34 NEW TRAFFIC SIGNS FOR VILLAGE

Through the efforts of village president, John Schuringa, and the council, 34 new traffic signs were given to the village by the Chicago Motor Club and were installed this week.

Officer Van Laningham assisted the motor club in placing the signs early this week. The new signs included eight reflector stop signs and three sets of school signs to be used in the middle of the street during school hours.

The signs have been placed at Ridge Road and the following streets: one at Maple, two at Lange, one at Williams, one at Sherman, one at Walnut, one at Grant, one at Henry, one at Stewart, one at Ada, two at Roy, one at Walter, one at Lorenz, one at Oak, one at Park, two at Chicago, two at School, two at Ridgewood, two at Oakwood, one at Wildwood, one at Oakley, one at Glen Terrace and one at Fred street.

One school warning sign was placed on Glen Terrace, three on Indiana avenue and one on School street. The school signs for the middle of the street will be mounted on pedestals and used where traffic is heavy.

The eight reflector signs at at Maple, Williams, Grant, Stewart, Henry, Chicago and School streets.

These signs which have long been needed in the village are a gift from the motor club.

LANGE-HUIZENGA NUPTIALS THURS.

One of the happiest occasions of the season was the wedding of Miss Edna Lange, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lange of the Glenwood-Lansing Road and George Huizenga, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Huizenga of Munster, which took place at the home of the bride's parents, Thursday evening, November 11th at 5:30 p. m.

The nuptials vows were exchanged before Rev. Alex Guebert who read the double ring ceremony. Ella Huizenga, sister of the groom played the wedding march.

The bride was attired in a lovely white satin dress and wore a head band of roses.

Miss Clara Lange, who acted as maid of honor and is a sister of the bride wore a beautiful blue satin dress. The groom's brother, Jacob Huizenga, acted as best man.

After the ceremony a delicious dinner was served with the following guests present: Rev. and Mrs. Gubert, Mr. and Mrs. James Huizenga, Mrs. De Young, grandmother of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Swets and son, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Huizenga and family, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Eenigenberg and family, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Harnisch, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Lange and Mr. Ralph Peters. Following the dinner the couple were presented with many gifts.

The groom is employed by the Ardor Trucking Company of Hammond.

The Newlyweds are at home at 18359 Torrence avenue in the Schroeder apartment.

OAK GLEN GROCERY MOVES INTO NEW HOME

James Helms, manager of the Nation-Wide store in Oak Glen, moved his stock of goods into the new building across the street on Monday. The Helms' and Fred Lorenz families moved into the two apartments above the store on Saturday.

For each dollar it spends, the Government now takes in 69 cents. It is only the large number of such transactions which makes this possible. — Detroit News.

THANKSGIVING SERVICE IN SONG SUN. AT M. E. CHURCH

On Sunday evening, November 21, at 8:15 o'clock the choir of the Wesley Methodist church will present a Thanksgiving song service of sacred music. Out of town guest singers who will take part in the service are Mrs. Ethel Jordan Shields, soloist of the First Methodist church of Hammond, and Mr. H. I. Seaburg of the First Presbyterian church of Hammond.

The program will be as follows: "The Spacious Firmament" by the choir; duet, "Love Divine" sung by Mr. Van Blarcom and Miss Edith Vander Blit; "Praise Ye The Father", and "The Heavens Declare" by the choir; solo, "How Lovely Are Thy Dwellings" by Mrs. Shields; instrumental selections; "The Lord is Exalted" by choir; solo, by Mr. Seaburg; "Jubilate Deo." by choir; solo, "In The Cross of Christ" by Mrs. Shields, and for the closing number the choir will sing, "Psalm 150".

The service is being directed by Mr. H. S. Van Blarcom.

BEGIN RED CROSS ROLL CALL HERE

MRS. WINTERHOFF, CHAIRMAN OF DRIVE

The annual Red Cross roll call for members was begun in the village this week under the direction of Mrs. William Winterhoff, chairman of the Lansing chapter.

Mrs. Winterhoff has enlisted the aid of the following persons to conduct the house to house canvass: William Fieldhouse, Alice Vander-Aa, Mrs. C. Isaacson, Mrs. Fred Price, Mrs. Carl Riepen, Mrs. Meta Weaver, Marion Barkdull, Helen Schneider, Mrs. Max Kosek, Anna VanKley and Mildred Hecht.

Local response to the annual Red Cross roll call has always been generous, but it is hoped that this year the donations will be more than ever.

Every one is familiar with the meritorious work of the American Red Cross, how it is always ready to answer the call for help in time of disaster, and its continuous drive against disease, so that there should be no question when the Red Cross worker calls. Do your part by responding to the Roll Call.

REV. MARTIN C. ELZ TO LECTURE HERE

"The Lecture Unique" is the title of a novel, educational and entertaining expose of spiritism, fortune telling and kindred occult arts to be delivered at Trinity Lutheran church Sunday evening, November 28 by Rev. Martin C. Elz (Concordia Theological Seminary, St. Louis, 1930)

The lecture will last approximately two hours and is divided into two parts, a lecture portion and a demonstration portion. Part one will include a presentation of some of the most interesting and fascinating narratives from the various periods of history, showing that man was ever gullible of charlatans, who dealt with the mysterious and unknown.

It will give a history of spiritism in this country beginning with the Fox sisters and tracing the development down to the present date. (Continued on Page 12)

STUDY CLUB TO GIVE PLAY NOV. 25

"Unto the Least of These", is the title of the play that is to be given in the auditorium of the Indiana avenue school by the Mission Study Club of the First Reformed church on Thursday evening, November 25. Miss Paternella Hook is directing the play.

PROCLAMATION

The following proclamation issued on Armistice Day by President Roosevelt has been endorsed by our village president, John Schuringa:

"Each year, during the period from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving the American Red Cross appeals to our people for the membership support which makes possible the continuance of mercy to enroll as many Americans as possible so that they will have a conscious share in its service to humanity, local, national, and international, through individual membership.

"It is with a feeling of deep pride and gratitude that we look back upon the accomplishments of the Red Cross during the year, when the country was faced with the gravest disaster in its peacetime history. Acting as our national relief agency, the Red Cross gave practical assistance to more than a million people driven from their homes by the floods which swept through the Ohio and Mississippi river valleys. During the same twelve months, the organization brought speedily and efficient relief to the victims of more than one hundred other disasters which visited our people.

"In order that the ever increasing calls for Red Cross service may be met promptly wherever they are sounded, it is of the utmost importance that we further increase the popular support always given to this great organization. I therefore urge our people everywhere to respond generously and promptly to the Red Cross membership roll call."

WALTER HOOK KILLED WED. A. M.

Friends of the Walter Hook family were shocked and grieved this week to hear of his death suddenly in a motor accident that happened on 130th street near the Ford plant as he was returning home from work at that plant. The time was about 12:10 a. m. Two passengers riding with Hook are both in a critical condition in the hospital.

According to best available accounts of the accident, Mr. Hook was driving on 130 street when a cattle truck turned into the street directly in front of him. The Hook car hit the truck trailer, throwing Hook from his machine onto the street, the truck turned over pinning him beneath. He died instantly it is believed.

Mr. Hook was living in South Holland at the time of his death, but had previously been a resident of Lansing for 26 years, having attended school here he was very well known in this village. He was 36 years old on October 22.

He leaves to mourn his passing his wife Frances, three brothers Albert of South Holland, Jacob and William of Oak Glen; three sisters, Mrs. Postma of Oak Glen, Mrs. Kate Rowe of Hemlock, Michigan, and Peternella Hook of Lansing.

The funeral services will be held Saturday from the home of his parents in law, Mr. and Mrs. Mosel of South Holland at 1:30 and from the South Holland Reformed church at 2 o'clock. Rev. TerLow will officiate.

The pall bearers are to be Neil Vroom, Ralph Hoekstra, Martin Rispens, John Zeldenrust, Peter Van Weelden and Frank Dykstra. Donald Ferguson, 42, of Colfax driver of the truck, was held for the inquest. He admitted he had failed to stop at the through street.

Calhoun County, Illinois, produces more apples than any other area of like size in the world.

HOEKSTRA BUILDS NEW WAREHOUSE

A cement block and brick addition is now being constructed at the rear of the Theodore Hoekstra grocery to serve as a warehouse for that thriving business. The addition is to measure 40 by 50 feet when complete and will extend entirely across the rear of the present building.

The annex will face Ada street, and all goods delivered to the store will be received at the annex entrance.

The Hoekstra store, which celebrated its sixth anniversary last Saturday has experienced a steady growth since its opening here in 1931. Outgrowing its original quarters it moved into its present modern home at the corner of Ada street and Ridge Road a year ago, and now finds it necessary to increase its floor space by the addition of the new warehouse.

