LIONS CLUB SEES MOVIES OF GOLF TOURNAMENT

Lansing Lions had a chance to see themselves as others see them the other day when J. Arthur Meeter showed the motion picture film of the Lions during their recent golf tournament, at the club meeting. Lions teeing off, Lions going too and from the club house, Lions smiling broadly into the very face of the camera (and was he surprised) and Lions hunting lost balls, they were all in the film and evidently they were good, for they are considering inviting the ladies out some evening to see the film.

The club meeting was held Tuesday night in the parlors of the M. E. church with the ladies of the church serving the supper.

Peter Slager wrote the final chapter to the first Lions golf tournament by presenting the trophies won by the boys on that occasion. Otto Fulker took first place and Cornel Kuipers second place. Neither of them had played golf before, their handicap gave them the chance at the Lion golf title.

Emil Rauguth, who is chairman of the committee arranging the Armistice Day program told the club of the tentative plans for that celebration and these plans were approved. The club is cooperating with the American Legion in preparing this program which is to be held in the auditorium of the Indiana avenue school November 11.

Mr. Rauguth is also managing the Lions plan for a basket ball team for the boys of the village. The first tryouts for this team are to be held at the Coolidge school Thursday evening November 4. Any Lansing boy who is not attending high school may try out for this team, which will most likely be entered in one of the district leagues for play.

BOWLING

By R. O. Hecht

Last week Wednesday night, the Knot-holes went right on with their winning streak by taking all three games from Ridge Road Gardens. Knot-holes have a pretty good team and are now well out in front of League 1. They shot high team series last week with a total of 2479. Buck Weaver helped out on this by getting a 204 game and a total of 558. Kraay Brothers moved right along again and defeated Mikos twice. The toughest match of the season was between the two last place teams, First Federal and the Legion men. These two teams were in a tie for last place and now the Legion has established its headquarters all by itself in the basement of League No. 1. The Legion dropped two games to the Federal boys last Thursday night. Dockwellers took two from the State Line men and the Lions, on Friday night, came to life and defeated the strong Brickmakers team. This last match was quite an upset for the Brickmakers. The Lions and the First Federal men have come to life now and this is expected to tighten up things in the League.

Melvin Vierk again shot high for the week when he turned in a total of 602 pins, his high game was 223. Emil Rauguth had a high game of 221. The men who will probably represent League No. 1 in the "Big Five" play-off on Sunday November 7th, will probably be; R. Schultz, W. Weaver, Melvin Vierk, E. Rauguth and Paul Sass. The men who will represent League No. 2 will probably be C. Hecht, R. Blank, R. Hecht, A. Hoeksma and E. Finnegan.

Turning to League No. 2, we notice that Padjens men really shot two good, in fact very good,

STUDENTS MAY SEE CHI-BELOIT GAME

An announcement was made this week that any school boy or girl in Lansing may see the Chicago vs. Beloit football game on November 13, for the small sum of 25 cents. A group of young folks will be taken to the game through the courtesy of the Federal Recreation Project of Calumet Memorial Park district.

The 25 cents is to cover transportation charges. Safeway buses are to be used and there is to be several adults in charge of the group. Those wishing to go may leave their money with the teacher at their school before November 10.

Gerald Wright of Lansing, one of the directors of the project at the park, is to be in charge of the trip.

T. F. PLANS EIGHTH ANNUAL CARNIVAL

Kay McCloskey, Lansing senior at Thornton Fractional, has been selected by her class as their candidate for queen of the annual fall carnival, November 19. Fred Dahlkamp, Meteor football captain, is the senior representative for king.

In competition with them on the night of the festival, when the final selection will be made, will be Frank Pawlak and Gloria Poppen, freshmen; Edward Stokes and Evelyn Cassidy, sophomores; and Joe Siwinski and Gloria Mundo, juniors. The eight candidates were chosen by popular vote, each class having the right to name its favorite boy and girl.

This year's carnival, which is the eighth the school has held, will be more varied and interesting than any in the past. In addition to the usual stage show in the auditorium, there will be dancing, movies, sideshows, concessions of various types, and refreshments in the cafeteria. A special swimming carnival will feature Miss Arlita Smith, national lowboard diving champion. Miss Smith, a former T. F. graduate, is a Calumet City girl.

Over 300 students and 30 faculty members are engaged in preparations. Miss Anna Schmidt, dean of girls, is the general chairman, and Miss Alta Stauffer is directing the stage show. Chairmen of committees are as follows: Mr. B. Miller, properties; Miss Burkle, costumes; Mr. Blanke, programs; Mrs. Canaga, ushers; Miss McKeehan, check room; Mr. Lambka, election of king and queen; Miss Stewart; food; Miss Brummett, concessions; Mr. Allen, movies; Mr. Stapley, publicity; Mr. Young, swimming carnival, and Miss Jaacks, finance.

CHURCH HONORS CHARTER MEMBERS

Special honors were conferred upon Mr. and Mrs. Herman Bultema, Sr., at the First Reformed church of Englewood Sunday when that church celebrated its 50th anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Bultema are the only living charter members of the church which they helped found fifty years ago.

games to defeat their rivals, Lansing Pharmacy, two times. This match was the best bowled match of the season in League No. 2. Both teams shot some very good games. The scores were as follows: Padjens shot 945-778-918 for a total of 2641, Lansing Pharmacy shot 848-884-852 for a total of 2585. Padjens are now in first place by two games. Ed. Streunfert helped a lot in the last game when he shot 248.

The other results in League No. 2 were: Slagers took two from Gids. Meeters trimmed Lansing Motors twice and Pannys Hopman boys took Louie for two.

P. T. A. TO MEET AT INDIANA AVE SCHOOL TUESDAY

"Horace Mann's contribution to American Public Education" is to be the theme of the address that will be heard on the program of the November Parent-Teachers meeting which is to be held at the Indiana avenue school next Tuesday evening, November 2.

The program is to follow a short business session and will include a vocal solo by William Smith. Gerald B. Peterson from the Indiana university extension center speakers bureau is to give the talk.

A social hour is to follow the program and refreshments will be served.

CHRISTENING AT TRINITY SUNDAY

Rev. Alex Guebert held christening services for the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruno Draugmeister in Trinity church Sunday afternoon at 1:30. The baby was given the name of Carol Joyce with Mr. Vernon Reckow, Miss Esther Reckow and Mrs. Amelia Freeman standing as sponsors for her.

CHICAGO AGAIN PLANS FOR HUGE STOCK SHOW

Chicago, Oct. 28—Farmers and stockmen from many states, several Canadian provinces, as well as from Australia, South Africa, and South America have thus far listed entries of livestock and crops for the 1937 International Live Stock Exposition.

The exposition will be held in the new International Amphitheatre at the Chicago Stock Yards November 27 to December 4.

Predict Record Entry
According to Secretary — Manager B. H. Heide, the early entry is the heaviest in the history of the show, which leads him to predict that this year's event will be a record one in number of exhibits. There were over 14,000 head of livestock shown at the 1936 exposition.

It will be the 38th annual renewal of this largest exposition of farm animals and crops on the continent. Prizes will total over $100,000, distributed over contests which will feature all breeds of beef cattle, draft and light horses and ponies, sheep, and swine.

Spectacular horse shows will take place every evening from the opening to the closing days. The finest riding and driving horses and ponies in this country and Canada will be seen in contest for prize ribbons in these events.

Big Crops Exhibit
The world's largest crops exhibit, the International Grain and Hay Show, will be held for the 19th time in connection with the exposition. Growers from 37 states, Canada, and Australia took part in this contest last year. The management expects an even wider and more extensive display of exhibits this year because of the good crop yields in most sections of the continent.

