Mrs. Vierk being Mary Wullenburg. She was born on a farm on Stony Island avenue, now known as the George Vroom farm, 69 years ago. Mr. Vierk was born in Maxelburg, Germany 72 years ago. They have lived in their present home for the past 47 years. Mr. Vierk was employed by the brick yards here for 35 years. They are the parents of nine children and have ten grandchildren. Three of the children, Henry, Jr., Rudy and Edna are deceased.

Among the relatives who visited the Vierks on Saturday were Mr. and Mrs. Otto Schuenke, and Mrs. August Schuenke of Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Schultz, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Vierk and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Vierk of Lansing and Mrs. Helen Vierk of Steger.

Five sisters and an uncle of Mrs. Vierk were luncheon guests, they were: Mrs. Bertha Kahn and daughter and Mrs. William Lorenz of Oak Glen, Mrs. Albert Schultz of Lansing, Mrs. Ralph Newcomb of Oak Park, Mrs. Charles Cordum of Hammond and Mr. Fred Lange of Thornton.

PLAN OUTLINED AT MON. MEETING

SEEK STRONG DELEGATION TO APPEAR BEFORE COM- MERCE COMMISSION

About thirty persons, representative of the citizens of the village, met Monday night at the village hall in response to a call from the trustees to hear the proposed plan for obtaining bus transportation service from Lansing to the Loop of Chicago.

H. F. Haslet, a representative of the South Suburban Safeway Bus Company was present at the meeting and submitted tentative plans for the new route into the city. Lansing was asked to cooperate with Calumet City in appealing to the Commerce Commission for the permit for the bus company to come through the two towns. James E. Muckian, president of the Calumet City Chamber of Commerce and O. J. Chambers, secretary of the same organization and an attorney, were also present at the meeting, explaining what steps had been taken by our neighboring city toward obtaining the proposed service.

William Erfert, village trustee who has investigated the possibilities of obtaining this much needed service presided at the meeting, giving the outline of the idea and the suggested route to be used by the bus line.

According to Mr. Erfert the

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

President Roosevelt's speech on world affairs, in which he castigated dictatorships and proposed a virtual quarantine of bellicose powers, is perhaps the most important international event of many months. It chartered a definite course which this government is apparently prepared to follow. It was direct, aggressive and, for the head of a government, extremely daring. In the view of the experts, it is believed certain that the British and possibly the French foreign offices were consulted before the speech was made, and that the plan of action laid down by the president is approved by the three great democracies of the world.

Mr. Roosevelt's suggestion is as simple as it is revolutionary. In effect, he said that it might be necessary to place a towering commercial wall around the nations which are responsible for today's war scares and war prospects. Peaceful nations would refuse to export to these countries, and they would not import from them. Little by little, as supplies on hand dwindled, the belligerent powers would find themselves lacking in the raw and finished materials which are essential to life both in peace and in war. Thus, faced with want and privation, they would find it impossible to pursue their dreams of conquest.

The president did not mention any country by name. But it was obvious that he was referring to three powers: Japan, Italy, Germany. Italy has taken over Abyssinia, in disregard of all treaties, by armed force. Japan is attempting to achieve a similar victory in rich North China. And Germany, with Hitler as its spokesman, makes no secret of the fact that it regards colonial expansion as essential.

The world effect of such a declaration of potential policy would have been nowhere near as great had it come from the head of any other country. We are remote from all other major powers. We are peacefully inclined. We are one of the two nations which are economically self contained—that is, which possess within their territorial borders the resources needed to provide every necessity and most of the luxuries of modern life. And, for the past few years, we have been the great question mark in international affairs—we have moved slowly, said little and have kept aloof from participation in world events.

The president's attitude, roughly described, is that we could not escape being involved in a major war, that we must therefore cooperate to prevent war. He gave approval to American cooperation with the League of Nations—which, significantly, is shunned by Germany, Italy and Japan. Out of this has come the belief that in the immediate future the world will be divided into two camps—the democracies and the dictatorships. On the side of the democracies there will also be the only dictatorship which is economically self-sufficient—Russia.

The strength of an alliance between the democracies and the U. S. S. R. is impossible to exaggerate. From either the economic or military standpoint, they are immensely superior to the dictatorships. Japan, Italy and Germany must import tremendous quantities of the basic commodities in order to exist. They must export their own specialties, such as silk and olive oil and wine, in order to obtain foreign credits. Close the world's markets to them, and at the same time forbid them to buy in the democracies, and they would be ruined. And, should they elect to fight, every recognized military expert is certain that they would be doomed to quick and crushing defeat. The U. S. and England have the greatest navies afloat. Russia has the largest and best equipped standing army in the world. The dictatorships have nothing to match these instruments of force.

The president's address has already achieved results. Japan has started a campaign to justify in this country its war in China. Mussolini is talking more softly than is his usual wont. Hitler speaks of peace. And the League of Nations, given new strength by Mr. Roosevelt's stand, is in a far better position to be a major influence than at any time in the past five years, and to resurrect some of its lost prestige.

Summing up, a union of the democracies is designed to achieve two ends. One, to maintain peace. Second, if that fails, to make sure that the ensuing war will be swift and ruinous to the dictatorships.

Out of seven allotments made by the REA according to a report of October 15, five were for projects obtaining power from municipal or cooperative plants.

