CHRISTMAS IN STORY AND SONG AT P. T. A. MEETING

"Christmas in Literature and Song", was the theme of the program at the regular December meeting of the Parent Teachers association held in the Calvin Coolidge Gymnasium Tuesday evening.

This theme was carried out most beautifully by three groups of children who had been trained by their teachers and Mrs. Fred Stone, chairman of the program committee. 'Twas The Night Before Christmas, was read by Mrs. Stone for a group of small children gathered around a Christmas tree. The youngsters, Donald Mathews, Dick Spindler, Anna Vroom, Priscilla Perkins and Ronald Pearson were all in their nighties ready for bed. The reading of the poem was after the fashion of a bed time story. The children were from Miss Swiderski's room, the teacher was to have read the story but a cold rendered her voice unable to carry in that auditorium so Mrs. Stone took her place.

Following the story Miss Laignor's girls chorus sang Christmas songs and carols. An interesting feature of this number was the brief historical story giving the date and origin of the songs that was read by the girls before the singing of each group of songs or carols. This carried the story of the Christmas as represented in song back to the original Christmas. The girls of the chorus were, Joanna Van Weelden, Vern Kray, Alice Arends, Kate Jansma, Emma Peters, Delores Palko, Merle Larance, Doris Barton, Reta Strand, Clara Jongkry, and Helen Yurek. The closing number on the program, "Why The Chimes Rang," was directed by Mrs. Strong and told the story of a child's Christmas offering, delivered by proxy because the lad found a duty to at-

RECREATION CENTER ENJOYED BY MANY

More than one hundred children are entertained and instructed every evening at the WPA Recreation center which was opened here last week, according to the supervisor of the project, Pat Sullivan. The group differed each night so that the instructors estimate that the project is already reaching two or three hundred people. Oldsters as well as children and young people are taking advantage of a pleasant hour or two of games and social contact.

Shuffle board, checkers, ping-pong, zoop and puzzles have been provided and instructions in the art of playing is provided by Gerald Wright and Miss Ruth Blank. Both these people have had experience in conducting similar projects in other communities, and are enthusiastic about the response in Lansing.

The recreation room, upstairs at the village hall, is opened to the children at 4:30 and remains open until 9:30. It is the plans of those in charge of the project to hold the facilities of the center open for adults and the senior young people children to go home at that time, after 8 o'clock, encouraging the project will later include heavier sports such as basketball, football, kitten ball, etc., and that several spaces about town may be flooded for ice skating. George DeBok, the handy man on the project is already working on two sites for such ponds.

As soon as the project is fully organized, Mr. Wright plans to form teams at the various sports already available and play tournament games with the teams of other communities.

LIONS CLUB HEARS WM. MICHAELS OF GLENWOOD SPEAK

William Michaels, superintendent of the Glenwood school was the speaker at the Tuesday luncheon of the Lansing Lions Club. His subject was, "Service Clubs and Youth." He places great importance upon the value of the activities of the service clubs among the underprivileged youth of the country.

One point brought out by Mr. Michaels was the overwhelming majority of underprivileged boys in the country as compared with those enjoying the privileges of modern homes. His statement placed the unfortunate boys as nine to one privileged. Boy Scout work he praised very highly.

Speaking of the state, Mr. Michaels pointed out that recently Illinois had appropriated $20,000,000 for purchase of 10,000 beds and other equipment for the state institutions caring for the feeble minded, insane and for penal institutions such as reformatories, prisons etc. This enormous expense might be cut in future years instead of being allowed to increase, by the proper attention to the growing boys and girls.

Lansing, Oak Glen and South Holland, according to Mr. Michaels are among the more fortunate communities in the state in as much as there is no abject poverty in either of these villages.

The club passed a resolution to purchase film and have moving pictures taken of the delegation leaving Lansing this afternoon to attend the hearing of the Commerce Commission on the proposed bus line into the Chicago loop.

Rev. Rozeboom was a guest of the club for this luncheon. He gave a short prayer of invocation.

The next meeting of the club will be in the evening of December 28.

Some Fine Books In New List At Local Library

Some very fine books are included in the December list of new books received at the Lansing WPA Library this week. Among them is one of the most widely discussed non-fiction books of the day, "Return to Religion," by Link.

Adult fiction on the list is: "Good Earth," by Buck; "Drums Along the Mohawk," Edmunds; "No Hearts to Break," Ertz; "Not for Love," Miller; "John Cornelius," Walpole; "This Isn't the End," Widdemer; "And So—Victoria," Wilkins.

In the fiction list for children will be found, "Pecos Bill," "Saucy Betsy," "Roller Skates," "Teeny Gay," and "Ballet Shoes." There are also four new non-fiction books in the children's department, they are, "When the Wind Blew," "Karl's Wooden Horse," "Ezekiel" and "Noodle."

Through a system of exchange by means of which books are exchanged with other libraries throughout the district the local library is always able to offer its readers a good selection of new material at all times.

TRINITY LADIES CHOOSE OFFICERS

At a recent election of officers of the Trinity Ladies Aid in Oak Glen, Mrs. Ed. Koehn succeeded Mrs. Frank Brinkman as president; Helga Peters was elected vice-president; Mrs. Arthur Lorenz, treasurer; Mrs. George Schultz was re-elected secretary, and Mrs. William Kraegel, missionary chairman. The next meeting will be Jan. 5 at the church.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL COMPLETE

RECEIPTS SHOW INCREASE OVER LAST YEAR

The annual Red Cross membership roll call conducted in Lansing under the able direction of Mrs. William Winterhoff has just been completed with total receipts of $107.29. This is an increase of $34.39 over the amount received in the village last year, which is gratifying.

Miss Alice VanderAa headed the list of workers here with receipts at $32.90. Miss VanderAa's district included the Oak Glen business section as well as part of the residential part of town.

The workers in this year's drive were: Mrs. Carl Relpen, Mrs. Wilfred Weaver, Mrs. Fred Price, William Fieldhouse, Mrs. Max Koselke, Alice VanderAa, Anna VanKley, Marian Barkdul, Mrs. Carl Isaacson, Mrs. H. Buffington and Mildred Hecht. Mrs. Winterhoff was chairman.

Mrs. Winterhoff said she believed there were to be certificates awarded the workers in the drive, and expressed her personal appreciation to both the workers and the people of the village for the co-operation given her in putting the drive over so well.

STUDENT STRIKE AT T. F. PETERS OUT

Approximately 250 students of the 938 enrolled at Thornton Fractional high school fell in with the popular sit down strike idea Tuesday afternoon and remained in their seats at the close of an assembly hour.

The striking group, with no definite leader and no formal demand to the school board or faculty, suddenly decided that school should not keep next week. A longer Christmas vacation appeared to be the objective of the strike.

The principal, A. V. Loekhart informed the group in positive terms that it was not telling the school what to do. The school board decided what holidays would be observed and the duration of vacations and the faculty carried on

Begin Mailing License Plates December 15th

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 16.—The mailing of automobile license plates for 1938 will begin on Dec. 15, it was announced today by the office of Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes. The usual volume of early business requires much preliminary clerical work before the plates may be issued and as a consequence some delay is necessary. Over the counter service also will begin on Dec. 15.

Secretary Hughes stated that motorists who have requested high numbers must of necessity receive their plates at a later date than those whose numbers occur in the regular run as the plates are made in rotation by the manufacturer and the mailing is done in accord with the run.

An important point was emphasized by Secretary Hughes with regard to new car buyers. Any car purchased on or after Dec. 6 does not require a 1937 license. All new car buyers of this date forward need not hesitate to send in their applications for 1938 plates in the fear that they will be assessed for 1937 also. Any application received at the present time from such car owners will be for 1938 only.

WELFARE STATION CELEBRATES 1ST ANNIVERSARY

Lansing's infant welfare station conducted under the auspices of the County Health department with Miss Irene O'Connor, R. N. in charge is this month celebrating its first anniversary.

The station located in the Calvin Coolidge school is open on the third Tuesday of every month to all the babies and children of preschool age. Here a careful physical examination is given the child and if any defects show, the mother is advised to see her family physician. No prescriptions or treatments are given at the station.

There have been about 100 babies registered at the station, some of them coming to every meeting. The station is open to all of the mothers of small children of the community including the rural sections. Mothers interested in the health of their babies will all find friendly, helpful advice as to their care and welfare if they bring them to Miss O'Connor.

There are no charges made for the service received at the station.