Special low round trip fares have already been scheduled for the week of the exposition by many of the railroads entering Chicago to accommodate the thousands who will visit this premier annual showing of the nation's livestock and farming industries.

Trapping and selling of rabbits is now illegal in Illinois for the first time. The Department of Conservation is preparing to enforce the law. The rabbit season opens November 10. The new game code adopted by the last general assembly provides that a hunter may have in his possession not more than 24 quail, instead of the 36 formerly allowed.

GOSPEL MISSION TO HOLD MEETINGS

Evangelistic meetings are to be conducted by the Oak Glen Gospel Mission during the latter part of this week according to an announcement made recently. The meetings began Wednesday evening, October 27 and will continue through Sunday. Services at 7:30 each evening.

Edwin Van Til is to be the speaker and an invitation has been extended to the public to attend.

R. A. SCHROEDER LOSES FATHER

Sympathy was being extended to Richard A. Schroeder of Chicago avenue at the loss of his father, Fred Schroeder, of S. Chicago, who passed away Monday. The funeral services were being held this afternoon from the Bethlehem Evangelical Lutheran church of South Chicago, burial to be in the Oak Hill cemetery, Hammond.

AUTO SHOW SET TO OPEN NOV. 6

Surprises and thrills galore await the hundreds of thousands who will visit the 38th annual Chicago Automobile Show, which is set for its gala inaugural a week from next Saturday (Nov. 6) at the International Amphitheatre, Halsted and 43rd streets. The classic will continue daily, including Sunday, for one week through November 13.

Except for the first day, when the show opens at 2 p. m., the hours will be 11 a. m. to 11 p. m., with "Fashions of the World" presentations each afternoon and evening in the central arena. A. C. Faeh, show manager, announces that the price of 55 cents, including tax, will prevail uniformly for those who attend either during the day or evening.

For the past two weeks, contests have been carried on to select the most beautiful and typical young women of 20 nations who will participate in the "Fashions of the World". The spectacular showmanship will be further enhanced by the latest styles in furs and evening gowns, as well as native costumes, all combining to glorify the 1938 creations of motordom.

The show, under the auspices of the Chicago Automobile Trade Association, will be directed by experts who know all the arts of showmanship, and who are imbued with a determination to make the forthcoming presentation superior even to those thrilling efforts of the past in Chicago. Manager Faeh heads the staff, which includes Frank J. Kennedy, widely known in the theatrical world, as technical director and co-producer; Miss Kathryn Wilson of New York, noted stylist and color authority, and Mr. Becker.

Trailers will share the spotlight with the beautiful motor cars, women and styles in the central arena. There will also be a camp effect in the trailer section, a diorama depicting the evolution of highway transportation in the truck section, and a host of fascinating eye-catchers in the passenger car division, created by the manufacturers themselves.

Safety will be much in the limelight by reason of a contest sponsored by the Keep Chicago Safe Committee headed by Mayor Edward J. Kelly among high school students of the city. Prize-winning safety posters and slogans, the work of the pupils, will be on display.

A parade of civic groups and school children in costume and a series of historical pageants featured a celebration, held in Springfield October 22-26, of the 100th anniversary of the removal of the state capital from Vandalia to Springfield.

SCHOOL STAGES ANNUAL ACHIEVEMENT MEETING

Students of the Lansing public schools staged their annual model achievement meeting at the Indiana avenue school last Friday evening, discussing the affairs of the achievement club in correct parliamentary order, each of the classes from both schools having representation. Nancy Dyer, president of the Indiana avenue school club presided at the meeting. Other offices were divided between the two clubs.

In the program that followed the achievement meeting the children of the Coolidge school presented a playlet entitled, "An Early Start". This was cleverly acted and greatly appreciated by the audience. Jeanette Mills and Myra Toussaint each did a tap dance, Joyce Isaacson sang a solo and Joan Van Laningham played an accordion solo, she was accompanied by Luella Lorenz.

An international song festival was the concluding number on the program. It was staged by the boys and girls choruses, the various numbers being presented in costume.

The teachers who arranged and directed the program are certainly to be congratulated.

ARTHUR BAUMAN CALLED SUDDENLY

Arthur Richard H. Bauman, 24, passed away suddenly at his home Monday afternoon at 5:45 o'clock. Death was attributed to heart failure. Although Mr. Bauman was known to be afflicted with heart trouble, the sudden death came as a severe shock to his parents, as he had apparently been feeling well only a few minutes before. He was the only child of Henry and Navie Bauman.

Arthur was a graduate of Thornton Fractional high school, had been a student at the University of Illinois and was at the present time attending a school on engineering in Chicago. He had recently been employed by the Edwards Valve company of East Chicago until his enrollment in the engineering school. An ardent stamp collector, he was a member of the National Philatelist Society.

The body lay in state in the Neldow funeral chapel in Hammond Tuesday and Wednesday, being taken Wednesday night by train to Pulaski, Ind., to the home of an aunt, Mrs. Schuyler Budd, where it rested until the funeral services which were held Thursday afternoon from the Presbyterian church.

Arthur's friend, Richard Babbit, accompanied the body from Hammond to Pulaski. Babbit, Kenneth Young and Howard Benson of Lansing served as pall bearers together with three out of town friends of the dead youth.

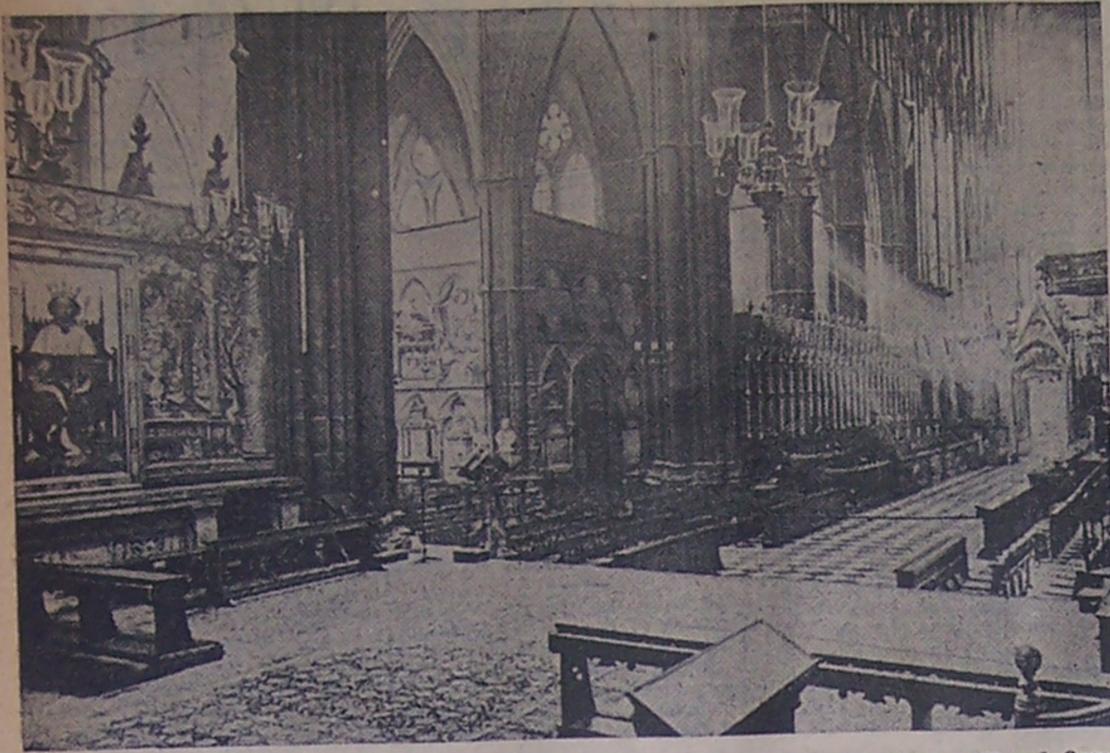

MUELLER CHILD CHRISTENED SUNDAY

Rev. H. H. A. Harthun officiated at the christening services conducted Sunday morning during the English service at St. John's Lutheran church for the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Mueller. The child was given the name of Charles Henry. His sponsors were Mrs. Carl Mueller and Mrs. Martha Bell.