In 1936, 5,735,000 votes were cast in city elections on the question of whether or not local governments should go into the electric light and power business. Only about 27 per cent of the voters, just a little over a fourth of them, voted in favor of municipal ownership. —Public Service Magazine

OCTOBER - STROLL

A warbler darts among the shrubs,
 Which still are green and dense.
 The cosmos and the marigolds
 Are clustered by a fence.
 The salvia is flaming red
 Beyond spent four-o'clocks,
 And maple leaves are showered down
 Among the hollyhocks.
 The giant dahlias droop their blooms
 Above my head, and see Where woodbine flings a crimson robe
 About an ancient tree.
 The woodland paths are carpeted
 With leaves, to form a mould,
 A hillside flares with sumac's red,
 Or beeches' beaten gold.
 The cornshocks huddle in the field,
 Scared rabbits bound away,
 For crows are calling shrilly, now,
 Along the Autumn day.

Worthy of Mention

Is the thrill that Orman Isaac (Kingfish, Handsome, Senator, Ike, Oily, Louie) Lewis, got when he made his personal appearance before the Supreme Court of the State of Illinois this week. Armed with arguments over purely technicalities in the village's notorious 'Mandamus' suit, Orman Isaac accompanied by his legal consort made their plea and now must wait until December for the judgment. But regardless of how the wind blows in the matter of judgment, the lawyer got his big thrill of a lifetime. His toes were still tingling and his ego expanded like a balloon fish out of water when he arrived back in town Tuesday evening. And that in itself is a grand thing worth mentioning, the ability to thrill so tremendously after one has reached the age of—Oh, well, when one has that many grey hairs.

Also Pete Slager, heading this week, so he says, for Kentucky where the 'corn is full of kernels and the colonels full of corn'. Well Pete, you can do as the colonels do in Kentucky, but don't come home that way.

And there is the local young man who is so full of ardor over his ideas as to right and wrong in the national tax situation that he declares 'I'd glory in going to jail over the thing'. America is still in a healthy and glorious condition when its youth is still so inspired with ideals of right and wrong. Hallelujah!

The gal reporter may be 'dizzy' but she finds that it takes a great deal more, as the years roll by, to over-awe her. For instance, she never turned an eye-lash the other evening when the gentleman nearly snapped her head off over the question of civilization. We aver that nonchalance is a degree of civilization if transportation isn't.

RAIN

All night in savage glee,
 Tossed every branch on every tree,
 Responding to the wind's wild passion.
 Till last the blessing sought is sent;
 With night's grim blackness spent,
 Came morning a new day to fashion,
 Bringing rain, gently, softly patter-
 ing down
 To quench the thirst of the grey dry ground.

Here's Hoping

That the Lions roar so loud, and that the citizens roar with them, that the Commerce Commission just has to hear the noise. In other words, we think the town needs transportation. We think the town wants transportation, and we hope the town goes out after it and GETS IT.

HELP!

Just how does a man go about writing a diplomatic letter on a very diplomatic subject dear to the hearts of some of our fellow citizens.

It seems as tho the Village Fathers have received complaints from certain citizens about their neighbors privys, out-houses, rest-rooms or whatever you wish to call them and that the privies are not doing the same justice to the vicinity as a "Pansy Garden" would do.

Now the Board has instructed me to write a diplomatic letter to the owners of these "Fly Residences" asking them to remove, destroy, vacate, close up or ignore them so that the summer's Balmy air will be more fragrant to the neighbors. I am afraid if I approach these owners on the diplomatic subject that some will say "What has been good enough for father is good enough for me!" And after all I used to spend many restful periods in one myself out on the farm, so I can really sympathize with them. Anyway my big problem is how can I approach these citizens and have them feel kind toward me after requesting them to do away with that diplomatic subject, a person does get attached to traditions and hates to adopt these new-fangled contraptions.

"HANK" Anyone with suggestions that will help "Hank" just send them along, and of course the offenders might take Hank's yelp as an official notice. Look up the WPA and see if that worthy project can't do way with the things as well as build them.

COMING TO THE PARTHENON THEATRE SATURDAY FOR FIVE DAY RUN. "CAPTAINS COURAGEOUS"

Those two child stars, Freddie Bartholomew and Mickey Rooney, who distinguished themselves in the recent "Devil Is a Sissy", are reunited in the filmization of Rudyard Kipling's powerful story of the sea, "Captains Courageous", which comes to the Parthenon screen this week for a five day showing. Freddie plays the boy who is regenerated by the crew of the fishing schooner, "We're Here". Mickey is seen as the son of the ship's captain, played by Lionel Barrymore.

"I'll be glad when it's over. Your eyes seem tired, Brooke."

"Do you wonder? They have looked at the scum and dregs of the underworld, at pictures in rogue galleries, at line-ups, at patients in hospitals, trying to identify the man who ran through my room."

"I heard that the police were sure that Hunt was the man when red paint was found on his shoe."

"The trouble with that clue was that it wasn't his shoe. When he first regained consciousness in the garage, he complained that his feet felt as if they were in iron casts. Then the police with their steam-shovel methods hurried him into the living room of the white cottage. When he saw what lay on the floor he collapsed. After he was taken to the hospital—he's still in a coma—his shoes had to be cut off. Then it was found that they were a size smaller than his at the cottage. The man whom the Cassidy girl saw in the garage must have changed and taken Hunt's shoes. He was a quick worker."

"Bill Harrison may be smart, but what has he done toward clearing up this tragedy? Nothing."

"He wants the case to drop out of the headlines. He says that the guilty parties will then think that the hunt for them is cooling off."

"I wish they'd put me on the force, I'd show them a thing or two." The brim of Mrs. Gregory's large hat flopped in unison with the thump of her cane. "I'm not afraid of bandits. I've ordered some of my jewels from the bank to wear to Sam's play."

"Oh, Mrs. Gregory! Is it safe?" "Safe! Do you think I'll be frightened out of wearing what I like? Besides, lightning never strikes in the same place twice. Lucky the performance is coming off soon; everybody is getting edgy."

