SERVICE COMPANY OFFERS VILLAGE LOWER RATE FOR PUMP STATION

SCHURINGA ILL. W. CANAGA ACTS IN HIS PLACE

In the absence of village president John Schuringa, Wilber Canaga acted as chairman of the board pro-tem, at the regular village council meeting Tuesday night.

After approving the minutes of the previous meeting the trustees turned their attention to two representatives of the Public Service company who were present to discuss new rates for power supplied for the pumping of water in the village.

The company men submitted the proposed schedule which would drop the present minimum rate of $38 per month to $32 per month. That is for electric power used at the water pumping station at Wentworth avenue and Bernice Road.

This new rate was accepted by the trustees after a very brief discussion.

With practically no other business of importance to attend, the council spent some time in discussion of general topics, taking time to renew the village property and liability insurance with C. C. Schultz and Sons.

A request was made to the zoning committee to make a report at the next meeting of the council as to its findings. The committee was also requested to make a recommendation on the matter of a building code for the village.

The building code, approved by the National Fire Underwriters for villages or towns of this size, was recently submitted to the council by Walter Schultz, and it is this code that the dads would have the committee pass an opinion on.

Instructions were given the clerk to purchase manhole covers from Jess Brown to be used about the village.

The meeting adjourned early.

LITTLE GIRLS INJURED IN BIKE ACCIDENT FRIDAY

Two little girls, Alice Arends and Vera Reynolds, were injured last Friday afternoon when they collided while riding their bicycles home from school. The accident happened on Ridge Road near Burnham avenue.

Alice had her ear badly cut and Vera suffered injuries on her leg, but the injuries are not considered serious.

MODERN LIGHT SHOW IN CHICAGO

It was announced this week that the Chicago Lighting Institute, which is located on the 36th floor of the Civic Opera Building, 20 North Wacker Drive, is open for public inspection. The institute conducts a complete demonstration of modern lighting, including a fascinating one and one-half hour program on "Artificial Light and Color".

Church groups, high schools and college groups, Kiwanis and Lions clubs, or any organized groups are invited to make reservations for either the day or evening shows. The institute is open daily from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. and every night at 8 o'clock. Saturdays from 9 a. m. to 1 p. m. All services at the institute including the Light and Color show are free of charge.

Everybody can make a mistake except a politician — according to his own idea.

Well-to-do men are usually hard to do.

LOCAL BOYS PLAY AT HARVEY THEATRE

Kenneth Koppitz of Oak Glen and Bert Hunter of Lansing filled a three evening engagement at the Harvey theatre last week. The program which allowed the boys to demonstrate their skill at playing the Piano Accordion was sponsored by the teachers of the Aloha conservatory of Music of Harvey. The school has a branch in Oak Glen.

This being the boys first appearance before a large audience it gave them quite a thrill. They are now looking forward to playing over radio station WWAE sometime in the near future.

HOOK - SLAGER

Miss Lois Hook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Hook of Highland, and Frank Slager were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents, Thursday evening, October 28 at 7 o'clock. Rev. Roseboom of the Lansing First Reformed church read the impressive single ring ceremony.

The bride wore a gown of wine colored velvet with gold accessories. Her flowers were yellow chrysanthemums. Her bridesmaid, Miss Margaret Carlson wore a frock of black crepe with gold accessories and a corsage of yellow tea roses.

Russell Hook acted as best man. A supper for the immediate families was served at the Highland public school, the room being charmingly decorated in yellow and white. Peter Slager acted as toast master.

Mr. and Mrs. Slager are now living at 349 Ridge Road, second apartment, Lansing. Mr. Slager is employed by the I. H. B. railroad.

ISSUE LICENSE APPLICATIONS

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 4—First shipments of applications for 1938 automobile licenses left here today for distribution throughout the state. The first of these were sent to city and county clerks, sheriffs, notary publics, police stations, newspapers and motor clubs.

In releasing the applications Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes stressed the necessity of public cooperation in order that issuance of licenses be expedited.

Motorists wishing to retain the numbers which were issued them in 1937 must specifically request reassignment prior to December 1, 1937. After this date no numbers are kept back in favor of their present holders.

Secretary Hughes urged that applications be filled out as soon as possible, properly notarized, and sent to the Springfield office accompanied by the fees in the form of a certified check, draft, or money order. Release of the license plates will be made early in December.

Care in filling out the blanks and complying with all necessary regulations, will help both the state automobile division and the motoring public.

One of the features of the 1938 registration cards which will keep an accurate check on violations of the F. W. Lewis law providing penalties for drunken and reckless driving is the form at the back of the card with space for recording the dates of violations, violations charged, and signatures of judges hearing the cases.

"Every motorist must carry this card with him for identification purposes," said Secretary Hughes. "And the fact that it is also a record of his responsibility, or lack of it, as a driver is an element which should make him pause and think, and thinking is what is needed to make motoring safe for all of us."

American Education Week

American Education Week will be observed this year from Sunday, November 7, through Saturday, November 13. Its theme is an inspiring one, "Education and Our National Life". The program is built around two special observances of nation-wide interest. One day is set aside especially for the Horace Mann Centennial, and another is devoted to "Schools and the Constitution" in connection with the Constitutional Sesquicentennial Celebration.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS PTA MET TUESDAY

That interest in the public school Parent-Teachers association is decidedly on the increase was a apparent Tuesday night when more than one hundred persons attended the November meeting held in the Indiana avenue school.

Mrs. Stone presented a program of unusual merit following the business session, and the social committee with Mrs. R. Peters as chairman served refreshments after the program.

"Horace Mann" was the subject of the interesting talk given by Mr. G. B. Peterson from the Indiana university extension division speaker's bureau. The talk was in keeping with the theme of Educational Week which is to be observed next week. Mr. Peterson drew a vivid picture of the ideas of education and living conditions one hundred years ago when Horace Mann first succeeded in getting a bill through the Massachusetts legislature providing for a state board of education.

He told how before that time there were no schools for teachers and how the first teachers normal school in this country was established through the efforts of Horace Mann and lastly how it was the Antioch college in Yellow Springs, Ohio, of which Horace Mann had become the president, that first offered co-education.

Those who heard Mr. Peterson speak have a much more graphic picture of the life and work of the father of American education than previously. Two vocal solos sung by William Smith accompanied by Mr. H. S. Van Blarcom completed the program.

Mrs. J. V. L. Chapman, president of the organization presided at the brief business session, hearing the treasurer report that funds had been distributed to the various projects as directed at the October meeting and that the present balance on hand was small.

The committee reported that plans for the annual carnival were being completed and asked for funds with which to stock the fish pond and meet other incidental expenses of the affair. A motion granting this request was passed.

Mrs. Wallace Roe suggested that the P. T. A. do something about the landscaping around the Coolidge school, pointing out that the grounds there were very bare and uninviting. By a motion favorably voted, Mrs. Roe was named chairman of the committee to obtain information as to what the association could do in this matter.

After the adjournment of the meeting Mrs. Peters assisted by Mrs. J. Henderson and Mrs. A. W. Whalgren served refreshments and a pleasant social hour was enjoyed.

NEWS OF ST. JOHN'S WALTHER LEAGUE

The Lansing Leaguers are invited to a social given by the Oak Glen Leaguers on Thursday, November 4.

The Lansing Leaguers had a Halloween party on October 29. They entertained the Leaguers of Calumet City and of the Zion church of Crete, Illinois.

A number of leaguers attended "Luther, The Liberator," a pageant on Sunday, October 31 at the Chicago Civic Opera House.

A business meeting will be held on November 10.

Lansing's plans for a basketball team are underway. The games are expected to start by December.

A group of Lansing Leaguers enjoyed a skating party given by the Leaguers of Tinley Park, Illinois, on October 25. It was at the Palace Roller Rink. The party was given for all the members of the South Suburban Zone.