M. E. CHRISTMAS PROGRAM DEC. 13

The Wesley M. E. church will present its annual Christmas program Thursday evening, Dec. 23, at 7:30 p. m. The program will consist of pantomimes, drills, verse and songs by the children of the Sunday school, followed by a pageant entitled, "Coming of the Christ Child," presented by the young people and adults. The public is invited to attend this entertainment.

Santa Claus will be at the regular Sunday school session on Dec. 26.

Stress National Legion Program At Local Meeting

The Edward Schultz Post No. 697 of the American Legion, meeting in regular session Wednesday evening, Dec. 8, gave some time to the discussion of the Legion's National program.

While the inclement weather cut down the attendance at the meeting there were enough members present to make a quorum and the current business was taken care of.

In discussing the national Legion program emphasis was placed on conditions in the world today, which are in such a state of unrest that it is time for the general public to be acquainted of the two main points in the Legion's national program. In the opinion of the local post the following points should be understood by every citizen:

The national defense bill, calling

REV. H. HARTHUN CHRISTENS FIVE CHILDREN SUN.

Rev. H. Harthun of St. John's Lutheran church of Wentworth avenue officiated at the christening of five children Sunday, Dec. 12. The little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Mueller was given the name of Norma June, with Mr. Ervin Mueller and Miss Madeline Schultz acting as sponsors. This service was held Sunday morning.

In the afternoon Janet Lee, Jan Lynnford, Phyllis Ann and Lois Jean Wise, children of Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Wise of Burnham avenue were christened by Rev. Harthun. The children's ages are 2, 13, 4 and 6 years, respectively. Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Griffiths of Ann street stood sponsor for them.

BUS HEARING POSTPONED AT LAST MINUTE

More than one hundred persons who had signified their willingness to attend the Illinois Commerce Commission hearing on the proposed Safeway Bus line through the village gathered at the Ford sales room today noon only to learn that just an hour before the Commission had postponed the hearing.

No reason for the postponement was given in the brief call from the city, and so far there is no information as to when the hearing will be granted.

Buses that had already been detailed to make the trip to the city with the Lansing delegates remained on the job, and all those who desired to go into the city to shop were invited to do so. Two bus loads of folks took advantage of this offer.

It is generally felt that the obtaining of the permit to operate the bus service into the city is of vital importance to the village. During the last year Lansing has exceeded all other communities in the Calumet region in growth and the need of transportation directly into the city has grown accordingly, until at present the lack of such transportation is a real hardship. The great loss of time and extra expense involved in going into the city under present public transportation systems retards every forward movement in the village.

As proposed the Safeway Bus Company, if permitted by the Commerce Commission will operate a bus line through Lansing into Chicago hourly. The route as outlined will come through Lansing via Torrence avenue in Oak Glen, east on Ridge Road to Wentworth, north to Calumet City, from there to Dolton, to Michigan avenue, to 11th street, to South Park avenue, to 22nd street, to Indiana avenue, to 16th street, back to Michigan avenue and north to 20 East Randolph street which is the present bus terminal.

Single ride tickets to the loop will cost 45 cents, round trip 70 cents. By ten ride ticket the cost

CONRAD CHILD CHRISTENED SUNDAY

Christening services for the baby daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Conrad were held at Trinity Lutheran church in Oak Glen Sunday morning. The christening took place during the regular English service at this church, Rev. Guert officiating. Carol Ann is the name selected by Mr. and Mrs. Conrad for their child and Miss Louise Fiene, Mr. Philip Passage, and Mrs. Meta Daul stood sponsor for her.

A christening dinner was given at the home of the baby's grandfather, Mr. George Fiene, Sr., after the service.

Mrs. Conrad was the former Ruth Fiene.

WPA HOLDS FIRST AID CLASSES TUES.

Classes in first aid are being conducted by Dr. Jordan and Nurse Laura Rossetti, both of Chicago Heights, at the Lansing village hall every Tuesday evening at 7:30. These classes are part of the WPA program and are open to the general public.

Each course includes twelve lessons. The course which is now being given began Nov. 1 and is attended by twenty local folks including several village employees. A second series of lessons will begin sometime in January or February.

The lessons include instruction in emergency treatment for all types of injuries.

according to the instruction of the board.

For about one period Tuesday afternoon there were approximately 300 students out of class. After that the individuals gradually began drifting back to their proper place until there remained only a meager 200 on strike in the big gym.

To these Mr. Lockhart was curt and to the point. He informed them they might sit as long as they pleased, the rest of the school would carry on as usual. The doors leading into the corridors of the building from the gym were locked to prevent the strikers causing disturbances in the halls and class rooms and the insubordinates were left to their own devices, which apparently soon became rather boring.

There was no particular leader for the group and no formal demands were presented to the faculty or board. The general idea of the strike being conveyed by way of oral demands of the principal.

It seems the strikers were of the opinion they were being abused in as much as Hammond High was not teaching at all next week. Mr. Lockhart pointed out that Thornton Fractional included 94 teaching days each semester, and that there were many days when the T. F. students were out of school for different occasions when Hammond High was teaching and that T. F. was in line with most of the schools in the Chicago district, including the city schools, Joliet, and other neighboring towns.

He explained to the striking group that the parents and citizens were paying by way of taxes to operate a school in which the young people of the community might obtain an education. That education reacts chiefly for the benefit of the individual. That the high school would continue to teach the three days next week as planned by the board. The only losers by the strike would be the strikers themselves.

The claim of a few of the students that they wanted the time off from school to work during the Christmas rush, was met by Mr. Lockhart by the statement that any student having a job could make arrangements with the school to make up his work and he would be excused from classes for the three days next week.

By Wednesday morning there were only 100 students in line with the strike the rest having drifted back to class. A few of the boys who appeared to have the most to say about the matter were interviewed by Mr. Lockhart, and all agreed with him that the thing had better be forgiven and forgotten.

So it would seem that the whole thing was a tempest in a teapot and would peter out for lack of incentive to carry on.

Mr. Lockhart said to the reporter from this paper that in his opinion the whole thing was more or less a spontaneous combustion. He definitely stated that none of his real student leaders including the athletes were in any sense leaders of the striking group. This statement contradicts some reports that have been current.

School at Thornton Fractional will be carried on under the usual schedule until Wednesday evening, December 22, when it will be dismissed for the regular Christmas vacation. Classes will assemble again on January 3, 1938.

Some of the lads involved in the strike have already offered an apology to the principal and their teachers, and Mr. Lockhart says that the whole matter will be ignored. The students will be accepted back in class and all will be forgiven.

will be only 32½ cents per one way ride, and by 25 ride ticket a single ride will be only 27 cents. Costs to other points along the route will be in keeping with these prices, according to present plans of the company.

There will be considerable argument presented to the Commission by opposing bus and other transportation lines against the new service, but to the people of Lansing these will mean little, in view of the past service given by these companies. Just what weight these arguments will have with the Commerce Commission remains to be seen.

There has been a slight effort at improvement of the present service this week, so we are told, an extra bus being operated into Hammond from here during the morning hours, but no public announcement has been made as to the permanence of this service, and should it become permanent it does not help the Chicago transportation need at all.

During recent months there has been no public transportation from the village between the hours of 8:35 a. m. until 11 a. m. and a like period in the afternoon when there was no service from Hammond into the village.

Chicago travelers have had in the past to go to Hammond by bus and there transfer either to other buses or train in order to reach the city. Going by bus another transfer was necessary in the city before reaching the loop. Those having their own cars could of course drive to Harvey, Homewood or other points on the I. C. line and take the train into Chicago.

With Lansing's population now at the 4,000 point and growing rapidly, such service is entirely inadequate and out of order.

tend to. The chimes of the great church rang only when a worthy offering was laid on the altar. For years they had been silent. The two brothers on the way to the church find an aged woman asleep in the snow, the older lad knows he must stay and help her so sends his little piece of silver offering on with his brother, while he stays to help the old lady. Of course when the piece of silver is laid on the altar the chimes ring out.

This lovely story was acted by on Boyd and Barbara Brough as the two brothers Joanna Var Weelden as the minister, Donna Schmidt, Lois Schilde, Jean Boyd, Janet Fulker, and June Jansen taking other parts. Scenery for the play was made by the following boys from Miss Ryland's room: Frank Palko, Jack Sheppard, Teddy Koselke, Louis Davidson, and Henry Hanson.

The story of 'Tiny Tim' taken from Dickens' Christmas Carol' was read by Miss Vander Berg.