"We'll relax tonight. Mark Trent is giving the Fields and Reburns a party in town at that new Supper Club. It was planned for two weeks ago but it was postponed. It seems a century since I have been to a real party."

"Mark needs a change of thought too. It's an ill wind that blows nobody good. Lola is out of his life, thank heaven. But, much as I love you, Brooke, I'll never forgive myself for signing my name as witness to Mary Amanda Dane's will which cut him off."

Brooke's mind whirled and steadied. Mrs. Gregory's signature was not on the will which had been probated; she had made sure of that again recently. Perhaps the one to which she referred had been drawn earlier.

"How could you know what you were signing? Witnesses are not supposed to see the contents of a will, are they? When did you witness it?"

Brooke asked the question quickly. She must know and get the uncertainty off her mind.

"Just a week before Mary Amanda died. Perhaps you remember the day. You drove in just as I went out and—good heavens, I forgot! I promised Jed Stewart that I wouldn't mention it. Forget I told you, Brooke. It wasn't very tactful of me anyway, but when was I ever tactful? I like that rust-color gown on you. Now I suppose every would-be smart woman in town will appear with one like it."

Why had Jed Stewart asked Mrs. Gregory not to mention her signature? Did he suspect dishonesty? Why wonder? Hadn't she been sure for weeks that the two men in Mark Trent's house were there for some other reason than sheer love of a New England village in winter?

The thump of Mrs. Gregory's cane brought her mind to attention.

"I've asked you twice, Brooke, if you thought Sam liked Daphne Field."

"He likes her, Mrs. Gregory, but Sam won't allow himself to go sentimental over anyone at present."

"Allow himself! Then he isn't in love. We may be living in a profoundly changing society, but love hasn't changed. It still strikes like lightning, burns, and if it's the real thing, settles into a steady flame. But I'm glad he doesn't care for the Field girl."

She rose and drew her sable cape about her shoulders. "If you are going to town tonight you ought to be dressing. What are you wearing?"

"An adorable silver frock. It does things to my hair, brings out the copper glints in it."

Mrs. Gregory lingered on the threshold. "Be nice to Mark, Brooke. He's a wonderful boy, don't you think so?"

"I'd hardly call him a boy—he's too dictator-minded, but that's the trend. Chacun a son gout—I've joined a French class—I prefer Jerry Field's type."

Mrs. Gregory expressed her reaction by a denatured snort.

"You prefer Jerry Field! I'd like to take you over my knee and spank sense into you! Good-night!"

Brooke laughed. "Good-night, Mrs. Gregory. Even if you don't approve of me, I hope you'll come again soon."

She was still smiling as she returned to the living-room window for a last lingering look at the colorful west.

"It is unbelievable that all this comfort really is mine," she told herself. "Only a year ago, Brooke Reburn, you were driving a shabby sedan and counting every penny and—"

Memory slashed into her self-congratulation. Mrs. Gregory had witnessed a will a week before Mrs. Dane had died. Where was it? Should she go to Jed Stewart at once and tell him what she had heard? But he knew. He had asked Mrs. Gregory to say nothing about it. Why hadn't he told her? What did it all mean? It gave her a panicky feeling, as if she were wandering blindly in the dark on the edge of a precipice. She poked the fire vigorously. It was a physical outlet to her turmoil of mind.

"Take care, Miss, or you'll set the chimney afire," Henri warned from the threshold.

"I think not. It was thoroughly cleaned when I came here to live."

Why was he puttering? He was drawing the hangings over the windows, pulling a rug in place, refolding the morning newspaper on the desk, fussing about the parrot's cage, a parrot who had lost half of his tail and all his self-assurance since his excursion into the outer world.

He cleared his throat and drew long bony fingers over his slack mouth.

"I—I've been wanting a chance to talk with you since—since we—we found the parrot, Miss."

He was avoiding mention of the tragedy at the filling station. Why?

"What have you to say to me?"

He drew his fingers across his mouth. "It's about that—what happened at the filling station. You know I went to the movies that evening, came home and went to bed. Miss Lucette and the others saw me when I came down to find out what the noise was I heard. You know that after that I dressed and went out to hunt for the parrot, that I brought him in with me, but the police want to check up on me every minute. You can help me very much, Miss."

"How?"

"By swearing that I was in this house at the time of the—robbery at the filling station."

"But, as I remember it, you weren't, Henri. You said that you were hunting for the parrot."

The butler emitted a sound like the snarl of a savage beast at bay.

"You'd better say I was, Miss, or—I'll tell how I found this in your desk." He drew a folded paper from his pocket.

"Mr. Sam has overlooked grand dramatic material right here, Henri. You would steal the show as the villain in his comedy. Just what is 'this'?" Her voice was tinged with amused unbelief.

"Take it, Miss."

Brooke thought of the fangs of a wolf as he smiled his secretive smile. She unfolded the paper and noticed that a tiny corner of the sheet was missing. Mary Amanda Dane's writing! Mrs. Gregory's signature! Henri's. Clotilde's. Was it the will of which Mrs. Gregory had spoken only a few moments ago? How had it come in Henri's possession?

"You say you found this in my desk?"

The butler's greedy eyes glittered like black beads. "Yes, Miss. I'm prepared to swear to that in court unless we can come to terms."

"Why didn't you take it directly to Mr. Trent or Mr. Stewart?" Was her voice as icy as her body felt?

"I thought it was too bad to do that until I found out if you and I couldn't work together. Mr. Mark tried to get in wrong with the old madame." Hatred flamed in his eyes and voice. "Why should I help him?"

Was She Two Persons?

"Will this—this—help him?"

"Read it, Miss."

"I'll wait until I'm alone. The paper is torn. Did you tear it when you—pulled it from my desk?"

Henri's teeth showed between suddenly pallid lips.