Mr. Hoekstra probably carries one of the largest lines of fancy and staple groceries and meats in the south suburban area.

HOLD IMPRESSIVE PROGRAM NOV. 11

LEGION AND LIONS JOIN IN OBSERVING ARMISTICE DAY

Col. F. G. Trumbo, veteran of the Spanish American War and the World War and speaker of considerable note gave the address at the Armistice Day program presented in the Indiana avenue school auditorium last Thursday evening.

The Colonel emphasized the terrible ruthlessness of war and its uselessness. His cry to the youth of the country was "Stay out of War", but in his opinion the best way to do this is follow the resolution of the American Legion and be prepared with adequate defense, should war be thrust upon us.

His talk, of thirty minute duration, illustrated most dramatically the devastating effects of war and was delivered in a masterly way. In fact there was not a boring minute during the entire program.

The program opened with posting of colors by the Color Guard of the Edward Schultz Post of the American Legion assisted by the Color Guard of the Paul Gail Post of Dolton, and an invocation by Rev. G. J. Rozeboom of the First Reformed church.

TWO ACCIDENTS HERE TODAY

The first snowfall of the year brought with it for Lansing two automobile accidents, one of which may prove fatal to several persons. The first which happened on Torrence avenue at 170th street at 3:30 this afternoon was the most serious.

Lester Sobey, 23, of 6512 South Ashland avenue, driving a Hupmobile sedan north on Torrence lost control of his car and ran into the Buick driven by John De Jong of 167th street.

Riding with Sobey were his mother, Mrs. Julia Sobey, 42; Mrs. Maria Moore, 64, 5529 S. Carolina South Chicago, and her husband Joe Moore. Both Mrs. Sobey and Mrs. Moore were critically injured, Mrs. Moore is not expected to live. De Youngs ambulance of South (Continued on Page 12)

WATER PROBLEMS TROUBLE PAPAS

Evidently the village hasn't enough water, despite the fine new plant and the gallons and gallons we purchase from the city of Hammond, to wash up the messes human nature can get itself into. At least a problem that looked something like that is what tied all the knots in the brows of the papas at their regular meeting Tuesday night at the village hall.

After passing the regular bills and hearing the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting the councilmen had to direct their attention to an irate committee of water users who found themselves all jumbled up. The committee represented the community of Ridgewood and Oakwood avenues at the section of the village where no provision so far has been made for an alley between the two streets.

It seems that some time ago the property owners along this section obtained a permit to install a private water line, but in the contract the owners of the line cannot sell a tap on the line without a permit from the village.

Now it appears that some property has changed hands, there being no alley it is found that the water line runs across some lots, and here appears the perverseness of human nature, or is it the lack of a village zoning ordinance, that would definitely regulate where there shall be alleys, streets, etc., and where they shall not be?

At any rate the new owner of some of the lots along the private water line, a Mr. Posinga, informs (Continued on Page 7)

MILK TRUCK IS DISABLED HERE

Hubert Carbine, driver of a Cicero, Ill., dairy truck, was stopped on Wentworth avenue about 10 a. m. November 13, by three armed men, forced into the back of his truck, and after wiring the truck door shut, the men broke the windshield of the truck and smashed the motor, disabling it.

The three men were driving a Ford sedan, and the driver of the truck states that he can and will identify the men if they are apprehended. The Lansing police were notified by the truck driver as soon as he was able to get out of the truck and summon help.

There are several clues that would lead to the placing of the outrage in one or more places, so the local police are working quietly trying to trace the matter to the proper parties before making any arrests. The three men it is believed can be named.

Carbine, stated at the local inquiry that he and his truck had been the target of a similar attack during August at 87th and Central just outside of the City of Chicago. The dairy owning the truck is a cut-rate concern and it is believed that union trouble may be the reason of the attack.

The truck had delivered milk at the Otto Schultz grocery just prior to the Wentworth avenue incident.

RELIEF LOAD UP IN THORNTON TOWNSHIP

Supervisor William F. Propper reports that the relief load in Thornton Township is increasing rapidly, as a result of lay-offs by industry throughout this district.

Because of the inadequacy of the allocation of State funds to meet the increased need, it has been necessary to restrict relief to food and coal only, in order that all needy families may be fed. Mr. Propper is making every effort to obtain an allocation for December sufficient to meet the problem more fully.

A, B, C, D Quads Have Birthday

STOCK SHOW JUDGE

Alexander Ritchie, manager of King George's royal farm at Windsor, England, who is judge of the steer classes this year at the International Live Stock exposition in Chicago. He succeeds Walter Biggar of Dalbeattie, Scotland, who has judged the steer classes at the show 12 times in past years. B. H. Heide, manager of the exposition, reports that cattle judges from foreign countries have officiated every year since the first show, in 1900.

Aerial Preacher Spreads Gospel From Sky

"Sky pilot," a term sometimes used flippantly to describe a minister, is employed in a literal and serious sense when Rev. Al Waer of Whittier, Calif., takes to the air to preach the Four Square Gospel to congregations 1,500 feet beneath him. Waer preaches to throngs on the earth through a loud speaker system installed in the plane. He will also use the plane for gospel sky writing.

SCARLETT'S SISTER

Margaret Tallichet, Hollywood's "Cinderella girl" who won the role of Careen O'Hara in "Gene With the Wind." This is the biggest break in her career. Margaret started behind a typewriter. Given a small part in a picture she made such an impression that studio chiefs gave her a long time contract. Photograph shows the beautiful actress as she was snapped in a beach pose.

THEY ARE GONE

There is an old adage that 'time heals all wounds', and we are generally prone to believe that it is well that such is the case. With the passing of years bitterness and resentment should be laid aside with the healing of torn flesh. BUT:

Some wounds leave scars that should not be forgotten. For in the forgetting there lies great danger of incurring fresh wounds.

That is what Col. Trumbo, prominent veteran of several United States wars, emphasized in his talk here on Armistice Day. To the youth of America he cried, "War is a harlot in red robes. Sure, she knew your daddy, but he will tell you no good of her. Stay out of war."

But there were only a few to hear his words. They are gone, the boys of 1918, the ideal for which they died, for which thousands are still bearing open wounds today, is obscured by the passing of time. The interest in their fate is, locally, so small that only a little handful, an hundred or so, could spare of their time to go for an hour to pay them respect, and obtain fresh courage within themselves to carry on their theme song, "We died in a war to END all wars".

No, folks didn't have time to remember the boys who were promised everything a great country could give, if they would go and fight, but they will have time when the next war comes to do the bloody things of war.

Yes they will have time, for already the proper forms of draft, of both men, money and resources, are being discussed and planned.

Unless the people have time to remember the boys of 1918, and those who went before that, and do something about present trends, they will have time to take part in a more devastating war, for when war comes no man or woman's time is their own, it belongs to the 'war lords'.

Maybe our village isn't ashamed of having forgotten what happened to bring about the observance of November 11 throughout the nation. It certainly has forgotten.

When the village Legion Post and the civic Lions Club sponsored an hour's observance of Armistice Day last Thursday evening in the Indiana avenue school auditorium, only a few came out to take part. There wasn't a single village official present. (Note: Village President John Schuringa was critically ill, confined to his bed the past four weeks with pneumonia.)

Neither will there be a 'war profiteer' present on the battle field when the next war comes.

The Poppies blow on Flanders Fields and that vast legion of shadow forms that once were men and boys but are now only part of the eternal mystery, part their ranks for the hosts that are soon to join them.

INDIVIDUALISM STILL BEST "ISM"

Until recently the destiny of the United States rested in the hands of the individual citizen. In his ambition, his initiative, his aggressiveness, lay the forces which molded the character and set the tempo of the great industrial power which the nation is today. American history is a startling revelation of what the individual can do when unhampered by political strife and government interference; for during this long period, government authority remained strictly in the background, played the role of inconspicuous umpire.

Then came 1929 and the depression. Government, the sleeping monster, awoke with a roar, pounced upon real and imaginary abuses. And today, whether we like it or not, we are witnessing a definite trend toward collectivism and strongly centralized government. Unless halted, it will mark the end of progress—industrial as well as cultural.

Business and industry have the power to meet this evil. Their power lies in a friendly employer-employee relationship. Much has already been done in this direction. Industry is steadily working toward shorter hours, better pay and better working conditions. In fact, it is working for more, even, than these.

For example, at a recent meeting R. W. Doe, vice-president of Safeway Stores, pointed out that the employe wants respect for his personality and understanding of what his job means; that he wants an opportunity to grow, to see a future where he can become more valuable to his employer and more useful to his family and to himself.