A dinner was given at the Mueller home for the sponsors and other near relatives after the service.

Westminster Abbey Returns to Normal

Reopened to the public recently, for the first time since the coronation of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, Westminster abbey showed the results of some renovating and restoration work. For the first time in centuries, parts of the abbey were cleaned and portions of it restored. View shows the choir and the crossing.

"Nuts to You, Willie Squirrel"

Life for Willie, pet squirrel owned by Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Britten of Greenville, Tenn., is just one dentist chair after another. Willie's front teeth began to curve backward toward the roof of his mouth and his owner carted him off to the dentist to have them ground off. The dentist opined that Willie eats too much prepared food. "Nuts to you, Willie," says the dentist.

Wrestlers Try a "Mud Match"

In the first "mud match" in history, Sandor Szabo, Hungarian, defeated the Hindu, Prince Bhu Pinder, in 12 minutes at San Francisco. In the picture, in case you don't recognize him, the prince is on top. The combatants were covered from head to foot with the good wet earth when it was all over.

FIRESIDE CHAT FROM TOPEKA

America desperately needs an effective minority party. It should not have to rely on insurgents within the Democratic Party for the leadership and votes to oppose such projects as President Roosevelt's court plan. Under the conditions silence may have been the most useful role of the Republicans. They had only seventeen senators and about one-fourth of the House of Representatives; denunciation would have been partially discounted as selfish partisanship.

This latter fact points directly to the real weakness of the minority. It needs to regain the confidence, yes, the friendship, of the American people. The Republican Party need not resort to "out-Santa Clausing Santa". Indeed, such a course only destroys confidence. Pressure groups are indeed powerful, but Americans have not yet become a people seeking only to live on federal charity. Fundamentally they still respond to ideals, to vision, and to leadership.

The party which seeks to win their confidence must come with those qualities. It must have something of the dynamic inspiring idealism and human sympathy which founded the Republican Party. It need not promise the moon, but it may well hitch its wagon to a star. It needs something more than the mobilizing of discontents. If the contest is to be between "aginners", those who are against standpattism will outnumber those who question Roosevelt methods. The age has become newly critical of motives, more critical of them, perhaps, than of methods.

The party which is to become effective in opposition must convince the people that its motives are right, that its opposition is sincerely devoted to preservation of essential constitutional liberties and a free economy. If its program is dominated by those who contribute most largely to campaign funds, there will still be suspicions that it is more interested in preserving merely the liberty of the economically powerful to control the government.

An opposition party needs more than sound criticism of hasty legislation and faulty administration. It cannot supply the nation's need by harping on personality or exaggerating dangers of regimentation. It cannot meet the demand for constitutional reform by ballooning a Black incident. It must do more than pick at mistakes. It must have a program. And its program cannot be half free-economy and half tariff subsidies. It cannot regain leadership by opposing administrative reorganization without actively driving for civil service reform.

An effective opposition party needs to put principles so definitely to the fore that personal rivalries will be lost. And the present minority needs just now to remove the growing appearance of a Hoover-Landon schism over leadership. It needs to make an appeal that will not only keep the "seventeen million" of 1936 in line but will appeal to millions of New Deal Republicans and independents. It needs either to drive ahead with the Hoover plan for a rebirth convention next year or to find some other practical means for regaining a positive active role.

These requirements are onerous, no doubt. But with real sincerity and idealism they are not impossible. American parties have met them before. In his radio speech Governor Landon spoke of the need for a yardstick to measure public officials. The needs for effective opposition may themselves constitute some kind of a yardstick by which to measure present leadership of the Republican Party and the speech at Topeka.

RESULTS OF POPULAR EDUCATION

The world is making a great experiment, says a teacher of history, as to what will happen when everybody is taught to read. In former centuries only a small part of the world's population could read. Even now, there are many countries in which only a small proportion can read. But the reading book is going almost everywhere now.

What will these new readers do? They will not submit tamely to oppression and suffering as their ancestors did. A little knowledge is said to be a dangerous thing. The people of some countries are doing such foolish things, that it may be said they were better off when they could not read.

It is not enough for people merely to learn to read. They often read the wrong things, and don't read the books and newspapers that would help them to improve their living conditions. The reading book is the foundation of all knowledge, but practical judgment and the obligations of citizenship also have to be developed.

EXTRA! EXTRA!

(By O. Wulfling)

Signs of the Times

Witches, moon and brooms against the sky, black cats and pumpkin faces, small boys on mischief bent, and some not so small, soaping windows, flat tires? (Not when Vans about) And methinks thereby is an excellent moral. Most problems when faced squarely can be reasoned away, and that is what the big cop seems to have accomplished. Just kindly reasoned the boys into wholesome fun on Hallowe'en instead of deprecatory mischief. Here's to you E. Van Laningham.

And while we are speaking of cops, here's one about:

The Hard Boiled Cop

You think I'm a hard boiled copper
 For writing a man at 43.
 Well, perhaps I'm thinking of Jackie
 And all that had meant to me.

How's that? Tell you all about it?
 Well, stranger, this boy was my son.
 God, what I'd give to hear 'daddy'
 Once more when the day's work is done.

The driver was just in a hurry;
 He didn't mean any harm.
 But the sun and the stars quit shining
 When I picked up my boy's lifeless form.

Well, mister, I'll not give you a ticket,
 I don't want to pinch anyone,
 But, I'd ride this motor through hell
 To protect any other man's son.

So the next time you feel like speeding,
 Or passing a boulevard stop,
 Just pause and remember my Jackie
 The son of a hard boiled cop.

Autumn

Is believed by some to be the most thrilling season of the year, it is without question the most colorful, and certainly inspiring to

"Early Frost"

The zinnia bows her golden head
 As slowly ebbs away,
 The power that gave her flaming life
 For one short autumn day.
 A slender span, undoubtedly,
 Yet what are years to one
 Who compasses in one brief hour
 Full brilliance of the sun?

CHAPTER XI—Continued

He frowned at his younger sister who, in a diaphanous white evening frock sprinkled with gold leaves, appeared in the doorway. "Lucette, when Jerry Field quotes 'Islands Arise,' look as if he were saying something serious, not as if he were inviting."

"I've followed exactly the business in my sides, Master Reyburn." "Don't apologize."

"I'm not apologizing. I'm explaining."

"Remember, kiddo, that tomorrow night will be the last rehearsal."

"For which blessing, praise be to Allah! I'll tell you right now, Sam Reyburn, you'll never get me in another play of yours."

"Boy, I won't want you! 'Islands Arise' will be a smash hit! I'll have the best actors in New York camping on my trail for a chance in it! I'll—" He looked at his sisters watching him with fascinated eyes. Dark color surged to his hair. "I suppose you two girls think I'm a darn fool."