Dorothy Weinberg D. Ignazitto Wed

Lansing friends of Dorothy Weinberg learned last week of her marriage on Saturday, October 23, in Hammond, to Dominic Ignazitto. The young couple were attended at the ceremony by Violet Margeau and Harry Mundt. Dorothy wore a frock of black velvet with red trimmings and a lovely corsage of white rosebuds for her wedding. A dinner at the Ultra Moderne Tea room was enjoyed by the party after the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Ignazitto are at home to their friends at 206-157th street, Calumet City.

Mrs. Ignazitto is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Weinberg of Burnham avenue. Both she and her husband are graduates of Thornton Fractional High school. Mr. Ignazitto is employed by the Inland Steel company.

Concessions To Be Part Of Fun At T. F. Carnival

Thornton Fractional's biggest carnival, November 19, promises to be more varied and more interesting than ever before. Two performances of the stage show, a diving exhibition by Arlita Smith, dancing to Chuck Swanson's music, movies, the crowning of the king and the queen of the carnival, and eats—all these are included in the evening's gaiety.

Present plans indicate that nearly every corner of the school building will be utilized by the carnival. Concessions and sideshows, which have been absent the past two or three years, will be revived. Under the direction of Alice Sonnenberg, general student chairman of concessions, booths will be prepared where those who want to try their luck at fishing or penny-pitching may do so. A sand-diviner will be present to reveal the future for those who can't wait for next month or next year. An artist will sketch your picture while you wait. There will be a faculty graveyard and a telegram booth. Mr. Kiester's mouse game, as well as his can-tering and ball-throwing booths, are other attractions. One of the most interesting features of the evening promises to be a Punch and Judy Show under the supervision of Miss Stewart.

The theme of the main show is the year's outstanding holidays. In several numbers school organizations, such as the Band and the Girls' Glee Club, are acting as participants.

In looking over the standings of the popularity contest, it is found that the Senior candidates, Fred Dahlkamp and Lansing's own Kay McCloskey, are leading their rivals.

LIONS, LEGION JOIN IN GIVING ARMISTICE DAY PROGRAM HERE

Indications are that the Armistice Day program to be presented Thursday evening, November 11, at the Indiana avenue school auditorium under the combined auspices of the Lansing Lions club and the Edward Schultz Post of the American Legion will be one of the finest such programs to be held in the village for some time.

Emil Ranguth, Otto Fulker and Art Ward are arranging the talent for the program and have succeeded in obtaining the service of Col. G. A. F. Trumbo as the honor guest and speaker of the evening. Col. Trumbo has assisted the local committee in outlining the program which according to tentative plans will be as follows:

Call to order by chairman. (William Winterhoff as president of the Lions club will act as chairman)

Advance and Posting of the Colors by Color Guard.

Opening Remarks by the chairman.

Introduction of honored guests. Song: The National Anthem—"The Star Spangled Banner".

Invocation. Songs of twenty years ago, as used in the training camps, "Pack Up Your Troubles In Your Old Kit Bag," "Smile, Smile, Smile," and "There's A Long Long Trail A-Winding".

Poem: In Flanders Fields. Introduction of the speaker, who is to be Col. Trumbo.

Taps—The Soldiers Last Farewell.

Song—Over There. Chairman will call on honored guests for remarks.

Oath of Allegiance by Assembly. Song—Auld Lang Syne. Prayer.

Retirement of Colors by Color Guard.

An unusual and interesting feature of the program as planned will be the singing of taps instead of the usual bugle sounding.

Joe Cook of Harvey is expected to be present and give a short talk. His presence is much anticipated inasmuch as his previous appearances here have gained for him a fine reputation in the village as a most entertaining speaker.

Music will be supplied by the Municipal band and other local talent.

The evening's program is a civic gesture and the public has been invited to attend.

LADIES AID TO GIVE MISSION PROGRAM

A mission play entitled, "The Acceptable Gift", will be presented at the Mission meeting of the Ladies Aid of Trinity church next Thursday afternoon in the church hall. The cast of the play includes Mrs. George Schultz, Mrs. Roland Knopse, Mrs. Ed Koehn, Mrs. Art Lorenz, Mrs. Carl Isaacson, Mrs. Lawrence Cedarholm and Mrs. Ed Finegan.

A brief talk by Rev. Guebert will follow the presentation of the play after which a lunch will be served. The program starts at 2 o'clock.

In second place are Edward Stokes and Evelyn Cassady of the Sophomore class.

Proceeds of the carnival will be used to subsidize student activities and school enterprises. The school's yearbook, The Chronoscope, will receive 20 per cent of the proceeds; the Boys' Club 20 per cent; the Girls' Club 25 per cent; the Social Hour fund 5 per cent, and the Junior class and entertainment fund 30 per cent. Thus the students themselves gain directly.

John Bull Cracks Down on Fascists

Police dispersing a crowd in London, where the recent attempt of Sir Oswald Mosley to lead a parade of 2,000 Fascist followers to a mass meeting provoked some of the worst street fighting involving Fascists and anti-Fascists since the general strike in 1926. Thirty persons were sent to hospitals suffering from head wounds and scores of others were treated for minor injuries in their homes.

France Honors Legion Head

Marshal Philippe Petain (right) decorating Daniel J. Doherty of Massachusetts, the new national commander of the American Legion, with the cross of the Legion of Honor during the visit of 2,500 Legionnaires to France recently. A tour of the battlefields, dedication of war memorials and a luncheon at the Invalides were major features.

19th Baby Consoles for Broken Neck

Her head held in a harness, Mrs. Myrtle Arrington of Woodbridge, Va., is shown resting in the hospital after she had given birth to her nineteenth baby, a bouncing nine-pound girl, while suffering from a broken neck sustained in an automobile accident recently. Physicians say Mrs. Arrington has an excellent chance for recovery after her unusual ordeal.

Chinatown Demonstrates Against Japs

Chinese boy scouts marching along Mott street in an anti-Japanese demonstration in which the inhabitants of New York's Chinatown participated, in a drive for funds to aid war refugees. The boys are carrying a huge banner which relates: "Japan is like a monster and a cold-blooded murderer."

"PERFECT WAITRESS"

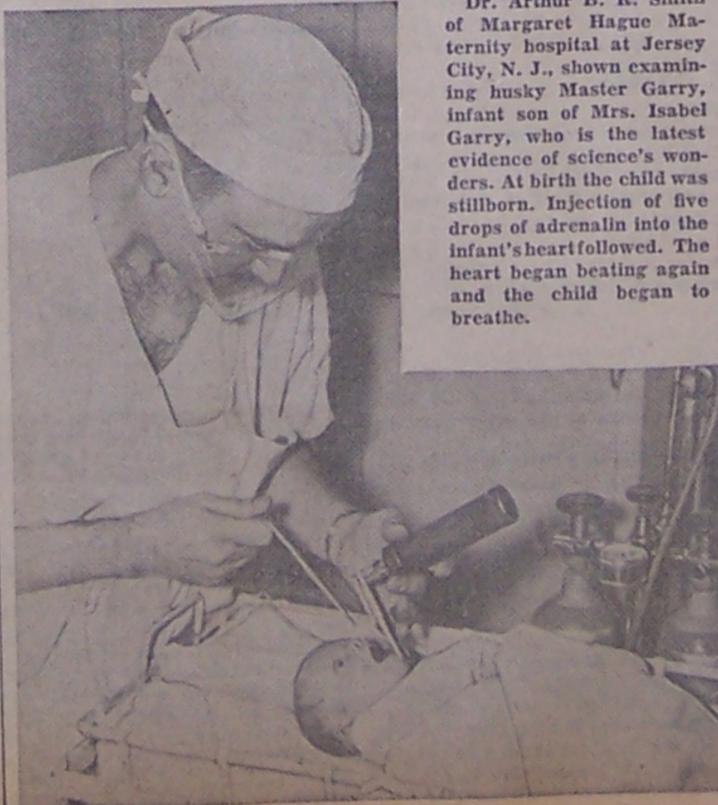

Meet the nation's "perfect waitress," Miss Ruth Gierke, of Cleveland, Ohio, who received her title from the National Restaurant association at its recent convention which was held in Chicago. A twenty-two-year-old brunette, Miss Gierke is employed by a Cleveland restaurant.