Reports of the carnival committee and other standing committees were heard during the business session. According to the report of Mrs. Barth, chairman of the carnival committee, this year's carnival earned $148 after all expenses were paid.

A motion was carried to allow $20 for the purchase of candy for the Christmas treat for the children. Mrs. Hott was named chairman of the committee to prepare this treat.

Miss Laingor's room again won the parent attendance award. This room was the winner last month also.

PAT O'BRIEN AND JOAN BLONDELL IN "BACK IN CIRCULATION" NOW AT THE PARAMOUNT; NEXT SUNDAY ON THE STAGE IN PERSON FAITH BACON'S 12 GLAMOUR GIRLS

"Back In Circulation," an engrossing newspaper comedy-drama made from the Cosmopolitan magazine story, "Angle Shooter," by Adela Rogers St. Johns, had its premiere Wednesday at the Paramount Theatre, and thrilled and delighted several large audiences. Pat O'Brien and Joan Blondell are co-starred in this highly dramatic and exciting story of the power of the press. The narrative is swift and suspenseful, with a remarkable performance by Joan Blondell as the girl reporter. Humorous twists and breezy comedy is interwoven between Pat O'Brien as the newspaper editor and his star reporter, with O'Brien in a lusty and spirited characterization. Next Sunday the Paramount will present on its stage in person Faith Bacon's 12 glamour girls who will headline the stage show now being arranged for your entertainment. The screen attraction will be "Bulldog Drummond Comes Back" with John Barrymore and John Howard.

Under Pressure

SYNOPSIS

Joyce Sewell, on the eve of her twentieth birthday, rebels inwardly at her lot, dependent on her detested stepmother, Irma, and full of tragic memories of her mother's murder twelve years before and her father's death six months ago. Irma calls in Helm Blackadder, an admirer, to help her persuade Joyce to marry rich, young Michael Kirkpatrick.

CHAPTER I—Continued

Joyce started toward a chair but stopped. "No; if we are going to have one of our reasonable talks, I'd rather stand."

"That means I'll have to stand too," said Blackadder, sensing he faced a wise and clever fighter. "It doesn't leave me a choice, does it?"

"Not if you feel you have to stay," "Joyce!" cried Mrs. Sewell sharply. "How can you be rude to Mr. Blackadder, a man twice your age and my oldest friend?"

"I wasn't trying to be rude," said Joyce coolly, "I was wondering why he's here."

"I've told you. Because he's my oldest and almost my only friend. We were boy and girl together and if I can't turn to him in my trouble I can appeal to nobody."

"Your trouble!" exclaimed Joyce. "If you'd only leave me alone, let me go my own way, you wouldn't have a thing in the world to worry about."

"That's just it—I can't. I can't stand aside and watch you ruin your life. It wouldn't be right. I can tell you to your face, here before Mr. Blackadder, if you don't take Michael Kirkpatrick while you still have the chance you'll regret it the rest of your life."

"So it's narrowed down to Mike, has it?" said Joyce. "How did you come to pick on him?"

As if she were resigning the floor Mrs. Sewell made a gesture toward Blackadder. "Strangely uneasy he straightened and braced his elbows on the mantel. He leveled his eyes at her, taking her measure."

"Let's see if I can talk your language. Do you mind listening till we find out?"

"No; I'll listen."

"You're young, Joyce, and you're up against a tough situation. You don't like your stepmother. Well, there's nothing we can do about that. Likes and dislikes don't go by favor or obligation; they hang on two Spanish words, easy to understand, hard to translate—simpatica and antipatica. Right?"

"Yes," said Joyce, amazed at the boldness of his attack and startled by his idiomatic use of a language she thought she alone in Elsinboro knew.

"The yoke of living on Irma has been galling you till all you can think of is escape. The first thing you picked on was to be a teacher, but you found out it isn't enough to know your subject—you've got to have a string of silly letters after your name. So you thought you'd be a stenographer and look for a firm engaged in foreign trade. Unfortunately, you're unfitted for business. You'd be an absolute flop."

"Why?"

"Because you're emotional and a thoroughbred; the first time you found yourself the mechanical link in a typewriter you'd walk out."

"Then what's left?" asked Joyce dimly as much of herself as of him.

"We're coming to that," said Blackadder sharply. Perceiving he had shaken her, his head moved forward between his shoulders and his eyes grew steady. "You don't like Irma, but you've lived on her since you were eight years old. She's given you everything you've had—shelter, food, raiment and care—and you've never paid for any of it in love or in cash."

"Oh!" gasped Joyce, wincing under the sting of a lash she had under on herself again and again. "How could I? You know I have nothing—nothing!"

"That's not so," said Blackadder, shooting the words at her. "You have plenty if you take it to the right market. Let's get down to bed-rock. Do you dislike Mike any more than you do your stepmother? Do you?"

"No!" said Joyce. "Then why not live on him for a while where you can pay ten for one?"

Watching her sink into a chair as if he had knocked her knees from under her he felt a curious elation. He had beaten her, it had been a hard fight, but he had won out.

"This way out that Helm suggests—I've been begging you to do—you don't think it's for me, do you? It's for you—for your own good. We're older than you are, we can see back as well as ahead. Can't you believe us? Can't you see it's your best chance for happiness?"

"Happiness!" breathed Joyce. "I suppose every girl has her dream of happiness." Then her low voice began to grow in volume and intensity. "I know I have mine and it's a dream of giving, not taking. I don't mean giving things—money, food, clothes—because love doesn't grow out of things. Even if you try your best to make it, it doesn't, it won't. I mean giving something that's inside you, that aches to be given and—"

"I know, dear," interrupted Mrs. Sewell soothingly, "but believe me, you'll feel all that if you'll only just—"

"Oh, you're horrible!" cried Joyce desperately. "I wish I hadn't told you! Do you think I'm blind? You want to be rid of me—both of you. All right, I give in. I promise. If it isn't Mike it will be something else, some other way. I promise." She was gone from the room before either of them could answer.

CHAPTER II

Her departure left Blackadder breathless and somewhat confused. He continued to stand with his back to the mantel, staring at her as if her hurrying steps were still in sight, filling his eyes. And he had thought she was licked! He became aware of Irma's murmuring voice.

"You were wonderful, Helm, but I knew you would be. I was sure of it. The minute I thought of you the load began to lift off my shoulders and now, whatever happens, it's gone. But let's forget trouble. It's can't tell you what it means to me to see you standing there like a pillar giving sense and reason to everything in the room, including me."

She smiled up at him expectantly. His lips parted but it was ordained the maid should enter then.

"It's Mr. Kirkpatrick, ma'am."

The young man entered, flamboyant as to hair, complexion, manner and clothes. "Michael, you know Mr. Blackadder, don't you?"

"Sure thing," said Mike, holding out his hand.

Blackadder bent him to the grip and almost crushed his knuckles, then let go too quickly for a comeback. Mrs. Sewell came to the rescue.

"You can go right up, Michael. You'll find Joyce in her sitting room. I—I wish you luck."

Something in the manner of her final words made Kirkpatrick glance at her curiously. He nodded and started for the back where a side staircase supplemented the one in the main hall. Arriving at Joyce's door he knocked softly, pretended he heard an answering call, turned the knob and stepped in. Joyce was on her knees before the petaca, in the act of fitting a clumsy key into the homemade lock.

"Where did you find the Ellis Island trunk?" he asked jovially. She turned her head and stared up at him out of unbelieving eyes. "It was my father's," she answered hoarsely.

automatically. Then she rose, holding tight to the key, and stood at her full height. "What are you doing here?" she demanded. "Who told you you could come in?"

He backed against the door until the latch clicked shut. "You did. I knocked and I thought I heard you say, 'Come in.'"

"You were mistaken. Please go." "Aw, get off the horse, Joyce. Can't you talk from the floor for once in your life?"

Abruptly her frown deepened. "Did they send for you?"

"Who?" "Mr. Blackadder and my stepmother."

"They did not; I brought myself."

"Then take yourself away."

"What's the rush, Joyce, now I'm here? Listen, let's have a show-down. I've told you over and over again I can give you a lot of things and so can you me, but I've done all the crawling I'm going to do. Besides, I've just had a tip. I may not know books like some of your rah-rah friends, but I can see out of both eyes. So I'm asking you for the last time—will you marry me or won't you?"

"I won't, now or ever."