In short, if each employe in the nation occupies a responsible niche in the community, he will not easily succumb to the oily arguments of any form of collectivism that crushes individual freedom.

Picked Up Along the Way

In this modern world of smart sophistication an old fashioned virtue when displayed by one who has reached the hill tops is decidedly refreshing.

They say of Will Rogers that he did not smoke, drink or chew tobacco, neither did he ever portray a character in his pictures who did.

O. O. McIntyre, one of our favorite columnists, while not condemning those who do, declines to serve liquor in his home.

A social arbiter recently informed us that a certain person, possessed with much ability and personality was completely out, because of boorish manners and overbearing mien. And we suppose they are wondering why.

Why Worry?

Yesterday is past.
 Why should we turn
 To watch the flames
 Of the sunset burn?
 The present is ours
 For joy or for grief.
 It falls at our feet
 Like an Autumn leaf.
 Tomorrow . . . though seeming
 Close-kindred to me,
 Is a threat or a promise,
 Which may never be!

Moral of the Week

The motorist ran a stop sign. The officer overhauled him and presented him with a ticket. After studying the ticket a moment the motorist inquired of the cop:

"Well, just about how much is this going to set me back?"

"Not more than $10 and costs," was the reply.

"Huh! Guess I better buy stop gas, be cheaper in the long run."

BOWLING

By R. O. Hecht

As we survey the standings in the two bowling leagues this year we note that the teams are very evenly matched. The teams are all bunched up around first place that it is very hard to tell who is who. One week a team finds itself in first place and the next week it finds itself in third place. This fact that the teams are so evenly matched tends to stimulate the interest in bowling that already reigns supreme in Lansing.

Last week, in the Major League, Knot-holes tumbled again and bowed twice to Kraay Brothers. Dockweiler was trimmed twice by the Legion and State Line stepped up and defeated Ridge Road Gardens two times. Auto Inn made a clean sweep of things when they took all three from the Federal men.

Melvin Vierk has been shooting some real scores during the past few weeks. Last week he again took high honors with a series total of 596 and high game of 233. Paul Sass shot a good game with a score of 223.

In the Minor League clean sweeps were in order and the sweepers swept in the following order: Slager Brothers took all three from Loules five. Ray Blank went hot and hit high game at 236 for a series total of 613. Meeters took all three from Hopmans and moved into second place. The saddest affair of the week was the defeats administered to the Padjen boys. This team had been holding first place for the past few weeks and now all of a sudden along comes Lansing Motors and hands them a treble licking and Padjen tumbled way down into third place. Lansing Pharmacy dubbed Gids three times and went into first place with Meeters one game behind. The race is plenty tight in bot leagues and the boys are really putting everything they have into bowling.

When man visits other worlds. The weird dangers that must be faced when science invents a vehicle for a voyage to the planets. A color page in the American Weekly, the magazine distributed with Next Sunday's Chicago Herald and Examiner.

The Samuel Goldwyn production of "Stella Dallas", with Barbara Stanwyck in the title role, the next attraction at the Parthenon Theatre, beginning Saturday, is a tense drama of a mother who sacrifices her own right to happiness for the sake of her daughter. It gives Miss Stanwyck the strongest role in her entire career and one which was coveted by every leading actress in Hollywood.

BRUCE CABOT & VIRGINIA GREY IN "BAD GUY" AT THE PARAMOUNT SUNDAY. ALSO GALA STAGE REVUE FEATURING 5 GRAND ACTS OF VAUDEVILLE

The lives and loves of high tension power linemen who risk their necks for civilized progress are glorified on the screen at the Paramount Theatre where "Bad Guy", featuring Bruce Cabot, Edward Norris and Virginia Grey, will be shown next Sunday. Around the heroism of these unsung men is woven a touching love story, the suit of half-brothers for one girl and the unmerited devotion of one brother for the other who is an incorrigible "heel". In addition to this action-packed film, the Paramount will present a fine array of vaudeville talent which is tops in show entertainment.

"We talked theater fast and furiously. It was a wonder that I could think of anything but the near escape the party had from a hold-up."

Kowa entered with his quick cat-like tread. His eyes sparkled like black diamonds as he set a Chinese teapoy of red and gold lacquer beside each chair.

"Boy, I'm tired! I feel all in," Sam confessed.

"It's reaction, and I'll bet you haven't eaten for hours and hours," Mark Trent spoke to Kowa as he returned with a laden tray.

"Serve Mr. Sam first. Here you are, maestro."

Sam's grin was swift and a trifle sheepish.

"I'm all right, m'lady; slumped for a minute, that's all."

"Don't apologize," Lucette mimicked.

"I'm not apologizing. I'm explain—" Sam broke off with a grimace at his sister. "Humorous, aren't you, kiddo? Fuss over Brooke, Mark, she needs it more than I. What with bracing me every time I got cold feet about 'Islands Arise' and getting dragged into the crime wave, she's had a hectic time since she came to Lookout House to live—I'll take another shot at those rolls, Kowa—I don't wonder she has decided to trek back to the town apartment. What will we do with the parrot when we go, Brooke?"

Brooke felt her color rise in response to the flash in Mark Trent's eyes as they met hers reflected in the great mirror. This was as good an opening as any she could bring about to tell the story of the paper Henri had produced. She rose and stood behind her chair.

"We won't have to consider the parrot, Sam. Mr. Micawber has gone."

"Gone!" Sam and Lucette chorused.

"Did he make another get-away, or has Henri kidnaped him?"

"Neither, Sam. He's in his cage, just a heap of green feathers."

"Poor old duffer. He hasn't had any pep since the night he took off in a hop for freedom. I liked that bird. Something's always taking the joy out of life."

"Cheerio, Master Reyburn, you still have your option," Lucette reminded. "Why can't we move to town tomorrow? No more commuting! What a break! I suppose you'll close Lookout House, Brooke?"

Brooke tried to force a gay note into her voice:

"I'll close Lookout House, Lucette, because I have accepted an offer—"

The sentence trailed off as Inspector Bill Harrison strode into the room.

"Well, Mark, I got it!"

"Got 'it'! You're too modest, Inspector, you got the whole gang, I understand."

"Cripes, I'm not talking about those dirty thugs, Mark. That isn't what I came for. I got the will you was telling me about."

The inspector pulled a paper from his pocket. Mark Trent glowered at it as if it were a rattler with head raised to strike.

"Here it is. The real thing. Signatures and everything o. k. I found it—"

"You found it in my desk, didn't you, Inspector?" Brooke interrupted icily.

Mark Trent's eyes were stormy, his lips were white.

"That's enough. Don't go on with this, Brooke."

"But I am going on with it."

"Let her tell her story, Mark. It's only fair to her."

Sam joined the two men before the fire.

"Jed's right, m'lady. The inspector found the paper in your desk. That's your cue, Brooke. Go on from there."

Brooke went on.

She told of her suspicion the first time she had come into this very library that there was a reason other than a passion for the sea in winter which had brought two men from the city to live in Mark Trent's house; and she told of Mrs. Gregory's admission, the afternoon before the Supper club party, that she had witnessed a will of Mary Amanda Dane's and that she had been warned by Jed Stewart not to speak of it. And how, almost before Mrs. Gregory's car was out of the drive, Henri Jacques had confronted her with a paper and the lie that he had found it in her desk.

"Don't speak! Don't!" She interrupted her story sharply as Mark Trent opened his lips. "Let me finish!"

"I took it with the idea that if I didn't, he might make more trouble with it. I let him think that I was considering his proposition that I pay him for keeping quiet. Of course I wasn't, but I can't expect you two men who have been suspicious of me from the moment you learned of my friendship with Mrs. Dane, to believe that. I was coming directly to this house with it. First, locked in my room, I looked at it to be sure it wasn't a blackmailing scheme of Henri's. It wasn't. It was Mary Amanda Dane's will leaving all her property, except legacies to the Jacques, to her nephew, Mark Trent."

"Stop and get your breath, Brooke; you'll crack-up if you don't," Sam warned.

"I won't crack-up and I won't stop till I get this thing off my mind. It has been a hideous nightmare, holding back that paper, I mean. Of course the contents of that will were a shock for a minute; but I knew that Mrs. Dane had been just. Then I thought of the play, that the sudden appearance of a missing will—there's drama for you, Sam—might upset the performance; so I locked the thing in my desk. I had planned to bring it here this evening. When I got back from headquarters tonight, I went to my desk to get it. The drawer was empty. Now I know that Inspector Bill Harrison, your sleuth, had found it, Mr. Trent."