LAMPOONS F. D. R.

Forsaking his usual American flag, George M. Cohan waves a microphone as he portrays a typical fireside address while burlesquing President Roosevelt in what is called one of the most daring satirical performances ever presented on the stage—"I'd Rather Be Right." The play opened in Boston, Mass., recently.

Dead at Birth—Now Husky Baby

Dr. Arthur B. R. Smith of Margaret Hague Maternity hospital at Jersey City, N. J., shown examining husky Master Garry, infant son of Mrs. Isabel Garry, who is the latest evidence of science's wonders. At birth the child was stillborn. Injection of five drops of adrenalin into the infant's heart followed. The heart began beating again and the child began to breathe.

HEADS EPISCOPALIANS

The Right Reverend Henry St. George Tucker, bishop of Virginia since 1927 and for 25 years previously a missionary in Japan, who was elected to be presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal church in the United States at its triennial convention at Cincinnati, Ohio, recently. His selection came on the second ballot as the House of Bishops met in council.

EDUCATIONAL WEEK

A growing custom in this country is to designate a certain week as this, that or the other week and during the week efforts are directed toward making the public conscious of the particular theme of the week.

Thus it is that educators have set aside the week of November 7 to 13 as Educational Week. Most schools will observe the week by arranging programs, holding open house and in other ways try to bring to the attention of the people the progress and needs of education.

That public attention needs to be directed to the affairs of education is an age old fact. It was to this cause, of creating public interest in education and improved educational methods that Horace Mann devoted his life.

It was through his efforts that the first bill creating a state board of education was passed in the Massachusetts legislature one hundred years ago. The centennial of this event will be celebrated in the schools of the country next Tuesday as part of the Educational Week program.

Education is on a far different plane today from that in the experience of Horace Mann but his opinion on "The Necessity of Education in a Republican Government" is as vital today as when he spoke these words:

"In our country, and in our times, no man is worthy the honored name of a statesman, who does not include the highest practicable education of the people in all his plans of administration. He may have eloquence, he may have knowledge of all history, diplomacy, jurisprudence; and by these he might claim, in other countries, the elevated rank of a statesman; but unless he speaks, plans, labors at all times and in all places for the culture and edification of the whole people he is not, he cannot be, an American Statesman."

The educational needs of the people today have broadened and are more varied than at the time of Horace Mann but there remain a few fundamental educational needs that the schools in their march forward must not forget. One writer recently in an educational story asks the question, "Have credits and grades been made more important in the schools than the development of integrity and honor?"

Responsibility for the development of character in the individual may rest to a great extent on the child's home and church environment but the school is the child's outside world for a good many years and it is there that the practicability of the home teaching is demonstrated. The school's influence upon the child is to a great extent the deciding factor in his success or failure through life.

So it is that upon the schools, upon those who teach in the schools and upon those who direct the teaching and administration of the education of the children depends the entire future of the nation.

It is well to have the public attention directed to education. It should be a year round effort as well as just a gesture for "Educational Week".

EDITORIAL NOTES

"There seems to be a lot of worry as to whether the salmon will be able to get over the Bonneville Dam on the Columbia River, but no one seems to be worrying whether the taxpayers will ever get over." —The Commentator.

We will never know how sweet liberty is until we have sold it away in some seizure of hatred and fear. —Will Durant

The special session of Congress which will meet November 15 is supposed to deal with matters of great and immediate national importance. In the light of that fact, it might consider turning its long deferred attention to our gravest national problem—taxation. The national debt is at a record high, and rumors of prospective new and higher taxes are preventing industrial expansion and reemployment. The public is getting weary of political "economy" promises from all sides that are broken as soon as made.

There is no room to question the statement that America is on wheels and more work has been done as a result—and that more work is to be done in the future. The automobile shows at hand are abundant with their new creations that furnish proof of progress.

EXTRA! EXTRA!

(By O. Wulfling)

Sufficient Unto The Day
 I used to wonder what the days would bring—impatiently I waited each tomorrow;
 Now I would stay the flight of time's swift wing,
 And neither joy nor sadness seek to borrow.

—Margaret E. Bruner

Extra
 The extra things of life are like the spice in pumpkin pie, they add a zest to the flavor, stimulate interest and carry us over the monotonous things of every day living. Sometimes they have to be looked for diligently, and worked for, but they are there. Yes, the extra things, the nice things are always there, if we miss them it is because we have closed the door and pulled down the shades.

Empty Cups
 Each time I passed her house, old Granny Gover
 Would stop me and invite me "in for tea".
 And I would promise warmly I would go
 The first day that my work would leave me free.
 The kindly soul was lonely, since her sons
 Had left the old homeplace for work and wife—
 And well I knew that Granny would have liked
 To have me go and cheer her lonely life.

But yet, somehow, I never found the time.
 One thing, and then another . . . work or play,
 Kept me from going to her home for tea.
 And now—I can not go. She died today.

—Rosa Zagnoni Marinoni

Relativ-ity
 TO MOTHER-IN-LAW: keep your eyes open, and the lips closed
 TO DAUGHTERS-IN-LAW: be polite, politic, and philosophical
 TO WIVES: try GOOD cooking, GOOD nature, and GOOD sportsmanship.
 TO HUSBANDS: never try conflict, crudity, or cruelty; try culture, courtesy and cash.
 TO OTHER RELATIVES: fear to interfere!

—Clara Edmunds-Hemingway

Inspiration
 A maiden stands outside the Castle Gates,
 While clasping to her breast a violin.
 She scans the garden just beyond, and waits
 For one who holds the key, to let her in.

The moon looks down to see a poet steal
 From all the world, and throw the portals wide;
 And she who stood without, in mute appeal,
 Takes up her bow and lightly steps inside.

Upon the air a throbbing, vibrant strain
 Of melody compels the poet-heart.
 His song implores the maiden to remain,
 A constant prompter to his lyric art.

Unheeding, she withdraws beyond the hill,
 For inspiration comes and goes at will.

—Fan C. Smith

Mainstreet Comment
 We've been wondering this week if the Lions wives have caught on to why hubby is more narrow conscious than previously. Robert Burns would have enjoyed living in this day and age of the world for we have today "the power to see ourselves as others see us". The Lansing Lions last week saw themselves in the movies.

We saw a very young man go sauntering down the street this morning. He was attired in a woolly brown snow suit, mittens and cap gayly striped in red and a nonchalant air. He kicked at a stone, dragged his toes through some gravel, gave a little pile of dust a swat with his mittened fingers, was surprised at the result, went up an down door stoops unnecessarily, thoroughly enjoying the warmth of the sunshine and holding his heart wide open for all life had to offer. He was a very, very young man.

We smile a greeting each morning to the elderly one, upon whose shoulders the weight of time has left its mark, as he passes to and from the post office. And somehow we are glad for he always looks backward until he catches our notice, and the little gesture made, we always feel a little more worth while. No, we don't even know his name, but age likes to feel the warmth of summer.

SOMETHING ON THE BALL!

Andy Devine, who loses a million because he doesn't know how to play golf in the new Bing Crosby comedy, "Double or Nothing," coming Saturday to the Parthenon Theatre, shows how it's done nevertheless, in the candid camera shots above.

"Don't look at the cup—never do," Andy advises. "It will only distract you and you won't get there anyway. Keep your eye on the ball. Swing heartily where you think the cup should be. Then look up. If Martha Raye is anywhere around, you can lay your bottom dollar the ball will be in her mouth. At least that's the way it works in "Double or Nothing". The golf sequence is one of a series of funny situations in the new comedy which also includes Mary Carlisle, William Frawley and a whole list of comedians from the stage, screen and radio in its brilliant cast.

"The music has stopped! There go the foots!" She caught his sleeve, looked up and begged in an unsteady whisper:

"Do your best, Mark. This act will kill or make the play."

His lips were on hers so quickly that she had no chance to protest. He kissed her passionately, thoroughly; said in a husky whisper:

"Credit that to the silent policeman. Now, I'll play that part to the hilt."