He stepped toward her, his fingers itching but his eyes frightened and wet. Abruptly he stopped. Why? He didn't know. She had not moved. She stood with the big key held tightly in her right hand as though it were a dagger. Pressed against her dark dress her fist seemed small and white yet powerful. She had brought him to a halt with only a look—a look of loathing beyond words. He turned, tore open the door and rushed from the room.

Joyce knelt on the floor, then bent over the little sawhorse trunk, turned the key and raised the lid. A pungent odor of age-old paper, rust, leather and rotting tape greeted her nostrils.

Her father's last years had left her memory of a weakling, a lovable weakling. Now, immersed in his fervent letters and shocked by the impersonal frigidity of the replies they had evoked, she saw him in his true proportions as a martyr burned at the stake. Slowly, day after day, month after month, yet uttering no cry, Unshed tears stung in her eyes, blinding her. Anger at injustice mounted into rage and raged into the incandescent heat that tempers steel to a cutting edge. He had let a girl to avenge his wrongs—only a son. She dug her nails into the palms of her hands. Some day, somehow, she would find a way. Again there came a knock at her door, a hesitant knock quite unlike her stepmother's.

"Who is it?" she whispered hoarsely.

"It's me, Miss Joyce," answered the maid's voice. "I've brought you a letter and a bit of supper."

"Thanks, Elsie, but I don't want a thing to eat. Please slip the letter under the door."

It was long and without a stamp, probably a circular. Her inclination was to let it lie, but abruptly she was seized by its similarity to a dozen envelopes in the petaca, all bearing the penalty-for-private-use formula. A pale yellow slip fluttered to the floor as she tore open the official envelope and unfolded the letter within. She read it at a glance, then again slowly, word by word: "At the instance of the Mexican ambassador, who has deposited the necessary funds, I beg to enclose a warrant on the Treasury of the United States for $10,000 compensation in full for the death of Ann Burden Sewell. Your endorsement will be sufficient receipt."

She caught up the pale yellow slip. Sitting cross-legged she stared and stared at it, for it looked like no check she had ever seen. Yet its purport was unmistakable—the Treasury of the United States held $10,000 at her disposal. The finger of fate was upon her. If this amazing windfall had come an hour sooner she might have signed it over to her stepmother, flung it at her with actual joy, in payment for back rent and board. But not now—no, not now.

She put her arms around the petaca, pressed her cheek against its arabesques of brass tacks and bowed her head as if she were making a vow. Presently she went to bed, but lay awake for a long time, dreaming, planning, then floating off into a restful haze midway between sleep and consciousness.

In the morning she was up early. She drank her coffee with eyes on the clock and shortly after nine was being shown into the private office of the president of the City National bank. Toward the last Mr. Bradley had been her father's only remaining friend.

"It's Joyce," she reminded him, "Joyce Sewell."

"Why, of course! How you've grown, my dear. You're lovely!"

"Mr. Bradley, are bankers like doctors, lawyers, and priests? I mean are they bound to keep a secret if you ask them to?"

"They are and they aren't. A court order can open wide our mouths and our vaults, but short of that we're bound to respect our clients' wishes. Why? Have you a secret you want to deposit?"

"Yes; oh, yes."

He leaned toward her and asked in a whisper, "Is it about the check for ten thousand?" She sank back, her eyes wide, the color draining from her cheeks. He patted her knee reassuringly and chuckled. "There, there, that was a mean trick. Nobody knows but me, my dear. It was I who supplied your name and address."

"Oh!" breathed Joyce. "Please don't ever do a thing like that to me again!"

"You're safe. I doubt whether I'll ever have any other chance. But why the secrecy?"

"Because I'm going away and I don't want anybody to know where." She leaned forward, "Mr. Bradley, you know my father's story, don't you?"

"No man knows it better, and that goes for his one-time lawyers."

"I learned it last night," said Joyce. "I read every letter, every paper, every deed back to the original grant from the king of Spain. Is there any doubt La Barranca belonged to my father?"

"None whatever. He had as clear a title as I have to my hat or my coat or anything else I've paid for in cash."

"Then it's mine now."

"I wish I could answer no to that, but I can't."

"Have you a conscience, Mr. Bradley?" she asked soberly.

"Me?" he exclaimed, puzzled and astonished.

"I was wondering whether it's ever right to—to take your conscience and choke it."

His eyes twinkled violently but he did not laugh. "I see. What's your conscience been telling you to do?"

"Give this money to my stepmother."

"What for?"

"Well, for all she's done—keeping me all these years."

Mr. Bradley's eyes shone with a strange and increasing fire. "Who's been stuffing your head with that?" he demanded. "Anyway, let me put you straight. In the first place step-parents are required by law to do what's been done for you; it's an integral part of their original bargain. In the second Irma's kindness ruined your father by keeping him from going to work. In the third, since she's a do-good-to-others addict, she's had her money's worth out of the two of you ten times over."

"For a moment he thought she was going to cry, but she controlled her trembling lips.

"Thank you," she murmured. "You don't know what you've done for me. Now I can do what I've been planning; I can go."

"Where to, Joyce?"

She looked at him steadfastly. "All those years my father stayed here, Mr. Bradley. But La Barranca isn't here; it's in Mexico. I'm going to Mexico."

Joyce laid the warrant, already endorsed, on Mr. Bradley's desk and rose. "I'm leaving the money with you, but you understand I may need a great deal of it any day, don't you?"

"Sit down, Joyce," he said soberly. "Do you know what I've been asking myself?"

"No, sir," said Joyce, sinking to the edge of her chair.

"If I had a girl—your age, your looks, your background—what would I want some other fellow to do in this particular case?" He frowned. "Of course you remember Mexico, but do you remember what happened?"

United States and Great Britain Have Thirty Per Cent of World's "Who's Who"

The United States and Great Britain have more than 30 per cent of the persons listed in the international "Who's Who" published in London. This book, 19,000 biographies of persons who were considered by the editors to be of "international prominence," had 3,150 persons from Great Britain and 2,650 from the United States.

The total percentage of women in the book was only 1.6 and Great Britain's contribution was only 2.8, but the United States women had 5.6 per cent of the space.

Frank B. Littell, of Washington, dissected the lists in the magazine "Science" and found the following percentage distribution of international celebrities by nationalities:

- Great Britain, 16.7; United States, 14.7; France, 9.1; Germany, 8.3; Italy, 3.7; Sweden, 3.3; Japan, 2.6; Denmark, 2.3; Hungary, 2.2; Canada, 2.2; Netherlands, 2.1; Australia, 2.1; and Poland, 2.1.

A comparison of the distribution of internationally known men in the United States and Great Britain shows where the most striking recognized advances have been made in the two countries. For example, politics is first on the British list and fifth on the American list. Since the British have dominions all over the world and thus are, in a sense, internationalists, this could be expected. On the other hand, scientists led the American list, as might be expected from the "inventings" and most science-worshipping nation in the world.

Of the 2,650 Americans in the "Who's Who" 610 attended two colleges or universities, 200 attended three institutions and 110 attended four or more. On the other hand, 420 did not list any college education. Harvard is the alma mater of more famous Americans than any other school. Columbia and Yale were next.

Trim and tailored with feminine details, this chic all-suede suit boasts of such smart suit details as wide shoulders, wide lapels and a slenderizing fitted waistline. An American adaptation of a suit designed by Marjorie Dunton of Paris, this daytime suit is worn with a batik blouse and off-the-face suede hat. The suede bag is one of those grand roomy styles.

ROMANTIC biographies like "Pasteur," "Victoria the Great," "Parnell" and "Zola" have proved such fat box office fare that Hollywood producers are still at it. The next biographical picture by Warner Brothers will star Errol Flynn in "The Life of Nathan Hale," the Revolutionary patriot who said, "I regret I have but one life to give for my country."

The saga of Nathan Hale will offer a chance not only for a patriotic character study of the martyred soldier, but also for some exciting scenes of the Revolutionary war and historical characters of that period. As every boy and girl knows, Hale's story was romance itself. Disguised as a school teacher he entered the British lines to obtain information for the colonists. He was discovered and put to death. Although no portrait of him exists, a statue sculptured from memory is said to resemble Flynn.

Ginger Rogers and Herbert Marshall have formed a team that may make film history. They will be co-starred in a comedy by Ursula Parrott, "She Married for Money," the story of a girl who becomes the wife of a millionaire to save her family, decides to divorce him and then discovers she loves him. Production will not begin until Ginger has completed four new pictures with other collaborators, including her old team-mate Fred Astaire.