"That's enough, Brooke." Mark Trent's voice was low and authoritative. "I don't believe that you have had that will. I know—"

"Wait a minute!" Inspector Bill Harrison cut in. "Come over here."

He spread out the paper on the desk. He drew a flat leather case from his breast pocket and removed from it a white scrap.

"Exhibit A. Watch!"

The scrap fitted into the torn corner. There was a glint in his eyes as they passed from face to face of the three men bending over to read the finely written lines.

"I don't know what the rest of you folks think," his voice was as soft as velvet, "but, in spite of the fact I found it in her desk, I'm sure Miss Reyburn hasn't had the will in her possession ever since it was signed, because—"

He laid the tip of a square-topped finger on the torn-off corner:

"Because I found this scrap caught in Mrs. Hunt's bag the night her diamonds were snatched."

CHAPTER XV

For the length of time it took the old clock in the hall to chime the quarter hour, there was silence in the library, a silence as tense as if the still body of a black-haired woman with the open bag gripped in one bruised hand lay in their midst. Inspector Harrison broke the spell.

"And that ain't all I've got to show you. Bring him in, Tim!"

Brooke's breath stopped as a tall policeman with huge ears pushed a cowering figure into the room. Henri! Henri here! Would he dare persist in the lie that he had found that will in her desk?

"Sit down, Brooke."

With hands on her shoulders Mark Trent drew her from behind the chair and forced her gently into the seat. She felt his presence behind her as he said sharply:

"It's your move, Inspector. Let's get this thing over with."

"It ain't my move, Mark. It's Henri Jacques'. He's going to tell you what's kept him the busiest butler in the U. S. You're on the air, Jacques. Spill it!"

The command held the crack of a lion-tamer's whip. Henri drew his fingers over his slack lips. He made two attempts to speak before he produced a voice.

"I'll tell the whole story, Mr. Mark, and it isn't so bad as the inspector's trying to make out, I swear it isn't. I didn't kill—"

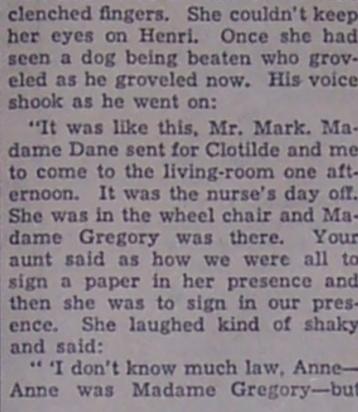

"Start at the beginning!"

"I will, Inspector, I will."

Brooke looked down at her clenched fingers. She couldn't keep her eyes on Henri. Once she had seen a dog being beaten who groveled as he groveled now. His voice shook as he went on:

"It was like this, Mr. Mark. Madame Dane sent for Clotilde and me to come to the living-room one afternoon. It was the nurse's day off. She was in the wheel chair and Madame Gregory was there. Your aunt said as how we were all to sign a paper in her presence and then she was to sign in our presence. She laughed kind of shaky and said:

"I don't know much law, Anne—Anne was Madame Gregory—"

"I Won't Crack Up and I Won't Stop."

I've learned how a will has to be signed to make it legal."

"Did Mrs. Gregory say anything?"

"Yes, Mr. Mark. She said, 'Do you think you should do this without consulting your lawyer?' and your aunt said that Mr. Stewart was away and she didn't dare wait till he came home because she hadn't been feeling well. We wrote our names, Mrs. Gregory left. Clotilde went back to the kitchen, and then the old madame handed the paper to me and said:

"Put that in my safe upstairs, Henri. I'll give it to Mr. Stewart when he gets back, but first bring me a glass of sherry. I'm tired."

"She looked so white I thought she was going to faint. I jammed the paper in my pocket and ran. When I came back with the wine, Miss Reyburn was standing by the mantel laughing; you remember that afternoon, don't you, Miss?"

"Yes."

"Direct your question to me, not to Miss Reyburn, Henri. What did you do with that paper?"

"I was coming to that, Mr. Mark. The old madame was taken very sick that night. Not until after she'd been gone a week or two did I think of it."

"Then of course you read it?"

"Yes, sir."

"You showed it to Clotilde?"

"Yes, sir."

"When did you and she decide to fasten the theft of it on Miss Reyburn?"

The voice which came from behind Brooke's chair set her a-shiver. A steady hand rested on her shoulder.

"We—we didn't think of it, Mr. Mark. Mrs. Hunt suggested that."

"How did she know about it?"

Henri passed shaking fingers across his lips.

"Some way she found out that we were going to sell your aunt's silver. Clotilde and I thought we might as well have it as the strange girl she'd left it to."

The glance Henri Jacques cast at the inspector was green with venom.

"Mrs. Hunt said, if I'd get the silver to the white cottage, she'd dispose of it; that it was rare and worth lots of money, that a dealer would believe that it was hers, that he might suspect me. That seemed reasonable. Mrs. Hunt knew of a man to help. She said she'd take care of that will, too, she'd get money out of you for it and we'd go fifty-fifty."

"Go on, Henri!" Mark Trent's voice was hoarse.

"I gave it to her. The afternoon before the filling station mur—hold-up, I showed the man she sent where the silver was, forgot the keys and left them in the doors. I remembered them in the middle of a movie, came home, went upstairs very quiet and got them. The man who was to move the silver to the old limousine was waiting in my room. While you were all laughing and eating downstairs I let him through into the Other House by the upper connecting door. He took the stuff through your house—the Japs were out, and I pretended to go to bed. He was to make a cross on the white cover when he had it in the car. I drove it to the cottage. I went in to tell Mrs. Hunt the silver was outside, ready to take to the city. She—she was on the floor. I swear she was. I swear I didn't touch her."

"But you took that paper over there on the desk out of her bag, didn't you?"

"I told you once I did, Inspector. I felt it belonged to me. But I swear I never touched her."

"Take him out, Tim."

Henri stopped to hurl defiance at Inspector Bill Harrison.

"You think you're smart, but you wouldn't have known anything about this till we were safe out of the country, Inspector, if that expert thief Mrs. Hunt brought into the game hadn't stopped to wash and shave in Mr. Stewart's bathroom. Pretty snappy guy he was. I suppose he had to dress up fine before he called on her. She paid for pulling him in. He got her jewels all right, and he was out to get Mrs. Gregory's tonight. I wasn't in on that deal, Mr. Mark."

"Take him away, Tim." Inspector Harrison's eagle eyes followed the two men from the room before they came back to Brooke.

"Sorry I had to touch your desk, Miss Reyburn, but a high falsetto voice phoned me you had the will—I know now that it was Henri Jacques—so I went through your room while you were all at the play. I guess you're glad the truth is out. The minute I heard of that bath stunt I knew who to look for. That guy has made a specialty of breaking into houses week-ends where the folks were away, of making himself at home in the tub and carrying off what he wanted when he left, mostly men's clothes. Maggie Cassidy was right when she said he was a swell dresser. He ought to be. He's had his pick of the best. It's kind of funny when you think of it, ain't it? When I accused him of killing Mrs. Hunt, he crumpled and spilled the whole story. He had seen her rings when she engaged him to move the silver. Wanted them. Knocked Hunt out first. He's a quick worker. He and his pals aren't killers. There wasn't a gun in the gangload. There's a joke to it, they don't one of them know yet that the coroner's verdict was 'heart failure from fright.' I've kept that under my hat so I could scare the truth out of them. Well, Mark, your silver's safe and you've got your aunt's money."

"Thanks, Inspector, I'll tell you how much I appreciate what you've done, later. Sam, get Brooke's wrap. I'll take her home. You and Lucette stay here and get the inspector something to eat. Wait for me, Bill, there are a few points that need clearing up. I have something to talk over with Miss Reyburn, then I'll come back."

"You are not going home with me and we have nothing to talk over." Did he think that he could wipe out the memory of his suspicion of her in this lordly manner? Brooke asked herself.

"Oh yes, we have."

Sam chuckled.

"One of the thirty-six dramatic situations. Snap into it, Brooke. It is apparent even to this boyish intelligence that Mark wants to talk to you alone. Fair enough. Why make him go on the air? Be kind to him, he deserves well of his countrymen."

They crossed the terrace in silence. The snow had not been cleared from before the door of Lookout House. Mark Trent swept Brooke from her feet and carried her into the vestibule. He kept an arm about her as he opened the door. Something turning like the wings of an autogiro in her throat, cut off her protest. The green living-room awaited them, softly lighted, faintly fragrant. Above the mantel the Duchess looked down with grave eyes; below, coals, murmurous as purring kittens, gave out a gentle glow.

"Take off your wrap."