Lucette made a little dash toward him and patted his arm.

"Don't let old inferiority complex get you, Sammy," Brooke warned. "Lucette and I know that this play of yours will be box-office, that it will set your name in lights on Broadway. Can't you just see Mother flying across the ocean—if necessary—for the premiere? We'll all have ravishing costumes and—"

Memory side-tracked her voice. She and Lucette couldn't go to New York for the opening. Suppose she didn't get the Palm Beach job? She would have no money. She shook herself mentally.

"What an emotional gal you are, Brooke. You've gone white with excitement over what may never happen. 'Tisn't likely a break like that will come my way," Sam prophesied gloomily.

Brooke swallowed the lump in her throat. Sam mustn't suspect why she had gone white. She said in a voiced drenched with mystery:

"Listen, you two, I'm getting fed-up with country life. The day after the play we'll open the apartment."

"That'll make a big hit with me, but first, unless we want to be late for Trent's party, folks, we'd better start with a hey-nony-nony for the big city." Sam added, "You two certainly have the million-dollar look, girls, if you are my sisters."

CHAPTER XII

Mark Trent glanced at Brooke Reyburn seated at his right in the dim Mirror room of the recently opened Supper club. Light from the illuminated table-top brought out the copper glints in her hair, the glow in her radiant eyes, and laid a pinkish sheen over the gleaming silver of her frock. Why wasn't she wearing his orchids? Doubtless the answer to that was that she preferred gardenias. Had Field sent them?

What chance had he, a man whose life had been twisted and tangled by a tragic marriage, against gay, debonair Jerry Field? None, he answered promptly, and as promptly told himself that Brooke must love him. That marriage was years behind him. Why allow the memory of it to creep back tonight when for the first time in days his mind had been free of the haunting vision of Lola as he had seen her last?

He forced his thoughts from the past to observe his guests. The rhinestone straps of Daphne Field's blossom-pink satin frock scintillated with rainbow sparks with every movement of her body. Lucette was adorable in a fluffy white and gold thing which accentuated her rich brunette coloring. Sam was observing the crowd through narrowed eyes; Jerry Field was talking in a low voice to Lucette. Jed Stewart was on the other side of Brooke.

The orchestra glided into a rhythmic invitation. The diners sprang to their feet. Old men slipped an arm about women who snuggled. Young men slipped an arm about women who laughed; tough men planted well-groomed hands on the enameled backs of women who stumbled. One couple kissed lingeringly as they passed. Lover's eyes sought lover's eyes; white hands clung; hushed voices questioned.

Jerry Field and Lucette left the table. Sam groaned and held out his hand to Daphne.

"Come on, let's get it over. I suppose you'd like to step?" "Of course I would, martyr!" She slipped a white arm about his neck. "Nothing unsteady about her tonight," Mark thought. He pushed into the background the memory of the night he had had to steady her to the car. He had liked her, she had been amusing, but he had not invited her out after that. She had taken little wine tonight, Lucette had barely touched hers, Brooke had refused it. Now her eyes were following her brother. Was she worried about Daphne's influence on Sam?

He watched her, watched the throbbing pulse in her throat which made him think of the beat of tiny wings against bars.

As if she felt his intense concentration on her, Brooke looked at him with questioning eyes. Mark smiled in response.

"Did you know that I was thinking of you? I was hoping that you were not worrying about Sam and Daphne. If you are, don't."

"Thanks, I'm not. If that were all I had on my mind, my heart would be so light that it would be bumping against the ceiling like a runaway balloon."

"What is troubling you? Can't I help?"

"No, thanks. No!"

"That was emphatic, almost as if you were afraid of me. Care to dance?"

Brooke motioned toward the couples packed in so close they could barely move.

"You don't call that dancing, do you? But do dance yourself. You must know every attractive girl here. You have risen to bow at two minute intervals ever since we arrived at this table. I'm just being noble, setting you free to dance with someone else."

"Thanks for the consideration, but the only girl with whom I care to dance is sitting at this table. You wouldn't encourage a host to leave his guest of honor, would you?"

H. glanced at the gardenias on her shoulder.

"Don't you care for orchids? I should have sent violets. I know you like them. You wore them the first time we met; no, it was the second time."

"The orchids were beautiful." Brooke traced a pattern on the illuminated table-top. "Sometime I'll tell you why I didn't wear them tonight."

"Are you engaged to Field?" She shrugged lovely shoulders and glanced up provocatively.

"You fairly gnashed that question. You are miscast in 'Islands Arise'; Sam ought to write something for you in which you could play an ogre. You've just the voice for it."

"All right. I'm an ogre. Meanwhile, how about answering that question?"

"I said that sometime I would tell you why I didn't wear the orchids; that doesn't mean tonight; it means after the play and your party. However, had I been a perfect lady, I would have said, 'Thank you billions' for the flowers long before this. Curious how accustomed we have become to thinking in billions, isn't it?"

"I don't want your thanks, I want—" Mark disciplined his stormy voice. "Remember that afternoon in Jed's office?"

"The afternoon you refused to marry me?"

"Haven't you forgotten that?" "There are some things one doesn't forget."

"Then here is something to put beside it in your memory book. Will you marry me, Brooke?"

She looked up with startled eyes, then laughed.

"That proposal—if it is a proposal?" "It is."

"Has all the fire and ardor of a silent policeman."

"Shall I give a demonstration of fire and ardor?"

"No! Of course not! Don't look at me as if you were trying to see the wheels of my mind go round."

"I hadn't gone much deeper than your eyes. Have you never been told that you have beautiful eyes? You haven't answered my question. Will you marry me?"

The orchestra was playing a soft swaying accompaniment to a baritone voice singing before the microphone:

"I only love one and that one is you,
And that one is you."
There was a burst of applause from the dancers.

Mark reminded: "You haven't answered my question, Brooke."

Her eyes were brilliant with anger as they met his.

"I answered it the second time you refused to marry me. Perhaps

Brooke gripped Mark's arm. She leaned close, whispered:

"Quick! Where the light is! The waiter! He's the man who ran through my room!"

Behind the scenes in the Club House theater, Brooke, as property woman, checked her list for the last time. Every article which the characters would need to take to the stage was present and accounted for. Almost time for the curtain. If only her heart wouldn't pound so. It shook her body. But hadn't her body shaken with excitement whenever she had seen Sam act? He was coming. He was almost as white as the shirt-front of his evening clothes, his eyes were like flames as he stopped beside her.

"Just had a cable from Mother wishing me luck. It's zero hour, Brooke. Locate the producer and manager out front. Watch 'em. If they go out after the first act and don't come back, the play's washed up; if they sit through the second, it's got a chance; if they come back for the third, boy!" He turned to Jerry Field who was like a stranger in his make-up.

"Go on to that stage, Jerry, and whang the ball."

Field nodded to Brooke before he disappeared into the wings. Should she wish Sam luck, his sister wondered? Better not. The hand which gripped his blue-covered, dog-eared script, lined and criss-crossed with cuts and changes, was white-knuckled.

The stage was cleared. Lucette, Daphne and Jerry Field went on and took their places. Sam was in the wings! Jed was at the switchboard! The curtain man was waiting for his signal! Sam raised his hand. The house dimmed. He wiggled with two fingers. Jed brought up his lights. The orchestra stopped playing. Another motion of Sam's hand and the curtain rose slowly. Brooke's heart parked in her throat, running on high.