The United States navy enlisted in the movies in the making of "Submarine D-1". The department put the entire Pacific coast submarine flotilla of seven undersea craft at the disposal of Cosmopolitan during its filming. Also used were a dozen cruisers and destroyers and the submarine mother ship, the Holland. Pat O'Brien, co-star of the picture with George Brent, was in the navy during the World war.

Nature saved Paramount thousands of dollars and several scores of headaches during the filming of "Ebb Tide," the Robert Louis Stevenson story of the South Seas. Needing a hurricane for scenes in the picture, the company encountered a real one while filming location shots off Catalina Island. The dramatic shots of the typhoon sequence were filmed during the actual storm which sailors said was one of the worst "blows" in years off the California coast. Cameras, lashed to the ship, succeeded in catching all the action.

ODDS AND ENDS — When Mae West co-leted her recent picture, "Every Day's a Holiday," she gave out thousands of dollars worth of gifts to the members of the cast and the crew . . . Johnny Wismuller is in Honolulu acquiring a coat of tan for his next picture for Metro. All he has to do is work hard getting tan on the beach at Waikiki with his entire expenses paid . . . Claudette Colbert is again suffering from sinus trouble . . . The new Mr. and Mrs. Jackie Coogan (Betty Grable) are living in an eight room house about ten miles from Hollywood. Incidentally the church in which they were married was built by Jackie's father . . . "Nothing Sacred" certainly lives up to its name, for not even Carole Lombard's chin is immune from Fredric March's knockout right. He throws a haymaker to her beautiful jaw and she goes down for the count of ten.

Where Fashion Leads We Trail Like Sheep

DEAR Mrs. Post: Will you please explain about the wearing of veils in the present day? Mother insists that they were never intended to be worn after dark and I can hardly believe she is right because why would so many of the hats bought for street wear have veils attached to them?

Answer: It is impossible to attempt to limit fashions. Perhaps women will wear veils around their wrists or around their necks next, for whatever fashion says to do we all, like so many sheep, follow after. Of course they didn't used to wear veils in the evening. Of course they didn't used to go without backs in their dresses either, nor did they play tennis in panties! At present they do wear stiff little rue trimmings on the hats and call them veils, and also call some of the hats they grace evening hats. As for the large circular evening veils that are dropped snugly over the hair to keep it in place, and then flare smartly at the bottom edge, which are illustrated in the fashion magazines, they are perhaps legitimate children of day before yesterday's "fascinator."

Mourning Husband's Death

DEAR Mrs. Post: I have lost my husband and will shortly leave to make my home with a sister on the West Coast. (1) I would like to send a written note of resignation to a local club of which I have always been a member and wish you would suggest what I write. (2) Also, will you tell me whether it would be incorrect to wear black satin slippers with a black dinner dress while I am wearing mourning? I find it impossible to get suede ones that are comfortable.

Answer: (1) You write to the secretary of the club, wording your note more or less like the following: "Dear Mrs. Green: Owing to the changed circumstances in my life and the uncertainty of my ever returning to X-town to live, it is with very deep regret that I must ask you to present my resignation at the next meeting of the board of governors. Sincerely, Mary K. Blank." (2) Black satin is not suitable for mourning but any dull silk would take the place of suede.

To Be Wed in Brown

DEAR Mrs. Post: I am being married in a street dress in the presence of only a dozen relatives and friends. I intended getting a brown dress since my traveling coat is of mixed browns with a beaver collar, but on second thought perhaps brown would be as unsuitable on this occasion as black. I am referring to the superstition that black suggests bad luck for those in the wedding.

Answer: The reason black is avoided at weddings is that it is the color of mourning. There is no such association with brown. The only possible criticism of brown is that it might seem sombre unless lightened in some way by color at your throat or by carrying bright colored flowers.

Youth Growing Up

AT WHAT age does a girl have a "Miss" engraved on her visiting cards? And does this same age apply to a boy's card?

Answer: "Miss" is prefixed to the name of a young girl at fifteen or often sooner, and her name should be engraved Miss Sunny Margaret Blank and not Miss Sunny Blank. On the other hand, a boy never puts Mr. on his cards until he leaves school and many prefer cards without Mr. until after leaving college.

Seeking Your Will

You are seeking your own will. You are seeking some good other than the law you are bound to obey. But how long will you find good? It is not a thing of choice. It is a river that flows by the path of obedience. I say, again, man cannot choose his duties. You may choose to forsake your duties, and choose not to have the sorrow they bring. But you will go forth; and what will you find? Sorrow without duty—bitter herbs, and no bread with them.—George Eliot.

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them!

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.

Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance. The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

Lions Win First Game In League

LOSE PRACTICE GAME TUES. TO PATTONS

Staging a comeback in the last half of their first league game the Lansing Lions basketball team defeated the Calumet Memorial Park Ramblers by a score of 33 to 22, Sunday night at the Burnham gym.

The Ramblers took an early lead that gave them the first half by five points, the half score being 18 to 13 in favor of the Ramblers. Starting the second half the Lansing boys seemed to find themselves, scoring 18 points while allowing their opponents only four.

Brown led the scoring with six baskets and two free throws. McCloskey made four baskets, Jerecke four, A. Milazzo one and J. Milazzo one free throw. The lineup for the game was as follows: Brown, f.; A. Milazzo, f.; Jerecke, c.; McCloskey, g.; Brady, g.; Majak, g.; Ritter, f.; J. Milazzo, g.; Franklin, f.

Some of the sweetness of victory for the local boys was removed Tuesday night when the Patton's Boosters, heavyweight team, in a practice game trimmed the Lions by a score of 30 to 22. This game was played in the Lions home gym in the Munster public school.

Coach Shelton used all the Lions players in this game with the exception of J. Jerecke, who was out with a bad knee.

The Lions will meet this same team in a league game Sunday night in the Burnham gym at 9 o'clock. The lineup of the Patton team will not be the same as used Tuesday night, some of the Tuesday players being too heavy to qualify for the lightweight division.

With Jerecke back in the Lions lineup Coach Shelton holds strong hopes for a victory.

With league games scheduled for every Sunday night, and inquiries coming in fast for non-league games the Lions season will be a full one. On Tuesday evening, December 21 the boys will meet the Griffith CYO, lights and heavies at the Munster gym. Tuesday evening, December 28, they will face the Steger lights and heavies. All games start at 7:30.

The Lansing boys are showing fine basketball form and their games offer some good moments for sport fans, and support for the home team is always welcome.

WALTHER TEAM LOSES TO CHI. HTS.

St. John's Lutheran church competed in its second game of basketball in Tinley Park, Sunday. The Walther Leagues of this district are in the tournament. The team is composed of Don Dickleman, Robert Lange, Willard Ritter, Robert Gleim, C. H. Zimbrick, Roy and Ray Blank, Albert Labahn, August Schrunz, Reinhart Hecht, Bruce Mason and Reynold Schultz.

This game was the second of a series now in progress. Although the boys lost this game 36 to 28 to Chicago Heights, they are aiming at a victory against Crete next Sunday.

Many Lansing folks have been supporting the team, those who attended the last game are: Dora Harthun, Dorothy Sass, Mildred Schultz, Margaret Feigenbaum, Norma Sass, Helen Lange, Dorothy Wolf, Loraine Frank, Eleanor Vierk, La Vern Wilmes, Loren Wilmes, Earl Winterhoff, Carl Hecht and Winifred Karner.

BOWLING

By R. O. Hecht

Ice, snow, sleet or cold—bowling goes on just the same. And here is good news for all the bowling enthusiasts, both leagues will bowl an extra round at the end of their present schedule. The original schedule would have ended the bowling season about in the middle of March but now the season will end sometime in the early part of May. This news was accepted gratefully by most bowlers because the thought of hanging up the bowling shoes in the middle of March just didn't appeal to most of the boys. With the additional round tacked on each league, the season will be lengthened to 35 weeks for League No. 2 and to 36 weeks for League No. 1.

The writer of this column owes Kraay Brothers an apology. Last week the column said that Kraay Brothers lost two to Dockweller, but the extreme opposite was the result of that encounter. Kraay Brothers took all three from Dockweller! Sorry! My apology to Kraay Brothers and my sympathy to Dockweller.