Brooke slipped from beneath the velvet and the hands tightening on her shoulders. She barricaded herself behind a high-back chair. With one arm on the mantel, Mark Trent faced her. His eyes, smiling a little, maddeningly cool, filled her with rage. She challenged:

"You would come. Why? Didn't you want to tell me before the others that you had known about that will all the time?"

"But I hadn't known."

"You suspected that there was one, didn't you? You and Jed Stewart came to live in Other House to watch me, didn't you? Do you think that I have forgotten that you called me a schemer?"

"This seems to be turning into a question and answer period. Suppose you let me tell my side of the story. Sit down, please."

"I prefer to stay here. Go on. I hope it doesn't take long. I have a lot to do before I leave in the morning—sorry to have to ask to let the furnishings stay here until Mother gets back, but—"

"Don't be so breathless, dearest."

"I'm not breathless, and I'm not your dearest. I wish you would say what you forced your way in here to say and—go."

"All right, remember, you asked for it. I came to say that after I knew who you were that day in Jed's office, I didn't believe that you had used 'undue influence' with my aunt. I admit that for a while I tried to fool myself, but I couldn't keep it up. I didn't open my house because I wanted to 'watch' you. I decided to do it on Thanksgiving day, because I—liked you and your 'whole darn family.' As the weeks passed, Jed and I were sure that if the second will had not been destroyed, Henri knew where it was. Not knowing its contents hampered us."

"But you know now?"

"Yes. And it hurts infernally to think that you should have been drawn into this sordid mix-up."

"Why shouldn't I be? It's what might be called poetic justice, isn't it? Didn't I start the trouble when I went to Lookout House to see your aunt the first time? I'd been warned that business and friendship won't mix any better than oil and water. Now I know it. You had suspected for weeks that I had no right to your aunt's money, and yet you and Jed Stewart let me keep on spending and spending. When I think of those two cars I bought I almost lose my mind. How can I ever pay it back?"

Favorite Recipe of the Week

Glace Apple Tart

- 3 cups sugar
- 1 1/2 cups water
- 1 blade mace
- 2-inch piece stick cinnamon
- 1 tsp. whole cloves
- 1 peppercorn
- Lemon and orange peel
- 1/4 cup lemon juice
- 3 pie apples
- 4 tart shells

MIX sugar and water in large skillet. Add spices and thin pieces of orange and lemon peel tied loosely in a bag. Bring to a rapid boil, skim carefully, add lemon juice. Peel, core, and cut apples into eighths. Simmer gently, turning apples frequently until tender and clear. Remove apples to plate. Remove spice bag, and boil syrup until it sheets from spoon. When apples are cold, arrange in tart shells. Spoon cool syrup over apples, serve with plain or whipped cream if desired.

STAR DUST MOVIE AND RADIO

By Virginia Vale

WHEN motion picture producers wander away from their office desks, they get the most promising ideas for pictures. For instance, it might never have occurred to the head man of the 20th Century-Fox studios to cast Shirley Temple and Sonja Henie in a film together if he hadn't happened to pass the ice rink where Miss Henie practices.

At first he was horror-stricken to find the company's precious child risking her neck trying to learn Sonja's whirlwind capers, but when he saw that she learned them as easily, and safely, as she does tap-dancing routines, he decided that she must do a skating picture with her teacher.

At Paramount, the big boss heard shrieks of hilarity coming from the portrait photographer's studio, and on investigating found W. C. Fields and John Barrymore clowning around as Romeo and Juliet. Right away he was inspired to cast them together.

Sonja Henie

Grown-ups may well envy the school children of today who learn their history lessons through such an exciting medium as the R. K. O. motion picture, "Victoria the Great." Filmed in England with Anna Neagle in the role of the queen, this picture was made with the hearty co-operation of government officials, so all the glory of real castles and authentic royal settings make it a feast for the eyes.

Those folks who hear on Gabriel Heatter's "We, the People" program certainly enjoy the evening of that broadcast. After the first broadcast, Heatter takes the whole troupe of visitors across the street to dinner.

All three of the Lane sisters are now working for Warner Brothers. Priscilla, who with her sister Rosemary, provided many bright moments in Waring's "Varsity Show," will do the same for the next "Gold Diggers" in support of Dick Powell. And Lola, who has been in pictures much longer than her sisters, will be seen in "Hollywood Hotel."

Turning down several coast-to-coast radio programs offered him, Henry Hull, the distinguished stage actor, is going to try motion pictures again. He will play a prominent role in M-G-M's "Marie Antoinette" in support of Norma Shearer.

About the time that picture is ready for the screen, another Marie Antoinette will be competing for attention. Deanna Durbin is going to play the role in a story written around her more tender years.

ODDS AND ENDS—Helen Menken, long-suffering "Second Wife" of the radio serial is going to make a motion picture for Warners. . . . Clark Gable weary of being a swaggering, wise-cracking hero wants to play in a tense drama about the fight against yellow fever in the tropics. . . . Carole Lombard is wearing a black wig in "Food for Scandal" and she is not sure it is a good idea. Her best friends don't recognize her. . . . Bob Hope, radio comedian, is such a hit in his first Paramount picture that he has signed to do more.

He Should Escort Girl Home If Hour Is Late

DEAR Mrs. Post: How should a girl answer a man when he asks whether he might send her home alone in a cab instead of going home with her? This happened to me when I spent the evening recently with a friend and his family at their house.

Answer: I think the only answer you could make is, "Don't think of coming." Of course, if the hour were late, then someone should have gone with you.

Coming Out Party

DEAR Mrs. Post: Does a formally worded invitation of a coming-out party require an answer of any kind, and who is expected to send the debutante flowers and what does one say to her in the receiving line?

Answer: If the invitation includes no request for an answer, then none is expected. While leaving cards at the party or sending them if you can not go, is a formal exaction which, even in this day of informality, is still considered courteous, it is also one which most hostesses no longer expect except from strangers. Beaux and family friends usually send the debutante flowers although even they need not feel that their not being able to afford any should keep them from going to the party. When going down the receiving line, an intimate friend might tell the debutante how pretty she looked, but a stranger would merely say, "I hope you are going to have a wonderful time this winter," or " . . . a happy time this winter." Or if the party comes at the end of several, she might say, "I hear that you are having a wonderful time this winter."

Changing Your Name

DEAR Mrs. Post: I have been married twice. My first marriage was such a happy one and we had one son. My husband died and years later I married again, but this marriage was very unhappy. My husband resented my love for my boy, and when I discovered this I left him and went back to business and we were later divorced. I then took my maiden name and everyone calls me by it, with Mrs. as a title, of course. I am leaving business and my son wants me to use his own father's name again. Is it possible to go back to my first marriage in this way, and how can I make this generally known?

Answer: As I am not a lawyer I don't know the legal answer to your question, but I can tell you of many cases where women have for the same reasons that you give taken back their first husband's name when the name was that of their children. Let your friends know and have new visiting cards printed with your name.

The Bridesmaid's Dress.

DEAR Mrs. Post: (1) I have been told that taffeta is a better material for the dresses at a spring wedding than one in winter time. Is this also true of moire? (2) Also, if a bride wears a simple velvet dress, must her only attendant wear velvet or would she be suitably dressed in crepe or any of the more practical materials which she thinks would be better suited to her needs after the wedding?

Answer: (1) Moire is particularly suitable for autumn and winter. (2) Her dress need not be of velvet. It would be quite all right to have the bridesmaid wear crepe.

 The singing of war time songs as well as the Star Spangled banner and several selections were played by Alfred Isaacson and his Municipal band. The Lansing Male Quartet, including Anton DeVries, Lester Eenigenberg, Harold Keesen and Frank Rottler, gave two numbers and Leader Thaldorf read the poem, "In Flanders Fields".
 Taps, with Mr. Van Blarcom singing "The Soldiers Last Farewell" and Miss Laura Lee Durand, of Hesseville sounding the bugle notes far in the distance provided a colorful closing for Col. Trumbo's address.
 Rev. W. B. Grimes gave the closing prayer and the colors were retired by the guard.
 The entire program had a reverent and impressive air and it is to be regretted, that those deeming the occasion sufficient for observance in this manner were so few. There were not more than an hundred and twenty-five present and it had been expected that the auditorium would be filled to capacity.
 The organizations sponsoring the program expressed themselves as disappointed, and certainly the distinguished guests were not favorably impressed by the patriotism displayed by Lansing citizens.

Good Thoughts For Good People

The victory of success is half won when one gains the habit of work. — Sarah A. Bolton.

Absence of occupation is not rest. A mind quite is a mind distressed. — Cowper.

The wear and tear of rust is faster than the wear and tear of work. — Samuel Smiles.