Brooke tried to ignore her racing pulses. She mocked:

"I seem to be in the path of an emotional cyclone; first, Jerry field; now you. I suppose Jed will be the next. Your cue! Quick! Quick!"

In an instant he was on the stage. Brooke shut her eyes tight in an effort to steady a whirling world. Mark Trent's lips on hers had been like an electric current through her body. Every pulse, every nerve responded.

She listened. It was very still in front, a sort of hypnotized stillness. She could hear the voices on the stage, but she couldn't keep her mind on what they were saying. Even as she supplied properties, even as the actors made their entrances and exits she was thinking of Mark Trent's eyes as he had looked down into hers, was wondering what he wanted to tell her on the way home?

How Reyburnish! The incurable dramatic streak in the Reyburn temperament had been in the saddle when she had planned that.

CHAPTER XIII

As the curtain fell with dramatic slowness for the last time, the audience stood clapping and calling. As it rose again, Brooke saw the blond marcelle, second row center, make its way up the aisle followed by a man with sleek black hair. The producer and the manager! They had come back for the third. That must mean something. Were they leaving before speaking to Sam? He was on the stage now in the midst of the cast who had taken their bows; the arms of the women were heaped with flowers. He had put on coat and collar and tie but the white bow had gone rakish. He looked very young as he stood grinning boyishly and waiting for a chance to speak. His voice shook as he said:

"Thanks lots! Glad you liked it. Couldn't have put it across without their help." He indicated the men and girls around him on the stage, and the audience broke into thunderous applause. The curtain fell slowly.

Brooke's eyes were blinded by happy tears as she started for the dressing-room. She must get back to Lookout House to change for the party. The girls of the cast were going to Mark Trent's in the evening frocks they had worn in the last act. Leaving the wings, she collided with the marcelled blond. The New York producer! He was unaware of her murmured apology as he gesticulated and talked to his sleek-haired companion. She listened unashamedly and heard him say:

"It's got everything. Humor, suspense, moving simplicity, fidelity to ideals, and unflinching movement."

"But has it got box-office?"

"I'll gamble my last dollar on it. It's the old recipe for play-writing carried to perfection:

"Make 'em laugh; make 'em weep; make 'em wait. Where'd you say that boy got his start?"

Brooke dodged acquaintances and strangers in evening clothes who were crowding on to the stage to greet the actors. In the dressing-room she slipped into her fur coat and ran downstairs to her town car parked near the rear entrance.

The snow was falling half-heartedly as if it had not quite decided if it were worth while to come down at all. She drove swiftly toward home. Mark Trent had asked her to plan his party, had told her to go the limit in preparations to make it a success.

"Go as far as you like with everything, only be sure that there is enough to eat and sufficient help. To have plenty is an obsession of mine."

There would be plenty and then some. Just before she left Lookout House for the Club theater, the caterer had arrived with his van and a horde of waiters. They had sounded like an army making camp.

Trent's Japanese cook came forward to open the door of the car when she arrived. Snow powdered his shoulders and cap. His eyes glittered in his swarthy face. His teeth gleamed as he ducked his head in a funny little bow. Brooke let down the window.

"I won't get out here, Taku. I'll run into our garage. All the space outside will be needed for the cars of the guests."

"You right, Mees. Thank you. Much big party, Kowa say."

Would there be room for Sam's coupe? Brooke wondered, as she drove into the garage. One corner had been filled with ice cream tubs. He could leave it outside, she decided. She shut off her engine and partially closed the door as she went out.

As she reached the dark hemlock behind the Other House, she lingered for an instant in its deep shadow. How still the world was. Snow fell as softly as if someone had slit open a pillow and shaken down its feathers. There was no near sound of surf tonight.

She shrank deeper into the purple gloom under the tree as two men came down the back steps from the kitchen—waiters, she knew by their clothing. Not more than five feet from her one of them stopped to light a cigarette. He growled:

"The boss can wait for them ice cream tubs till I get a smoke."

"Sure he can. Light up again and take a look at this."

A hand held a scrap of paper within the light of a match. The same voice said:

"It's the picture of the dame who said: 'He was a swell-dressed fella.' Guess I'll have to date her up!"

The other man closed his hand over the match.

"You an' your dames! Forget 'em for tonight, or you'll crack up on this job. Come on!"

As Brooke dressed in her room, the words and suggestive laugh of the man who had produced the picture kept boiling up through her jubilation over Sam's success, through the inescapable memory of Mark Trent's eyes and voice as he had caught her in his arms.

She was adjusting a rhinestone and synthetic emerald clip to the shoulder of her white satin frock when a thought forked through her mind like lightning. The amber and brown eyes of the looking-glass girl frowning back at her widened with amazement; her red lips moved.

"He said—he said—I'll have to date her up!"

In an instant she was on the floor beside her desk with a big manila envelope in her lap. She pulled out a bunch of clippings. She had it! The picture of a girl, Maggie Cassidy, and under it the caption:

"She said that the man she saw in the garage was a swell-dressed fella."

The waiter who had shown the other man the clipping was the Bath Crystal Bandit, the man she had recognized at the Supper club! He was the man who had tied up Hunt in the garage! Was he also the murderer of Lola Hunt?

Why was the man in Mark Trent's house tonight? His pal had said: "Forget 'em, or you'll crack up on this job." What job? Something big must have tempted him to come so near the scene of his last hold-up, or had that newspaper headline stating that he was being followed to Canada made him feel secure? What was he after? More jewels?

Jed Stewart's words answered Brooke's question as clearly as if whispered in her ear. The man had come for Mrs. Gregory's diamonds.

She must notify the police! She snatched her hand from the telephone in its cradle on the desk. Not that. Wires had ears. She would go herself. Across the causeway. To Inspector Harrison at headquarters. She could go and be back before she was missed. Suppose she were stopped on the way! Where was Henri? Was he in on this? She must locate him before she left the house.

She caught up a green velvet wrap, stuffed some bills into her emerald satin bag. Pelted down the stairs, into the living-room toward the bell. Stopped. Where was the parrot? He was not in his cage! Had he made another break for freedom? She looked between the gilded bars. What seemed to be merely a bunch of green feathers lay stiffly on the bottom.

"Get Going! Get Going!"

"Well, if this isn't just one of those days!" she said aloud.

"Oh, Brooke!" Jerry Field called from the hall.

As she appeared in the doorway, he exclaimed:

"Of all the gorgeous creatures! You look like a million!"

"Jerry, drive me across the causeway, will you? Quick!"

"What's the matter?"

"I must go. Is your roadster here?"

"Left it by your garage."

"By the garage!"

Brooke's blood congealed. Suppose as they stepped into the car the two crook waiters should appear for a tub of ice cream? Would the men suspect her errand? Into her mind flashed her reply to Mark Trent:

"That's quite a suggestion that I end the poor boy's torment. I will. Tonight."

What a thought for this crisis! What a thought!

"Wait a minute, Jerry! While I'm upstairs, set the parrot's cage in the back hall, please. I—I can't bear to have it here. You'll see why."

She raced up the stairs, charged into her bedroom, pulled a suitcase from the shelf. On the way down, she took the two lowest stairs in a jump. She thrust the case into Field's hand.

"What's the big idea?"

"Don't—ask—questions! Let's go!"

"You can't walk in the snow in those white satin sandals, you'll ruin the green heels."

She pushed him toward the door.

"Get going! Get going!"

"Well, I'll be darned! Come on."

Brooke felt the dampness between the straps of her sandals. It seemed miles to the garage. There was Jerry's roadster! A waiter was coming down the back steps. It might be the Bath Crystal Bandit! She called in a guarded voice to the Japanese who was directing parking, but loud enough for the man on the steps to hear:

"Taku! Put this suitcase in the rumble. And, Taku, if you see my brother, tell him—tell him," she raised her voice, "that Mr. Field and I have run away to be married."

"So we're off to be married! That's all right with me," Jerry Field approved fervently.