Last week in League No. 1 we observe that Mike took two from Ridge Road Gardens. State Line took three from First Federal. Kraay Brothers duplicated the "week before's" feat by taking two from the Legion. The Knot-holes rose up and took two from the Jungle Beasts (Lions to you!). Dockweller's stepped into the first place Auto Inn boys and knocked down the line for two.

In League No. 2 we see that good old Gid went to town and shot a superb game of 209. Gid had six strikes in a row which is something for all to try and duplicate. A string of strikes like that will make any bowler sit up and take notice. Gid's team stepped up to Padjens boys and took them for two out of the three games played on Monday night. Pannys Clowns, with renewed life, took all three from Lansing Motors. Lonie's men took two away from the second place Meeter men and thus allowed Lansing Pharmacy to gain another game over their nearest rival, Lansing Pharmacy, after winning 15 straight, dropped one to the powerful Slager boys. Carl Daechm shot high game with 221 and the Pharmacy boys shot high series with 2529.

Present for the occasion were: Mrs. Carl McFarland, Mrs. M. Muncie, Mrs. Williams Grady, Mrs. John Willis and Mrs. Emil Moore, all of Hammond; Mrs. B. Cooper of Hobart, and Mrs. L. Campbell of Hessville.

PARTY FOR MRS. BROOMHEAD

Mrs. Harold Broomhead was honored at a shower given for her at the home of Mrs. E. J. Grimler, Thursday, Dec. 9. Mrs. Broomhead who was the former Marie Cormican, was the recipient of many lovely gifts. Bunco was the diversion of the evening and the prizes went to Mr. and Mrs. Broomhead. Among those present were: Mrs. Phil Stroupe, Mrs. Charles Cormican and daughter, Miss June, Mrs. Esther Olsen, Mrs. Barney Caserio, Mrs. Ervin Lange, Mrs. Beula Syler, Mrs. H. Hannagan, Mrs. Mabel Skaff, Misses Wilma and Bobbie Daehn, Mrs. H. Steinberg and daughter, Doris, Mrs. Ann Walters and Mrs. Katie Biesboer. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

PRETTY CHRISTMAS LUNCHEON

Mrs. O. D. Klein of Roy street was hostess to a number of her Hammond friends Monday, Dec. 13. Her luncheon table was most attractively arranged in blue and silver. Blue crystal service was used with center decorations consisting of a blue and silver Christmas tree and blue candles. Little silver bells were used as favors. Bridge was played after the luncheon. The guests included Mrs. Robert Evans, Mrs. V. Bradley and Mrs. James Whitehead.

G. F. CLUB HOLDS CHRISTMAS PARTY

The "G. F." club was delightfully entertained at a Christmas party Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Florian Hoffman in Calumet City. Luncheon was served at 2 o'clock with table decorations in keeping with the season. Pinocle was played, Mrs. Hoffman and Mrs. Carl Rahn winning prizes. An exchange of gifts completed the afternoon's enjoyment. Mrs. Walter Shultz, Mrs. William Maurer, Mrs. Emil Rauguth, Mrs. Lee Blanck, Mrs. John Wiese and Mrs. Edward Strand were the other members present. The next meeting of the club will be at the home of Mrs. William Maurer Jan. 4.

MRS. LORENZ HONORED ON BIRTHDAY

Mrs. George Lorenz was honored Tuesday evening when a number of friends and relatives gathered at her home on Torrence avenue to help celebrate her birthday. Pinocle was the diversion of the evening, followed by a delightful lunch. Those present included: Mrs. Anna Dockweiler, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Koehn and family, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Steinback, Mr. Henry Lorenz and son, Herbert, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lorenz, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lange, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lange and family and Wilbur Lorenz.

LADIES AID HOLDS PARTY

The Ladies Aid of the First Reformed church held its annual Christmas party in the church basement Wednesday afternoon. Small gifts were exchanged. Twenty-five members answered the roll call by quoting a verse of scripture. A reading was given by Mrs. Kynsburg and Mrs. Martin Rispen and Mrs. David Kats sang a duet. Refreshments were served by the following hostesses: Mrs. John Hoekstra, Mrs. T. Gowens, Mrs. John Fieldhouse, Mrs. Ed. Fieldhouse and Miss Kate Hook.

BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR JANE MURRAY

Miss Jane Murray was honored at a party at the home of her mother, Mrs. R. Murray, on North Torrence avenue, in celebration of her birthday Dec. 9. The afternoon was spent playing bunco and other games after which delicious refreshments were served to the following guests: Mrs. Richard Dykema, Mrs. Walter Van Kane-gan, Mrs. Menno Botma, Mrs. Harry De Boer, Miss Marion Dykema and Mrs. John Murray and son, Richard. Miss Jane received very nice gifts.

GOLDEN HOUR CIRCLE PARTY

Thirty members of the Golden Hour circle gathered at the home of Mrs. Monsma Wednesday evening for their annual Christmas party. A short business session was held before the social events of the evening. Gifts were exchanged and the ladies told how they each had earned the money they had contributed to the circle during the past year. Guessing games provided much amusement. Mrs. Monsma had decorated her home most charmingly in Christmas colors, and the attractive luncheon which she served after the games, carried out the Christmas theme. Tiny Christmas candles adorned each of the cup cakes giving a festive air.

CLASS HONORS TEACHER

Mrs. John Van Ramshorst, for ten years the teacher of the Ladies Sunday school class of the First Reformed church, was honored at the regular class meeting held in the church basement Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Van Ramshorst is leaving this church to help with the newly organized English Reformed church in the village, and as a parting gift the ladies of the class presented her with a fine Bible and complete concordance. She in turn gave each of the class members, thirty-five in all, a small also elected at the meeting. The new officers for the year were also elected at the meeting. They are: Mrs. Arthur Kraay, president; Mrs. Van Drunen, vice-president; Mrs. Fred Doorn, secretary-treasurer.

FAREWELL PARTY FOR MRS. FINNEGAN

Mrs. E. F. Finnegan of School street was the guest of honor at a farewell party given here at the home of Mrs. Ed Koehn Friday afternoon. The Finnegan's will move to Indianapolis in the near future. Each guest present presented her with a handkerchief. Those present included: Mesdames John Peters, Fred Frank, Gustav Bock, Emma Lorenz, William Rose, Arnie Koehn, L. Cedarholm, William Kragel, Ray Long, R. Knospe, "Babe" Pearson, Herman Volbrecht, Emil Koehn, Art Lorenz, George Lorenz, Anna Dockweiler and J. Matthias. Pinocle was played after which a delightful lunch was served. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Rose, Mrs. Finnegan, Mrs. Peters and Mrs. George Lorenz.

Prices of the things which railroads buy have gone up, approximately 40 percent in recent years.

SURPRISE PARTY FOR ETHYL HAUCK

Ethyl Hauck was the guest of honor at a surprise birthday party given for her at the home of Art Pranske, Calumet City, Tuesday evening. The following guests enjoyed an evening of dancing, after which refreshments were served: Marge Urbanske, Bill Ellis, Carmen Madalon, Art Pranske, John Theisen, Lucille Theisen, Virginia Malkowski, Ray Malkowski, Violet Vettle, Gus Okraj, Alyce Scheffke, Leona Rizo and Leonard Malkowski, all of Calumet City. Larry Heckman, Chet and Marge Rasmussen of Lansing also attended.

Wool Robes and Hostess Gowns

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

CONSIDERING fashion from a fabric angle, the big news is the outstanding importance attached to the use of fine wool weaves not only for daytime clothes, as one would naturally expect, but that which is the thrill of thrills is the widespread use of rich wool materials for the evening apparel.

If you have the right slant on that which is truly high style you will wear over your prettiest formal gown to the opera, horse show, or to your favorite dine-and-dance rendezvous, a floor length cape (three-quarter length if you prefer) of broadcloth, duvetyne, or nubby tweed or even fine jersey, as some few Paris designers now sponsor.

For the more casual and workmanlike modes, smartly patterned flannels are shown in gay young stripes, checks and geometrical designs that yield to flattering tailored treatment emphasizing square-shouldered lines with mannish details to accent, by way of contrast, the femininity of the beautifully molded silhouette. To the left in the picture you will see just such a garment. It is of deep wine flannel with a smart white pin stripe, the same distinctively tailored in a wrap-around robe which is at once chic and practical. It has broad padded shoulders, slit pockets and tailored shawl collar and is built on graceful fitted and flared lines. A self-fabric sash is tied casually at the waist.