If you intend to go to work, there is no better place than right where you are; if you do not intend to go to work, you cannot get along anywhere. — Abraham Lincoln.

There is no excellence without labor; and the time to work, is now. — Mary Baker Eddy.

The Lord will not suffer the soul of the righteous to famish; but he casteth away the substance of the wicked. He becometh poor that dealth with a slack hand; but the hand of the diligent maketh rich. — Proverbs 10.

The primitive man met dangers which are preventable.

Automobile accidents can be prevented. In fact, all accidents can be prevented. What makes the moral significance of this safety movement is the fact that we can if we will, eliminate to very large degree the appalling dangers of modern life.

We should realize and appreciate the value of a human being. Not all people seem to realize or appreciate that.

The carelessness regarding human life is the great tragedy that hangs over human industry. Only recently has there developed a regard for human life, and we hope that this regard will increase.

The motorist can help considerably in solving this problem by driving carefully, courteously, and thoughtfully on our highways.

Service and Dominion

WHEN Christ Jesus, the Way-shower, declared to his ambitious disciples (Luke 22:27), "I am among you as he that serveth," he revealed the essential relationship between service and dominion. Service, on the part of one universally acknowledged to be master, would seem anomalous did not spiritual understanding discern their inseparable nature.

According to the first chapter of Genesis, man, in the image and likeness of God, has dominion—even over all the earth. This declaration of truth, however, remains but an abstract statement until proved by demonstration. In demonstration it soon becomes apparent that the greater the service rendered, and the greater our understanding of the spiritual nature of right service, the more scientifically do we prove our spiritual dominion.

The meaning of service became elevated and ennobled recently in the thought of one who, seeking in a well-known dictionary for a definition of "servant," found amongst other renderings, "One consecrated to God." Because men are growing into a better understanding of spiritual values and proportionately relaxing their tenacious grasp upon material things, service is being recognized more and more as the way to happiness and progress.

When on that well-known occasion, the Master, girding himself with a towel, proceeded to perform the humble service of washing the disciples' feet, he set a seal of spirituality on service which it can never lose. The first thought of mortal mind under like circumstances would be one of superiority to such an action. Yet but little study shows how there simply could not be anything in mortal thought superior to the spiritual qualities which man—as Christ Jesus understood him—forever reflects. Of our mortal selves we do nothing. Man's true being is in God, and is manifested in the reflection of the Godlike qualities of love, kindness, usefulness, activity, and service. In short, in these qualities man expresses the divine Principle. The expression of God being one's chief end, it is obvious that whatever the human capacity may be, whether that of father, son, merchant, client, master, or servant, one is endeavoring to practice one's highest conceivable concept of spiritual service.

The history of many Bible characters provides interesting illustrations of the inseparability of the spiritual qualities of service and dominion. Of Moses we read (Numbers 12:3), "Now the man Moses was very meek, above all the men which were upon the face of the earth." Yet, who was more active or more useful in true service? And who, in the Old Testament, made a better demonstration in leading, clothing, and feeding God's people than he? Moses served and proved his dominion, because he discerned that true power lies in the reflection of spiritual qualities, including humility, which perceives activity to be in divine Principle alone. Did not the Way-shower himself ask men to learn of him because he was meek and lowly? And did he not specifically promise that service, as he served, would bring rest and dominion? Because he knew no selfhood apart from God, his service consisted of the continual reflection of spiritual being, full, active, unceasing, ideal!

In Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures (p. 1) Mary Baker Eddy writes, "Prayer, watching, and working, combined with self-immolation, are God's gracious means for accomplishing whatever has been successfully done for the Christianization and health of mankind." So clear to her was the revelation of the allness of Spirit, and of man as God's spiritual expression, that she was led to use the term "Self-immolation" to indicate the path which leads through service to dominion. Our goal is to fulfill the command of the Way-shower in preaching the gospel, casting out demons, cleansing leprous thought, and doing today the wonderful things he accomplished. Such may be achieved only through first proving in experience the perfection of God and man. Devotion is service in its truest sense. It consists of the hourly elimination from thought of the material, and in proving the superiority of the spiritual. This is the service in which we indeed "by love serve one another."—The Christian Science Monitor.

his neighbors that he will tap the line and not pay for the privilege, for the line crosses his property, so there. Others who have tapped the line are willing to pay a reasonable share of the cost of the line. Another holder of lots involved, P. Meyn of Hammond, was called and he said he would be glad to donate ground at the rear of his lots for the village to install an alley.

It was reported that Mr. Poortinga's lawyer said he could make the water tap and pay no man a cent since the line crosses his property, even if it is in the section that would normally become an alley. As far as donating the ground to the village for an alley, Mr. Poortinga would, yes, if he isn't charged for his water tap. Just where that would leave all the rest of the suckers in the village the papas couldn't figure out, and so the whole matter was handed to the street and alley committee.

This committee will soothe the disturbed feelings of the neighborhood as best they can by obtaining the names of all property owners wanting the alley.

As if that wasn't enough water worry, Ed Grimler, the plumber, appeared before the council wanting to know 'are you or are you' in the matter of the ordinance regulating the making of water taps onto the main. The ordinance under question would regulate the materials used in making the tap and also permit the plumber to make the tap at the time the pipes for both water and sewer were laid. The ordinance was proposed sometime ago by Councilman Weidig.

Complaints by property owners wanting taps goaded Mr. Grimler, who is doing the plumbing work on the properties involved into arguing the matter before the papas. Seems the cost under the new ordinance and the present system is at considerable variance, hence the delay in putting in the taps. If the new ordinance is finally passed the cost would be greatly reduced, and so Mr. Grimler waits.

The dads passed this job onto the attorney to make corrections in the ordinance and have it ready for a special meeting tonight, when the council will pass upon it.

A formal resolution was passed by the trustees, after they came up for air from the water troubles, requesting the Illinois Commerce Commission to grant a permit to the Safeway Bus Company to operate a line through the village into the city of Chicago via Calumet City and Dolton.

The attorney reported that the famous, or should we say notorious mandamus suit was bobbing around again (we're wondering just what a suit does when it bobs) and that a new plaintiff had been added to the list in the case. He also said that one of the accounting suits, involving pro-rating of payments on assessment bonds, would come up again about the first of the year.

The clerk then informed the dads that the Chicago Motor Club had furnished 34 street traffic signs to be used in the village, and he was instructed to write a letter of thanks. (That little item was by the way of a little silver lining to the clouds on the council's horizon)

And then Officer Van Laningham's trouble was aired. Seems somebody is stealing manhole covers out of the village streets. Yes, those nice paved streets way down there where nobody ever goes. Now the nice Irish cop has to go chasing around to all the junk yards in the country trying to find the man hole covers.

And so, home and to bed.

EXTEND TIME FOR TRUCK OWNERS

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 18—Truck owners have been granted an extension of time until December 1 to install directional signals to indicate their movements in traffic, the Illinois Division of Highways announced today.

Originally November 15 was set as the day on which State police would start enforcement of the traffic code section which provides that the driver of any vehicle turning from a direct course on the highways or making a stop shall signal. Mechanical signal devices are required on vehicles constructed or loaded so arm signals are not visible.

The two weeks' extension was granted to allow sufficient time for all trucking companies to comply with the regulations.

ILLINOIS NEWS

"The harvest season o'er, and the mellow days of Indian summer nearing their end, our thoughts turn to an appreciation of a divine Providence which, once again, has bounteously blessed our farms and fields and cities with the necessities of life."

Thus Governor Horner opened his annual Thanksgiving Day proclamation, designating Thursday, November 25 as a holiday and calling on the people of Illinois to give thanks to Almighty God for His bounty.

With the highest yield per acre since crop estimating records began to be kept at the close of the Civil War, Illinois this year ranks as second State in corn production. The estimated yield of 434,746,000 bushels is more than double that of any other State with the single exception of Iowa.

The State Department of Public Health, reporting a 15 per cent increase in deaths from diabetes in Illinois, stated that this disease, probably more than any other common ailment, can be controlled by discipline in the matter of eating. Illinois mortality from diabetes rose from 1,979 in 1935 to 2,293 last year.

Director of Finance S. L. Nudelman reports that department investigators have collected $1,001,179.64 delinquent and deficient retailers' occupational tax since they began a special check-up last January. Occupational tax collections are now running a million dollars a month ahead of this period last year. Upturns in general retail trade are regarded as explaining a part of this increase.

Famous Hymn

The recent sale of the original manuscript of "Onward, Christian Soldiers," recalls the manner in which that stirring religious hymn came into being.