"I—I—didn't pull it, Miss. I—I took it careful."

The last word was a whisper. What was there about a torn corner of a sheet of paper to terrify him?

"I'll talk with you about it later, Henri; perhaps—perhaps, as you suggest, we may be able to work together."

"I thought you might see it that way, Miss, but—don't take too long."

Brooke stood rigid, listening until she heard the door to the china closet swing. Curious how she had come to know every sound in this house which had been hers for so short a time. Hers! Was it hers? What was in the paper which Henri would swear he had found in her desk? She had pretended to consider his proposition that they work together merely to get time to decide what she should do.

She raced up the stairs, switched on the light in her boudoir, locked the door behind her.

She spread out the paper on her desk, shut her eyes hard, drew a long breath before she looked. There was not much on the page, but what there was, was in Mrs. Dane's fine writing. The date was that of a week before she died. The words burned into Brooke's mind as if written with a red-hot poker:

"I don't know how to word a formal will, but I hereby give and bequeath all my property real and personal—which I left in a previous will to Brooke Reburn—except the amount as stated in said will to be given to my faithful servants, Henri and Clotilde Jacques, to my nephew Mark Trent, to have and to hold during his life and to dispose of as he wishes. I know now that my ideas of right and wrong should not deprive him of his rightful inheritance. He was a wonderful son. He has been a devoted nephew. I make him sole executor without bonds of my estate. I ask him to provide an income sufficient for frills and fun for my dear young friend, Brooke Reburn."

Brooke studied the signature. Mary Amanda Dane's without a doubt, unless it was a clever forgery, Anne Gregory's name sprawling under it, and Henri's and Clotilde's tight, foreign writing.

Suppose she destroyed this paper which would deprive her of a fortune? A lighted match under it and it would go up in smoke. Who would know? Who would believe Henri against her? Wasn't he already under suspicion in the filling station hold-up? Suppose he did try blackmail? He wouldn't get far with it.

What terrible thing was she thinking? The eyes of the white faced girl who stared back at her from the mirror were big with horror. Was she two persons? Had her other self turned craven? Had that thought changed her face? For an instant she had been a criminal at heart. She, Brooke Reburn, who considered her personal standards of honor and decency of the highest. After this she would understand temptation as she never had understood it before.

A car! Lucette and Sam. She must hurry and dress. Sometime during the evening she would give the paper to Mark Trent. That would be her answer to Henri. Where could she put it meanwhile? She would tuck it inside her frock.

She was fastening the corsage of green orchids Mark Trent had sent her to the front of her gleaming silver frock when she met her brown eyes in the mirror. She dropped the flowers as if they had burned her fingers. She couldn't wear his gift until she was sure that he believed that she had not known until this evening of his aunt's change of mind. Why hadn't he come directly to her when he had heard Mrs. Gregory's story? Because he believed she knew where the will was, that she was dishonest, that was why. Perhaps he was right. What would he think of her if he suspected that for a split second she had thought of burning it?

She would wear Jerry's gardenias; she had chosen Mark the Magnificent's orchids first, simply because he was her host, she assured herself.

She added more color to her white cheeks, to her lips, dusted her face with powder, anything to switch her mind from that nightmare instant of terrifying suggestion.

She waited until she heard her brother's and her sister's doors close before she opened hers. Sam popped his head out and called: "White tie tonight, Brooke?"

"Of course, Sam. Our promising young playwright must be swanky. I've had your top hat ironed and there's a gardenia in a box on your dresser."

She heard his groan of resignation as she started down the stairs.

She stopped on the threshold of the living-room she loved. Now it would be torn up by the roots, all her father's treasures would go back to storage. And her gorgeous flower-windows would be but a dream. Would she be obliged to return the money she had spent? That would mean dragging a ball and chain of debt the rest of her life. Cheerful prospect. Could Mary Amanda Dane's "little friend, Brooke Reburn," see herself accepting from Mark the Magnificent an income sufficient for "frills and fun"? Never. She would have to hunt for a job. But she wouldn't have to hunt—she wouldn't! The Palm beach offer! Had the position been filled? She would send a night letter. Better do it now before Sam and Lucette came down.

As she waited for the telephone call to go through, she told herself that she had learned one inestimable lesson: she had learned that for every person the gateway to success was in himself; that achievement was a matter of keeping on keeping on, of living one's best and trying, everlastingly trying to make that best better.

She gave her message and turned to the fire. She didn't really mind going back to work, she had loved it, but she had planned to do so much for her mother, for Lucette, for Sam.

Sam! Nothing must happen to distract his mind from the production of the play. If she were to produce that will now, the neighborhood, to say nothing of the cast, would palpitate with excitement, the Reburns would have to leave Lookout House at once. She knew nothing of law except that it was as relentless as a juggernaut. What the court decreed had to be done. A producer from New York was coming to see Sam's comedy. The Boston manager wouldn't bring him down unless he thought Sam had talent. The performance was only 48 hours away. Could she keep Henri quiet until then? If she couldn't she was the world's worst actress, and Sam had said that she was good. After the play Mark Trent was to keep open house for cast and audience. She would stay until the last guest had departed, then she would give this will, burning against her skin, to him and fade gracefully from the picture. Better lock it up in her desk until then. It wouldn't be safe to carry it around with her.

Back in her boudoir she locked the paper in an inside drawer of her desk and slipped the key into her bag of silver sequins.

Returning to the living-room, she paused before the portrait above the mantel. "This all means that you and I will be on the move again," she said in a low voice. "On the move, but with banners, Duchess! With banners!" She threw a kiss to the woman in green satin and emeralds who looked back at her gravely.

Sam appeared in the doorway, and Brooke quickly asked: "Have you heard any more particulars about—about what you call the crime wave?"