Lucette waited for the greeting of applause to quiet before, without a trace of nervousness, she spoke her first line. Sam nodded approval, frowned as Daphne answered shakily. Brooke couldn't see the stage, but she could hear the voices. Jed Stewart was red and perspiring under the responsibility of getting the actors on and off. Once as he passed her he whispered:

"Has the New York producer come?"

He nodded. "Second row, center. Sleek blond fella, with a grand marcelle." He caught Sam's eyes glaring at them and disappeared.

Every sentence moved the play forward, unflatteringly. Jerry Field had been on and off before Mark Trent, in his blue lounge coat, appeared to make his first entrance. As he approached the wings, his eyes, smiling, disconcertingly intent, met and held Brooke's and set the blood tingling in her cheeks.

The rehearsal last night had been so hectic he had had time only to tell her that Jed Stewart had left the Supper club to report about the waiter to Inspector Harrison. In the morning paper she had seen a statement that the bandit in the Hunt filling station case was being trailed to Canada. Of course she hoped that he would be caught, but it was a relief to know that he was far away from what newspapers would call the scene of his crime.

She could hear Mark Trent's voice, faintly ironic. It was her cue to start the phonograph which was to produce a song as if sung in the street below.

"In the gloaming, oh my darling, Think not bitterly of me."

The sweetness and fervor of the man's voice brought a terrifying ache to Brooke's throat, a burning beneath her eyelids, as with the small machine in her hands she walked away to give the effect of music fading in the distance.

"It was best to leave you thus, dear,
Best for you and best for me."
The last word thinned into silence. Mark Trent's cue.

"That song is old stuff, but sure fire. Believe it, Madge?" The laughing tenderness of his voice twisted Brooke's heart unbearably. She tore her thoughts from him and watched her brother. She could see his lips move in unison with the lines spoken on the stage.

The curtain fell slowly on the minor climax of the first act. The setting and theme had been established and the characters presented. The audience applauded enthusiastically. From a hole in the curtain Brooke saw the New York producer go up the aisle. Would he return?

"Don't you dare go away, don't you dare!" she flung at his straight back.

"How did it go?" Sam's voice was hoarse.

"It's wonderful, Sam. Not an unnecessary word; every line was 'Forward march!' for your story. The acting is the best I've ever seen in an amateur performance."

"So what? Does it prove anything? They're all good except Daphne; she isn't getting her lines over. I hold my breath every time she opens her mouth. Isn't Trent great? He's the spark-plug of the cast. Wait till you see him in the crucial moment in the next act, when he thinks the girl he loves has double-crossed him."

Jerry Field appeared beside her dressed in leather jacket and knickers, with a gun in his hand.

"How's it going, Brooke?"

"I can't see the stage, but from the response of those out front I'd say it was a hit. You're grand in that sports costume. You've made every point, Jerry."

"Thanks. That's because when I say a word of love to Lucette I'm saying it to you." He caught her hand and pressed his lips to it fervently.

"Please—don't, Jerry."

"You've said that too many times, sweet thing. After the play we'll have a reckoning—get me?"

"After the play," Brooke repeated the words to herself. So much was to happen that would change lives, after the play.

"Hey! Field! Field, come on!" Sam's whisper. Sam's beckoning hand. Brooke followed Jerry as far as the wings from which she could see him drop to a log on the stage, left center.

"Why don't you turn thumbs up and end the poor boy's torment?" asked a low voice behind her.

She turned quickly. Something in Mark Trent's voice made her furiously angry.

"That's quite a suggestion that I end 'the poor boy's torment.' I will. Tonight."

"Don't do it until I change after the show. I want to drive you home, Brooke. There is something I must say to you."

Brooke felt the blood rush to her face and recede. Had Henri double-crossed her and told him about the will? Did Mark Trent think she intended to hide it? She wouldn't give him a chance to accuse her before she produced that paper locked in her desk. She said as steadily as she could with his eyes boring into her soul:

"Sorry. The minute the curtain falls, I shall dash to Lookout House to change into something snappy for the grand celebration. You wouldn't have me come to your grand party in this green knit, would you? Quick! Sam wants the wings cleared."

She backed out, conscious of Mark Trent's disturbing presence close beside her.

Names of Things We Eat

The names of the things we eat have curious derivations. The humble vegetable, parsley, for instance, traveled from Greek to Latin, from Latin to Saxon, and from thence to its present form. It actually has the same origin as the name Peter (a rock), for it grew among the rocks of ancient Rome. Potato is from the Spanish patata, which, in turn, says Pearson's London Weekly Magazine, came from the Haytian batata, a sweet-tasting type of yam. The word sweet goes back to the Sanscrit svad—to taste; and sugar has also come to us from the same ancient language, via Persian, Arabic, Spanish and French. The Sanscrit for sugar was caraka, which first meant "grains of sand."

"It's Zero Hour, Brooke."

STAR DUST Movie • Radio

FOR months you will be hearing about the great success of the film "Stage Door," partly because it is such an entertaining picture, but more because it is proving a turning point in the careers of the many young actresses who appear in it.

Katherine Hepburn, so long tottering on the brink of whimsy and oblivion, returns to the early forthright manner of her great success. "Morning Glory" and really tugs at your heart-strings. Ginger Rogers proves to be a fine dramatic actress. Andrea Leeds and Lucille Ball make dramatic bits stand out so effectively that they have already been rewarded with leading roles. Constance Collier, for many years a great idol of the London and New York stage, proves that she can be equally effective in motion pictures.

Jack Benny has every reason to be proud of his wife's motion-picture debut. In Paramount's "This Way Please," Mary Livingstone tosses nonsensical lines about as deftly as she does on the nation's favorite air program. This picture also serves as the film debut of Fibber McGee and Molly, those pleasant homey folks of the radio, and brings back Buddy Rogers. He isn't as young and exuberant as he used to be, but he can still lead a band. Crowded as the picture is with big-time favorites, two youngsters manage to walk off with a large share of the honors. Betty Grable is a little bombshell of vivacious beauty and Rufe Davis proves to be the most hilariously-entertaining of all hillbillies with an imitation of a man sicking his hound dogs on a pig in a potato patch.

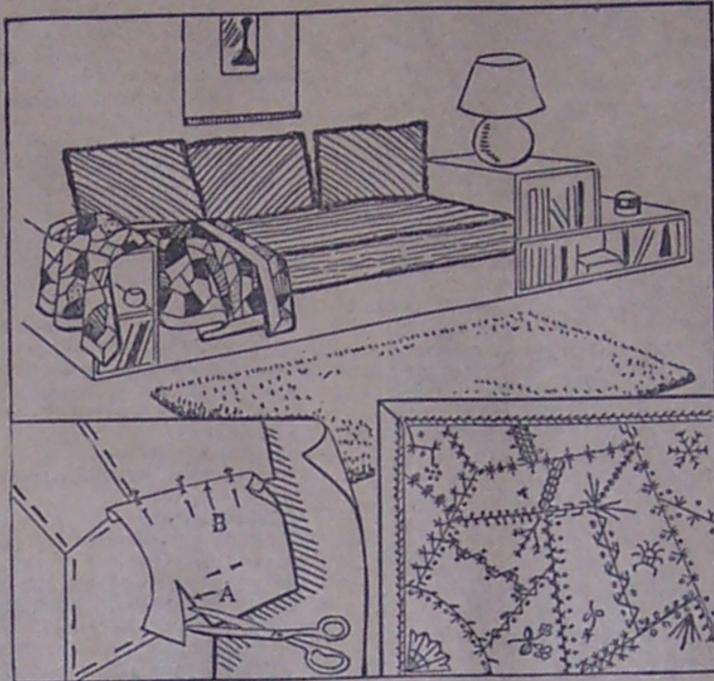

Ernst Lubitsch, Gary Cooper and Claudette Colbert have all been marking time while Paramount officials searched for just the right actor to play a very important role in "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife." They were getting discouraged, when they happened to go to a party where "The Prisoner of Zenda" was shown, and as soon as they saw Gary Cooper David Niven they chorused "That's our man." Luckily, he was just on his way back from England, and Sam Goldwyn to whom he is under contract had no immediate plans for him.