In keeping with the mood for elegance that dominates current styles, there is a decided tendency to embellish these lovely at-home flannels with glistening trimmings and bright metallic touches, also lavish embroidery, beading and fringe that contrasts to perfection the smooth richness of the fabric. For closings all the fashion world loves the new decorative slide fasteners that run the full length of the garment. See centered in the group the slender sculptured lines of a fitted woolen robe in rich blue flannel enlivened with contrasting tri-colored bands that make a perfect setting for the neck-to-hemline slide fastener that gleams so brightly against its gaily colorful background.

A diagonal zipper glittering with gold sequins is striking against the jet black of a gracefully draped robe in soft lightweight flannel, as shown to the right in the group. From a slender, high-built waist the wrap-around skirt falls in soft flowing lines and the well-cut sleeves are slightly puffed at the shoulders. Silk cord with gold pointed ends ties at the neck for flattering effect.

FASHION NOTES

The spiral, cone-shaped silhouette which has been adopted so generally in millinery, is appearing for muffs, gloves and other accessories.

It has been years since courtiers have shown such a profusion of costly and luxurious furs.

Socks that tie around the ankle are the answer to many a college girl's prayer.

All sorts of smart novelties appear under the heading of suits this season.

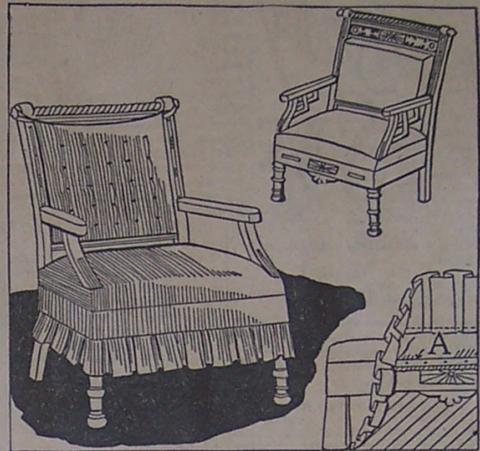

Pleats, bustles, jewel-embroidered bodices give zest to the evening mode.

Not all of the winter hats have great height to recommend them. Tulle spangled lightly is debutantes' favorite for evening.

Wide use of woollens is noted for evening dress and wrap.

Wear bright color accessories with black. Chin straps for hats have returned to style.

HOW to SEW By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

To modernize the old walnut chair at the right the pieces under the arms were removed and most of the carving covered up. The padding at the back was removed entirely and replaced by a fiber board which was covered by a loose cotton filled cushion tufted like an old fashioned bed comfort except that the tied thread ends of the tufting were left on the wrong side.

This back cushion was fastened in place with tapes that slipped over the knobs at the ends of the upper carving. If the knobs to hold the cushion had been lacking it could have been tacked in place along the top on the under side by using a strip of heavy cardboard to keep the tacks from pulling through the fabric as shown here for tacking the box pleated ruffle around the seat as at A. A plain rust colored heavy cotton upholstery material was used for the covering.

Every Homemaker should have a copy of Mrs. Spears' new book, SEWING. Forty-eight pages of step-by-step directions for making slipcovers and dressing tables; restoring and upholstering chairs, couches; making curtains for every type of room and purpose. Making lampshades, rugs, ottomans and other useful articles for the home. Readers wishing a copy should send name and address, enclosing 25 cents, to Mrs. Spears, 210 South Desplaines St., Chicago, Illinois.

Rising Tide

A new magazine has made its appearance on the newsstands of the country. It is pictorial in character under the name of the "Rising Tide," originally issued in England and now being prepared for distribution in eleven countries under nine different languages. The magazine is reported to be a non-profit publication carrying no advertising but such matter that is of interest to the people of the world who are seeking answers to their own problems. It is said that these problems are covered without regard to race, class or creed.

Millions to Billions

There was paid to factory wage earners in America in 1889 the comparatively small total of $620,467,474. Because of an increased demand created by advertising for factory products the amount paid to workers had grown to $11,620,973,254 in 1929.

"Research Professor of Economy"

SHE'S not a Ph.D. or an LL.D. She hasn't a diploma or a cap and gown. Her research is not done in the laboratory or the library. As a matter of fact, her findings are made, usually, in the street car, in the subway, in the suburban commuter's train.

She reads the advertisements in this paper with care and consideration. They form her research data. By means of them she makes her purchases so that she well deserves the title of "Research Professor of Economy." She discovers item after item, as the years roll on, combining high quality with low.

It is clear to you at once that you, . . . and all who make and keep a home . . . have the same opportunity. With the help of newspaper advertising you, too, can graduate from the school of indiscriminate buying into the faculty of fastidious purchases!

Red Ruffing probably feels much better now that Tony Lazzeri's no longer a Yank. They didn't talk . . . Three of the Fordhams, Jacunski, a regular end, and Gurske and Zarik, second-string backs, wear glasses when not playing football . . . Mickey Cochrane gets almost as excited about Detroit hockey as he does about his Tigers.

Dale Hanover stands out as the winter book choice for next year's Hambletonian . . . Ranger Cecil Dillon recently became the father of a boy, his fourth child. Frank Boucher is the only other papa among the playing Rangers . . . After weighing in for his fight with Leroy Haynes, Tony Galento devoted the rest of the afternoon to playing pool. When he returned to the dressing room after knocking out Haynes he insisted upon smoking a big black cigar before taking a shower . . . Sports writers err when they use the date line "Harvard Stadium, Cambridge, Mass." The Harvard stadium is in Boston, Mass. . . Pinch hitters won 22 American league games in 1937.

A 6-foot 10 1/2-inch basketball center, who hails from the Pennsylvania coal mining regions and now is reported attending classes at Borough Hall academy, is expected to star for L. I. U. within a season or two . . . Clarence Campbell, National hockey league referee, was a Rhodes scholar at Oxford . . . Pete Prunty, veteran fight announcer, made his first public spiel 50 years ago at the old Madison Square Garden. New York contributed nearly 30 per cent of the major league baseball attendance in 1937 . . . The Yankees drew 1,172,000, the Giants 1,000,000 and the Dodgers 491,000.

NOT IN THE BOX SCORE:

MRS. JO ESPINOSA probably has seen more golf matches than any wife in history. She has followed husband, Al, around the courses for more than 17 years and estimates she has seen him play 433 rounds . . . Willie Harper, the old Fall River Soccer club goalie who also performed so brilliantly for Scotland a decade or so ago, now coaches England's celebrated Plymouth Argyles . . . Jack Hurley's heavyweight, Johnny Erjaveck, is trying to land a boxing coach's job at one of the California colleges. Wants to complete a medical course so that he can specialize in dietetics . . . Charley Goldman, manager of Lightweight Champion Lou Ambers, uses the rubber nipple from a baby's milk bottle as a cigar holder . . . Coaches who have observed them in action testify that former Yale captains Albie Booth and Fay Vincent are football officials capable of working big time games . . . In 1912 Jim Thorpe scored 25 touchdowns and achieved a total of 198 points for Carlisle. This was the same year, by the way, that he proved to be a team all himself in the Olympic games.

The state department of automobile registry in Michigan has set aside No. 7 as the license number for Dutch Clark, coach and backfield star of the Detroit Lions, as long as he drives a car in Michigan . . . Seven has been Clark's playing number since his college days . . . Paul Graham, captain elect of Indiana's 1938 eleven, first reported for football in 1934 . . . Coach Bo McMillin told him he was too little for college football, so Graham returned to his home in Eldorado, Kan., and worked with a road construction gang for a year. He gained 15 pounds and then went back to school. He is rated one of the best blocking backs in the Big Ten conference.

Don Budge Claims He Grew Seven Inches in Year

Don Budge, world tennis singles champion, claims to have grown seven inches between his eighteenth and nineteenth birthdays . . . Between fairways of the Rotorua golf course in New Zealand are a number of boiling mudholes. The club draws annual greens fees of more than $10,000 despite the risk of bringing in a geyser when a deep divot is taken . . .

Eddie Meade, who manages Henry Armstrong, featherweight champion, made a fortune directing two boxing headliners of the early twenties, Andy Chaney, the old Baltimore knockout king, and Joe Lynch, former bantamweight title holder. One year the combination earned $385,000 . . . Charley Gehringer is the sixth consecutive infielder to win the American league batting championship.