She perched on the arm of a big chair and looked up at Sam standing with one elbow on the mantel.

"Nope, nothing except the usual lot of wild yarns which roll up like showballs at a time like this. Have you ever thought that one of her ex-lovers might have bumped off the fair Lola?"

"Sam! Where did you hear that?"

"Didn't hear it. That ex-lover motif is a plot, a little thing of my own. It's my conception of what should have occurred to put claws, tearing, digging, ravening claws into the Filling Station Mystery. May use the idea sometime; that's why I asked you to clip all the accounts of the police activities and confessions, if there were any. Have you done it?"

"I have, from every paper I could get hold of. When you want them they are in a manilla envelope in the lower right-hand drawer of my desk. I haven't said anything to you about it but I was afraid that after what had happened, Mark Trent might feel that he could not go on with the play."

"Afraid! That's putting it mildly. I nearly had heart failure till he assured me that he would keep his part. He'll make 'Islands Arise.' He does more than play the lead, he puts glamour into the comedy and warmth and strength and vitality. I told him he was a fighting lover. He looked queer for a minute; perhaps he was thinking that he didn't put up much of a battle for that wife of his who walked off with the French count. Why should he change his plans for a woman like that? The shock of the tragedy has practically worn off. Spirits are picking up and by day after tomorrow everyone will be keen to make whoopee, to get the thing out of their minds. Two days! Boy, but I get cold feet when I think of all that night means to me."

A Very Salutory One

The best part of experience is the scares it puts into you. Boys who run away from home usually repent within a week; and they have learned a valuable, lasting lesson: that imagination can't be trusted.

STAR DUST

Movie • Radio

By VIRGINIA VALE

SOMETIMES a bad break in Hollywood leads to a good one, which is just another way of saying that motion-picture producers are slow to make up their minds. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is going to star Willie Howard, the veteran comic of the stage in a big musical extravaganza, because he was so funny in a skit in "Broadway Melody of 1938."

You never saw the skit, no matter how carefully you watched the picture, because it was cut out. When they first saw it, the officials of the studio didn't think it was so funny, and having to take something out to shorten the picture, they sacrificed what Howard was sure was the most-hilarious skit of his career. Taking another look at the discarded film, officials have decided that it was very funny—so funny that they won't waste Howard's talents in the future.

Ever since Claudette Colbert broke out in "She Met Him in Paris," as an accomplished figure-skater, all the other girls have wanted to show off their proficiency at winter sports. Ruby Keeler, recuperating from her recent illness, is planning for her first starring picture at R. K. O. The story is called "Love Below Freezing" and the big surprise is that skating is the main feature of the picture.

Claudette Colbert

Theater owners all over the country are begging Republic and Grand National officials to speed up production on Westerns starring Gene Autry and Tex Ritter, so that the warbling cowboys will have time to make personal appearance tours. The ever-growing popularity of these two lads is the sensation of the bookkeeping departments.

With the season of big motion pictures only a few weeks old, four of the thirty or so pictures released have made outstanding hits. These are "Prisoner of Zenda" with Ronald Colman and Madeline Carroll, "100 Men and a Girl" with Deanna Durbin, "Thin Ice" with Sonja Henie, and Grand National's "Something to Sing About" with James Cagney. This last is a grand bit of nonsense in which the pugnacious Jimmy sings, dances, and fights his way through a delightful story, aided and abetted by Mona Barrie.

ODDS AND ENDS—Marlene Dietrich's eyebrows that used to extend way out like streamers return to normal in her new picture "Angel" and will probably start a new fashion. Jean Parker made herself a hat, copied from one Gary Cooper wore in "The Plainsman" and now she is very busy helping friends make copies of it. Ronald Sinclair has proven entirely satisfactory in roles intended for Freddie Bartholomew, so it is doubtful that Freddie will get anywhere with his strike for more money.

Simone Simon is going to sing a difficult coloratura aria in her next picture. The studio just found out that she used to make records in France. Bing Crosby wants his friend, Babe Hardy, to play a dramatic role in his new picture, now that the team of Laurel and Hardy have split.

YOU can pay as high as you want for remedies claimed to relieve the pain of Headache, Rheumatism, Neuritis, Sciatica, etc. But the medicine so many doctors generally approve—the one used by thousands of families daily—is Bayer Aspirin—15¢ a dozen tablets—about 1¢ apiece.

Simply take 2 Bayer Aspirin tablets with a half glass of water. Repeat, if necessary, according to directions.

Usually this will ease such pain in a remarkably short time.

BOWLING

By R. O. Hecht

Much rivalry exists between the two Lansing Bowling Leagues. In order to determine which of the two leagues is the superior, a match game has been arranged between the top five men from each league. This match is to be held at St. John's Alleys on the 7th of November at 2:30 p. m. This match is held at the end of the first round of bowling in each league. The match should prove to be very interesting and should be a good match, too, because all of the men involved have an average well over 175. The list of players that will participate is not available at this time because things may change around a bit yet before the 7th of November.

Clean sweeps were in order last week in League 1. We notice that Knot-holes kept their first place position by taking all three from the Legion. Mikos took all three from First Federal. Brickmakers took all three from State Line and Kraay Brothers took all three from the Lions. Dockwellers and Ridge Road Gardens were the only one to divide the spoils, Ridge Road Gardens losing one game out of three to Dockwellers. There seems to be quite a tussle for last place in League 1 between the Lions, First Federal and the Legion. The Lions have won three games out of 15 starts and the Legionnaires and the First Federal boys have won but two games out their 15 starts. All the boys are expecting these three teams to start going soon and when they do, well, we are wondering what will happen to League 1.