Decision on putting little Leatrice Joy Gilbert, daughter of the late John Gilbert, in the leading role of "National Velvet" is still in abeyance, but she is assured a future in films. She will make her debut in "Benefits Forged," an ambitious production in which Walter Huston will play the lead at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

ODDS AND ENDS—The Warner Brothers are in a frenzy because the Mauch twins are growing so fast, they are outgrowing some scenarios written for them. . . . Lionel Barrymore has gone off to England to work in Robert Taylor's picture being filmed at Oxford. . . . Norma Shearer expects to get started on filming "Marie Antoinette" any year now when she can get just the actors she wants in her supporting cast.

HOW TO SEW

by Ruth Wyeth Spears

Crazy Patch Work at Home in a Modern Setting.

THE crazy patch is the oldest of quilt patterns, yet there is something amazingly modern in its angular lines. So whether your living room is traditional in style or newer than tomorrow you will be interested in the revival of crazy patch work for what our grandmothers and great-grandmothers called a "slumber throw."

A corner of one of these old silk crazy quilts is shown here at the lower right. The pieces were small—many not more than 1 1/2 inches wide or long. A variety of embroidery stitches joins the pieces. Both plain and figured silks were used, the plain patches often being embroidered with flowers, fans and other motifs.

Larger patches with simple feather stitch and herring-bone stitch at the joinings also give a good effect. The pieces are sewed to a foundation of some firm soft material. Outing flannel or an old wool blanket are good. Pin a piece in place over the space to be filled, trim the edges to the right shape, as at A, allowing enough to turn under, as at B, where the patch laps over the one next to it. Baste the turned edges down as shown. When a number of patches have been basted in place, sew them down to the foundation with the embroidery stitches and then remove the bastings. The backing is tied to the front with silk embroidery thread as comforters are tied. Little or no padding may be used and a plain band around the edge is effective.

ENTERTAIN GIRLS' CLUB

The Oak Glen Girls' Club met Tuesday night at the home of the Misses Agnes and Ada Daehn on Torrence avenue. Those present were Elisabeth Skaff, Olga and Wilma Daehn, Mildred Bock, Mrs. Gordon Carr and Louise Flene. Prizes went to Olga and Wilma Daehn. Lovely refreshments were served by the hostesses, assisted by Mrs. Carr.

RECEPTION FOR MINISTER

About seventy five members of the congregation of the Wesley M. E. church gathered in the church parlors after the services last Sunday evening where a reception for the minister was the event of the hour. Rev. Grimes is to be with the congregation for another year. The room had been attractively decorated with leaves and autumn colors and a pleasing program planned. Arthur Larson gave a brief address of welcome back to the minister and the following persons contributed musical numbers: Mr. Peterson, Mr. Van Blarcom, Reed Buffington and Elaine Howmiller. Grace Larson gave a reading. Rev. and Mrs. Grimes were presented with a basket of fruit and a potted chrysanthemum plant, respectively by the official board of the church. Refreshments were served by Mesdames Keister, Barkdull, Hilland and Weaver.

T. F. METEOR

The T. F. 1937 Carnival under the direction of Miss Stauffeur promises to be quite an affair with its large cast of 300 students. "A Holiday Parade" is the theme chosen for the main show. Each holiday of the year will be dramatized and filled with plenty of songs and dances.

The pastor's subject for his morning sermon is to be, "The Half Has Never Been Told", and for the afternoon service, "The Hand Writing on the Wall".

Rev. Scholten will preach at the service in the school.

Choir practice Monday evening. Preparations are now being made for the Christmas Cantata and both the men and the women are urged to be present at the rehearsals.

Good Thoughts For Good People

Our government rests upon religion. It is from that source that we derive our reverence for truth and justice, for equality and liberty, and for the rights of mankind. —Calvin Coolidge

The deterioration of a government begins almost always by the decay of its principles. —Montesquien

O let the nations be glad and sing for joy; for thou shalt judge the people righteously, and govern the nations upon earth. . . . Then shall the earth yield her increase; and God, even our own God, shall bless us. —Psalms 67

While Jesus spurned and rejected a material or human kingdom, he definitely opened the way to a very tangible kingdom—not tangible according to the material senses—but as the individual possession of anyone who is willing to Secret stuff! Inside football! Want to know what makes a big college football team click; what makes a quarter back suddenly decide to use certain plays; and why plans and strategy are suddenly shifted in the middle of a big game?

Dizzy heights; giant girders swinging into place; hot bolts hissing through the air, the rattle of pneumatic hammers! A skyscraper is going up. High in the air cat-footed men in grimy overalls with gloved hands are climbing nimbly around on the great steel spider-web they are erecting. You wonder how those fellows up there feel; where they get the nerve to work so high in the air. Wonder how long they last before they come to some violent end.

recognize the preponderance of spiritual values. Christ Jesus called it the kingdom of God, and declared that it was "within," that is, in one's own thought realm, and therefore a present possibility and possession.

The Lowly Peanut

Some 300 useful products have been made from or with peanuts, it is claimed, including butter, cheese, candies, coffee, pickles, oils, dyes, lard, shaving lotions, flour, soap, breakfast food, linoleum, ink and even axle grease. Paper is made from peanut shells. The peanut crop in the United States is worth about $60,000,000 annually.

HEADACHE REMEDY STARTS WORKING IN SECONDS

THE REASON BAYER ASPIRIN WORKS SO FAST

Drop a Bayer Aspirin tablet into a tumbler of water. By the time it hits the bottom of the glass it is disintegrating. This speed of disintegration enables genuine BAYER Aspirin tablets to start "taking hold" of headache and similar pain a few minutes after taking.

All people who suffer occasionally from headaches ought to know this way to quick relief.

At the first sign of such pain, take two Bayer Aspirin tablets with a half glass of water. Sometimes if the pain is unusually severe, one more tablet is necessary later, according to directions.

If headaches keep coming back we advise you to see your own physician. He will look for the cause in order to correct it.

A Three Days' Cough Is Your Danger Signal

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel the germ-laden phlegm. Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained from the very first bottle. Creomulsion is one word—not two, and it has no hyphen in it. Ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

Luxuriously Furred Costumes

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

THE big news about fall and winter fashions is that they bespeak a new high in elegance.

When fashion goes opulent, goes sumptuous, goes luxurious, then what inevitably happens? Well for one thing it follows as the night the day that designers turn to handsome furs and fur trimmings as one way of conveying the message of elegance in the mode.

Which accounts for the fact that the new coats, suits and ensembles show an enrichment of fur that emphatically declares an era of luxurious dress. In consequence, women who are fashion-alert have taken their cue and are making it their chief concern to acquire a complete ensemble costume styled of high-grade material ranging from rugged colorful tweeds to refined duvetyns, broadcloths or velvets that are graced with precious fur—the sort that bespeaks a "lady of quality."

The models pictured have been carefully selected from among a collection shown at a preview given by the Style Creators of Chicago in the wholesale district. These furred costumes were designed by members of their group to meet the demands of women that class as among the best dressed.