Joe Gordon, who will graduate from Newark to the New York Yankees second base job next spring, also will graduate from the University of Oregon in February . . . Tony Lazzeri told Jimmy Dykes, when the Sox manager was on the coast a few weeks ago, that three days before he was invited to come to Chicago to confer with President Philip K. Wrigley of the Cubs he didn't know that he had been released by the Yankees. The deal was engineered by the Cubs, Lazzeri told Dykes

Death of H. J. (Derby Dick) Thompson recently, who saddled four Kentucky Derby winners for Col. Edward Riley Bradley, brings to mind the fact that even a trainer sometimes doesn't know the best horse in his barn. Thompson pinned his hopes on Black Servant in the 1921 race, but it was another Bradley color-bearer, Behave Yourself, which won. Thompson figured Bubbling Over was his best bet in 1926, and he was right. But he was wrong again in 1932. Bradley's two derby candidates that year were Burgoo King and Brother Joe. The latter was liked by Thompson, Bradley and the rest of the stable connections. Burgoo King won while Brother Joe broke down after half a mile. Thompson wasn't surprised when his Brokers Tip took the 1933 Derby after a rough stretch battle with Head Play. Incidentally, that was Brokers Tip's first and last win.

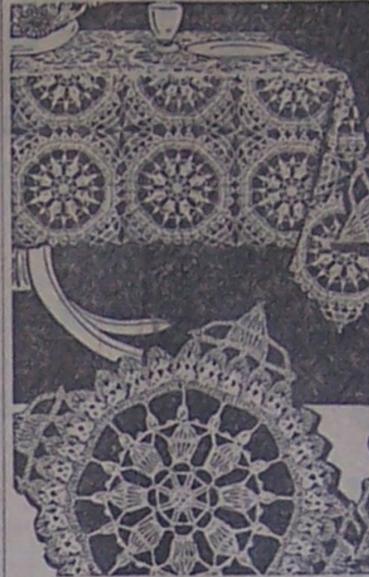

Another National league pitcher not long ago told Carl Hubbell that Ducky Medwick of the Cardinals was easy to pitch to after you get two strikes on him . . . "All you have to do," the moundsman explained, "is to throw him a low curve on the outside." . . . "But how and when do you get two strikes on him?" Hubbell inquired . . . Pittsburgh claims to be the first university to have its football games broadcast . . . The original game was the 1921 contest against Nebraska, first of the present series with the Cornhuskers.

Man o' War weighs 1,375 pounds 300 more than when he was unbeatable on the turf . . . Harold Van Every, Minnesota's star sophomore back, used to caddy for Bill Barrett, Minneapolis pro and father of Beatrice Barrett, one of golf's leading women stars. Van Every's home was opposite the eighth fairway of the Lafayette Country club at the time, and he eventually became the club's caddy master.

The Camorra

At one time the Camorra just about ran the Mediterranean country. Organized among the prisoners in Naples about 1820, its original purpose was to help criminals. Thieves, murderers, evil-doers of every description flocked to it. A youth had to serve a year's apprenticeship before becoming a full-fledged camorrista

GETTING CHILLY THESE NIGHTS, HOW ABOUT SOME EXTRA COVERS?

IT ISN'T THAT COLD—AND THERE'S AN EXTRA COVER AT THE FOOT OF THE BED

AH! THIS WILL HELP—

—AND SO WILL THESE

WHAT IN THE WORLD—! YOU'D THINK IT WAS COLD TO LOOK AT YOU!

CHRISTMAS GUSH

Hubby—A fool and his money are soon parted.
Wife—Oh, John, how much are you going to give me for Christmas presents?

Baby Talk

A traveler returning from Europe brings this one back with him: A honeymooning couple in Florence, Italy, were heard discussing the sights they had seen there.
"Where did you go this morning?" the bride asked her husband.
"I went to De Pitti gallery," he replied.

And his young wife cooed, "Didums like it?"—Boston Globe.

Polite

A New York traffic expert says that the London drivers and chauffeurs enliven many occasions by their wit and sarcasm. One London driver drew up when he saw a pedestrian directly in his way, leaned over and very politely inquired: "I say, sir, may I ask what are your plans?"

Beauty Prize

"I won the prize in a beauty contest."
"What good will it do you?" asked Miss Cayenne, after a critical glance. "You can't wear your bathing suit all winter."

Cheater!

Operator—Number, please.
Souze—Number, nothing. I just put a nickel in here. Where's my chewing gum?—Columbia (N. Y.) Jester.

ONE PAIR, NOT FOR SALE

She was one of those women who want to see everything there is in the shop. She was looking for stockings, and the obsequious salesman got down everything in sight within a radius of 50 yards.
After the counters had been strewn with stockings of every size and shape and color—box on box, dozens on dozens—he said: "That, madam, is our entire stock."
"Is that all you have?" asked the woman, her voice showing disappointment.
The salesman paused. "Yes, madam," he replied, "except the pair of socks I've got on."

Rare Treat

A tourist traveling through the Texas panhandle got into conversation with an old settler and his son at a filling station.
"Looks as though we might have rain," said the tourist.
"Well, I hope so," replied the native, "not so much for myself as for my boy here. I've seen it rain."

The Real Reason

Mr. Tiltnose—No, I don't want to buy that horse. He looks as though he had a mean disposition.
Negro Attendant—You mustn't mind dat, boss. He jus' got dat way from runnin' in sulky races.—Atlanta Constitution.

The New One

Magistrate—What is your husband?
Wife—He is in the unemployment profession.

NUMBER, PLEASE

Friend—I don't think I'd care to be in your business.
Operator—Don't call it a business, my dear, it's a calling.

SUCH IS LIFE
by Charles S. Hughes
HAPPY DAZE!

YES, MY YOUNG FRIENDS, I HAD A SOFT JOB ONCE

A TESTER IN A MATTRESS FACTORY

ONCE WAS ENOUGH

"Father, did mother accept you the first time you proposed to her?"
"Yes, my dear; but since then any proposals that I have ever made she has scornfully rejected."

He Ought to Know

The telephone rang in the guest's room. The hotel desk clerk was on the wire. "Good morning, sir," was the cheery greeting. "It's exactly eight o'clock and time to get up."
"Yeah?" grunted the sleepy guest. "What for?"
The clerk was taken back. "Don't ask me," he returned. "You're the one who left word to be called at this hour."
"What kind of a reason is that?" the guest shouted. "After all, who am I?"

Wrong Bath Night

Marine—Where's the funny paper?
Tar—Today ain't Sunday; I told you not to take that bath last night.
—U. S. S. Maryland Catapult.

Making It Effective

Grandma saw some boys in the yard. "Willie," she said, "tell those boys to leave!"
Willie threw up the window and shouted: "Hi! Get out! Or I'll sic my grandmother on you!"

Important Point

"I don't believe a lot of the stories they tell about you," said the sympathetic friend.
"H'm!" mused Senator Sorghum. "Which don't you believe—the good ones or the bad ones?"

Along the Concrete

The WPA library, which comes under the same department of the administration as the newly organized Recreation project in the village, has proven to be one of the most successful units in the WPA system. Its popularity is becoming nationally recognized, and educators are already high in their praise of the fine work that is being done by this branch of the WPA.

An international daily newspaper recently featured the Calumet City WPA public library which is housed in an old tavern. The story told how our neighboring city had never had the advantage of a public library until the advent of the WPA, and how the old tavern was drawing hundreds of children as well as adults to the paths of literacy through good reading.

The same story recounted the experience of the WPA library established in an extreme northern Michigan town of 140 population. A story and reading hour was established and soon more than 250 people, men, women, and children were coming to hear and read.

One person was killed for every 3,952,389 miles traveled by motor vehicles in the United States last year.

STRESS NATIONAL LEGION PROGRAM AT LOCAL MEETING

for an army, navy and marine corps strong enough to repel any attack from any outside power, and the universal service bill which would make it possible for the government to organize the resources of the entire country in concerted defense of our land in case of war.

Being opposed to war the Legion believes that these two bills will tend to keep us out of war for two very important reasons. The defense bill would give us a military organization which would cause any aggressor nation to think twice before attacking us. The universal service bill would add to our defensive power and would also curb any internal power that would desire war for personal profit, as this act would also prevent war profiteering.

China today is a good example of a nation unprepared. The Uni-ed States will never become an aggressor nation, fighting a war of conquest, neither let it become a subject nation due to lack of adequate national defense or lack of national patriotism.

Stoned to death by the 18 women he made love to! Read this exciting true story in the American Weekly, the magazine distributed with next Sunday's Chicago Herald and Examiner.