The Brickmakers went to town last Thursday night when they shot a high series of 2617. Their high game was 889 and Melvin Vierk, their Ace, shot a series total of 629, his high game being 229.

Turning to League 2 we note that clean sweeps were also in order. Meeters took three from Louie while Padjens took three from Gid. Lansing Pharmacy kept close to Padjens heels by taking all three from Slager Bros. Lansing Motors took all but one game from Hopman.

Next week will be a crucial week for the Pharmacy men and for Padjens boys as well. These two teams are on top of the league and Padjen has a one game advantage over the druggists. Both teams are shooting pretty good at present, and a real match is expected next Tuesday night at 7:00 p. m.

Good Thoughts For Good People

We can better help another by fanning a glimmer of goodness than by censuring his faults.
 —Elizabeth Gibson

The truly humble Christian does not inquire into his neighbor's faults; he takes no pleasure in judging them; he is occupied wholly with his own.
 —Athanasius

Would you win all the world for Christ?
 One way there is and only one;— You must live Christ from day to day
 And see His will be done.
 —John Oxenham

The issue lies not in whether our neighbor is accepting or rejecting truth, but whether we are accepting or rejecting the truth about him.
 —Yoder

We must waken to see each other in the light of Truth and Love, far above the evidence of the physical senses. We must persistently expect the expression of spiritual man in others, even as we are assiduously looking for this expression in ourselves.
 —The Christian Science Journal

Strengthen ye the weak hands, and confirm the feeble knees. Say to them that are of a fearful heart, Be strong, fear not . . . And the ransomed of the Lord shall return and come to Zion with songs and everlasting joy upon their heads.
 —Isaiah 35

PROPOSE BUS ROUTE INTO CHICAGO LOOP

 route would start at Torrence avenue and Ridge Road going east on Ridge Road to Wenworth, north to Calumet City to State street thence west to Dolton, Ill., from there the line would continue into the city over the company's present Loop route.

Low Rates
 Prices as suggested at present would be about 45 cents one way trip, 70 cents round trip and the purchase of a book of tickets would bring the single rides down to about 27 cents.

Mr. Erfert's statement was affirmed by Mr. Haslet from the bus company who assured the assembly that the company would provide good, safe, comfortable busses operated by capable drivers, the same as used on the company's other routes.

Hourly Schedule
 The company's plans at present, should the line be placed in operation, are to provide hourly service beginning at 6:25 a. m. and continuing until 9:35 p. m. from Lansing, with the last bus for Lansing leaving the Loop at 11:05 p. m. This schedule, he later explained would be modified to accommodate daily passengers working in the Loop who needed to be on duty at 9 o'clock.

 Estimates as to the running time for the trip over the proposed route were given at approximately one hour and twenty minutes.

Calumet City interested
 Mr. Chambers, the attorney who represents the Calumet City Chamber of Commerce and who drew that city's petition to the Commerce Commission, speaking briefly, advised the group to authorize some organization to take the initiative in drawing and circulating the petition to the Commerce Commission and to ask the cooperation of all organizations in the village.
 At the request of Mr. Erfert Mr. Chambers consented to supply the village with a copy of the petition submitted by Calumet City.

The cooperation of the two towns will undoubtedly give weight to the request, both towns will benefit by the proposed bus line.

Lions Club To Act
 A motion was made to place the framing of the Lansing petition and its circulation in the hands of the local Lions club, of which William Winterhoff is the president. The motion received the unanimous support of the gathering. Mr. Winterhoff accepted the responsibility in behalf of the Lions. He stated that the Lions had already gone on record as willing to give any support possible to the movement for the bus line.

The date of the Commerce Commission hearing has not been made public but according to the bus line representative it will be announced some time next week.

Calumet City was represented at the last meeting of the body by a delegation numbering over sixty. It was thought advisable that Lansing should send as large a group as possible. The Bus Company volunteered to provide transportation for those who would attend the hearing.

Citizens' Opinion
 Several citizens at the meeting voiced opinions on the subject, all agreeing that the line was very much needed. H. F. W. Schultz, of the Schultz and Frank Realty firm spoke briefly of the need of a Chicago bus line from Lansing through South Chicago, and its industrial district. He expressed the opinion that a more direct route north to the city would probably be of greater advantage to the village.

Mr. Haslet, replied by stating that the likelihood of getting the proposed route as an extension to the Safeway bus company's present routes was better than the chances of obtaining a permit for an entirely new route. Outlining a new route and obtaining a permit from the Commerce Commission might require several years before it could be pushed through.

Mr. Schultz expressed himself as heartily in favor of Chicago transportation and said he would support the proposed petition.

It is understood that the copy of Calumet City's petition will be in Mr. Winterhoff's hands within a few days and that Lansing's petition will at once be drawn and circulated. The ardent support of every citizen of the village will undoubtedly be given the petition.

Lansing, lying just south of the city of Chicago within an hour's drive of the Loop has absolutely no means of direct public transportation into the city.

Travelers into Chicago must either take the Hammond bus, go into Indiana, change in Hammond to either another bus, the surface street car lines or the South Shore Line into the city. Going by bus or street car necessitates other changes in the city before reaching the Loop. The only other alternative is to drive west to Harvey, Homewood, or other stations on I. C. Railroad and use that route into the city.

REV. DE LEEUW TO ADDRESS C. I. A.

Rev. C. DeLeeuw will address the members and friends of the Christian Labor Union, on a very timely subject at the regular meeting of the organization, Monday evening, October 25, at 7:45.

All members and friends are urged to be present at this meeting as it is the first of a series of meetings at which the local pastors will deliver messages to the association.

"MAKE A WISH", STARRING BOBBY BREEN NOW PLAYING AT THE PARAMOUNT THEATRE THRU SAT.