Perfect for crisp autumn days is the outfit to the left in the picture. The dress is of sheer black alpaca weave. Its novel metal chain and clasp closing showing between the fur on the coat gives it a military bearing. The free-swinging coronation red wool coat is a fascinating garment, and its tuxedo bands of marten fur make it more so.

Which reminds us the revival of marten fur this season is a most significant event. It has been a long time since we have been seeing much marten in the style picture. Its return will be welcomed for it is not only as handsome as can be, but for dependable wear it has no superior.

When the smartly dressed woman steps out in a gorgeously furred costume as centered in the picture, she will be the cynosure of admiring eyes. This sheer wool model combines a tuxedo-front coat trimmed in a huge cross fox with a one-piece dress that is simply charming. Note the decorative quilted flowers outlined in gold thread at the neckline. The gold kid belt adds the finishing touch.

There is really no limit to the ingenuity displayed in the placement of fur. It is used for separate sleeves in cloth coats so much so that the fashion has become quite outstanding this season. The coat with a bolero top is ever so smart, too. The newest wrinkle is the bolero type that has the lower cloth part zipped on so that it can be removed at will thus providing a jaunty little fur jacket or full length coat. Among countless other fur arrangements novelties are to be seen such as a panel of fur extending down the back of the coat from neck to hemline as if it were a watteau pleat. Frequently double borderings of fur occur about hemlines.

JEWELRY DESIGNERS GO ROMANTIC ALSO

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

With romanticism gaining such a headway in fashions for fall, small wonder that jewelry manufacturers have recognized it and are all set for a hey-dey. Jewelry, my good woman, is not only getting bigger and better, but practically all of it has been inspired. Some of the inspirations are modern, but most of them have been drawn from an era when romance was at its height and glamour stalked the world in high places.

Such romantic figures as Empress Carlotta, glamorous wife of the ill fated Emperor Maximilian who reigned for such a short time, (1864-1867) over Mexico; Joan of Arc; grand duchesses whose jewels were of such splendor as to have been remembered; these, and lovely ladies of the gay nineties and the naughty naughts, are being immortalized, more or less, in smart pieces of costume jewelry designed by Alberta, one of America's leading costume jewelry designers.

The "Empress Carlotta" jewelry has been copied from some of her pieces of jewels found in a museum in Mexico. For evening it is the most elegant, for it is made of Kimberley gems which are cut and set like fine diamonds in 24 karat gold washed metal.

"Joan of Arc" jewelry is part of an all-metal group which Alberta believes will be a big success for fall. This line is made of a silvery metal studded like the doors of a medieval castle.

AROUND the HOUSE

Items of Interest to the Housewife

Polishing Linoleum.—Dissolve a lump of sugar in the water when washing linoleum or oilcloth, and a brilliant polish will result.

Small Molds for Pudding.—In place of one large basin for a steamed pudding, try several small molds, placing them all in one large saucepan. They will take half as long to cook as one large pudding.

Using Kerosene Safely.—One of the safest ways of using kerosene is to mix it with wood or coal ashes, then use a few spoonfuls of this mixture when starting or re-kindling a fire. This can be stored for regular use in a gallon bucket or other suitable container.

Crab Savory.—1 crab, 3 tomatoes, 1 lettuce, watercress, 1 egg, pepper and salt. Shred the crab meat finely and mix with a little mayonnaise. Wash the lettuce and arrange leaves around and at the bottom of the dish. Place some crab in the center, then season with pepper and salt; add slices of tomato and hard-boiled egg and watercress.

Opening Jars.—A strap with a buckle on one end can be used to good advantage in opening glass fruit jars. Run the strap through the buckle and tighten it around the cap. This enables you to get a good grip on the lid.

Dried Peel.—It is nice to dry the skins of several oranges and lemons and grate them, then putting them in a glass bottle in the refrigerator to be kept for flavoring purposes. It certainly saves time in the future and one is inclined to use these flavorings in interesting ways if already at hand.

Just for a Change.—If you cannot afford to buy anything new for the house and you are just a little bit disinterested this fall, try changing the position of the furniture and see if that bored feeling will not depart.

"FIVE Minus TWO Leaves FOUR"

WRONG? Well, yes—and no. The arithmetic of your school days taught that "If Mary had five dollars and spent two . . ." three dollars remained. But that is mathematics—not shopping! In managing a home . . . guarding a limited family income . . . we've simply got to do better than Mary did. We must sharpen our buying wits . . . ascertain where the dollars of extra value lurk . . . take five dollars to town and get much more for the money spent. Fortunately, there are ever-willing guides right at hand—the advertisements in this newspaper. Advertised merchandise is often exceptional value merchandise. It makes dollars S-T-R-E-T-C-H.

Zupke Gives His Recipe for Making an All-American

BOB ZUPKE, whose Illinois team tied Notre Dame, provides the world's best definition of an All-American football star. To produce one he says you need "a man who can run, weak opposition and a poet in the press box" . . . Cleveland's Earl Averill definitely is on the market and the bidding has not been brisk for Boston's Jimmy Foxx . . . When Bob Pastor appeared before the State Athletic commission he was assured that Commissioner Bill Brown had never called Max Baer a bum. Yet when a sports editor was on the carpet he asked that the record be read and in the commission's own minutes it was stated that Ballyhoo Bill referred to Max as a bum. The minutes, of course, must be wrong. Indeed, practically everything's wrong except Ballyhoo Bill and his playmates.

Although he has won five World series games and has beaten them four times the Giants still insist Lefty Gomez is not suchamuch as a pitcher. They admire Red Ruffing's ability to pitch to spots and say he was the best Yankee to face them . . . Boston college's freshmen indicate that Gil Dobie will have an even better eleven next year than the present one . . . Fight manager Hymie Caplin finds one trouble with being proprietor of a delicatessen restaurant in New York. His fighters insist upon coming and running up tabs.

Jack Hurley, former manager of Billy Petrolle, was here recently and now the boys say he was offered Al Weill's job as Hippodrome and Garden matchmaker. It still seems one of the main requirements of a Garden matchmaker is the ability or willingness to be fired every week.

Informed Philadelphians insist politics has become all important in the making of Penn's football teams, that the Yale massacre was no surprise . . . Friends report Tony Lazzeri, who still is in line to manage the team next season, as saying all Cleveland's Indians need is a second baseman and a catcher to make them terribly tough for the Yankees to trim . . . Jack Kearns

His Heart Out Twice, Man Still Is Alive

London.—Dr. William Gissane and Dr. B. Schulenberg, of this city, have revealed that a wounded man whose heart they took out twice is fit again and at work. Harold J. Aldridge, twenty-three, of Battersea, was stabbed in the vital organ. When the chest covering was opened nothing could be seen of the heart. A hand was passed inside the pericardium and under the heart, which was gently levered upward into the wound. This had no apparent effect on the organ's action. The wound in the heart was then stitched. After it had been dropped back the surgeons saw to their dismay that the pericardium was again filling with blood. It was necessary to remove the heart a second time and another wound was stitched up.

has averaged $25,000 or better for his last four boxing shows in Detroit and the hard hitting heavyweight Jimmy Adamick, has been on every card . . . Wrestling Promoter Jack Pfefer tells friends the New York State Athletic commission picks on him because he tells the truth about wrestling—namely that it is an enterprise overflowing with phony boney.