Brooke, whose face was pressed against the back window of the roadster, twisted round in her seat. "Don't be foolish, Jerry. Of course we're not. That was a red herring drawn across our trail."

"Just why the red herring?" The ironic note in his voice gave her a chill tremor of dismay; she didn't care for the way in which his eyes narrowed as they peered through the wind shield. She protested:

"Don't speak like that, it makes me shivery, and goodness knows my teeth are fairly chattering now." She turned to peer from the rear window. "No car in sight yet. Can you go a little faster?"

"Not without a risk of skidding off the causeway and breaking our necks. Can't you see how the snow is plastering the wind shield. The squeegee barely moves. Why the haste?"

"While I'm telling you I'll keep watch. The excitement began upon my return from the play."

She told him of leaving her town car in the garage, of stopping in the purple gloom under the hemlock to look at the lighted windows of the stone houses crouched on the ledge; her breath quickened as she repeated the words of the man who had produced the newspaper clipping:

"It's the picture of the dame who said: 'He was a swell-dressed fella.' I'll have to date her up."

"That was what the Cassidy girl said about the man they suspect robbed Mrs. Hunt!"

Field's voice was sharp, his personal problem was submerged in a mounting tide of excitement. The car shot ahead like a whippet unleashed.

"I know that now. The certainty as to who he was flashed through my mind while I was dressing, and the suspicion that he might be at the Other House tonight to lift—that's the technical term, isn't it—Mrs. Gregory's gorgeous diamonds."

"Why didn't you phone the police?"

"With Henri in the house? I may be a slow thinker but I'm not absolutely dumb."

"And the suitcase?"

"A touch of theater. I thought if one of the gang saw us starting, he might suspect he had been discovered, but if he heard what I told Taku he would feel secure. Elopements happen every day."

"Not in my young life," Jerry Field retorted crisply.

They maintained a breathless, alert silence until the roadster turned a corner into a street which had an air of lonely spaciousness. Just ahead bulked the combination jail and police headquarters, gloomy and ponderous.

"Shall I come in with you?" Field asked, as he stopped the roadster before a heavy iron door and cut off his engine.

"Yes. I may need you to corroborate my story. When I burs, in upon them in this gown, they may think I'm crazy. Hurry! We don't know what is going on at the Other House."

Field slipped his arm within hers as they mounted the snowy steps.

"I'll stick around and wait till you call me. Don't shiver, sweet thing. You're not afraid of the inspector, are you?"

"Afraid! No. Haven't I been cross-examined by him almost every day since what Sam calls 'our late unpleasantness'? It's just the Reyburn temperament."

Her satin sandals skidded treacherously in the corridor as she confronted a policeman whose nose, criss-crossed with a network of fine veins, had the effect of a red "stop" signal.

"Where's the inspector? I must see him. Matter of life and death," she confided breathlessly. In her excitement she caught the man's arm and shook it. He scowled at her, looked beyond her at Jerry Field; his expression mellowed.

"Inspector's just come in. He's in the radio division. Go through those swinging doors up them stairs to the tower."

Brooke was through the doors before the man had finished speaking. Three or four men leaning over a great U-shaped table looked up as she entered the room. With a muttered exclamation, the inspector left them and came forward.

A man sitting at a telephone said something in a low voice to an officer before a microphone. Tubes in the broadcasting apparatus crackled into life. He said slowly and distinctly into the mike:

"Calling car 3131. Car 3131. Car 3131. Go to K and Tenth street."

Brooke commanded breathlessly: "Listen to me, Inspector. The man who robbed Lola Hunt is serving supper at the Trent h-house on the point!"

Inspector Bill Harrison smiled, a curious smile.

"Wish I'd known this before, Miss Reyburn. I've just come from the point, following a tip I had. What's the dope on this bandit? Is it the same guy you saw at the Supper club?"

"It must be, Inspector. Tonight—before she had finished telling of the alleged waiter's remark about Maggie Cassidy's picture, machinery was crackling again and the man at the microphone was broadcasting distinctly:

"Calling car 1942. Car 1942. Car 1942. Go to Trent house on point. Inspector will meet you. Calling car 6784. Car 6784. Car 6784. Go to Trent house on point. Inspector will meet you."

Inspector Bill Harrison was out of the room before the man at the microphone had completed the call. One of the officers turned over two discs on the U-table; the other frowned at her with the bluest, most Irish eyes she ever had seen as he answered her unspoken question:

"We don't dare be more explicit over the mike, Miss. The thugs pick up the messages."

"I hope they get there in time, Sergeant?"

"Time for what, Miss?"

"I think—I think he's there to get Mrs. Gregory's diamonds—she's—she's simply plastered with them tonight."

Jerry Field was pacing the lower corridor when she reached it.

"It's about time you appeared, Brooke! I was just coming up to look for you. What do we do next?"

"Back to the party of course."

The wind swirled her short hair, clutched at her satin skirts, tugged at her velvet wrap as they went down the jail steps. As Jerry Field tucked the robe about her wet feet he looked up. Snow had settled in the brim of his soft hat, whitened his shoulders.

"Let's make a break for town, sweet thing, and make that yarn you told Taku the truth."

The expression in his eyes, the break in his voice hurt her. She said unsteadily:

"Please, Jerry! I can't care for you that way. Take me back quickly, will you? We mustn't miss Sam's party."

"Oh Sam! Sam is your white-haired boy. He's all that you Reyburn women think of or care about. I believe you'd sell your soul for him!"

After one look at his grim mouth and gloomy eyes, Brooke snuggled into her corner of the seat.

They sped in silence through the night. Toward the east the drab, heavy clouds were thinning before a spreading radiance.

"I believe the snow is letting up, Jerry. Look! The moon is trying to break through! Drive faster. I can't wait to know what has happened."

Real Epicure Insists on Mixing Own Salad

DEAR Mrs. Post: In a certain restaurant at which I eat my lunch every day, when I order a salad bowl of greens they bring the dressing in a separate pitcher. Is it proper to mix the salad in the bowl or to put a little salad on one's plate at a time and pour the dressing over it? People seem to do both and I wonder why the bowl and wooden implements are provided if one is not supposed to mix it first.

Answer: Genuine salad lovers all mix salad thoroughly beforehand, but others would be more inclined to pour the dressing on a portion at a time. In other words, you do as you choose.

Mixing Up Furniture.

DEAR Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me just how far one may go in mixing furniture? I mean, should one room contain pieces of the same period, or may pieces of various styles be combined properly in one room? And what periods are most compatible?

Answer: Rooms with mixed furniture have generally much more charm than those which too strictly adhere to a definite style. The only important rule to be observed is that crude pieces can not very well be put with those which are finely finished. And yet, the becomingness of one piece to another is much more a matter of feeling than of rule. For instance, one might put Jacobean pieces with Georgian as well as with Italian, but one could not very well put Jacobean next to fragile examples of Hepplewhite.

Don't Dirty a Doily.

DEAR Mrs. Post: When the finger bowl is brought to the table on the dessert plate, on which is a lace doily, how does one remove the finger bowl to the table, and where is it put? Is the doily removed with it or is dessert put on the doily?

Answer: The doily should be lifted off with the finger bowl and both put down at your place wherever there is room. On no account put anything eatable on top of a lace doily.

Catching Last Drop.

DEAR Mrs. Post: How can syrup or cream poured from a pitcher be kept from losing the last drop over the side, which not only looks unsightly but often soils the tablecloth?

Answer: If you stop short when pouring, the last drop is not likely to run down the side of the pitcher. But if it should spill over a little, take your clean spoon and hold it under the lip to catch the drop. A pitcher, by the way, which is to be set upon the table should have under it a tray or a coaster or possibly a matching saucer.