Some Yorkshire (Eng.) Pupils, years ago, planned to make a Whitsuntide procession to a neighboring church. They asked their young curate, Rev. Sabine Baring Gould, to write them a marching song. He sat down, composed the hymn in a few minutes.

Originally sung to a tune by Joseph Haydn, its music now is that of Sir Arthur Sullivan. He composed the music as the result of a sudden inspiration. The score was completed in a few minutes at a harmonium—a kind of organ.—Washington Post.

HOW OFTEN CAN YOU KISS AND MAKE UP?

FEW husbands can understand why a wife should turn from a pleasant companion into a shrew for one whole week in every month.

You can say "I'm sorry" and kiss and make up easier before marriage than after. If you're wise and if you want to hold your husband, you won't be a three-quarter wife.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife; take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and Go "Smiling Through."

Novel and Decorative Fastenings

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

IN THE present insistent demand for unique and ornate fastenings, fashion flings a new challenge into the realm of costume design. It is a challenge to which designers are responding with unbounded enthusiasm, since it offers new avenues of adventure to creative genius. Which explains why our fall and winter apparel is being slide-fastened or buttoned, as the case may be, with a play of imagination that is fairly breath-taking.

It adds to the fascination of the theme that whether the closings be with slide fasteners, which are quite the rage here as well as being highly endorsed by leading designers in London and Paris, or with buttons so smartly positioned on the newer modes, they are that highly decorative they supply the trimming feature as well as serve in a utilitarian way.

Once mere devices for fastening this and that together, buttons have passed through an evolution from which they now emerge as colorful exquisitely wrought things (often designed by renowned artists) which vie with costume jewelry in point of ornate beauty and decorative design.

The button industry has wholeheartedly accepted catalin because, being plastic, it is easily machined and carved into all sorts of cunning and lovely motifs. Best of all it brings into the field a new aura of color which tunes charmingly into every phase of fashion. The tones and tints cover a range that extends from water-clear white to brilliant hues, also black, white or ivory and an almost endless list of pastels.

The illustration shows several from among the multitudinous uses made in the present gesture to trim as well as to fasten with decorative slide-fasteners and with buttons. For the smart fitted sport coat with its raglan sleeves and slightly flared lines accentuated with row-and-row stitchings as pictured to the left, the designer achieves a chic fastening with huge catalin buttons carved in an effective floral motif. (Button detail below.)

See the stunning dinner gown to the right. Note how meticulously it is molded to the body and how generously it flares from just the strategic point it should flare to add queenly grace. Comes now the piece de resistance—gorgeous black catalin buttons encircled with brilliants that are used from neck to hem! Detail of this jewel-like button at bottom of illustration.

The two models in the center are zipped in latest fashion. The slide fasteners which close the two small pockets and shirred front of the modish dress at the left center have colorful wee catalin windmill pulls (shown in detail below) that are as ornamental as costume jewelry. The sports dress to the right center flares slightly with tucked umbrella skirt. The slide fastener with three bright colored catalin pulls goes zip! with a flash and a dash from neck to several inches below the waistline at the back. Other models in this class use slide-fasteners with small bright catalin plaques attached to the slide several inches apart.

AFTERNOON WINTER SUIT IS HIGH NOTE

The afternoon suit is one of the triumphs of Paris couturiers for the winter season, and each has presented his version of the new silhouette in handsome tailloers of rich materials and luxurious furs.

Broadcloth and duvetyn are the newest of dressy suit materials with velvet and lightweight wools popular at all leading fashion houses. Silver and black fox form immense collars, trim sleeves and hemlines and edge the bottoms of long jackets. Persian lamb, a favorite for coat trim, makes collars, cuffs, vests, and even buttons—and smooth broadtail and silky caracul are used for tailored collars and pockets.

FASHION NOTES

Wear a Scotch plaid wool coat to the ball game.

There is some indication of revival of gray squirrel.

Striped blouses, with the accent on the horizontal, are chic this season.

Color schemes that are most aptly described as "violent" are exceedingly popular now.

There is no limit to the vogue of bracelets and ingenious ways of providing novel arm decorations.

Many designers trim with applique leather motifs.

Latest is dinner tunic sweaters of metal-threaded knitwear.

Don't Neglect Them!

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure.

When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.

Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance.

The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

Harvard Has Given Exceptionally Good Account of Itself

DEFINITELY that 34 to 6 score that Harvard rolled up against Princeton when the Crimson defeated the Tigers for the first time since 1923, by the biggest margin the Cambridge boys ever recorded over their New Jersey rivals, gives some indication as to the football trend for the next season or two.

How can the man write such things, you ask, when everybody knows years have elapsed since the nation permitted members of the erstwhile gridiron trinity to set its styles? Right you are, save that I am not claiming that Harvard and Yale, which have been operating on similar lines all season, have any exclusive formula. I merely am noting that two institutions, usually five seasons back of the latest developments, happen to be up in the forefront for once.

Football has overlong been doctored with quack nostrums. Wherever alumni suffered from too many defeats some long-haired medicine man was called in to prescribe a touchdown restorative. Naturally these panaceas, for all that they were ornamented with fine soothing words, were as useless as the average run of such things. Since they merely titivated the patient pleasurably for a while without getting at the basic ailment, there invariably was a relapse.

That is where Harvard has benefited by the presence of Doc Harlow, a healer of the old school and a gentleman who previously had made the nation sit up and take notice of patients at Penn State, Colgate, Western Maryland and a few other clinics. Using the same common sense remedies which made John Harvard such a robust football fellow from 1908 to 1916, he has achieved results which might even have satisfied Percy Haughton.

Haughton, it may be recalled, was no fancy don of a football coach even though he may be listed as one of the five all-time greats. Aside from the unbalanced line, with which others were experimenting at the time, it is difficult to associate him with any contribution to the so-called science of the game.

He taught his Hardwicks and Penlocks to block and tackle. Wendells and Bradlees were taught how to slant off the tackles, sweep around the ends or smash through the center. When he had a triple threat such as Mahan so much the better. His teams then could kick opponents back to the goal line, make them struggle to gain on the ground what had been lost in the air.

Tigers Had No Defense for Crimson Attack

Harvard played that way against Princeton. There was no hocus pocus to the gaining of 307 yards and five touchdowns. Struck and MacDonald carried the ball most of the time. Struck took the ball and gave it to MacDonald on a reverse or Struck took the ball and went into the line on a spinner. It was as simple as all that.

Most of the time Crisler and the Princeton boys knew what was coming. That Princeton could do very little about it is partly due to the fact the Tiger linemen stand up too straight and are not mobile. As such they were suckers for Crimson forwards who charged low and hard to lift them out of the way. Once through the line Struck and MacDonald, two sturdy lads who run well enough in their own right, continued to have ample assistance. Chief Boston, the blocking back, did as good a down-the-field job as even Knute Rockne could have demanded.

Defensively Harvard also was alert, sticking to the fundamental principle of following the ball. The second touchdown was set up when Green picked up the ball after a punt had been blocked on Princeton's 40 and ran to the one-yard line. The third came when Struck ran 18 yards for the score after grabbing a partially blocked punt. The final one resulted in the last two minutes of play when MacDonald ran 40 yards after intercepting a pass.

NOT IN THE BOX SCORE:

THEY met at Baker field while Columbia was practicing. Naturally they talked about football and finally their subject became drop-kicking. Both of them agreed that there wasn't enough of it nowadays. Undoubtedly they knew what they were talking about, too. For although neither of them knew the other's name, one was Ralph Hewitt, probably the greatest kicker ever developed at Columbia. The other was Charley Brickley, who booted five field goals one afternoon while Harvard was beating Yale. . . . Hewitt, by the way, says that the greatest back he ever played against was Al Marsters of Dartmouth. The best lineman was an unsung tackle from Virginia. "I never did know his name but the guy was in my hair all afternoon."

There's a lad named Ward—he extended Johnny Goodman in the semifinals of the amateur this year—who may become golf's best amateur since Bobby Jones. Anyhow that's a tip from pros who advise watching him through 1939. . . . If the editors of the Daily Pennsylvania don't mind, a mere reporter would like to congratulate Coach Herman and his Penn players on their sturdy comeback against Navy. . . . Chick Wergeles, who now publicizes wrestlers and boxers and doesn't care who knows it, was promoting fights when he was only eighteen years old. At the age of fifteen he was managing Young Fredericks, who fought four times for the flyweight title.

Less money was spent on cancer research in the United States last year than was expended on the yacht with which Harold Vanderbilt so diligently defended the America's cup. . . . Nomination for the best football official seen all year. . . . Austin Lake, the eminent Boston sports commentator. . . . Bobby, ten-year-old son of the celebrated boxing writer, Murray Lewin, is such an ardent stamp collector that he already has more than 125,000 of them. . . . Mrs. Jack Curley provided the money with which Jack Curley, Jr., is continuing in his late dad's place as a wrestling promoter. . . . And what has become of the boys who used to wear all those raccoon coats?