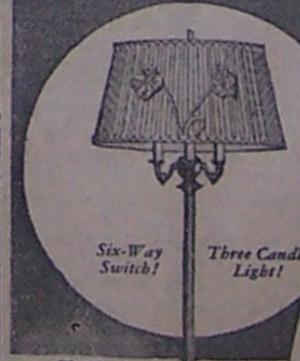

Here's a quartette of comedians who make merry in Bobby Breen's new starring picture, "Make A Wish", with Lenoid Kinskey, on right, as an artistic grocer who brooks no interference from Henry Armetta, second from left, when he tries to construct a tin-can miniature of a stage setting. This is intended for the instruction of Armetta and his two song writing partners, Donald Meek, left, and Leon Errol at Armetta's left. "Make A Wish" now playing at the Paramount ends Saturday. Basil Rathbone, one of the most polished actors in the profession, and Marion Clarke, well known singer of the musical stage, opera and the radio, supply the romantic interest in Bobby Breen's music drama. Among the attractions coming to the Paramount are "Mr. Dodd Takes The Air" with Kenny Baker which plays Sunday only and "Varsity Show" with Dick Powell and Fred Waring which opens a six day run on Monday.

"God of the 2.5"

The honor of being the most romantic ship figurehead in existence goes to "Tecumseh," which was taken from the United States navy's ship Delaware, launched in 1820. The figurehead now stands on the campus of the U. S. Naval academy at Annapolis.

To cadets it's "God of the 2.5"—that being the academy's passing mark for examinations. Brash indeed is the cadet who does not stand and venerate "Tecumseh" before exam time.

The weather-beaten old Indian pleads with the gods of chance for the cadets in other things, too. As the regiment marches off to the Army-Navy football game, each company stops and solemnly salutes "Tecumseh."

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Be Chic This Fall in Fine Lace

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

LACE, lace lace! Write it down on your shopping memoranda as many times as you wish and then add a postscript in favor of lace, for lace reaches a new high this season in the matter of importance. Yes, indeed, if you are seeking style distinction, the sooner you turn laceward the better.

What the style creators of our day and generation are doing with lace in the way of daring and ingenious handling leaves nothing to the imagination. For instance, there are the stunning lace trimmed black sheer wool dresses that bear the Paris stamp and carry that "something different" look which we all covet. Perhaps it is the sleeves banded with insertions of fine black Chantilly that bespeak a new lace story, or it may be that befrilled edgings of Val edging (black or white) impart a charming and youthful air to a simple black wool frock for practical daytime wear. The way Val lace is used for neckline finishings and for outlining decorative little pockets, likewise for trimming the new blouses is most enchanting.

Another adaptation of lace is in insets and appliques of individual motifs. These are positioned anywhere on the dress much after the manner that gay print motifs were used on monotone fabric during the past summer. While these insets, which are apt to be bowknot or bouquet cutouts, adorn evening gowns for the most part yet some designers work them discreetly and most attractively into daytime wools and other fabrics. This furore over lace has also resulted in the revival of the dress with a deep lace yoke and sleeves. Leading couturiers are showing some lovely models of this type.

The biggest thrill, however, comes in the acceptance of lace used in a fabric way. The idea, to be sure, is not new for its practicality has been demonstrated without question during the last several seasons. Nor has the advent of fall and prospect of winter retarded the movement to use lace as one would any material for the making of practical day dresses and the blouse to wear with your autumn wool suit. On the contrary we have come to realize and appreciate that a handsome lace dress tailored to utmost simplicity is not only good looking and practical but being lace it flatters and "does something" for you as none other but lace can do.

You'll love a dress like the one shown to the right in the illustration to wear this fall and winter under your furred cloth or all-fur coat. Just try out the idea and see how practically and logically this theory of lace for the daytime frock works out. This tailored frock of black lace over a black slip fits ideally into the mood for simple elegance that dominates the new fashions. It is an almost classic style accenting the slenderizing lines that are a fashion "must" this season. The zipper fastening from neckline to hemline is the piece de resistance, giving the gold touch that glorifies black this season throughout the mode. Speaking of this fastening, most everything, dress, coat, blouse, bag and girde, is decoratively at the same time practically and conveniently zippered this season.

If in doubt as to the new blouse to wear with your autumn suit, let lace, either handsome wool lace or the now-so-modish macrame or some equally as sturdy type, solve your problem. In a noted Paris collection showing new clothes for fall, Martial et Armand presented the black crepe suit with silver fox which we are showing to the left in the picture. The most outstanding thing about the ensemble is the combination of lace with crepe. Lace is also being combined with many other fabrics in the fall showings of eminent French designers. In this case the blouse is of china-blue lace with interesting neck treatment. A black belt accents the color contrast.

Random Items Make This Gridiron Show Bit More Confusing

JUST to make this game of football more confusing:

Rio Grande junior college is in Ohio. Dixie college is in Utah. Virginia college is in Minnesota, Kansas has a Pittsburg Teachers' college.

There are three Loyolas (Maryland, Louisiana, California). St. Marys exist in the same proportion (California, Texas and Michigan), not to forget Mount St. Mary's college of Maryland. There are Xaviers in New Orleans and Cincinnati. Iowa has Cornell college and Columbia college to rival the somewhat better-known institutions in New York state.

Purdue in its first seven games plays teams from seven states, meeting Indiana opponents only in its first and last contests. Princeton meets only one New Jersey foe in eight games with teams from eight states. Yale tops them all off, playing no teams from Connecticut, its home state.

Centenary college is playing teams from six states in twelve games, playing in three different states on three successive Saturdays against Louisiana, Oklahoma and Texas. Penn State plays five Pennsylvania opponents in eight games.