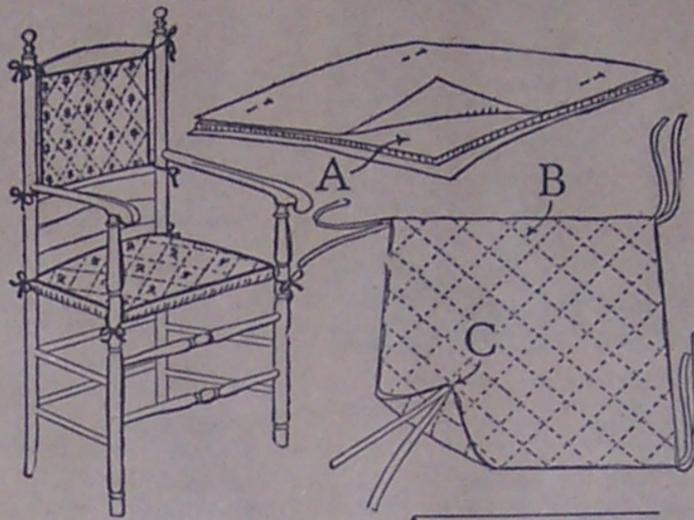

Greeting the Boss.

DEAR Mrs. Post: On the way out of our office building the other day I passed one of our executives whom I seldom see. He said, "Good morning Miss Brown, how are you?" and took me so completely by surprise that I said, "Fine, thank you" and don't believe that was the proper answer for me to have made. Under such a circumstance, what does one say?

Answer: "Very well, thank you" is the punctilious reply and the fact that you said "Fine" was certainly not out of the way. In the business world, however, it would have been equally proper to merely say "Good morning" unless you had really been ill and his question was therefore asked intentionally

HOW TO SEW

by Ruth Wyeth Spears

There May Be Many Reasons for Making Quilted Chair Pads.

IF ALL the reasons for quilted chair pads were lined up in order of their importance the most intangible reason of all might head the list. Yes, it is quite likely that any decorator, amateur or professional would place atmosphere at the top. But then it is also possible that first rating might be given to the reason that the pressure of slats across the backs of chairs is softened by quilted pads. Then, though it might not be mentioned, it is a known fact that worn out cane seats are sometimes replaced with inexpensive composition seats which may be disguised by gay quilted pads.

Chintz, calico or gingham chair pads are in fact one of the simplest and most inexpensive ways of adding color and charm as well as comfort to a room. Such pads are often used on the backs of chairs and not on the seats, and especially for side chairs, the seat pads used without any back covering. In making such small things as these it is quite easy to do the quilting on the machine. Or, if you wish to take the other point of view about it, the work of quilting them by hand would not consume an unreasonable amount of time. There is no doubt that handwork has a certain quaintness that machine work lacks.

The pads shown here are made with one layer of sheet wadding between the two layers of the chintz. The edge bindings and ties are made of bias tape. Cut the three layers of the pad material exactly the size and shape you want them to be when finished. Place the sheet wadding between the two layers of covering material as shown here at A. Either pin or baste in this position, and then quilt as shown here at B. Make the ties by stitching the lengthwise edges of the bias tape together, and then tack them to the corners of the pad as at C before it is bound. Now, bind the edges, sewing the ties right in with the binding as shown here at D.

IT'S IN THE NEWS!

There are two classes of news in these columns every week: (1) Interesting stories about events all over the world; and (2) the advertisements. Yes, the advertisements are news, and in many ways the most important of all, because they affect you more directly and personally than any other.

• A new and better method of refrigeration is devised—and you learn about it through advertisements. Improvements are added to automobiles which make them safer than ever—again advertisements carry the story. Styles change in clothing—and advertisements rush the news to your doorstep. A manufacturer finds a way to lower the price on his products—he advertises to tell you about the savings.

• You'll find that it pays to follow this news every week. Reading the advertisements is the sure way to keep abreast of the world... to learn of new comforts and conveniences... to get full money's worth for every dollar you spend.

Towel Holders.—Either a spring-type clothespin, or the paper clamp from a loose-leaf notebook, properly nailed to the wall makes a satisfactory towel hanger for the basement.

Uses for Beef Marrow.—Beef marrow is very nutritious. Add it to the suet for meat puddings and forcemeat, and to stews and soups. Mixed with tinned tomato puree, or haricot bean puree, you get excellent mixture for a savory toast.

Filling for Tea Biscuits.—Sardines mixed with salad dressing and a few drops of lemon juice make excellent filling for tiny tea biscuits.

Save Stale Bread Crumbs.—Bread that has become hard and stale can be ground into crumbs, browned in the oven, and used for improving the flavor and appearance of many dishes. Store in an airtight tin.

THE REASON HEADACHES ARE RELIEVED SO FAST

THE REASON BAYER ASPIRIN WORKS SO FAST
Drop a Bayer Aspirin tablet into a tumbler of water.
By the time it hits the bottom of the glass it is disintegrating.
This speed of disintegration enables genuine BAYER Aspirin tablets to start "taking hold" of headache and similar pain a few minutes after taking.

All people who suffer occasionally from headaches ought to know this way to quick relief.

At the first sign of such pain, take two Bayer Aspirin tablets with a half glass of water. Sometimes if the pain is more severe, another dose is necessary later, according to directions.

If headaches keep coming back we advise you to see your own physician. He will look for the cause in order to correct it.

The price now is only 15¢ for twelve tablets or two full dozen for 25 cents—virtually, only a cent apiece.

BOWLING

By R. O. Hecht

The bowling ball rolls down, the pins fly round and around and the score-keeper puts your score up here! That's the story of an every night occurrence at St. John's Bowling alleys! Things are certainly humming in the two leagues in this, the ninth week of bowling in this season. League No. 2 has just completed its first round at the end of the ninth week.

Looking at last weeks results in League No. 1 we see that the leaders, Knot-holes, took things on the chin as they lost three games to Mikos. State Line came through in great style to take all three from the Legion. First Federal stayed in their winning splurge by taking one from the ever powerful Kraay Brothers team. The Lions did the unexpected when they handed Dockweillers a double defeat. Ridge Road Gardens took the Auto Inn Keepers down the line for two.

Buck Weaver bowled high game in League No. 1 with a 224, but the lime light shines down on Carl Daehn this week because he shot the series total of 631 pins. This score is high all around for the year.

The St. John's Alleys were the scene of a local match game last Sunday, between the Cherrie Pickers and Sass & Co. The Cherrie Pickers were piloted by Ben Vlerk and Sass & Co. was piloted by Paul Sass. The victors, the Cherrie Pickers, rolled a fine series total of 2755 while the losers rolled a score of 2604.

Last Monday night in League No. 2 Meeters went on a rampage and defeated Glds three times. The Meeter outfit is moving right up near first place and at this time are ahead of Lansing Pharmacy and one game behind the pace setting Padjen boys. Lansing Pharmacy lost one game to Pannys Clowns as did Padjen lose one to Louie. Slager Brothers mopped up on the Lansing Motors aggregation three times.

Next Sunday afternoon the high five men from each league will bowl each other to determine which league is to be called the "Major" and which one is to be called the "Minor" league.

GENE RAYMOND, HARRIET HILLIARD TOGETHER IN "THE LIFE OF THE PARTY" NOW SHOWING AT THE PARAMOUNT THEATRE THROUGH SATURDAY

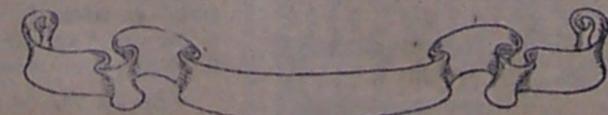

Gene Raymond, of the blond hair, and Harriet Hilliard, vivacious brunette, are coupled as romantic leads for the first time on the screen in the lively film musical, "The Life Of The Party" which is now showing at the Paramount Theatre through Saturday. Miss Hilliard and Gene Raymond share billing honors with three stellar teams of comedians: Joe Penner and Parkyakarkus, Victor Moore and Helen Broderick, and Billy Gilbert and Franklin Pangborn, all of whom are conspicuous in "The Life Of The Party", a story of a girl whose mother seeks to arrange her marriage to a wealthy man. Six new numbers sung by Miss Hilliard, Raymond and Joe Penner, and three dances, by Joe Penner, Ann Miller clever little tap dancer and a chorus intersperse the gay, romantic story of "The Life Of The Party".
Sunday the Paramount attraction will be "Charlie Chan On Broadway" and on the stage in person a Gala Stage Revue.
Monday to Wednesday inclusive will be "Topper" with Cary Grant and Constance Bennett.