Mack's Illness May Keep Him Out in '38

Connie Mack is a very sick man and may not be able to resume managing the A's next spring. But the Macks are long lived. Connie's brother, Mike, is well and healthy at eighty-four and is a ticket taker at Shibe park . . . It costs the Giants $25,000 each spring to repaint the Polo grounds . . . There's a Giants' pitcher to whom Manager Bill Terry did not speak during the season. When it was the pitcher's turn to work he was informed of the fact by Coach Adolfo Luque . . . Gabby Hartnett practically ran the Dodgers whenever they played the Cubs this year, he knew their signals so well . . . When last seen Dizzy Dean was sprouting any number of gray hairs . . . Tony Cuccinello credits Boston's cool summers for his comeback. He gets lots of sleep there and never tires as he did when a Dodger . . . Worst thing about managing a tail ender, says Jim Bottomley, is how long each day seems. "When you're up there, neck and neck in September, time flies and it's a pleasure to play."

Ky Laffoon may do his golf pro-ing for a new club next year. Wants more do-re-mi than he is getting now, his pals say . . . There is plenty of information in the newbook "Winning Football," written by Coach Bernie Bierman . . . Lightweight Champion Lou Ambers and Middleweight Contender Fred Apostoli like to fill up with cantaloupe and ice cream after their fights . . . Joe DiMaggio relates that Papa Dominic DiMaggio's first crabfishing boat was named the Libia after a famous Italian warship of a generation ago.

Tarzan White, pro football Giant guard, wrestled in Central America and Mexico during the summer. Tarzan's brother is a member of the coast guard . . . Dan Zeller, N. Y. U. tackle, belongs to the Chem Mendel, a chemistry society . . . Paul Mooney, basketball coach, and Ed Kennedy, swimming mentor, like to watch their colleague, Lou Little, coach his Columbia footballers . . . Kennedy also dotes upon telling about his toy bulldog.

Experts Study Method of Stopping Di Maggio

Joe Di Maggio stands farther back from the plate now than he did when he joined the Yankees. This has caused smart baseball men who observed the World series to wonder if the old Coast league method of occasionally getting him out might not be effective once more. That is to throw him a high fast one and then follow up with a side arm sinker . . . Joe Page, the veteran sportsman who never has missed a World series game, will be a judge during the racing at Havana's Oriental park this winter.

Lefty Gomez is such a determined sports fan that he even pays his way into wrestling shows . . . Colonel Jake Ruppert can develop the best ball clubs and throw the worst parties of any one in the world . . . Sports Writer Henry McLemore looks enough like Dunc Munro, the former great hockey player, to be his twin . . . John Honey Russell, Jewels' basketball forward, also is a school teacher and a sports booking agent . . . If his health keeps up Denny Shute is close to even money to win his third straight P. G. A. title next year. The Shawnee golf course, scene of the 1938 title affair, is made to order for his game . . . Don't sell that Princeton team short just because of the Cornell disaster.

Bill Terry and Travis Jackson don't see how Keller, Newark's hard-hitting outfielder, can miss being a Yankee star in 1939 . . . Keller, by the way, played across the river all summer but never visited New York until Colonel Ruppert tossed a victory dinner for the Bears after their Little World series triumph.

NOT IN THE BOX SCORE:

FRIENDS insist Walter Hagen will be back in this country next summer for one more fling at the big golf tourneys. One of them, who recently visited with him in Europe for several weeks, says the Haig now is in better shape than at any time during the last seven years . . . Howard Harpster, last year's coach, now is employed by a Pittsburgh electric company . . . Jock Sutherland has three good men for each position on his Pitt squad. . . Injuries may wreck them but right now N. Y. U.'s opportunists can be tabbed as the best of the met elevens . . . Army may be stronger than most people suspect if this new fullback, Frontzak, lives up to the glowing promises.

While Yale is weeping about a sad Frosh football squad Coach Johnny Gorman rejoices concerning the best Cubs ever seen at Princeton. Ninety-four young Tigers, including 15 prep and high school candidates are out for the team. The best of them is a husky named Jackson from Exeter. Scouts from Harvard, Yale and Dartmouth, who had been trying to sell him their own brand of higher education, say he probably is the best backfield prospect in the country . . . Fordham Coach Jim Crowley still can heave a pretty nifty forward pass . . . A young man panhandling on Bleecker street near the Mills hotel in New York city insists he is a former Olympic champion.

The Red Sox will be torn apart during the winter with only Cronin, Jack Wilson, Higgins, Grove and McNair being fairly sure of their jobs while the club looks for a slugging outfielder, a top-flight catcher and a few winning pitchers. Incidentally, Business Manager Collins continues to get most of the blame from Boston's citizens who consider Angel-Owner Young Tom Yawkey more to be pitied than censured . . . Columbia's coaches wish the big, blond Hub Schulze, handsome enough for Hollywood, didn't have a disposition as perfect as his looks. Believe he could be All-America if he could really get mean . . . They also give Larry Kelley plenty of credit for his pass-snatching ability but say he was far away from being a high-class end.

PRIZE GOBBLER

Miss Inez Dyer of Lancaster, Calif., shows a fat Tom turkey from the Holland flocks at Lancaster, which was one of the competitors for the Northwestern Turkey Growers' championship. After its moments of glory, the prize bird will be carved up on somebody's Thanksgiving dinner table.

Lily Pad Is His Fishing Boat

Five-year-old Lonny Bliss of Miami, Fla., is a keen angler. He is pictured as he tries his luck for the wily fish that lurk beneath the lily pads. These rare tropical water lilies grow so big that Lonny can get right out on one and use it instead of a boat.

As evidence we show you a picture of pretty Daphne Lane, airline hostess who has just received a motion picture contract from one of the major producers.

THE VICTORY SMILE

Richard E. Sultzbach has a right to that bright smile he's wearing. He emerged as first prize winner in a national oration manuscript contest, sponsored by the Intercollegiate Peace association. A student at Wittenberg college at Springfield, Ohio, young Sultzbach is a native of Middletown, Ohio. Students representing 153 colleges in 24 states competed in the contest.

IN THE PROFESSION

Judge—Were you going to steal that automobile, young man?
Prisoner—Why, yer honor, I wasn't even thinking of such a thing.
Officer—No, he wasn't thinking about it, yer honor, he had already decided on it.

Not Altogether

Lawyer—Was the man you found under the street car a total stranger?
Witness—No, sir, only a partial stranger.
Lawyer—What do you mean?
Witness—Well, you see, one arm and one leg was gone.

Same Old News

Mrs. Jones—Anything new in the paper this morning?
Mr. Jones—No, same old things—only happening to different people.
—Pearson's Weekly.

Bliss

She—Married women wear wedding rings. Why don't married men wear something to distinguish them from single ones?
He—They do. Worried looks.—Annapolis Log.

The Victim

Doctor (ecstatically)—Sir, yours is a case which will enrich medical science.
Patient—O, dear, and I thought I wouldn't have to pay more than $2 or $3.

THE PROOF

"I was simply historical with laughter."
"Hysterical, you mean."
"No, historical—I laughed for ages."

NO MISTAKE

"That chap seems to have an attachment for Brown—calls at his house every day."
"Well, he has—he's the sheriff of this town."

To His Taste

Visitor—You don't mean to tell me that you have lived in this out-of-the-way place for more than 30 years?
Inhabitant—I have.
Visitor—But, really, I can't see what you find to keep you busy.
Inhabitant—Neither can I—that's why I like it.

On the Dot

The mistress entered the kitchen hurriedly.
"Weren't you told to watch when the milk boiled over?" she said.
"I did, ma'am," replied the maid.
"It was just half past nine."

Only Thing to Do
Simpkins—My wife threatens to leave me unless I give up golf.
Higgins—By jove, that's awkward.
Simpkins—Yes, I shall miss her.