Woodrow Wilsons are becoming a fad. In 1934 the El Paso School of Mines had a W. W. as quarterback and captain. In 1936 Denton Teachers and Ohio U. had Woodrow Wilsons as players, while Army's presidential namesake will be in action again this year.

This indicates that about 1952 the gridiron rosters will be filled with names of "Franklin Delano Roosevelt," Ginsburgs, Schimmelpfennigs and Bradleys.

Pitt appears to have only five alumni in the head coaching ranks, Jock Sutherland at Pitt, Lloyd Jordan at Amherst, Bill Kern at Carnegie Tech, Harvey Harman at Penn and Jack Harding at Miami. Little Springfield of Massachusetts has at least ten graduates coaching college teams, including Carl A. Davis whose Cortland Teachers college (N. Y.) elevens have lost only two games in five years.

Little College Grads Coach Big Time Teams

Football powers having little college graduates for their coaches include:

Dana X. Bible, Texas, coached by Dana X. Bible of Carson-Newman.

Indiana, coached by Bo McMillan of Centre college in Kentucky.

Southern Methodist, coached by Madison Matty Bell from Centre college.

California, coached by L. B. Allison of Carleton college, Minnesota.

California Tech, coached by W. L. Stanton of Dickinson college, Pa. Brown, coached by D. O. McLaughry of Westminster college, Pa.

California U. at Berkeley is playing 11 games this season and playing the same teams as last year. Bowdoin, Carnegie Tech, Grinnell college and Kansas U. also are playing the same opponents as in 1936.

George Washington has dropped five 1936 foes, including Emory and Henry, Elon, Rice, Davis and Elkins and Catawba. The 1937 Haskell schedule includes seven teams not played last year.

Coach Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern has a junior college namesake, Waldorf J. C. of Iowa.

"E's" comprise one half of the Drake coach's name, Vee Green.

Colleges that seem to have sought manly names include: Alfred, New York; Alva, Oklahoma; Arnold, Connecticut; Austin, Texas; Edmond, Oklahoma; Hiram, Ohio; Luther, Iowa.

Also there is a Howard college in Alabama, a Howard university in Washington, D. C., and Howard Payne in Texas.

And for all of this information you can render thanks to a modest Pennsylvania gentleman who dotes upon digging up such data for this department each season.

NOT IN THE BOX SCORE:

He was born without any proboscis and recently the artificial one was broken so badly that another had to be constructed—Middleweight Solly Kreiger is busily seeking the 2,000 signatures which will enable him to enter the Kings County City Councilman race—Bert Nichols, home pro, held the competitive-course record of 69 for 14 years, yet failed to qualify in the Belmont Open—On Thompson street, a bit off Washington square, there is a Di Maggio block. The signs on three stores, side by side, read "Di Maggio, Meats; Di Maggio, Candles and Cigars; Di Maggio, Groceries."

A syndicate of Americans will try to persuade Cubans to go to the dogs next winter. They will operate a greyhound racing track in Havana—Dog men, by the way, marvel at the almost human intelligence shown by Court Jester, who already has won $20,000 in purses. Instead of running to his handler's blanket after races are over as other dogs do, Court Jester proudly parades in front of the grandstand. Receives his acclaim with obvious pleasure, too—Boston's Wonderland park is the busiest dog track in the country, with the average attendance being 16,000 and the average betting being $187,000 for 62 nights—The record dog-racing crowd was the 80,000 at London's White City derby this year.

on the big time with a bang. With proper sanction a group of alumni handed out $600 scholarships for outstanding athletic and scholastic ability, thereby giving young Coach Bill Kern some chance to compete in the tough Pittsburgh market. It is just as well that the alumni thought about it, too. The Carnegie schedule contains scarcely a breathing space for the performers.

Three of them are sons of the celebrated Jimmy Quinn, who played for Glasgow Celtic and Scotland 30 years or so ago. The other two are Jimmy's nephews—Pat Whelan, former American A. A. star who coached the celebrated Skiba brothers trio of Brookhatts fame, is the man who interested Mike Griffin in getting that $85,000 soccer stadium for Bayonne—Philadelphians say that although Temple's Pop Warner looks as though he didn't have a dime he probably is football's wealthiest coach. They add that, although he hates to have it mentioned, he probably gives more money away in a week than the average guy does in a year, often to old Carlisle Indians.

Tony Canzoneri has become a dyed-in-the-wool racing fan... The new Hollywood, Fla., racetrack will ask for the same dates as Hialeah park next winter, and won't there be fun then... Joseph E. Honey Hunters' Pal Shows His Valor

Bees by Hatful Fail to Sting Jersey Apiarist

While most people prefer to maintain a distant acquaintance with bees, Henry Brown of Cape May Court House, N. J., shows he is on more than speaking terms with the honey hunters by pouring them over his head after collecting a hatful of the busy creatures. Brown's display of nerve took place at a beekeepers' picnic. Brown, who is a professional beekeeper, says he has never been stung. Bees, he says, are perfectly harmless if they are not disturbed or annoyed. He handles thousands of them without danger in his apiary every year.

STARFISH PRINCESS

She'll star in aquatic events at Long Beach, Calif. No pun intended, but Miss Aileen Zulawnick has been selected as the "Starfish Princess" to preside in fall and winter events at the famous southern California beach resort. She is shown in her starfish costume.

Fossilized Bones

Bones of prehistoric animals are found by the Eskimos about Nome, Alaska. The Eskimos call them "ivories" and make finely carved bears, dogs, reindeer and other designs from them. The actual fossils have an ancient brown appearance which is sometimes "faked" by unscrupulous salesmen. But the Eskimos know the true variety and will not carve their interesting trinkets from anything else.