Because he pitched so well for Newark last summer Marius Russo, former L. I. U. star, has been awarded a bonus by Jake Ruppert. Pitt players say Duquesne's line, the seven regulars, is the best they have performed against all year. . . . Although Pitcher Harry Kelley of the A's lost 21 games last summer, he beat the Browns seven times.

Walt Kiesling, 250-pound guard who plays for Pittsburgh, is the oldest veteran in the National Football league. Although he is only thirty-two years old this is his twelfth season. . . . The fondest recollection of Clarence Tuffy Thompson, Pirates halfback, is those two kick-offs he ran back for Minnesota touchdowns against Michigan. . . . Dave Tobey, the basketball official, is in favor of the new rule eliminating the center jump but suggests that it can be modified to better please the customers. Instead of putting the ball into play immediately after a field goal Tobey recommends a five-second wait so that the fans can have opportunity to applaud a spectacular play or goal.

Dodger Exile Glad to Be With Detroit

Harry Eisenstat, the former Madison High pitcher who escaped from the Dodgers last summer, is happy to be with Detroit. Friends report him as saying, "Mickey Cochrane's Tigers treat you as though you were a person. Over at Ebbets field you don't know whether you're coming or going. Grimes thinks nothing of slapping a $200 fine on a guy and, confidentially, most of the guys get just about that for a season's salary." . . . Benny Friedman, the authority in such matters, says that Columbia's Sid Luckman is not a first class forward passer because he slings, rather than throws, the ball. Says that a slung ball lands in the receiver's arms with a heavy impact and is difficult to hold.

Mickey Cochrane

University of Maryland friends say that Keller, the Newark outfield ace, was paid a bonus of $10,000 when he left the campus to lead the International league in batting last summer. . . . Long before he became the New York Jockey club's racing secretary and handicapper, Jack Campbell was a cotton broker down in Louisiana. . . . People who should know, insist that Yale's Clint Frank is just as good on the court as he is on the gridiron. Back home in Evanston he was one of the schoolboy basketball stars of the Middle West but, possibly because the football authorities do not wish to take a chance with their meal ticket, he has not mingled with the basketball boys at Yale. . . . While Man o' War is responsible for War Admiral, the leading money winner of the year, he is second on the list of those siring the most winners. The Porter heads that list for 1937.

Huntsman Uses Gun and Camera

Armed with a big gun and a miniature camera, this duck hunter waits in his blind for some of the winged targets to come along. This snap of a snapping nimrod was taken on Tawas lake, far-flung preserve in the northern part of Michigan's lower peninsula.

Wins Distinction as Farmer

Herbert Lee Bristow, twenty-one years old, of Saluda, Va., who was recently named the Star Farmer of America and awarded a cash prize of $500 at the annual convention of the Future Farmers of America in Kansas City, Mo., shells corn from the cob on his 203-acre farm. He received the award in recognition of his fine work in placing his mortgaged farm home on a paying basis.

FOR COLD WEATHER

This is an attractive rust and orange tweed suit. The hat of rust felt and the suede bag and gloves with stitchings of orange complete the outfit. Posed by Anna Lee.

"He was convicted, I know, but wasn't sentence suspended?"
"No—he was."

One O'Clock

A certain fearless and athletic man was going home late at night. He was warned not to go the usual way, as there had been several holdups.

He went just the same, and presently was met by a man who asked him what time it was. Thinking that this was the prelude to a hold-up, he hit him a heavy blow, and said, "It has just struck one."
"Begorrah," was the reply, "I'm glad I didn't ask you an hour ago."

Plenty of Detail

Teacher—Yes, that's a nice dog you've drawn, Japie, but why on earth did you give him such a long tail?
Japie—Well, miss, you said, "An' put in plenty of detail."

Some Experience
Sales Manager—Did you ever do any public speaking?
Applicant for Job—Well, I proposed to a farmer's daughter over a party line once.

"What is?"
"To think that your rival knows a little more than he seems to and that you know a little less than you think you do."

Neglect
"Young man," said the stern mother, "I saw you in the park with my daughter."
"Yes," was the reply.
"I saw you kiss my daughter."
"Yes."
"Have you nothing to say?"
"Yes. If you can't look after your daughter better, you'd better let me."—Tit-Bits Magazine.

ENGAGEMENT OF VIOLA STEINBACH

A recent announcement of interest is that of the engagement of Miss Viola Steinbach and Fred Schrum, who tell their friends that they plan to be married December 8.

Miss Steinbach is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Steinbach of Lansing and Mr. Schrum is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Schrum of Calumet City. Both young people are graduates of Thornton Fractional high school. Mr. Schrum also attended the University of Illinois.

The wedding will take place at the home of the bride's parents and will be followed by a dinner at the Lake Hills Country Club.

T. F. BOARD NOT TO HOLD ELECTION

Members of the board of education of Thornton Fractional High school have decided that to hold a special election to choose a board member to complete the unfinished term of Mrs. Julia Kowalski, who passed away recently, would be an unnecessary expense to the school district.

That the election is not important was pointed out at the board meeting last Friday night, in view of the fact that the regular election will come in April 1938, and meantime there will only be four meetings of the board before that time. A new member elected at this time would only serve four months and the cost of the election it was estimated would be about $200.

There are ten cures for every disease — but they rarely work.

The religion of spiritism, the cardinal doctrines of spiritism together with a critical analysis of the same in the light of Scripture. The Spiritists' view of Christianity and the answer to the question: "Do the Dead Return?" A conclusive thorough, and convincing reply.

Part two, Rev. Elz describes as his demonstration portion in which he offers proof of the fact that one can easily be deceived even in bright lights, the most simple illusion appears impossible, giving an explanation of the difference between the legitimate magician and the spook crooks.

The demonstration also includes an analysis of various mysterious deceptions used in magic, gives a reproduction of a fortune teller's office and an explanation of mind reading and mental telepathy. The floating table, one of the outstanding phenomena of spiritism in which the hands are merely laid upon a table and the table is caused to float in mid-air is completely exposed and explained.

In conclusion Rev. Elz will summarize the various types of fortune telling following this with a Christian admonition to avoid such abominations and give a Christian horoscope of reading presenting the proper outlook of the future.

LEGION AUXILIARY READY FOR NEW YEAR

New officers as recently installed by the American Legion Auxilliary of Lansing are as follows: Esther Olsen, president; Irene Ward, vice-president; Lillian Dockweller, secretary; Flora Clark, treasurer; and Helen McLaughlin, chaplain.

Committee chairmen: Pauline Yurek, Americanism; Clara Trinowski, child welfare; Ruth Galthier, community service; Flora Clark education of W. W. orphans; Lillian Dockweller, Fidae; Lucille Fulker, Gold Star; Louise Koselke, junior activities; Helen McLaughlin, legislative; Irene Ward, membership; Pauline Yurek, national defense; Ruth Galthier, poppy; Helen McLaughlin, publicity; Clara Trinowski, radio, and Lucille Fulker, rehabilitation.

Color guards are to be Louise Koselke and Ruth Galthier.

Besides the usual auxiliary activities the local society sponsors a bunco party for the public of the village once each month. The November party will be held at the village hall next Tuesday evening.

In an average year, more than 15 million head of livestock are shipped into the Chicago stockyards.

Postmen who do their regular work and distribute census cards for unemployment cards November 16 will be well-turned for the Christmas job that starts soon after. — Philadelphia Bulletin.

Holland was called by Officer Van Laningham, and the injured taken to St. Margaret's hospital. Young Sobey suffered a badly cut nose. Because of lack of room in the ambulance to accommodate all of the injured, Joe Moore, who did not appear in so bad a condition was taken in the car of a passerby.

Van Laningham instructed the driver to go to St. Margaret's hospital where he would follow them as soon as he ordered a truck to clear the roadway. The driver of the car failed to carry out the officer's instructions and Moore was not taken to St. Margaret's. At the time of this writing he has not been located, although he appeared at a Harvey hospital inquiring for the two women. Efforts are being made to trace him through his home.

Mr. De Jong was not injured, but the cars were both damaged considerably.

The second accident was only a minor one, but sufficient to sound a warning that the pavements are slippery and caution in driving should be used. It happened on Ridge Road near Henry street at 5 o'clock this afternoon. John Lambert of 107 Green Bay avenue South Chicago, collided with Louis Planner of 3427 Washington street Lansing. No one was injured but the cars were damaged.