QUIET dignity, calm, peaceful services, freedom from all distractions and annoyance in your hour of bereavement. We take all responsibility and fulfill all your requirements at moderate cost.

"JUST BETWEEN OURSELVES, I'M PRETTY WELL PLEASED ABOUT IT"

"Yes sir, there's a lot of satisfaction in having an individual telephone line again. Not that I have anything against our old party line. It served its purpose during the depression when we had to watch every penny, and yet didn't want to do without telephone service. But now that things are better, I'm kind of proud to have 'our own' telephone once more. It's right there—ready for us—whenever we want it or whenever anybody wants us. There's no one else using it when we're in a hurry. And it's surprising how little more it costs than our party line did. Might be a good idea for you to look into it, and see if you don't want to change back too."

By VIRGINIA VALE**

CARY GRANT is all set to be the busiest actor in Hollywood for the next year. Now working with Katherine Hepburn in "Bringing Up Baby," he is all set to rush from that to "Love on Parade," with Miriam Hopkins, after which he will support Ruby Keeler in her first R. K. O. picture.

Columbia pictures hold a contract with him also, and will have several stories ready for him just as soon as he finishes his stint on the R.K.O. lot. And somehow or other, Cary expects to find time to play one of the leads in Sam Goldwyn's production of the ever-popular romance, "Graustark." If you heard him on the air recently with Irene Dunne, giving excerpts from "The Awful Truth," which theaters will be showing soon, you don't need to be told that it is a thoroughly delightful picture.

Cary Grant

Practically all of the motion-picture companies have decided that comics in sets of three bring sure success. R.K.O. has the Marx Brothers now, Twentieth Century-Fox have the Ritz brothers with their hilarious antics, and Paramount has signed up the Yacht Club boys to appear in three more pictures for them.

Hollywood producers wish that plump girls were fashionable. Insistence on streamlined figures causes them no end of worry. Many of the stars noted for their beauty and chic have to live on strict diets in order to stay slim, and when they are working on a strenuous schedule they get so run down that they have no resistance to colds. Recently on the ailing list were Carole Lombard, Alice Faye, Joan Crawford, Virginia Bruce, Simone Simon, and Zorina, the lovely Russian dancer who is soon to make her debut in Goldwyn pictures.

Closest friends of Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., thought that his great success as an actor in "The Prisoner of Zenda" had cured him of all ambitions to be a producer in England. Douglas says they are wrong. As soon as he finishes playing opposite Ginger Rogers in "Having a Wonderful Time," he will be off to London again to be the big boss of a production company. In the future he will spend six months of each year in Hollywood working as an actor, the other six in London producing pictures.

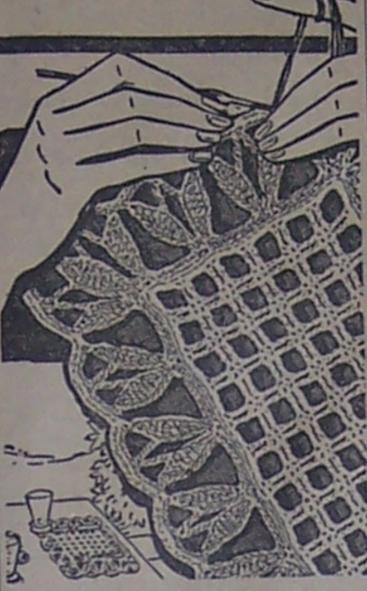

Ginger Rogers

ODDS AND ENDS—One of the most important instruments in B. A. Rolfe's orchestra is an ordinary tin can filled with coins. Shaken by the drummer, this gives out those minor tinkling notes like Oriental bells that build up the gruesome atmosphere of Ripley's weirdest Believe It or Not. Eddie Cantor's recent high spirits, even higher than usual, are due to the general verdict that his new picture "Ali Baba Goes to Town" is by far the best he has ever made. . . . Ginger Rogers' favorite tribute came from a cameraman when she had finished her big dramatic scene in "Stage Door." He hollered at her: "Throw away those dancing shoes."

Why of Eiffel Tower

Although the Eiffel tower is perhaps the most distinctive structure in Paris, how many know what its uses are and why it was built? The Standard American Encyclopedia tells that it was built for the Paris Exposition of 1889, and now, aside from being one of the chief ornaments of the city, it is immensely valuable for meteorological purposes.

Since 1910 the tower has been used as a wireless station and also serves as a time signal center, an electrical illumination system flashing forth the hours and quarters.

Model for Silver Coin The model for the head of Liberty on the peace dollar of 1921 was Mrs. Anthony de Francisci, the wife of the sculptor who designed the coin. The sculptor has declared the face on the coin is a composite face typifying America. Miss Anna D. Williams of Philadelphia was the model for the profile of Liberty on the silver dollar minted from 1878 to 1904; no silver dollars were coined from 1905 to 1920. The number of stars appears to have no particular significance, except that as there were 15 states in 1794 when the first silver dollars were minted, 15 stars appeared on these coins. In 1797 a star was added for Tennessee, but later dollars had only 15 or 13 stars.

-FOR I KNEW THAT ACID-INDIGESTION WAS DISTRESSING TO ME AND OFFENSIVE TO OTHERS BUT NOW—I JUST ALKALIZE THE EASY PHILLIPS' WAY

The quick way to alkalize is this: Take two teaspoons of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia 30 minutes after eating and drinking. Or, when among others—take two Phillips' Tablets that come in a small flat tin you carry in purse or vest pocket.—You do it unnoticed. Relief is almost immediate. "Gas," nausea, acid breath and other offensive symptoms leave.—That "stuffed" feeling and pains from "acid indigestion" cease to annoy. You feel great. This is the way, we believe, more doctors use than any other when alkalizing upset stomach.

There Seems to Be Several Angles in This Football Game

THIS game called football: Cognomen confusers — Bethel college, McKenzie, Tenn., and Bethel college, Kansas. Bowling Green Teachers' college, Kentucky, and Bowling Green Normal school, Ohio. Dickinson college, Pennsylvania, and Dickinson Teachers' college, North Dakota. Marquette university, Wisconsin, and Marquette Teachers' college, Michigan. Monmouth college, Illinois, and Monmouth Normal school, Oregon.

Twenty-eight Notre Dame graduates coach college teams as compared to seven from Minnesota. Only two alumni of Carlisle, as famed on the gridiron 25 years ago as the Irish and Gophers are now, are coaching. They are William Dietz at Albright and Gus Welch at American U.

Of the 40 or more football players whose last names are the names of colleges only two seem to be competing against their namesakes this year. Dickinson of Delaware played against Dickinson college and Marquette of Villanova bore down against Marquette. None of the athletes seem to be playing on teams bearing their own names. There is, though, a "Furman" at Cornell and a "Cornell" at California.

Coach Jock Sutherland of Pitt started his athletic career as a track and field man at Oberlin academy. At Pitt he played football, tossed the weights, was track captain and filled in his other idle hours with varsity wrestling.

How Irish Were Saved by Hairline Finishes

Hairline finishes—Elmer Layden's Notre Dame team was saved from defeat in the final minutes of play in three games during 1935. The Irish won from Pitt and Ohio State on last minute scores while tying Army in the final second, 6 to 6. That year Notre Dame scored 27 points in the last seven minutes of play in seven games. In the Ohio State game Andy Pilney scored 18 points in the last quarter, 12 of them coming in the last two minutes.

In 1906 Cornell beat Oberlin, Hamilton, Bucknell, Bowdoin, Pitt, Holy

Harvard once had five plays from the Holy Cross one yard line (The extra chance being due to the Crusaders being offside) without scoring the touchdowns.

Duke plays teams from five different states in its first five games this season.

In 1936 Byron White of Colorado made four touchdown runs through the snow against Utah. After these jaunts of 39, 28, 89 and 45 yards he threw a 50 yard pass over the goal line for a fifth touchdown.

Cubs' Loss of Pennant Is Blamed on Wives

Some Chicagoans claim Charley Grimm's Cubs finished second this year because too many wives were interfering in their husbands' business. As usual most of the obit writers were wrong when Princeton's great lineman, Biffy Lea, died. He was not an All-America end for four years as most of them insisted. He was All-America tackle for three years and then, due to an injured shoulder which forced him to play with his arm strapped to his side all season, he moved out to end the next year. Made the All-America as end this time. It is extremely doubtful that the new world record for the mile, set in London last summer by Stan Wooderson, will be allowed by the international federation. There are two reasons, both sufficient under the rules to prevent acceptance of the mark. One is that the race was with club members. The other is that it was a paced race and he was permitted to have the pole all the way.

Umpires Emslie and Byron, once two of the best in the big time, visited the World Series. When they arrived at press headquarters the first guy they asked for was Casey Stengel.

Both the Yankees and Joe McCarthy are to be congratulated on their new contract. Joe has had plenty to work with. Baseball never has known a more efficient organization than the one shrewd Ed Barrow has perfected during his years as business manager. Yet some men squander their own talents as well as the gifts that are offered to them. Joe never has done that. He has made good and full use of every opportunity. Although $35,000 a year probably is beyond the comprehension of most of the fans who pay to make the club richer each season there is no doubt but what cash customers are wholeheartedly glad he is getting it.

Lightweight Champion Lou Ambers rushes from the dressing room to the nearest soda emporium after each bout to fill up on cantaloupe and ice cream. Two home games in Washington drew within $13,000 of what the Redskins took in at seven games in Boston. A British newspaper syndicate paid Tommy Farr $30,000 for his life story after the Joe Louis bout. Bill McKechnie, new manager of the Cincinnati Reds, formerly managed five of the seven rival pilots in the National league. They are Grimm, Frisch, Traynor, Grimes, and Wilson. Dean Cromwell, track coach at Southern California, let out a deep groan when Bob Peoples fractured his wrist in a freshman football game with Stanford, and no wonder. Peoples probably is the best javelin prospect in the United States.

Joe Louis' softball team has been touring California cities, asking a guarantee of only $150 a game. Joe gives all the receipts to the players. A letter addressed "Barney Ross, Somewhere in the U. S. A." was delivered to the welterweight champion in Chicago a few days ago. Dorothy Bundy, who eliminated Alice Marble from this year's national tennis tournament, is en route to Australia with Dorothy Workman.

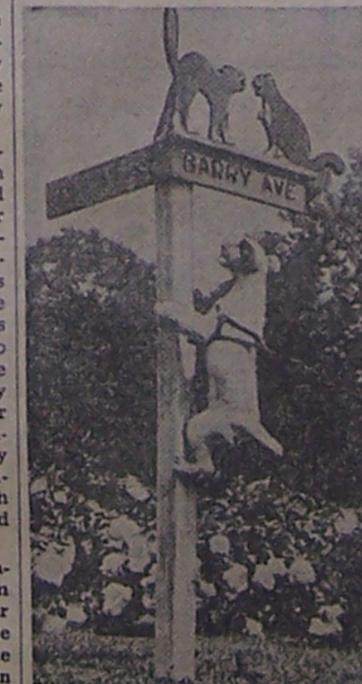

NOT IN THE BOX SCORE:

WHEN discussing football prospects Carl Snavely, coach of Cornell's high-riding eleven, could spot Gil Doble six towels and still run away with any crying contest. Jack Dempsey has been a most frequent racetrack visitor recently. Can it be that Jack is taking the sport of kings seriously again after that technical kayo he suffered from his first experience with the gee gees? Owner Benschwanger of Pittsburgh is quoted as saying he would rather finish sixth with a fighting ball club than third in the manner of the 1937 Pirates. So it has been predicted there will be various trades this winter with Arky Vaughan already on the market. N. Y. U. may not be the hardest luck eleven of the year. But what other team has lost such key-men as Swiaden, Savarese, Williams and Bloom in rapid succession?

Three generations of Whitney owners, William C., Harry Payne and Cornelius V. have cheered while their famous Eton Blue and Brown Cap have been carried to victory in almost every important American stake and an Epsom Derby. The colors, which will be retired from the turf after this season, were obtained in England 50 years or so ago. "Those colors are a jinx," the famous English trainer Jack Lambert told William C. Whitney. "You can buy them for a song." Art Rooney will return in the spring for another crack at the ponies. You can take a short price on that, horse players never quit. For instance there was a celebrated English punter, a higher roller than any Rooney, Gates or Chicago O'Brien. He's dead now but until he ended it all, shortly after being turned down for a fiver, he still had been talking of a comeback.

That football return duel between Fordham Tackle Barbartsky and Pitt End Daddio was a honey.

As War Fever Rises in Japan

Toy guns, used in a stage revue in Osaka, are held by these Chorines on the roof of the theater as they get instruction from a Japanese officer. Press agent stunt? Perhaps, but it indicates to what extent the war fever has premeated every avenue of Japanese life. Other women auxiliaries, with real guns, have their instructions on what to do, should enemy planes fly over the highly centralized industrial city.

AMAZE A MINUTE SCIENTIFACTS ~ BY ARNOLD

A SLOTH'S LIFE-

THE TROPICAL SLOTH SPENDS ITS WHOLE LIFE IN THE TREES, BEING ALMOST HELPLESS IF IT FALLS TO THE GROUND.

TRIPLETS WANTED-

THE INSTITUTE OF CHILD WELFARE OF THE UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA ARE SEARCHING FOR TRIPLETS TO STUDY HEREDITY AND ENVIRONMENT.

SWIFT PARACHUTE USE!

A NORMAL COMPLETE PARACHUTE OPENING TAKES BUT 1 3/5 SECONDS.

WNU Service.

Along the Concrete

SOCK!

His Assistant--This patient wants in anesthetic before you pull his teeth.

Doc, Sabertooth--All right, Get twenty more clamshells out of him and then take your stone mallet and tap him right here on his dome.

Serving the King

Passing through a village street a recruiting sergeant met a young farmhand delivering milk.

"Now, my lad, wouldn't you like to serve the king?" he asked.

"I would mister," replied the other, "but can only let him have a quart at night an' a pint in the morning."--London Tit-Bits.

Yes, yes!

Lady (to guide in Yellowstone park)--Do these hot springs ever freeze over?

Guide--Oh, yes. Once last winter a lady broke through the ice and burned her foot

Diogenes and His Lantern

"How do you use a lantern in your search for an honest man," asked the citizen.

"I lend it to a man," answered Diogenes, "and if he returns it I know he's one in ten thousand. You see, the lantern test is the best available. The umbrella has not yet been invented."

Breaking It Gently

"I understand that your daughter is going to take music lessons."

"Not exactly," replied Farmer Cornrossel. "We haven't the heart to tell her that her voice sounds terrible, so we're going to hire a regular teacher to do it."

EASY GOING

"With these changeable styles, how can a girl ever know where her waistline is?"

"Why--er--any nice fellow can show you that."

SUCH IS LIFE

By Charles Hughes
NATURE'S LESSON

"Speeding has a big element of danger in it."
"Yes--those confounded cops are everywhere."

When the Dog Is Needed

A short-sighted gentleman went to choose a pair of spectacles.

"These glasses," he said, "are not strong enough for me."

"But, sir, they are No. 2."

"What is next to No. 2?"

"No. 1."

"And after that?"

"After No. 1, sir, you will want a dog!"

Right!

Instructor--You say in this paper that you know the connecting link between the animal and vegetable kingdoms. What is it?
Student--Stew.

Well!

Young Artist--You are the first of my many models I have ever cared for.

Model--How many have you had?
Young Artist--Four. An apple, a banana, a bouquet, and you.

The Perfect Answer

"Pidd," roared the boss, "you seem to be ignoring our efficiency system altogether!"

"Yessir," returned Stew Pidd, "but somebody's gotta get the work done."
